State Freeway Survey Incredible

MANY GO WRONG WAY ON PURPOSE!

By LES RODNEY

Almost one of every five Southland drivers that cause that most terrifying of freeway accidents —the wrong-way collision —enters the freeway in the wrong direction knowingly and deliberately.

So says the California Division of Highways, which intently is studying ways of combating this nightmare of the freeways.

The chilling figure underscores the fact that even the most ingenious warning system to keep confused drivers from entering a freeway in the wrong direction can't completely eliminate the menace.

But it can help. And that's why highway officials are trying various antiwrong-way devices.

Wrong-way freeway accidents, to keep things in perspective, are a statistical rarity. In 1964, there were seven fatal accidents, with eight deaths, involving wrong-way drivers on the freeways of Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties.

This is a minute fraction of freeway fatalities for the three counties. In 1963, the same three-county study shows, there were eight fatal wrong-way crashes, causing 11 deaths.

But they, perhaps, are the most frightening possibility to freeway drivers, to have a car hurtling head-on at them with no place to go.

Statewide, 23 fatal wrong-way crashes, killing 37 persons, happened in 1962. This amounted to 8% of all fatalities on California freeways.

But, freeway travel is still three times safer than driving on surface streets and highways in California, state officials say.

All Southland freeway off ramps are marked with "down" arrows painted on the concrete, to indicate the proper direction of travel, and every exit point has a "Do Not Enter" sign.

A spot check of freeway ramps in the Long Beach area showed this to be true, but also suggested room for improvement.

Where an on ramp and and off ramp directly adjoin each other, with only a thin barrier separating them, it was easy to imagine momentary con-

Churchill Sleeps Quietly, Strength Ebbing Gradually

LONDON, Sunday (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill's strength seemed slowly ebbing early today.

His physician said he had weakened in his fight for survival.

Struck down by a stroke Friday, the 90-year-old statesman slept peacefully and painlessly.

After a 31-minute visit to the bedside Saturday night, Churchill's personal doctor, 82-year-old Lord Moran, issued this bulletin:

"Sir Winston is a little weaker but he has slept peacefully throughout the day."

A medical spokesman predicted that Churchill probably would continue to grow weaker gradually.

Moran's words gave no hope to the anxious world, or to the hushed hundreds who had gathered in the rain outside Churchill's red-brick home in a quiet London residential section.

"There is very little chance," Moran told reporters as he drove away from the house.

SIR WINSTON'S son Randolph said after visiting his father that the old man was struggling for life with "a subconscious, indomitable will to survive."

A British Medical Association spokesman said after Lord Moran's latest bulletin was issued:

"I think this must be regarded now—unless there is some improvement—as an indication that he will get gradually weaker.

"This is, I think, what one would expect."

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—An Air Force jet tanker plane, in trouble and apparently trying to return to base, fell into a residential area Saturday, killing at least 30 persons. At least 17 persons were injured and scores of persons were left homeless.

Fourteen homes were wiped out in the devastating crash, explosion and fire that spread from the plane. At least 30 other houses were damaged.

The bodies of 23 civilians were taken to a temporary morgue set up in the auditorium of the city-county health department. The bodies of seven Air Force personnel were taken elsewhere by military authorities.

ALL SEVEN men on the plane died.

The task of identifying the civilian dead was difficult. Only one body was complete. Pathologists checked remains for anything—rings, teeth, birthmarks—that might help.

Center of the crash was near the intersection of 20th Street and Piatt Avenue, six blocks from Wichita State University in northeast Wichita. The area is a predominantly Negro neighborhood with homes in the $10,000 class.

The plane took off from McConnell Air Force Base, eight miles south of the crash scene, three minutes before it fell. It was on a test mission with a B52 bomber.

Steve Cochran Jailed, Bailed

By LEE BROWN

Hollywood tough-guy actor Steve Cochran, who collects trouble as some people collect stamps, spent an hour in San Pedro jail Saturday after being picked up on a "routine traffic stop."

He was arrested about 4:45 p.m. when a routine records check showed he was wanted on a Van Nuys warrant for — now hold your breath—harboring an unlicensed dog.

Cochran, 43, was taken to the Los Angeles Harbor Division jail to post bail of $26.25.

* * * *

ACCORDING to arresting officer J. A. Miller, Cochran had only $9 with him. He used his one allowed telephone call to summon a friend from Los Angeles to bring the needed $17.25.

Cochran was released about 5:45 p.m.

But, it was just another chapter in the saga of the thrice-married actor-producer whose life reads like the adventures of a grown-up Dennis the Menace.

In 1953, he lost a $16,000 damage suit for hitting ex-boxer Buddy Wright on the head with a baseball bat.

In 1956, he was fined $500 for flying a private airplane over San Fernando Valley homes at near rooftop height. That year, he was detained in Miami for failing to pay a $300 liquor and telephone bill.

* * * *

IN 1962, HE sued an insurance company for $6,970 for payment on the losses he claimed when his $15,000 schooner sank in Long Beach harbor.

In 1964, he was arrested in South Africa on an adultery charge. Also, he successfully contested a $20 speeding ticket when a jury failed to reach a verdict. Where? San Pedro.

U.S. Destroyer Escort, Norway Freighter Hit

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—The U.S. destroyer escort Whitehurst and the Norwegian freighter Hoyanger collided in dense fog at the entrance to Vancouver harbor Saturday night.

A spokesman for the Royal Canadian Air Force search and rescue headquarters here said no one was injured. He said the Whitehurst had a complement of about 200 men and the Hoyanger a crew of 38.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of six articles by Mary Ellis Carlton, I, P-T Director of Women's Activities, on Long Beach. The articles in the Sunday I, P-T offer a constructive but critical analysis of the city —its beauty spots and its blemishes.)

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON

There is a way, when approaching Long Beach, to get a panoramic view of her true beauty.

But only if you're a channel swimmer, a fish, a seaplane pilot, sailor, ocean voyager or boat enthusiast.

Viewed from the ocean, the Queen of Beaches stands as a sentinel of beauty, holding her head high, dancing in the sun, stretching long, sandy beaches in warm welcome to all who approach her shores.

Unfortunately . . . few visitors, vacationers, businessmen, conventioners or passersby travel the ocean route.

From other approaches, Long Beach presents quite a different picture.

Arriving by freeway or Pacific Coast Highway, from Terminal Island or any one of several other entrances, some 360,000 motorists a day see her as a dejected beauty with dirty fingernails, run down at the heels, wearing the garish spoils of commercialism, industrialism and just plain slobbery.

As one complaining observer put it: "When you drive into Long Beach, all you see is sights."

Another remarked: "Look what we're doing to our environment. Imagine what it is doing to us."

Our visual environment is, in fact, fast becoming the concern of many civic, social and business groups, of architects, private citizens, merchants, industralists and city officials.

The fast-expanding civic beautification committee of the Chamber of Commerce, with flag-waving and dedicated Mrs. George P. Taubman Jr. as general chairman, has declared war on encroaching ugliness, naming this the Year of Beauty.

City officials, their cause reinforced with a proclamation from Mayor Edwin W. Wade, are mobilizing man and might to accomplish a long list of city beautification goals.

What has happened to our original challenge to preserve—and quite possibly to improve upon—what someone called "God's Own Country"?

Why the widespread uglification?

Some say it is because our country is selling out to the automobile and to the Almighty Dollar.

Californians say it has been brought about by the mass movement of people to the West Coast, by the resulting suburban sprawl

Every city likes to be superlative, so Long Beach's civic pride rose with the temperature Saturday.

With 83 degrees, ours was the hottest metropolitan area in the nation, surpassing Los Angeles and Honolulu by two degrees. Only tiny Thermal matched us.

L.A.C. Says:

Payoff to Unions

In his State of the Union speech, the President called for repeal of the Taft-Hartley section which permits right-to-work laws in the separate states. Some 20 states now have these laws which permit a man, or woman, to hold a job without belonging to a union. The AFL-CIO has been demanding such action ever since enactment of the Taft-Hartley Law in 1947. It is apparent the President is paying off the unions for the almost unanimous support given him in the November election—although many rank and file members opposed him.

The President may find he is unable to get approval of this change in the Senate. Forty of the 100 Senators come from the 20 states that have such laws. It is probable at least 11 more Senators would oppose the change which would kill the changed law in the Senate. It could probably pass in the House because a large majority of the members come from states with industrial populations where the unions have their greatest strength.

There is considerable concern over the country regarding the strikes that are threatening our economy. The NLRB decisions over the past year are evidence of growing union powers. The recent NLRB decision in the General Electric case is an example. That decision ruled against GE on the issue of GE using radio and TV to inform its employes concerning issues involved in union negotiations. The Taft-Hartley Law was passed to allow free speech by employers in telling their employes their side of the story. The NLRB denied this to General Electric.

Other NLRB decisions the past year included refusal to permit the Fibreboard Co. in California to contract its plant maintenance, without negotiation with the union. In another decision, it permitted a Cleveland union to expel three members—their crime was that they produced more in a day than the union said they should. The NLRB members reflect the attitude of the President who appoints them to office.

Then we have the President and his predecessor speaking out on the steel companies' price rises—and setting up guidelines under which wages should be held in line with increased production. This was supposed to avoid increased costs and inflation. But the auto union settlement was high above these guidelines. The President stepped into the railroad union dispute and a settlement above guidelines was made. Now we face a steel strike and have had the longshore strike tying up the East and Gulf ports. But no criticism of unions is heard from the President when their demands are high above the guidelines.

If we are to suffer severe inflation, it will be caused by increasing our cost of producing consumer goods. If adequate industrial profits are to be maintained, prices must rise to meet these increased labor costs. If profits are not adequate new capital will not be invested in plants, equipment and research necessary to provide new jobs—and security for those now held by 70 million workers.

There is evidence that these dangers now are critical. But there are more demands by unions and a disregard of guidelines. The President is not discouraging such demands. On the contrary, his calling for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law provisions will encourage greater demands by unions. He is quoted as wanting to be the President of all the people. But his attitude to date is one of favoring the labor unions—whose members total only 25% of the labor force. The other 75% must pay for excessive costs caused by this subservience to the union leaders.—L.A.C.

McCormack Seen in Line for Navy Post

By VIRGINIA KELLY
L. A. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—High-level government sources predict President Johnson will offer the appointment of assistant secretary of the Navy to former Massachusetts Attorney General Edward McCormack.

There will be a vacancy in the Navy secretariat when, as is expected, Assistant Navy Secretary for Logistics and Installation Kenneth E. BeLieu is named Navy undersecretary.

He was defeated by Sen. Edward Kennedy in the Massachusetts primary election for the Senate nomination.

* * * *

McCORMACK has a lucrative law practice in Boston and is somewhat reluctant to come to Washington, Bostonians say. It is rumored that he will be offered a choice of several government appointments.

Several government officials indicated they hope he will take the Navy job because it is influential in maintaining the strength of the Navy.

Baltimore's mayor, Theodore McKelvin (former governor of Maryland), also is being mentioned for the post of assistant Navy secretary.

Uncle Jailed After Boy, 9, Adrift in Skiff Is Rescued by Lifeguard

Officer Ed Finney said Rufus H. Calvert, a plastics molder, of 12047 Barnwall St., was jailed after a witness saw 9-year-old Charles Martin in the small boat 100 yards off Belmont Pier.

OFFICER Finney said Calvert and Martin R. Wallum, who refused to give either his age or address, were arrested about 200 yards from the pier in a tavern.

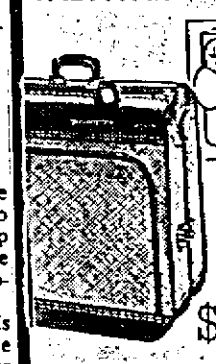

Wallum was booked for intoxication.

They told police they left their boat with the boy in it to get gasoline for the outboard motor. They said they were gone only a few moments but a witness told police the men were away for more than an hour.

POLICE said Guy Monaghue, a lifeguard, picked up the frightened youngster. The boy, who was wearing a life jacket, told police he was unable to swim and officers said the water was choppy.

The boy was turned over to Long Beach juvenile officers pending notification of his parents.

L.A.C. Says:
Payoff to Unions

In his State of the Union speech, the President called for repeal of the Taft-Hartley section which permits right-to-work laws in the separate states. Some 20 states now have these laws which permit a man, or woman, to hold a job without belonging to a union. The AFL-CIO has been demanding such action ever since enactment of the Taft-Hartley Law in 1947. It is apparent the President is paying off the unions for the almost unanimous support given him in the November election—although many rank and file members opposed him.

The President may find he is unable to get approval of this change in the Senate. Forty of the 100 Senators come from the 20 states that have such laws. It is probable at least 11 more Senators would oppose the change which would kill the changed law in the Senate. It could probably pass in the House because a large majority of the members come from states with industrial populations where the unions have their greatest strength.

There is considerable concern over the country regarding the strikes that are threatening our economy. The NLRB decisions over the past year are evidence of growing union powers. The recent NLRB decision in the General Electric case is an example. That decision ruled against GE on the issue of GE using radio and TV to inform its employes concerning issues involved in union negotiations. The Taft-Hartley Law was passed to allow free speech by employers in telling their employes their side of the story. The NLRB denied this to General Electric.

Other NLRB decisions the past year included refusal to permit the Fibreboard Co. in California to contract its plant maintenance, without negotiation with the union. In another decision, it permitted a Cleveland union to expel three members—their crime was that they produced more in a day than the union said they should. The NLRB members reflect the attitude of the President who appoints them to office.

Then we have the President and his predecessor speaking out on the steel companies' price rises—and setting up guidelines under which wages should be held in line with increased production. This was supposed to avoid increased costs and inflation. But the auto union settlement was high above these guidelines. The President stepped into the railroad union dispute and a settlement above guidelines was made. Now we face a steel strike and have had the longshore strike tying up the East and Gulf ports. But no criticism of unions is heard from the President when their demands are high above the guidelines.

If we are to suffer severe inflation, it will be caused by increasing our cost of producing consumer goods. If adequate industrial profits are to be maintained, prices must rise to meet these increased labor costs. If profits are not adequate new capital will not be invested in plants, equipment and research necessary to provide new jobs—and security for those now held by 70 million workers.

There is evidence that these dangers now are critical. But there are more demands by unions and a disregard of guidelines. The President is not discouraging such demands. On the contrary, his calling for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law provisions will encourage greater demands by unions. He is quoted as wanting to be the President of all the people. But his attitude to date is one of favoring the labor unions—whose members total only 25% of the labor force. The other 75% must pay for excessive costs caused by this subservience to the union leaders.—L.A.C.

McCormack Seen in Line for Navy Post

By VIRGINIA KELLY
I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—High-level government sources predict President Johnson will offer the appointment of assistant secretary of the Navy to former Massachusetts Attorney General Edward McCormack.

There will be a vacancy in the Navy secretariat when, as is expected, Assistant Navy Secretary for Logistics and Installation Kenneth E. BeLieu is named Navy undersecretary.

He was defeated by Sen. Edward Kennedy in the Massachusetts primary election for the Senate nomination.

* * * *

McCORMACK has a lucrative law practice in Boston and is somewhat reluctant to come to Washington, Bostonians say. It is rumored that he will be offered a choice of several government appointments.

Several government officials indicated they hope he will take the Navy job because it is influential in maintaining the strength of the Navy.

Baltimore's mayor, Theodore McKelvin (former governor of Maryland), also is being mentioned for the post of assistant Navy secretary.

Uncle Jailed After Boy, 9, Adrift in Skiff Is Rescued by Lifeguard

Officer Ed Finney said Rufus H. Calvert, a plastics molder, of 12047 Barnwall St., was jailed after a witness saw 9-year-old Charles Martin in the small boat 100 yards off Belmont Pier.

OFFICER Finney said Calvert and Martin R. Wallum, who refused to give either his age or address, were arrested about 200 yards from the pier in a tavern.

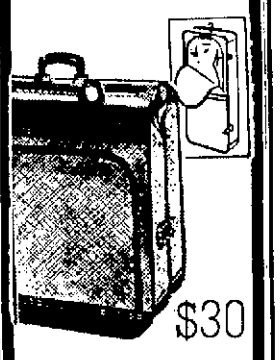

Wallum was booked for intoxication.

They told police they left their boat with the boy in it to get gasoline for the outboard motor. They said they were gone only a few moments but a witness told police the men were away for more than an hour.

POLICE said Guy Monaghue, a lifeguard, picked up the frightened youngster. The boy, who was wearing a life jacket, told police he was unable to swim and officers said the water was choppy.

The boy was turned over to Long Beach juvenile officers pending notification of his parents.

Wrong-Way Facts Chilling

State Seeks Prevention of Tragedies

fusion by the weary, careless or elderly driver, or those unfamiliar with the area.

The "Do Not Enter" signs often were small.

In at least one instance, at 182nd Street near Crenshaw Boulevard in Torrance, the "Do Not Enter" sign at the western off ramp of the San Diego Freeway is set against the confusing background of a huge apartment building, and a large commercial sign. In addition, the "down" arrows were not visible until a motorist was considerably "up" the wrong way.

Currently being tested in the Sacramento area is a large illuminated sign reading "Go Back, You Are Going Wrong Way," with flashing lights and a loud horn. A car entering the wrong-way electrically touches off the lights and noise. This device, developed for the Division of Highways by Dr. Slade Hulbert, of UCLA's Institute of Transportation & Engineering, seems to be the most favored of ideas presented to date. It may be nearing the approval stage.

• • • •

ANOTHER idea frequently proposed is a spiked barrier, like those in use at some parking areas, which would puncture the tires of a wrong-way vehicle, while not harming one going over it in the right direction.

The Division of Highways is preparing an exhaustive series of tests with this "dragon teeth" device. But with tires punctured, many cars could continue onto the freeway, and once stopped would immediately become a menace to vehicles making proper use of the exit.

With cooperation of the California Highway Patrol, a nine-month study was made by the Division of Highways of 500 wrong-way incidents on freeways and expressways, plus 243 similar crashes on other types of divided highways and one-way streets.

• • • •

THE DIVISION says suggestions always are welcomed. However, many ideas which sound good are not really feasible. Painting on and off ramps different colors actually would create greater confusion in many drivers, and in any case, all colors tend to seem black in rainy weather.

Speaking for the National Safety Council, director of traffic Frank Crewe thought there was obvious merit in horns now being tested. "Anything that helps draw attention to the fact that the driver is going the wrong way is useful," he said.

But he agreed with the Division of Highways that for the very fatigued, confused or drunk motorist, signs, lights and noises may not do much.

The Safety Council is very much interested in the possibilities of a device which would drop a metal barrier in the path of a wrong-way driver.

A council official explained it this way:

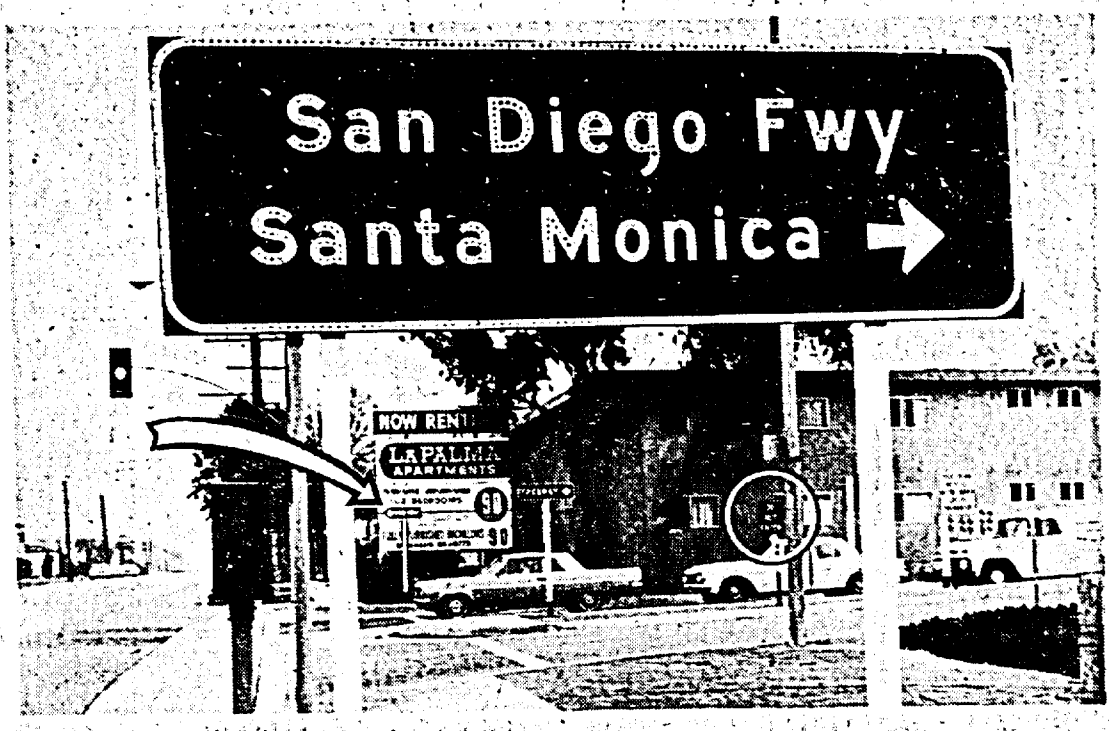

As a vehicle entered the exit ramp, it would run between two infrared beams, which would not be activated by cars going the right way.

• • • •

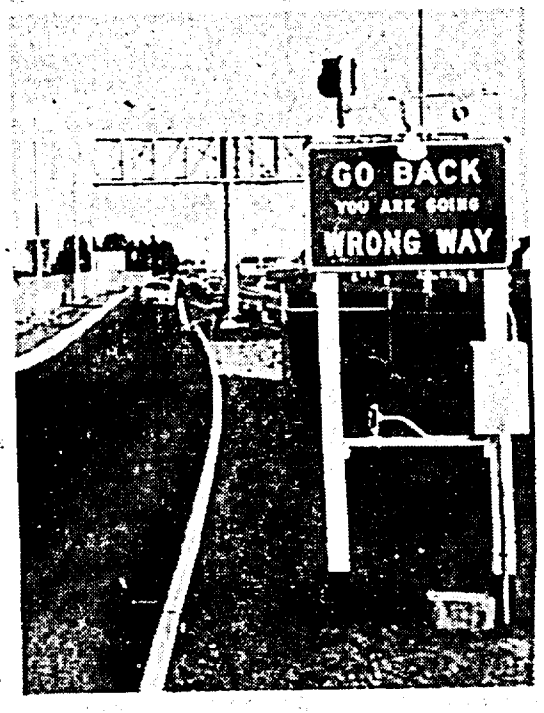

A FEW FEET from the beam, an aluminum gate, with cable, would swing into place to stop the wrong-way vehicle, which is usually not going very fast at this point, after making a turn. The one-way gate would stop only those going the wrong way.

Simultaneously, a warning signal would flash on the freeway, alerting approaching cars and diverting them from this exit. The Sigalert center also would be notified. If the wrong-way car backs away, the barrier lifts and signals cease.

The California Highway Patrol, faced with the hair-raising task of coping with wrong-way drivers, favors anything that can be done to minimize the peril, says Inspector Howard Amborn, supervising inspector and commander of highway patrols for Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties.

MANY ACCIDENTS ARE caused by drivers deliberately going the wrong way on freeway entrances and exits, according to the California Highway Patrol, but in some cases it may be that the signs do not show up—either because they are too small as the "Do Not Enter" sign (in circle) or do not show up well (arrow) in this case because of sign erected behind it. Picture was taken at 182nd Street and Crenshaw Boulevard, Torrance.

—AP Photo

EXPERIMENTAL sign to prevent wrong way traffic is this one near Sacramento—a blasting horn and flashing red light tells motorist he's going the wrong way. The sign is activated by a pavement detector, sensative to wrong way movement only.

Cinderella Week Begins for Missy

At 1 p.m. today Melissa Lee Baron, 13, will join Gov. Brown aboard his chartered plane at International Airport to fly to President Johnson's inauguration.

This will climax a Cinderella week for the blonde teenager who wrote to the President—unknown to her parents—in September, asking for an invitation to the inaugural.

In due time, the coveted invitation arrived, and a story and picture of Missy appeared in last Sunday's Independent-Press-Telegram.

• • • •

GOV. BROWN has invited her and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baron, 4507 Palo Verde Ave., to join his party for all inaugural functions.

Rep. Craig Hosmer has planned a tour of the White House for her.

Rep. Richard Hanna has arranged a visit to both houses of Congress.

Radio networks in New York City have done interviews and a New York television station has scheduled an interview during her visit there.

In addition, Missy has been interviewed by both Los Angeles metropolitan newspapers and photographed by UPI and has been interviewed by all major radio and television stations in Los Angeles.

The U21 (that's the Under 21 Press Club) has voted her in as an accredited correspondent and sent her an official press card. Its president, Robert Beach, has asked her to write her own by-line story of her experiences.

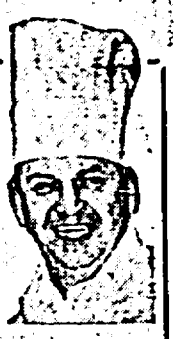

• • • •

TO THE question she's been asked most often—"Will you get to see the President?"—Missy replies, "I hope so! But there's no guarantee."

"We're the ones who are excited," said her mother. "Missy's taking it all joyously but pretty calmly. But she's made one decision. She's going to make politics her career."

Wrong-Way Facts Chilling

State Seeks Prevention of Tragedies

fusion by the weary, careless or elderly driver, or those unfamiliar with the area.

The "Do Not Enter" signs often were small.

In at least one instance, at 182nd Street near Crenshaw Boulevard in Torrance, the "Do Not Enter" sign at the western off ramp of the San Diego Freeway is set against the confusing background of a huge apartment building, and a large commercial sign. In addition, the "down" arrows were not visible until a motorist was considerably "up" the wrong way.

Currently being tested in the Sacramento area is a large illuminated sign reading "Go Back, You Are Going Wrong Way," with flashing lights and a loud horn. A car entering the wrong-way electrically touches off the lights and noise. This device, developed for the Division of Highways by Dr. Slade Hulbert, of UCLA's Institute of Transportation & Engineering, seems to be the most favored of ideas presented to date. It may be nearing the approval stage.

ANOTHER idea frequently proposed is a spiked barrier, like those in use at some parking areas, which would puncture the tires of a wrong-way vehicle, while not harming one going over it in the right direction.

The Division of Highways is preparing an exhaustive series of tests with this "dragon teeth" device. But with tires punctured, many cars could continue onto the freeway, and once stopped would immediately become a menace to vehicles making proper use of the exit.

With cooperation of the California Highway Patrol, a nine-month study was made by the Division of Highways of 500 wrong-way incidents on freeways and expressways, plus 243 similar crashes on other types of divided highways and one-way streets.

THE DIVISION says suggestions always are welcomed. However, many ideas which sound good are not really feasible. Painting on and off ramps different colors actually would create greater confusion in many drivers, and in any case, all colors tend to seem black in rainy weather.

Speaking for the National Safety Council, director of traffic Frank Crewe thought there was obvious merit in horns now being tested. "Anything that helps draw attention to the fact that the driver is going the wrong way is useful," he said.

But he agreed with the Division of Highways that for the very fatigued, confused or drunk motorist, signs, lights and noises may not do much.

The Safety Council is very much interested in the possibilities of a device which would drop a metal barrier in the path of a wrong-way driver.

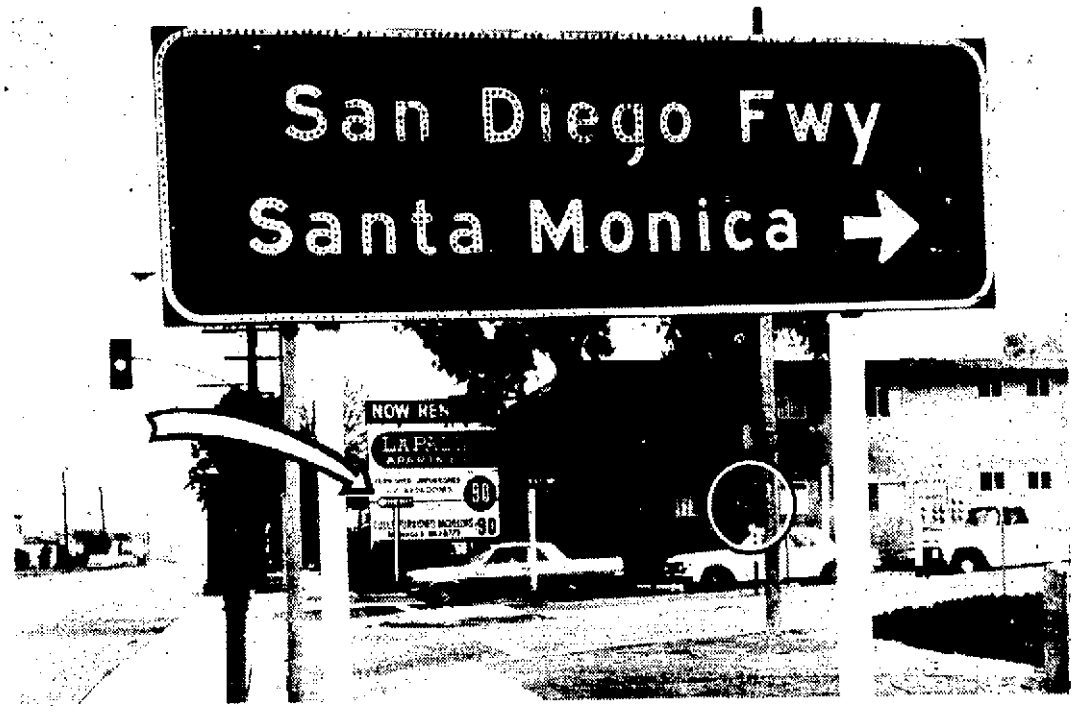

A council official explained it this way:

As a vehicle entered the exit ramp, it would run between two infrared beams, which would not be activated by cars going the right way.

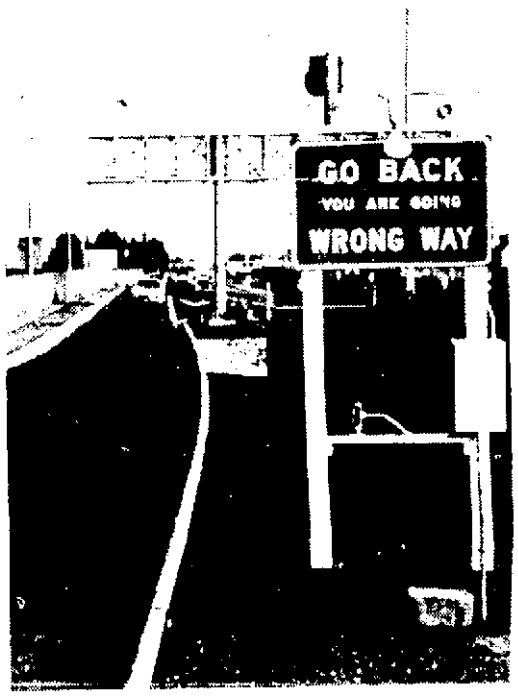

A FEW FEET from the beam, an aluminum gate, with cable, would swing into place to stop the wrong-way vehicle, which is usually not going very fast at this point, after making a turn. The one-way gate would stop only those going the wrong way.

Simultaneously, a warning signal would flash on the freeway, alerting approaching cars and diverting them from this exit. The Sigalert center also would be notified. If the wrong-way car backs away, the barrier lifts and signals cease.

The California Highway Patrol, faced with the hair-raising task of coping with wrong-way drivers, favors anything that can be done to minimize the peril, says Inspector Howard Amborn, supervising inspector and commander of highway patrols for Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties.

MANY ACCIDENTS ARE caused by drivers deliberately going the wrong way on freeway entrances and exits, according to the California Highway Patrol, but in some cases it may be that the signs do not show up—either because they are too small as the "Do Not Enter" sign (in circle) or do not show up well (arrow) in this case because of sign erected behind it. Picture was taken at 182nd Street and Crenshaw Boulevard, Torrance.

—AP Photo

EXPERIMENTAL sign to prevent wrong way traffic is this one near Sacramento—a blasting horn and flashing red light tells motorist he's going the wrong way. The sign is activated by a pavement detector, sensative to wrong way movement only.

Cinderella Week Begins for Missy

At 1 p.m. today Melissa Lee Baron, 13, will join Gov. Brown aboard his chartered plane at International Airport to fly to President Johnson's inauguration.

This will climax a Cinderella week for the blonde teenager who wrote to the President—unknown to her parents—in September, asking for an invitation to the inaugural.

In due time, the coveted invitation arrived, and a story and picture of Missy appeared in last Sunday's Independent, Press-Telegram:

* * * *

GOV. BROWN has invited her and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baron, 4507 Palo Verde Ave., to join his party for all inaugural functions.

Rep. Craig Hosmer has planned a tour of the White House for her.

Rep. Richard Hanna has arranged a visit to both houses of Congress.

Radio networks in New York City have done interviews and a New York television station has scheduled an interview during her visit there.

In addition, Missy has been interviewed by both Los Angeles metropolitan newspapers and photographed by UPI and has been interviewed by all major radio and television stations in Los Angeles.

The U21 (that's the Under 21 Press Club) has voted her in as an accredited correspondent and sent her an official press card. Its president, Robert Beach, has asked her to write her own by-line story of her experiences.

* * * *

TO THE question she's been asked most often—"Will you get to see the President?"—Missy replies, "I hope so! But there's no guarantee."

With her parents, Missy will sightsee in Washington, D.C. and New York before returning to Long Beach Feb. 2.

"We're the ones who are excited," said her mother. "Missy's taking it all joyously but pretty calmly. But she's made one decision. She's going to make politics her career."

Murphy Home, Survey of Flood Area Slated

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — Sen. George Murphy returned to Los Angeles Saturday from Washington, D.C., for a brief weekend visit at his home and a tour of flood-devastated areas of Northern California early next week.

According to Sandy Quinn, Murphy's executive assistant, the senator will fly to San Francisco Monday morning to board an Army plane for a personal visit to six flood-stricken Northern California counties.

Murphy was expected to spend about two days in the flood area.

Quinn said the senator does not expect to return to the nation's capital before the end of the week.

The return to Los Angeles was especially welcome, Quinn said, explaining that the senator's party left Washington in a heavy snowstorm Saturday morning and stepped off the plane in Los Angeles to be greeted by pleasant 81-degree maximum temperature.

University and made a turn of almost 180 degrees. It crashed while in the turn.

Murphy said members of the plane crew blew open an escape hatch just below the nose of the plane before it crashed.

Officers from McConnell said a radio operator there heard only the word "Mayday"—a distress signal—before the crash. It was not detemined whether this came from the pilot or co-pilot.

Dr. Robert Daniels, coroner, who reported the number of dead, said the bodies of only five of the civilians were intact enough for visual identification. Pathologists walked among those and the other dead, dictating possible identification information into portable recorders.

Some 20 persons, friends and relatives of the victims, waited in a room near the health-department auditorium. Daniels said some relatives might be asked to help identify the bodies.

TERROR FLIGHT

'The Gas Was All Over Us'

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—"It was burning up the grass under our feet as we ran," Mrs. Alvin Allen, a Wichita housewife, said Saturday in describing the crash of a huge jet tanker which fell in her northeast Wichita neighborhood.

At least 30 persons—civilians and military—were killed.

"It was the most horrible sound I ever heard," Mrs. Allen said. "It came down almost right on our house and I never heard anything like it. We didn't have time to think because our house was burning."

• • • •

MRS. ALLEN, one of the few persons in her neighborhood to escape unscathed, said she really didn't need to think.

"My husband and daughter were in the house with me, and when it hit it blew all our windows out and set the house on fire," she said. "We tried to run out the front door but the flames drove us back inside. That left only the back and that's where we went.

"My daughter was in her pajamas and she had to run barefoot. She got a cut and my husband's face was burned a little bit, but we didn't have time to worry about that because gas—I guess it was gas—was all over us and the grass was burning around us as we ran."

• • • •

SHE SAID she couldn't be too disturbed about the loss of her home of 11 years. "When I just think about all our neighbors being dead and how close we came to being dead, too, a house seems like a little thing," she said, her voice shaking with emotion.

"We could hear our neighbors screaming. Most of them were still asleep or just eating breakfast, I guess," she said. "I'd known some of these people for years and years and now they're dead."

• • • •

"THIS IS THE worst thing since Udall," said Gov. William H. Avery. He referred to Udall, Kan., a nearby town which was almost wiped out by a tornado 10 years ago.

A county seriff's officer, Gilbert Roman, who witnessed the crash said he saw a metallic fragment fall from the tanker's tail just before it crashed.

Roman said another plane with military markings appeared to be following it, but there was no indication of a collision.

Another witness, Keith Sanborn, Sedgwick County attorney, said the plane appeared to be making a normal left turn and what appeared to be fuel was streaming out the back.

• • • •

"IT LOOKED like any other plane making a turn until it started losing altitude and then it appeared to be going straight down," Sanborn said.

Elmer Ellis, who was in his home a block away, said the crash sounded like an earthquake. There followed a series of small explosions which witnesses said resembled the firing of small-arms ammunition.

A temporary morgue was set up in a vacant lot a hundred feet from the wreckage.

'An Unprecedented Accident,' Says Wichita Boeing Official

(Editor's Note: I. P-T Staff Writer Mark Clutter was on the staffs of the Wichita Eagle and the Wichita Beacon for 12 years before he came to Long Beach.)

By MARK CLUTTER

The crash of the KC135 into residential Wichita was an accident without precedent in aviation history, an official of Boeing Airplane Co., Wichita, said in a telephone interview Saturday night.

"As far as I can find out, nothing like this has ever happened before and there is, so far, no explanation as to how it could have happened," said Darrell Bartee, editor of Plane Talk, the Boeing-Wichita plant newspaper.

"Witnesses say the tanker was leaking fuel shortly after takeoff and that it turned upside down before it fell," Bartee said.

• • • •

"I LIVE about a mile from the scene. I heard a tremendous explosion a little after 9 o'clock. I went to see what happened. It looked like St. Lo in France after the battle in World War II."

In the afternoon, Bartee attended the basketball game between Wichita State University and St. Louis University. The game was interrupted to order all National Guardsmen to duty.

The move was part of a general mobilization by city, relief and military organizations. How Wichita met the emergency was described by Police Officer Marvin Davis.

"It went off quite smoothly with everybody doing his job," Davis said. "We called up all policemen except the third detail (night police). The four nearest fire stations sent all their equipment, and other stations rolled theirs to maintain protection for other parts of the city.

"The Red Cross was in action immediately and is still working hard at the scene. The Air Force sent in 75 to 100 air policemen. The National Guard was called out early in the afternoon.

• • • •

STRANGELY, very few people were injured. Only 16 at the last count, but I understand the death toll is now 30. It was the sort of disaster that kills most of the casualties.

"One of our worst problems has been the crowds of curiosity seekers. They came immediately and are still coming."

Police roped off the area for several blocks around.

The neighborhood is made up of modest homes that average about $10,000 in value. Most of the residents are Negro. It is near an important commercial street.

Since the beginning of World War II there have been heavily traveled military flight patterns over east Wichita, but this is the first catastrophic accident. McConnell Air Force Base is about eight miles south of the accident scene. McConnell, a Strategic Air Command base, operates many B52s. The tanker's duty was to fuel the giant planes in flight.

A Rumble . . . a Silver Streak . . . Then Horror

Following is an eyewitness account of the crash of a military jet tanker plane in a Wichita residential section Saturday by Robert Barker, an 18-year-old high-school student. Barker lives at 2038 N. Piatt Ave. and the plane crashed in the street in front of his home. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Osie Love.

By ROBERT BARKER

Written for The Associated Press

WICHITA, Kan.—I was sitting in the den at the front of my home Saturday morning when I heard a rumble.

I looked out the window and saw this silver streak hit the street. Then it burst into flames. The fire engulfed all the houses across the street and part of the plane hit the front part of our house.

I ran through the house looking for my mother, sister and brother. My mother and sister were in the backyard and my brother was at a neighbor's home. I managed to get our car from the street into the backyard.

When the firemen arrived I helped at the houses across the street. We found five or six charred bodies there.

I counted 13 houses that were destroyed.

A friend of mine, Mack McGrone, said he saw the plane circling overhead before the crash, letting out fuel.

I think the pilot was trying to land in a nearby field, which is about a block long and a block wide.

Churchill Reported Sinking Gradually

man had said the former prime minister's condition might continue for a week or ten days with Sir Winston drifting in and out of consciousness.

Moran read his bulletin to a crush of newspaper and television reporters outside the Churchill home.

A crowd of about 300 anxious watchers leaned forward to try to hear the message which Moran brought, but only those in the front, held back by a swaying line of London bobbies, could hear his softly-spoken words.

The drama was played out in a narrow, gas-lit, dead-end street in South Kensington, in London's West End. The Churchill house is No. 28 Hyde Park Gate—a sedate, red-brick residence.

He lay there in a back bedroom facing on a garden. The curtains were drawn.

The world outside waited anxiously for the latest news on the old man's battle for life.

• • • •

His illness was the top news in the free world and even a subject of sad discussion behind the Iron Curtain.

After Moran had read his bulletin and left, about half of the crowd drifted off home. But many remained, some planning another all-night vigil.

A relative, Mrs. Anthony Henley, who had joined Lady Churchill in her bedside vigil, explained that Churchill was not suffering. She said, as she and Lady Churchill emerged from the house:

• • • •

"HE'S VERY peaceful. He's conscious, or partly so, and doesn't realize he's very ill. He's comfortable."

Mrs. Henley is a cousin of Lady Churchill.

It was the first time Lady Churchill had left the house since Sir Winston's illness. A member of the household said she needed a breath of fresh air.

SHE SAID she couldn't be too disturbed about the loss of her home of 11 years. "When I just think about all our neighbors being dead and how close we came to being dead, too, a house seems like a little thing," she said, her voice shaking with emotion.

"We could hear our neighbors screaming. Most of them were still asleep or just eating breakfast, I guess," she said. "I'd known some of these people for years and years and now they're dead."

BIG CHUNK OF PLANE'S WRECKAGE LIES IN WATER FROM FIREMEN'S HOSES

'An Unprecedented Accident,' Says Wichita Boeing Official

(Editor's Note: I, P-T Staff Writer Mark Clutter was on the staffs of the Wichita Eagle and the Wichita Beacon for 12 years before he came to Long Beach.)

By MARK CLUTTER

The crash of the KC135 into residential Wichita was an accident without precedent in aviation history, an official of Boeing Airplane Co., Wichita, said in a telephone interview Saturday night.

"As far as I can find out, nothing like this has ever happened before and there is, so far, no explanation as to how it could have happened," said Darrell Bartee, editor of Plane Talk, the Boeing-Wichita plant newspaper.

"Witnesses say the tanker was leaking fuel shortly after takeoff and that it turned upside down before it fell," Bartee said.

* * * *

"I LIVE about a mile from the scene. I heard a tremendous explosion a little after 9 o'clock. I went to see what happened. It looked like St. Lo in France after the battle in World War II."

In the afternoon, Bartee attended the basketball game between Wichita State University and St. Louis University. The game was interrupted to order all National Guardsmen to duty.

The move was part of a general mobilization by city, relief and military organizations. How Wichita met the emergency was described by Police Officer Marvin Davis.

"It went off quite smoothly with everybody doing his job," Davis said. "We called up all policemen except the third detail (night police). The four nearest fire stations sent all their equipment, and other stations rolled theirs to maintain protection for other parts of the city.

"The Red Cross was in action immediately and is still working hard at the scene. The Air Force sent in 75 to 100 air policemen. The National Guard was called out early in the afternoon.

* * * *

STRANGELY, very few people were injured. Only 16 at the last count, but I understand the death toll is now 30.

It was the sort of disaster that kills most of the casualties.

"One of our worst problems has been the crowds of curiosity seekers. They came immediately and are still coming."

Police roped off the area for several blocks around.

The neighborhood is made up of modest homes that average about $10,000 in value. Most of the residents are Negro. It is near an important commercial street.

Since the beginning of World War II there have been heavily traveled military flight patterns over east Wichita, but this is the first catastrophic accident. McConnell Air Force Base is abnut eight miles south of the accident scene. McConnell, a Strategic Air Command base, operates many B52s. The tanker's duty was to fuel the giant planes in flight.

A Rumble . . . a Silver Streak . . . Then Horror

Following is an eyewitness account of the crash of a military jet tanker plane in a Wichita residential section Saturday by Robert Barker, an 18-year-old high-school student. Barker lives at 2038 N. Piatt Ave. and the plane crashed in the street in front of his home. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Osie Love.

By ROBERT BARKER

Written for The Associated Press

WICHITA, Kan.—I was sitting in the den at the front of my home Saturday morning when I heard a rumble.

I looked out the window and saw this silver streak hit the street. Then it burst into flames. The fire engulfed all the houses across the street and part of the plane hit the front part of our house.

I ran through the house looking for my mother, sister and brother. My mother and sister were in the backyard and my brother was at a neighbor's home. I managed to get our car from the street into the backyard.

When the firemen arrived I helped at the houses across the street. We found five or six charred bodies there.

I counted 13 houses that were destroyed.

A friend of mine, Mack McGrone, said he saw the plane circling overhead before the crash, letting out fuel.

I think the pilot was trying to land in a nearby field, which is about a block long and a block wide.

Churchill Reported Sinking Gradually

man had said the former prime minister's condition might continue for a week or ten days with Sir Winston drifting in and out of consciousness.

Moran read his bulletin to a crush of newspaper and television reporters outside the Churchill home.

A crowd of about 300 anxious watchers leaned forward to try to hear the message which Moran brought, but only those in the front, held back by a swaying line of London bobbies, could hear his softly-spoken words.

The drama was played out in a narrow, gas-lit, dead-end street in South Kensington, in London's West End. The Churchill house is No. 28 Hyde Park Gate—a sedate, red-brick residence.

He lay there in a back bedroom facing on a garden. The curtains were drawn.

The world outside waited anxiously for the latest news on the old man's battle for life.

EVERY word on Church-ill's condition was flashed to worried admirers around the world—from ordinary mean in the street to Queen Elizabeth II in her palace and President Johnson at his Texas ranch.

His illness was the top news in the free world and even a subject of sad discussion behind the Iron Curtain.

After Moran had read his bulletin and left, about half of the crowd drifted off home. But many remained, some planning another all-night vigil.

A relative, Mrs. Anthony Henley, who had joined Lady Churchill in her bedside vigil, explained that Churchill was not suffering. She said, as she and Lady Churchill emerged from the house:

"HE'S VERY peaceful. He's conscious, or partly so, and doesn't realize he's very ill. He's comfortable."

Mrs. Henley is a cousin of Lady Churchill.

It was the first time Lady Churchill had left the house since Sir Winston's illness. A member of the household said she needed a breath of fresh air.

WHAT ARE WE DOING TO OUR ENVIRONMENT?

City Beautifiers Open War on Ugliness

suburban sprawl and our changing social structure.

No one can deny, certainly, that rapid and unbridled growth here has brought its toll of car-produced destruction, tawdry commercialism, scars and widespread bulldozing of our natural heritage.

City officials have been hard pressed to provide the necessary streets and sewers, police and fire protection, sanitation, park and recreational facilities.

Oftimes it has been virtually impossible to keep up in the beautification department.

IN OUR CITY'S never-ending race to provide necessities for the steady influx (10,000 new residents a year), power lines have become more important than trees . . . landscapes that once moved artists now more often move cars.

And the drive still is on.

In Los Angeles County, with its 3.7 million registered automobiles (compared to 1.5 million in the five boroughs of New York City), the great cry is for more and more arteriess.

Caught up in the clog, the snarl and the tangle of automobile jumbleland, motorists clamor for more freeways (definitel yneeded!) and for more places to park their four-wheeled conveyances (needed, too!).

Meanwhile, residents — both native and newcomer, eweing the bumper of the car front while rushing from home to job, from supermarket to TV repair shop—all too often forget to look at what's going on around them.

Too often we don't see the environment we're building.

IT BEHOOVES all to take time for a windshield reconnaissance of where we're growing.

Click off the TV and take a drive around your city.

Playing the role of a first-time visitor, enter the city by any route you choose, evaluating what you see.

Suppose you enter via Pacific Coast Highway, driving in from the West, as do 34,319 motorists a day. A small sign tells you you're in Long Beach.

What greets you is anything but a visita of beauty.

Many of the parkings, unlandscaped and treeless, are weed-ridden and trash strewn. You pass beflagged gas stations, a legion of tawdry signs (some spectaculars on rooftops), several abandoned storefronts, a bleak and deserted warehouse or two (the windows broken, of course). . .

If you take the on-ramp to our yet-to-be landscaped Long Beach Freeway, your vision is offended by a jungle of crated bathtubs, a stockpile of pipe and machinery parts, a graveyard of earth-moving equipment—even a trash heap of lumber and junk.

• • • •

DRIVE ON the "scenery" doesn't improve.

The front door to the city (68,613 cars a day enter the city via L.B. freeway) is a barren wasteland of oil tanks, oil-well equipment, railroad trestles, weeds, wrecked cars. . .

And standing sentinel: an oil rig.

These wealth-giving but unsightly contraptions rise in legions, more numerous than trees, at the most-traveled entrances into the city.

Oil wells and their attendant blight provide much of the roadside accents for travelers who come in on PCH from the east (34,766 cars a day) . . . on Atlantic (13,845 cars a day) . . . and certainly on Spring and Willow, the entrances for most of the 270,000 visitors a year who land at Long Beach Municipal Airport, third-busiest in the nation (in take-offs and landings), surpassed only by Chicago O'Hare and Los Angeles International.

• • • •

OUR BARREN roadsides, much the concern of city officials and local citizens, are—at last—in for some greenery.

Money is allocated for landscaping the San Diego freeway this year. But landscaping plans for the Long Beach freeway, opened in 1958, still are "several years away," according to State Highway officials.

"Entrances to the city are one of our biggest problems," said City Manager John Mansell in a speech before the city beautification committee. "Part of it is the city's fault" . . . (failure until last year to pass the minimal required billroad ordinance) . . . "but, in the future, every foot of land will be beautified one way or another."

• • • •

MEANWHILE, beautification campaigners are clamoring for greenbelts and other plantings to disguise the scars of construction and industry, such as those planted in much of Los Angeles, in Riverside, Santa Barbara and those currently planned for Pomona.

Says Phil Hattery, president of the Chamebr of Commerce: "Keeping our city beautiful is not only good citizenship, but good business. Maintenance and improvements not only increase values, but develop community spirit, civil responsibility and respect for property."

But all must help — business, industry, commerce, homeowners and city officials.

The landscape — or cityscape—is an inescapable portion of life's fabric. You have to live with it when you're at home, drive through it on your way to work, and through more of it when you combine modern mobility and leisure to explore distance places.

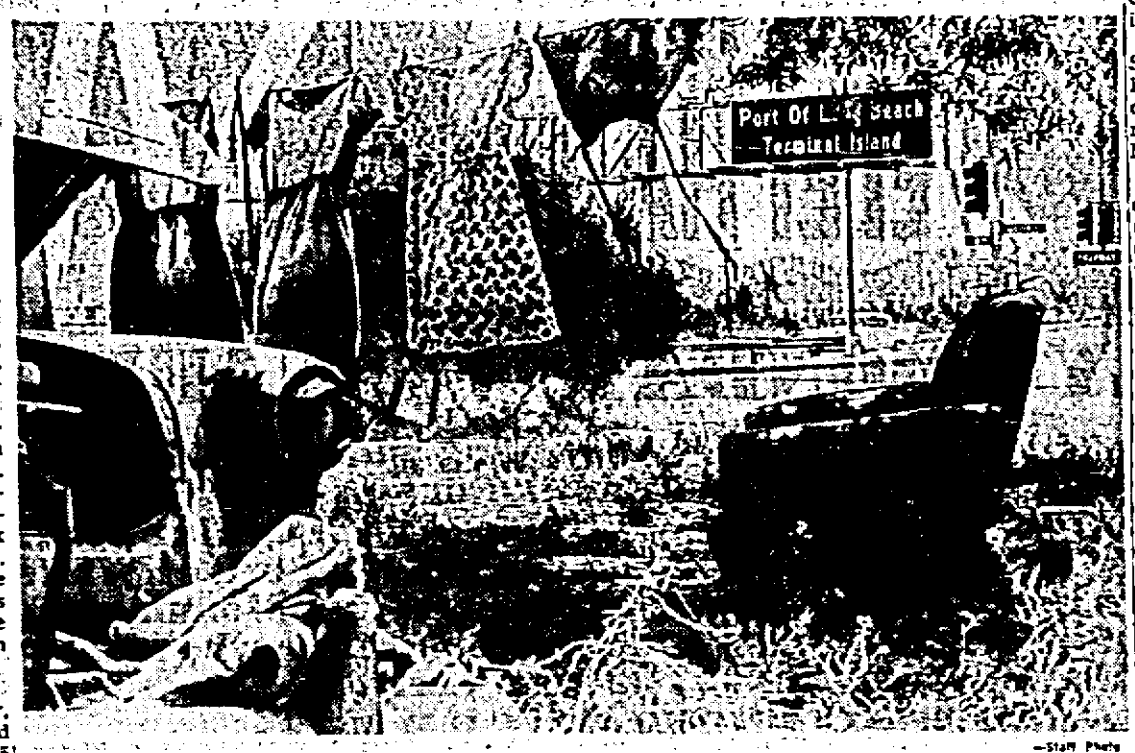

• • • •

As Ed Killingsworth, FAIA, secretary of the California chapter of AIA and a member of the local civil beautification committee, puts it:

"Seldom has a city been endowed with such natural beauties . . . such potential. The trend to ugliness can be reversed only by making people want beauty. The burden of this project must be carried by all men and women who share in our concern."

NEXT WEEK: The street where you live.

LEAVING AND ENTERING Long Beach, this is the impression that remains in the minds of a traveler —the sight of clothing flying in the breeze above a field rampant with beat up automobiles and furniture sitting in the weeds.

Italian Police End Sit-in at U.S. Paper Plant

PINEROLO, Italy (AP) — Two squads of police cleared more than 400 workers from the American-owned Beloit paper plant Saturday night, ending a 10-day sit-in to protest proposed layoffs.

The carabinieri (national police) emptied the plant without incident. They acted on a court order Friday calling for the evacuation of the factory, owned by the Beloit International Corp. of Beloit, Wis.

About half of the 1,100 workers occupied the plant Jan. 7 after reports that the company planned to lay off 300 employes.

This Time Wee Willie Will Be a Boy

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Should "Wee Willie Winkie" be played by a boy or a girl?

Producer Andrew Fenady, owns the screen rights to the Kipling classic about a young boy in the India of Queen Victoria's time — a mascot to the soldiers.

When the movie was made some years ago at 20th Century-Fox, a girl was used. There was a solid boxoffice reason — Shirley Temple.

Says Fenady: "If I knew another Shirley Temple, I'd make it a girl, too. But I think it will be a boy — the way Kipling wrote it."

County Employe Group Elects

Three new directors of the 29,000-member Los Angeles County Employes Association are from Long Beach, and the new vice chairman of the association's council is employed in Long Beach.

Elected as directors are Robert J. Briggs, of 6975 Long Beach Boulevard; Petrus Roelofs, of 2 Prospect Ave.; and Harvey H. Davidson, of 46 Granada Ave.

Preston S. Bentley, a Superior Court clerk in Long Beach, is new vice chairman.

Anne Francis Versatile Player

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Talk about versality. In "Satan Bug," Anne Francis plays Dana Andrews' daughter.

Now Warner Bros. has signed her for "Brainstorm." She plays Andrews' wife.

In between she is bicycling across the San Fernando Valley from the Old Republic lot to Warners.

Producer Aaron Spelling ("Burke's Law") has her playing a female private eye in a pilot TV film, "Honey West."

Kiwanians Install Peninsula Realtor

A Rolling Hills realtor was installed Saturday as governor of the Cal-Nev-Ha district of Kiwanis in ceremonies in Lafayette Hotel.

William Dunlap, of 27777 Silver Spur Road, succeeds Frederick R. Silvey of Concord as governor of the region including California, Nevada and Hawaii.

The ceremony capped a daylong Mid-Winter Conference attended by an estimated 1,200 Kiwanians and their wives.

James Hayes, Long Beach vice mayor, opened the conference early Saturday by extending greetings from the city. A business session lasted throughout the day.

About 500 wives at a luncheon heard Frances Richardson, director of research for 20th-Century Fox, discuss preparation necessary to produce movies such as "Cleopatra" and "How the West Was Won."

Also installed were Robert W. Barksdale, Hayward, as district governor-elect; Ray A. Weymouth, Redwood City, lieutenant governor; E. Parker Smith, Redwood City, treasurer, and Fred S. Kistemann, Oakland, secretary.

Mandler Named to UCSD Post

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The University of California at San Diego has appointed Dr. George Mandler, professor of psychology at Toronto University, as chairman of the UCSD Psychology Department.

Mandler, who will also assume a professorship in the department, will take over his duties July 1.

Russ Women Claim Copter Altitude Record

MOSCOW (AP)—Two Russian women claimed a world altitude record for women of 7,150 meters (23,457 feet) in a Soviet MI-4 helicopter, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Saturday.

Tass said the old record was held by Dora Daugherty of the United States—5,903 meters 86 centimeters (about 16,700 feet).

The record was set by Tatyana Russiayan and Galina Rastorguyeva, both of Moscow, Tass said. It reported that the flight took place Jan. 12 from an airfield near Moscow.

Economic Development Agency's Information Lack Hit by Crown

By JIM McCAULEY
I. E. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The State Economic Development Agency, the bureau that left Long Beach off the maps of a come-to-California brochure, is in hot water again.

Chairman Robert Crown of the powerful Assembly Ways and Means Committee charged that he is unable to obtain basic information on California space-and-defense problems from EDA.

Assemblyman Crown's economic development subcommittee has a report in the works which will:

1. Accuse the Brown administration of having no centralized or coordinated attack on employment problems caused by defense-aerospace cutbacks.

2. Predict that California faces a short-term economic slowdown despite a favorable long-range trend.

3. Propose that Gov. Brown "give the subject top priority and undertake a coordinated effort to facilitate impending transitions."

Crown said a two-year committee investigation revealed that private industry, government, labor and education have shown a willingness to cooperate but "adequate coordination is sorely lacking."

Crown, an Oakland Democrat, suggested that Gov. Brown charge a central office with responsibility for collecting economic data on defense-space employment, contracts and the possible impact of future changes.

The governor should evaluate this information each year in a legislative message, said Crown.

Defense-space activities provide half of California's jobs directly or indirectly, some economists figure. The State Industrial Relations Department says that these industries have accounted for six out of 10 new California jobs since 1950.

The Crown subcommittee, which also includes Assemblyman Kennick of Long Beach, will state that current trends point toward more jobless in California.

"California must rely on other endeavors for the 200,000 new jobs needed annually in coming years," says a preliminary draft of the report.

The committee will urge the defense-job gap be met by new state leadership to satisfy such demands as educational techniques, mass transit, medical advances, etc.

* * * *

THIS IS the second salvo which Kennick helped fire at EDA. He demanded earlier this year that EDA halt national distribution of a brochure that left Long Beach off key maps and directed industrial inquiries to mostly San Francisco addresses.

San Diego, also snubbed, joined in the fire at EDA.

EDA also faces possible budget problems. GOP Assembly Caucus Chairman Don Mulford has served notice that EDA, created by the Brown administration, may be one of the 1965 targets of GOP budget-choppers.

Previously, Kennick also predicted the EDA budget may be subject to unusually close scrutiny.

Computer Handles Passport Petitions

TOKYO (AP)—About 125,000 passports were issued in Japan last year and to break a resultant bookkeeping logjam the Foreign Office has installed a computer. A spokesman said the computer will be able to process 2,000 passport applications daily, compared with the 400 daily sorted by hand.

Polaris-Carrying Sub Sent Down Mare Island's Ways

VALLEJO (AP)—The Polaris submarine Kamehameha, named for the great Hawaiian warrior who unified the Hawaiian Islands, was launched Saturday at Mare Island Naval Shipyard.

The Kamehameha, sixth nuclear submarine constructed at Mare Island, slid into the Pacific after christening with champagne by Mrs Samuel Wilder King, widow of the last territorial governor of Hawaii.

Five thousand orchids were blown out of air chutes over the crowd as the submarine was launched.

U.S. Sen. Daniel K. Inouye D-Hawaii, was keynote speaker at the launching ceremony.

"We must never forget," Inouye, a World War II hero of Japanese ancestry said "that despite the devastating attack potential of this great undersea Polaris fleet, it is essentially a peace-keeping force which has greatly enhanced our national security."

Holdup Men Slow Development

BARQUISIMETO, Venezuela (UPI) — Raul Azparren, president of the Lara State Chamber of Commerce, said holdup men are a major barrier to the state's economic development.

Banks and business houses in Lara are plagued not only by ordinary criminals but by Castroite gunmen seeking to finance communist guerrilla activity in the state's Red-infested hills.

"Whoever works the most gets held up the most," Azparren said.

Shastri Plans Visits to U.S. and Russia

NEW DELHI (AP) — Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri told Parliament he intends to visit the United States and the Soviet Union this year but that dates have not been set.

Woman, 82, Tied, Robbed by 2 Thugs

A retired Long Beach schoolteacher was seized, bound hand and foot, and forced to lie on a bedroom floor Saturday while two thugs ransacked her home at 1566 Pine Ave.

The victim, plucky 82-year-old Mrs. Vivian H. Seymour, struggled for nearly an hour to free herself. Patrolman Jim Welch said she suffered numerous rope cuts and bruises in her efforts, but refused hospital treatment.

Officer Welch said Mrs. Seymour worked loose about 7:45 p.m. and immediately called a neighbor. The neighbor then telephoned police.

* * * *

She said she entered the backyard of her home shortly after 6 p.m., carrying groceries she had just purchased. Mrs. Seymour said she was met by a young man who posed as a subscription collector.

"I couldn't understand what he was talking about," she told police, "but he followed me into the kitchen."

Mrs. Seymour said the man talked for a few moments, then left and returned almost immediately with a companion.

The two men overpowered her and led her into a bedroom where they forced her to lie on the floor. One man tied her hands and feet, she said, and another threw a blanket over her.

* * * *

SHE SAID the men were extremely polite, and she quoted one as saying, "All we want is money."

Mrs. Seymour directed them to her purse which contained $5. Police said it apparently was taken.

Officer Welch said the bandits "did a thorough job of ransacking the house."

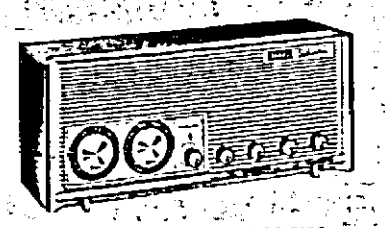

Mrs. Seymour retired from the faculty of Poly High School in 1941, then worked four years for the Navy during World War II. She has been a widow since 1935.

$150,000 Fund for the Arts Proposed

By GEORGE EPES

The executive director of the California Arts Commission would like to see the state embark on a $150,000 pilot program for underwriting cultural activities.

Martin Dibner, novelist and painter who was appointed to the $1,000-a-month job last June, said this fund would enable the commission to "underwrite — not subsidize — cultural programs, act as consultant and adviser to cultural groups in the various communities, assist the Governor's Council on Good Design and generally encourage the arts."

MARTIN DIBNER
Wants Pilot Program

The proposed sum compares with the initial $450,000 allocation in New York which now allows its arts commission $620,000 a year for underwriting cultural programs.

• • • • •

THE STATE'S recognition of the cultural boom came with passage of the California art bill (AB 1) in 1963, allocating $50,000 to the commission. A second $50,000 has since been given the commission.

Dibner said thus far the expenses of the commission have been $65,000—purchasing furniture, setting up offices at 573 Kirkeby Center, Westwood, paying salaries for office help and expenses and making the survey of cultural activity in the state required by the law.

Dibner began the survey in September, selecting 26 smaller communities in the state on the basis of "location, economic activity and size" which "together represent a microcosm of the entire state."

Two major general areas of cultural activities are being surveyed: the San Francisco Bay Area, for which the commission made a $2,000 grant to the S.F. Bay Area Regional Arts Council, and the Los Angeles area.

• • • • •

"LONG BEACH," according to Dibner, "is being covered in the Los Angeles survey. Questionnaires are being sent out to Long Beach organizations."

Dibner said the proposed International Sculpture Symposium, planned for this summer in Long Beach by Kenneth Glenn, professor of sculpture at California State College, Long Beach, "is one of the things the commission would be interested in."

State College and the Long Beach Arts Council, according to Frank Black, council president, are planning to invite the commission to meet in Long Beach.

• • • • •

THE SURVEY of cities probably will not turn up anything new in the way of a prigram for encouraging the arts. Most people involved in the field already are aware that the major problem is money — for facilities where the arts can be exhibited and for employment of talent.

What the commission will be able to do, Dibner feels, is give communities the advice of professionals on how to go about meeting these needs and in some cases underwrite programs. For example, a community organization that has demonstrated its responsibility wants to bring a major orchestra to its city but is not sure it can meet the bill. In such cases the commission might agree to underwrite a possible loss.

The commission is not limited to use of state funds. Under the law it is authorized to accept funds from individuals and organizations, and in its consultative and advisory capacity could show communities how they might obtain foundation funds.

4-Year Catholic Toll in Congo 94

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano said Saturday that 94 Catholic missionaries have been killed in The Congo since 1961.

The figures run to Dec. 2, 1964. Of the victims, 71 were killed in 1964, none in 1963, two in 1962 and 21 in 1961.

Gov. Guerrero Sees USS Guam Commissioned

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The USS Guam, the Navy's newest amphibious assault ship, was commissioned here Saturday despite a swirling snowstorm.

The ceremonies at the Philadelphia Naval Base were attended by Manuel Guerrero, governor of Guam.

Under construction here since November, 1962, the 18,000-ton ship is the third to bear the name of Guam, but the first named for the battle that liberated the island from the Japanese in World War II.

The new ship will be assigned to the Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Force.

$150,000 Fund for the Arts Proposed

By GEORGE ERES

The executive director of the California Arts Commission would like to see the state embark on a $150,000 pilot program for underwriting cultural activities.

Martin Dibner, novelist and painter who was appointed in the $1,000-a-month job last June, said this fund would enable the commission to "underwrite — not subsidize — cultural programs, act as consultant and adviser to cultural groups in the various communities, assist the Governor's Council on Good Design and generally encourage the arts."

MARTIN DIBNER
Wants Pilot Program

The proposed sum compares with the initial $450,000 allocation in New York which now allows its arts commission $620,000 a year for underwriting cultural programs.

* * * *

THE STATE'S recognition of the cultural boom came with passage of the California art bill (AB 1) in 1963, allocating $50,000 to the commission. A second $50,000 has since been given the commission.

Dibner said thus far the expenses of the commission have been $65,000—purchasing furniture, setting up offices at 575 Kirkeby Center, Westwood, paying salaries for office help and expenses and making the survey of cultural activity in the state required by the law.

Dibner began the survey in September, selecting 26 smaller communities in the state on the basis of "location, economic activity and size" which "together represent a microcosm of the entire state."

Two major general areas of cultural activities are being surveyed: the San Francisco Bay Area, for which the commission made a $2,000 grant to the S.F. Bay Area Regional Arts Council, and the Los Angeles area.

* * * *

"LONG BEACH," according to Dibner, "is being covered in the Los Angeles survey. Questionnaires are being sent out to Long Beach organizations."

Dibner said the proposed International Sculpture Symposium, planned for this summer in Long Beach by Kenneth Glenn, professor of sculpture at California State College, Long Beach, "is one of the things the commission would be interested in."

State College and the Long Beach Arts Council, according to Frank Black, council president, are planning to invite the commission to meet in Long Beach.

* * * *

THE SURVEY of cities probably will not turn up anything new in the way of a prigram for encouraging the arts. Most people involved in the field already are aware that the major problem is money — for facilities where the arts can be exhibited and for employment of talent.

What the commission will be able to do, Dibner feels, is give communities the advice of professionals on how to go about meeting these needs and in some cases underwrite programs. For example, a community organization that has demonstrated its responsibility wants to bring a major orchestra to its city but is not sure it can meet the bill. In such cases the commission might agree to underwrite a possible loss.

The commission is not limited to use of state funds. Under the law it is authorized to accept funds from individuals and organizations, and in its consultative and advisory capacity could show communities how they might obtain foundation funds.

4-Year Catholic Toll in Congo 94

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano said Saturday that 94 Catholic missionaries have been killed in The Congo since 1961.

The figures run to Dec. 2, 1964. Of the victims, 71 were killed in 1964, none in 1963, two in 1962 and 21 in 1961.

Gov. Guerrero Sees USS Guam Commissioned

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The USS Guam, the Navy's newest amphibious assault ship, was commissioned here Saturday despite a swirling snowstorm.

The ceremonies at the Philadelphia Naval Base were attended by Manuel Guerrero, governor of Guam.

Under construction here since November, 1962, the 18,000-ton ship is the third to bear the name of Guam, but the first named for the battle that liberated the island from the Japanese in World War II.

The new ship will be assigned to the Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Force.

SAFETY GLASSES are lumped with other deductions as necessary expenses.

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES

Expenses That You Can Deduct

(Twelfth in a Series)
By RAY DE CRANE

At the bottom of Page 2 of your 1040 return you will find the heading "Other Deductions" under the Itemized Deductions section. Here you will put all those deductions you could find no proper place for in the other sections.

Most commonly listed here are union dues or dues paid to professional societies; any non-reimbursed business entertainment expense; the cost of safety equipment such as safety shoes, protective goggles and protective aprons; fees paid to an employment agency.

Internal Revenue regulations also provide that you may deduct here all ordinary and necessary business expense for which you have not been reimbursed by your employer, together with all such expenses connected with the production or collection of income, or for the management and protection of property held for the production of income.

THIS MEANS that if in the performance of your work you subscribe to trade papers, technical journals or professional publications you may deduct such costs.

Investors who rent a safety deposit box for the protection of their securities may deduct the rental as well as the cost of subscriptions to any financial publications they may consult in handling their investments.

Certain occupations require special clothing such as is worn by men working around acids, blast furnaces and cold storage rooms. So long as these items of clothing are not readily adaptable to ordinary use their cost and maintenance are deductible. For this reason the cost of blue work shirts worn by men in a factory are not deductible. Neither is the cost of special uniforms which are equipped with snap buttons the removal of which make them readily convertible to ordinary use.

Small work tools having a life expectancy of less than a year, such as those used by carpenters, electricians or other tradesmen, are also deductible.

YOU MAY also deduct in this section gambling losses, but only to the extent of your winnings. If you won $500 at the race track but had $400 or other gambling losses you could reduce your gains to the $100 net figure. But if your losses exceeded your gain you could not show a net loss.

A divorced or legally separated man who makes periodic payments of alimony or separate maintenance in accordance with a court decree may deduct such payments. However, you may not deduct such payments if made voluntarily or in the absence of a written separation agreement. Under no circumstances may payments made for the support of minor children be deducted in this section.

If the support payments constitute the chief support of the child, the child may be listed as a dependent on his father's return, entitling the father to a $600 dependency credit.

In all cases where the alimony or separate maintenance payments are deductible by the man they are reportable as income by his wife on her separate return.

ALSO IN this section may be deducted educational expenses if the courses are primarily to improve or maintain skills in your employment or if they are required by your employer or regulations as a condition of employment. However, if the education is designed initially to qualify a person for a position, to help him obtain a new position or to advance substantially in his field or for personal reasons they are not deductible.

Dallas Police Whisky Prize Offer Brings Strong Rebuke

DALLAS (AP) — A radio patrol sergeant drew a strong reprimand last month, Police Chief Jesse Curry said, for offering whisky as a prize to the subordinate issuing the most traffic tickets.

Curry discussed the incident after it was mentioned by City Councilman Joe Moody in a continuing dispute over the police department.

Moody said earlier that official pressure on policemen to write traffic tickets takes time which should go into investigation of more serious law violations.

According to published accounts, four officers under command of the unnamed sergeant handed motorists 90 traffic tickets in three hours.

Curry said the sergeant's offer of a fifth of whisky as a prize was discovered in mid-December and the sergeant was told "in strong words" that he had displayed poor judgment.

ROUGH TIME FOR PRINCIPALS

Capital Goes Temporarily Mad on Inauguration Day

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Chief, L. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — President Lyndon B. Johnson will be inaugurated Wednesday and assuming the vice presidency will be Hubert H. Humphrey, first Minnesotan ever to hold such high federal office. The two men will stand in the shadow of the Capitol dome and at precisely noon the President will be sworn in by Chief Justice Earl Warren.

RIDDER

Thereafter, the two men will have a long and exhausting day. They will attend receptions, shake Heaven knows how many hands, will watch the inaugural parade, and will end up the day by dashing in and out of four different inaugural balls. After the long weary day, they will deserve their rest.

A kind of madness generally overtakes this usually somnolent city at inauguration time. Just why this is so, no one seems to know, but probably because it's the one time people stream into Washington for purposes other than to see their congressmen or visit the Lincoln Memorial.

• • • •

THOSE WHO come here for inauguration come here to have fun. Generally speaking, no one comes to this city for just sheer fun. They always have a serious reason for coming, which accounts for Washington being one of the least-fun towns in the country.

At inauguration time, it's different. Both the inhabitants of the city and visitors let themselves go and if the parties don't rival the hilarity of an American Legion convention, nevertheless an air of gayety suffuses the city. Marchers in the inauguration parade often fortify themselves against the usual cold by liberal use of liquids which sometimes makes for some startling sights as the paraders march down Pennsylvania Avenue.

The gusto with which people enter into the inauguration festivities was illustrated back in 1957 when President Dwight D. Eisenhower was being inaugurated for the second time. A certain Monte Montana, identified as a cowboy movie star, was so carried away by the occasion that he twirled his lariat and just as neatly as in one of the movies, lassoed the President. Eisenhower smiled his famous smile and gave Montana a cheery wave while the Secret Service men were frozen with horror and fear.

There'll be no repitition of that lassoing this year for the presidential box will be for the first time glassed in with bulletproof glass and much to the relief of the presidential party will be electrically heated. Inauguration Day in 1961 was bitterly cold, but President John F. Kennedy and his wife had to sit for hours watching the parade go by. As a matter of fact, the parade went on so long that Kennedy had to leave before it was ended in order to go to another inaugural affair. The parade wound its way to a somewhat desultory conclusion long, long after day which is why the committee in charge of arrangements for Wednesday's parade has ordered it drastically shortened —much to the chagrin of several marching bands all over the country who thought that President Johnson had invited them to perform when during the campaign he airily told them all to come on down for the swearing-in.

• • • •

THE ATMOSPHERE of the city will be serious until after the President completes his inaugural address. Then hawkers will begin to sell all kinds of objects—some of them in very questionable taste—those invited and some that were not will march in the parade, they will adjourn to cocktail parties and dinner parties and then will repair to one of the four inaugural balls which are being held in various parts of the city. After that, there will be more private parties and dances and general hilarity and sometime around dawn of Thursday the city finally will go to sleep.

Washingtonians will go back to work on Thursday morning and in the wake of the night before will greet fellow-workers with the fervent words, "Thank heavens, it only happens every four years."

Capital Revs Up for Party Whirl

By MARIE RIDDER
L. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Inaugural week will be a curious mixture of public ceremony, private parties and personal talent given for public reasons and really private parties.

Mary Lasker, New York philanthropist and dedicated Democrat, is donating decorations to make mammoth Constitution Hall a festive setting for the inaugural concert Tuesday evening. Mrs. Lasker is co-chairman with President Johnson's old friend, attorney Abe Fortas, for the concert.

MARIE

Thousands of red and white carnationss will be used in the decor for the concert against a background of blue silk.

The same flower and color scheme will be carried out in the late supper that Mrs. Lasker and Fortas will give at the State Department following the concert.

Guests at the party will include cabinet and Supreme Court members and their wives, winners of the Freedom Medal and Medal of Honor, the 50 distinguished artists and writers who are invited and special guests of the President for the inauguration.

• • • •

WHEN asked about her unusual donation, the ebullient Mrs. Lasker answered, "If the great artists of our age can take time to give their talents the least I can do is make the setting as enchanting and the party for them as gay as possible."

The array of donated talent for the gala Monday and the concert Tuesday is impressive. In the gala will be Alfred Hitchcock, Carol Channing, Ann Margret, Johnny Carson, Bobby Darin, Barbra Streisand, Carol Burnett, Julie Andrews, Harry Belafonte, Woody Allen, Mike Nichols and Elaine May, Margo Fonteyn and Rudolph Mureyez and the Ballet Folklorico of Mexico.

• • • •

SOME 30,000 people will crowd into the Inaugral Balls being given in four Washington hotels and the giant armory. Heroic attempts are being made to give the latter a semblance of ballroom elegance. Red carpeting, miles of draped satin and huge baskets filled with flowers of the 50 states will help to enliven a building more accustomed to horse and boat shows than great "soirees." Perhaps best news for those going to the armory is that it will boast the longest bar in town, perhaps in the world. It will be 300 feet long.

But with all the mass splendor the most coveted invitations are those to a few private parties. Three widows are each giving parties that are on the must list for an inaugural visitor to feel really "in."

If the former minister to Luxembourg, Pearl Mesta, ever lost her "hostess with the mostest" title, she will gain it back tonight. The White House helped make up the guest list for the party she is giving in honor of President and Mrs. Johnson's inaugural house guests.

Also tonight Mrs. Edgard Stern from New Orleans, of Sears and Roebuck fortune, is giving a dinner-dance which includes many new frontiersmen, still glamorous in spite of the Texas takeover.

• • • •

TUESDAY Mrs. Philip Graham, publisher of the Washington Post and Newsweek, will give a reception for the VIPs. Since everyone wants to think of himself as a VIP those not on the guest list of some 600 may be a little miffed.

Of course the invitation most coveted is that of the President. "Just come by when you are in town," he has said to scores of friends. The executive mansion will have 20 house guests. The First Lady plans an all-day buffet Wednesday to be laid out in the State Dining Room so guests can eat at their own convenience. It is planned to have a hot dish and cold ham and turkey available from noon on.

"It seemed the only feasible way of coping with those who live here, those staying here, and those dropping by," said Mrs. Johnson's press secretary, Elizabeth Carpenter.

"Any estimate on numbers?" she was asked. Her answer: "I hardly think it wise to take a guess what the President will do and how many people he will ask to do it with him."

Hard of Hearing!

It is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us, we have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else. Many who have tried this new proven method are overjoyed. Just like magic in certain cases, they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the very first treatment.

The treatment is simple and painless, and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition, a special treatment is given. If the loss is due to catarrh a different treatment is given. If you have a hearing loss no matter how slight or how bad, it may be helped. Why not find out.

The total charge is $3.00 for the first treatment and the examination. And if you see no improvement from the first treatment, you are under no obligation to return. Assure your appointment by calling 591-1305, 2067 Atlantic Ave., L.B. Dr. H. L. Hutchings, D.C., director.

Suspicious Mom Kills Boy Asleep Beside Daughter

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Police said an indignant woman grabbed a shotgun and killed a college football hero Saturday after she found him asleep beside her daughter on the girl's bed.

Charles Ray Neal and his roommate had come 45 miles from school to see their girl friends. A sudden snowstorm hit the city and they decided to stay over at the girls' apartment rather than face the icy road back.

"It was a tragic mistake," said police investigator George Currey. He said there was "no evidence of misconduct" between Neal, 20, and his girl friend, 22-year-old Carolyn Marlin.

"I just lost my head," sobbed Carolyn's mother, Mrs. Hubert Marlin. She was charged with murder.

CURREY SAID NEAL was fully clothed and asleep under the covers of Carolyn's bed. Carolyn, also fully clothed, was asleep on top of the covers when her mother entered the room, he said.

Currey said the 16-gauge shotgun was apparently pressed against Neal's stomach and fired. This, he said, apparently muffled the roar enough that it failed to wake Carolyn.

The young schoolteacher told police she thought she heard a noise, then drifted back to sleep. When she awakened later, she tried to arouse Neal but couldn't.

She went into the living room of her garage apartment behind the family home. Paul Edward Smith, Neal's roommate, was asleep in the living room. She awoke him and said, "Let's go get some breakfast. Wake Ray."

SMITH SAID HE ALSO was not awakened by the blast. When Carolyn awakened him, he "went to the room and he (Neal) was lying there moaning and moving."

"I turned him over and saw the blood," Smith said. "I don't remember what happened after that." Police, summoned by Mrs. Marlin, found Smith frantically wrapping towels around Neal, trying to stop the flow of blood.

Currey said Carolyn told him she and Neal, a 205-pound end at Middle Tennessee State College, had their third date Friday night.

Neal and Smith drove to Nashville to double-date with Carolyn and Cynthia McClearin. Cynthia lives with Carolyn and Carolyn's sister, Brenda, in the two-bedroom garage apartment.

THE GIRLS DECIDED the boys should spend the night rather than drive back to college, about 45 miles from here, when two inches of snow fell on the city.

Currey said the girls went to the main house to ask permission for the boys to stay over but were unable to rouse Carolyn's parents. The four then went to the adjacent apartment, where Brenda Marlin was already asleep.

AT ABOUT 7 A.M., Currey said, Brenda and Cynthia went to the main house to have breakfast with Mrs. Marlin. Carolyn went to her bedroom and fell asleep on the bed with Neal.

Truman Shane, the patrolman who first investigated the shooting, said Mrs. Marlin asked the girls where Carolyn was and was told she was still in the apartment.

Mrs. Marlin went there, found Carolyn and Neal on the bed and tried to rouse Neal. Failing that, Sahne said, she returned to the house, got the shotgun and went back to the apartment. She "punched him in the back and told him to get up."

"He woke up but wouldn't get out of bed," Shane said. "She (Mrs. Marlin) said she either shot him or the gun just went off. She didn't know which."

Rotting Fruit Evidence to Refute Wirtz

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An angry congressman produced photographs Saturday to challenge the government's claims that foreign labor is unneeded by U.S. fruit and vegetable growers.

Rep. A. Sydney Herlong Jr., D-Fla., an unscheduled witness at a Senate Agriculture Committee hearing, tossed the photographs on a table in front of Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., the committee chairman.

• • • •

"THESE oranges should have been picked before Christmas, but pickers were not available," Herlong protested. "No one can deny this evidence."

The hearing centered on efforts by Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz to replace foreign field hands with American workers.

Wirtz told the committee Friday that foreign workers are not needed. Assistant Agriculture Secretary George L. Mehren testified Saturday that the department knows of no crop losses resulting from labor shortages.

A parade of witnesses representing growers vehemently took issue with the government officials and predicted dire consequences from Wirtz's effort.

"AS TO THE precious lettuce rotting in the fields, I cannot squeeze out even a single tear of grief," said the Rev. James L. Vizzard of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference. "I think people are more important than lettuce."

Leland Yost, manager of the Coachella Valley Farmers Association in Indio, Calif., testified that a labor shortage could destroy California's 1965 date crop and throw 800 persons out of work. "The loss will have to be charged to the secretary of labor as he has the power to prevent it," Yost contended.

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES

Expenses That You Can Deduct

(Twelfth in a Series)
By RAY DE CRANE

At the bottom of Page 2 of your 1040 return you will find the heading "Other Deductions" under the Itemized Deductions section. Here you will put all those deductions you could find no proper place for in the other sections.

Most commonly listed here are union dues or dues paid to professional societies; any non-reimbursed business entertainment expense; the cost of safety equipment such as safety shoes, protective goggles and protective aprons; fees paid to an employment agency.

Internal Revenue regulations also provide that you may deduct here all ordinary and necessary business expense for which you have not been reimbursed by your employer, together with all such expenses connected with the production or collection of income, or for the management and protection of property held for the production of income.

THIS MEANS that if in the performance of your work you subscribe to trade papers, technical journals or professional publications you may deduct such costs.

Investors who rent a safety deposit box for the protection of their securities may deduct the rental as well as the cost of subscriptions to any financial publications they may consult in handling their investments.

Certain occupations require special clothing such as is worn by men working around acids, blast furnaces and cold storage rooms. So long as these items of clothing are not readily adaptable to ordinary use their cost and maintenance are deductible. For this reason the cost of blue work shirts worn by men in a factory are not deductible. Neither is the cost of special uniforms which are equipped with snap buttons the removal of which make them readily convertible to ordinary use.

Small work tools having a life expectancy of less than a year, such as those used by carpenters, electricians or other tradesmen, are also deductible.

YOU MAY also deduct in this section gambling losses, but only to the extent of your winnings. If you won $500 at the race track but had $400 or other gambling losses you could reduce your gains to the $100 net figure. But if your losses exceeded your gain you could not show a net loss.

A divorced or legally separated man who makes periodic payments of alimony or separate maintenance in accordance with a court decree may deduct such payments. However, you may not deduct such payments if made voluntarily or in the absence of a written separation agreement. Under no circumstances may payments made for the support of minor children be deducted in this section.

If the support payments constitute the chief support of the child, the child may be listed as a dependent on his father's return, entitling the father to a $600 dependency credit.

In all cases where the alimony or separate maintenance payments are deductible by the man they are reportable as income by his wife on her separate return.

ALSO IN this section may be deducted educational expenses if the courses are primarily to improve or maintain skills in your employment or if they are required by your employer or regulations as a condition of employment. However, if the education is designed initially to qualify a person for a position, to help him obtain a new position or to advance substantially in his field or for personal reasons they are not deductible.

Capital Goes Temporarily Mad on Inauguration Day

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Chief, I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — President Lyndon B. Johnson will be inaugurated Wednesday and assuming the vice presidency will be Hubert H. Humphrey, first Minnesotan ever to hold such high federal office. The two men will stand in the shadow of the Capitol dome and at precisely noon the President will be sworn in by Chief Justice Earl Warren.

RIDDER

Thereafter, the two men will have a long and exhausting day. They will attend receptions, shake Heaven knows how many hands, will watch the inaugural parade, and will end up the day by dashing in and out of four different inaugural balls. After the long weary day, they will deserve their rest.

A kind of madness generally overtakes this usually somnolent city at inauguration time. Just why this is so, no one seems to know, but probably because it's the one time people stream into Washington for purposes other than to see their congressmen or visit the Lincoln Memorial.

* * * *

THOSE WHO come here for inauguration come here to have fun. Generally speaking, no one comes to this city for just sheer fun. They always have a serious reason for coming, which accounts for Washington being one of the least-fun towns in the country.

At inauguration time, it's different. Both the inhabitants of the city and visitors let themselves go and if the parties don't rival the hilarity of an American Legion convention, nevertheless an air of gayety suffuses the city. Marchers in the inauguration parade often fortify themselves against the usual cold by liberal use of liquids which sometimes makes for some startling sights as the paraders march down Pennsylvania Avenue.

The gusto with which people enter into the inauguration festivities was illustrated back in 1957 when President Dwight D. Eisenhower was being inaugurated for the second time. A certain Monte Montana, identified as a cowboy movie star, was so carried away by the occasion that he twirled his lariat and just as neatly as in one of the movies, lassoed the President. Eisenhower smiled his famous smile and gave Montana a cheery wave while the Secret Service men were frozen with horror and fear.

There'll be no repetition of that lassoing this year for the presidential box will be for the first time glassed in with bulletproof glass and much to the relief of the presidential party will be electrically heated. Inauguration Day in 1961 was bitterly cold, but President John F. Kennedy and his wife had to sit for hours watching the parade go by. As a matter of fact, the parade went on so long that Kennedy had to leave before it was ended in order to go to another inaugural affair. The parade wound its way to a somewhat desultory conclusion long, long after day which is why the committee in charge of arrangements for Wednesday's parade has ordered it drastically shortened —much to the chagrin of several marching bands all over the country who thought that President Johnson had invited them to perform when during the campaign he airily told them all to come on down for the swearing-in.

THE ATMOSPHERE of the city will be serious until after the President completes his inaugural address. Then hawkers will begin to sell all kinds of objects—some of them in very questionable taste—those invited and some that were not will march in the parade, then will adjourn to cocktail parties and dinner parties and then will repair to one of the four inaugural balls which are being held in various parts of the city. After that there will be more private parties and dances and general hilarity and somewhere around dawn of Thursday the city finally will go to sleep.

Washingtonians will go back to work on Thursday morning and in the wake of the night before will greet fellow-workers with the fervent words, "Thank heavens, it only happens every four years."

Capital Revs Up for Party Whirl

By MARIE RIDDER
I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Inaugural week will be a curious mixture of public ceremony, private parties and personal talent given for public reasons and really private parties.

Mary Lasker, New York philanthropist and dedicated Democrat, is donating decorations to make mammoth Constitution Hall a festive setting for the inaugural concert Tuesday evening. Mrs. Lasker is co-chairman with President Johnson's old friend, attorney Abe Fortas, for the concert.

MARIE

Thousands of red and white carnationss will be used in the decor for the concert against a background of blue silk.

The same flower and color scheme will be carried out in the late supper that Mrs. Lasker and Fortas will give at the State Department following the concert.

Guests at the party will include cabinet and Supreme Court members and their wives, winners of the Freedom Medal and Medal of Honor, the 50 distinguished artists and writers who are invited and special guests of the President for the inauguration.

WHEN asked about her unusual donation, the ebullient Mrs. Lasker answered, "If the great artists of our age can take time to give their talents the least I can do is make the setting as enchanting and the party for them as gay as possible."

The array of donated talent for the gala Monday and the concert Tuesday is impressive. In the gala will be Alfred Hitchcock, Carol Channing, Ann Margret, Johnny Carson, Bobby Darin, Barbra Streisand, Carol Burnett, Julie Andrews, Harry Belafonte, Woody Allen, Mike Nichols and Elaine May, Margo Fonteyn and Rudolph Mureyez and the Ballet Folklorico of Mexico.

SOME 30,000 people will crowd into the Inaugural Balls being given in four Washington hotels and the giant armory. Heroic attempts are being made to give the latter a semblance of ballroom elegance. Red carpeting, miles of draped satin and huge baskets filled with flowers of the 50 states will help to enliven a building more accustomed to horse and boat shows than great "soirees." Perhaps best news for those going to the armory is that it will boast the longest bar in town, perhaps in the world. It will be 300 feet long.

But with all the mass splendor the most coveted invitations are those to a few private parties. Three widows are each giving parties that are on the must list for an inaugural visitor to feel really "in."

If the former minister to Luxembourg, Pearl Mesta, ever lost her "hostess with the mostest" title, she will gain it back tonight. The White House helped make up the guest list for the party she is giving in honor of President and Mrs. Johnson's inaugural house guests.

Also tonight Mrs. Edgard Stern from New Orleans, of Sears and Roebuck fortune, is giving a dinner-dance which includes many new frontiersmen, still glamorous in spite of the Texas takeover.

TUESDAY Mrs. Philip Graham, publisher of the Washington Post and Newsweek, will give a reception for the VIPs. Since everyone wants to think of himself as a VIP those not on the guest list of some 600 may be a little miffed.

Of course the invitation most coveted is that of the President. "Just come by when you are in town," he has said to scores of friends. The executive mansion will have 20 house guests. The First Lady plans an all-day buffet Wednesday to be laid out in the State Dining Room so guests can eat at their own convenience. It is planned to have a hot dish and cold ham and turkey available from noon on.

"It seemed the only feasible way of coping with those who live here, those staying here, and those dropping by," said Mrs. Johnson's press secretary, Elizabeth Carpenter.

"Any estimate on numbers?" she was asked. Her answer: "I hardly think it wise to take a guess what the President will do and how many people he will ask to do it with him."

Hard of Hearing!

It is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us, we have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else. Many who have tried this new proven method are overjoyed. Just like magic in certain cases, they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the very first treatment.

The treatment is simple and painless, and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition, a special treatment is given. If the loss is due to catarrh a different treatment is given. If you have a hearing loss no matter how slight or how bad, it may be helped. Why not find out.

The total charge is $25.00 for the first treatment and the examination. And if you see no improvement from the first treatment, you are under no obligation to return. Assure your appointment by calling 591-1305, 2067 Atlantic Ave., L.B. Dr. H. L. Hutchmes, D.C. director.

Suspicious Mom Kills Boy Asleep Beside Daughter

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Police said an indignant woman grabbed a shotgun and killed a college football hero Saturday after she found him asleep beside her daughter on the girl's bed.

Charles Ray Neal and his roommate had come 45 miles from school to see their girl friends. A sudden snowstorm hit the city and they decided to stay over at the girls' apartment rather than face the icy road back.

"It was a tragic mistake," said police investigator George Currey. He said there was "no evidence of misconduct" between Neal, 20, and his girl friend, 22-year-old Carolyn Marlin.

"I just lost my head," sobbed Carolyn's mother, Mrs. Hubert Marlin. She was charged with murder.

CURREY SAID NEAL was fully clothed and asleep under the covers of Carolyn's bed. Carolyn, also fully clothed, was asleep on top of the covers when her mother entered the room, he said.

Currey said the 16-gauge shotgun was apparently pressed against Neal's stomach and fired. This, he said, apparently muffled the roar enough that it failed to wake Carolyn.

The young schoolteacher told police she thought she heard a noise, then drifted back to sleep. When she awakened later, she tried to arouse Neal but couldn't.

She went into the living room of her garage apartment behind the family home. Paul Edward Smith, Neal's roommate, was asleep in the living room. She awoke him and said, "Let's go get some breakfast, Wake Ray."

SMITH SAID HE ALSO was not awakened by the blast. When Carolyn awakened him, he "went to the room and he (Neal) was lying there moaning and moving."

"I turned him over and saw the blood," Smith said. "I don't remember what happened after that." Police, summoned by Mrs. Marlin, found Smith frantically wrapping towels around Neal, trying to stop the flow of blood.

Currey said Carolyn told him she and Neal, a 205-pound end at Middle Tennessee State College, had their third date Friday night.

Neal and Smith drove to Nashville to double-date with Carolyn and Cynthia McClearin. Cynthia lives with Carolyn and Carolyn's sister, Brenda, in the two-bedroom garage apartment.

THE GIRLS DECIDED the boys should spend the night rather than drive back to college, about 45 miles from here, when two inches of snow fell on the city.

Currey said the girls went to the main house to ask permission for the boys to stay over but were unable to rouse Carolyn's parents. The four then went to the adjacent apartment, where Brenda Marlin was already asleep.

AT ABOUT 7 A.M., Currey said, Brenda and Cynthia went to the main house to have breakfast with Mrs. Marlin. Carolyn went to her bedroom and fell asleep on the bed with Neal.

Truman Shane, the patrolman who first investigated the shooting, said Mrs. Marlin asked the girls where Carolyn was and was told she was still in the apartment.

Mrs. Marlin went there, found Carolyn and Neal on the bed and tried to rouse Neal. Failing that, Sahne said, she returned to the house, got the shotgun and went back to the apartment. She "punched him in the back and told him to get up."

"He woke up but wouldn't get out of bed," Shane said. "She (Mrs. Marlin) said she either shot him or the gun just went off. She didn't know which."

Rotting Fruit Evidence to Refute Wirtz

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An angry congressman produced photographs Saturday to challenge the government's claims that foreign labor is unneeded by U.S. fruit and vegetable growers.

Rep. A. Sydney Herlong Jr., D-Fla., an unscheduled witness at a Senate Agriculture Committee hearing, tossed the photographs on a table in front of Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., the committee chairman.

* * * *

"THESE oranges should have been picked before Christmas, but pickers were not available," Herlong protested. "No one can deny this evidence."

The hearing centered on efforts by Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz to replace foreign field hands with American workers.

Wirtz told the committee Friday that foreign workers are not needed. Assistant Agriculture Secretary George L. Mehren testified Saturday that the department knows of no crop losses resulting from labor shortages.

A parade of witnesses representing growers vehemently took issue with the government officials and predicted dire consequences from Wirtz's effort.

The growers in turn were pictured by spokesmen for religious and liberal groups as greedy exploiters.

* * * *

"AS TO THE precious lettuce rotting in the fields, I cannot squeeze out even a single tear of grief," said the Rev. James L. Vizzard of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference. "I think people are more important than lettuce."

Leland Yost, manager of the Coachella Valley Farmers Association in Indio, Calif., testified that a labor shortage could destroy California's 1965 date crop and throw 800 persons out of work. "The loss will have to be charged to the secretary of labor as he has the power to prevent it," Yost contended.

"Main Street, U.S.A.," an exhibition showing the history and development of retail stores during the past 150 years, will be shown free in Long Beach Thursday through next Monday.

The exhibit which is making a five year tour of the country, will be at First Street and Long Beach Boulevard the following hours: Thursday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Feb. 24, 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. and Feb. 25, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Road Repair Suggestion Wins Award

A money-saving suggestion that will improve the city's method of patching holes in street pavement has won a $210 cash award for John R. Trimmer, operations and maintenance foreman in the Public Service Department.

City Manager John R. Mansell presented the check on recommendation of an awards committee which estimated that the new method will save $7,350 annually.

Trimmer, a 23-year veteran in city service, proposed that the old-fashioned "hot pot" and the pickup truck that carries it be eliminated in repair jobs. Instead of the heated tar, an unheated emulsifier will be used to seal the patch.

Besides the two pieces of equipment, one man will be dropped from the work crew and assigned to other duties.

Road Repair Suggestion Wins Award

A money-saving suggestion that will improve the city's method of patching holes in street pavement has won a $210 cash award for John R. Trimmer, operations and maintenance foreman in the Public Service Department.

City Manager John R. Mansell presented the check on recommendation of an awards committee which estimated that the new method will save $7,350 annually.

Trimmer, a 23-year veteran in city service, proposed that the old-fashioned "hot pot" and the pickup truck that carries it be eliminated in repair jobs. Instead of the heated tar, an unheated emulsifier will be used to seal the patch.

Besides the two pieces of equipment, one man will be dropped from the work crew and assigned to other duties.

Laos Raids Serve as Warning to Peking, Hanoi

By HARRY W. SHARPE
By United Press International

Two U.S. Air Force supersonic fighter-bombers were shot down over Laos last week while pounding Communist supply lines leading into embattled South Viet Nam.

Fighter-escorted helicopters rescued the pilots.

The incident indicated President Johnson was making the anti-Communist war in Viet Nam an ever more costly venture for the Red invaders, even at the risk of escalating the war.

• • • •

THE PLANES were part of a squadron of 18 to 24 which destroyed key bridges and roads near the town of Ban Ban. These routes have been pipelining Red Chinese military equipment and North Viet Nam guerrillas into both Laos and pro-Western Viet Nam.

The aerial strikes are being controlled directly from Washington. They are aimed at convincing Peking and Hanoi Red leaders that the United States does not intend to back out of its commitments to guard freedom in Southeast Asia.

Saigon dispatches said such American forays had been under way for several months. The State Department denied other reports that U.S. air and Navy forces attached to the Seventh Fleet were providing cover for South Vietnamese air and PT boat attacks on targets in North Viet Nam.

American authorities doubt that Viet Nam's long borders can be sealed. But they hope that combat sorties beyond Viet Nam's borders will illustrate that the United States is ready, if necessary to carry the war northward at whatever risk.

• • • •

IN POLITICS, defeated GOP presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater's conservative command of the Republican Party received a jolt when his handpicked party chairman, Dean Burch, resigned in the face of stern liberal and moderate opposition.

Burch will be succeeded on April 1 by Ray C. Bliss, popular Ohio state GOP chairman and compromise choice of most party leaders who had insisted Burch must go. Bliss refused to take the $30,000-a-year post without Goldwater's approval. But he said he expects to have "a relatively free hand" in running the Republican organization.

Goldwater bowed to the inevitable after western members of the national committee counted heads and warned him Burch would be ousted when the committee meets in Chicago this week.

• • • •

GOLDWATER, who had said that Burch's removal would be "a repudiation of me," admitted Burch could not command a majority and said a fight in Chicago "would have left our party dangerously divided." Before switching to the hard-hitting Ohioan, however, he talked with former President Eisenhower and ex-Vice President Richard M. Nixon. Both thought Burch's replacement by Bliss was best for the party.

Chief gunners for Burch's scalp were governors and members of Congress who want the party refurbished in a new middle-of-the-road image in hopes they can recoup from their 1964 election losses.

Education—A far-ranging $1.5 billion program to give every child in the nation a decent education.

Immigration—Calling for a major overhaul of present laws to abolish the national quota system, based on "work a man can do, not where he was born or how he spells his name."

Foreign Aid—$3.4 billion for economic and military aid—the lowest request in the 18-year history of the project.

Disarmament — A four-year authorization of $55 million to step up U.S. efforts in the disarmament field, including curbs on the spread of nuclear weapons.

In other news spheres the Atomic Energy Commission blew up a nuclear reactor at Jackass Flats, Nev., to show that some day a prototype may propel Americans to the moon.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., disclosed that the United States is ready to resume atmospheric nuclear testing "on very short notice" should Russia violate the test-ban treaty. Coincidentally, the Soviet Union tested underground what was believed to be a hydrogen weapon packing the power of one million tons of TNT.

Rep. William E. Minshall, R-Ohio, revealed that just before the President delivered his State of the Union message Jan. 4 "a known crackpot" was found roaming the House floor. He said the incident happened despite increased security precautions.

Surgeon General Luther L. Terry appealed for a new national effort to "convince people of the danger of cigarette smoking." A year ago a Terry advisory committee reported that smoking could cause lung cancer.

The Navy announced that three orbiting satellites are providing American ships with the most accurate navigational data ever available.

The national space administration will ask Congress for $1.36 billion to forward its manned conquest of space projects in the next fiscal year.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Blizzard Pummels Big Area of East

NEW YORK (AP)—A blizzard raked a huge section of the East for nearly 24 hours Saturday, piling up mountainous snowdrifts and disrupting traffic before it showed signs of abating.

Although most sports were hit by a three- to six-inch snowfall, a number of areas reported a foot or more, coupled with winds gusting to 45 miles an hour. Tides were reported up to four feet above normal. Several deaths were blamed on the storm.

The Boston Weather Bureau said late Saturday night that snow is ending in most sections, and predicted no more heavy accumulations. Whole-gale warnings were reduced to gale warnings from Block Island, R.I., to Eastport, Maine.

The blizzard's main fury was unleased in a roughly triangular area from Baltimore to Cape Cod to Albany, N.Y. But many other areas were hit almost equally as hard by high winds and heavy snow.

The midsection of Indiana was all but paralyzed by a snowstorm driven by 46-mile-an-hour winds which whipped drifts as high as 10 feet.

Four JFK Carryovers Resign

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson, rounding out his White House staff, Saturday accepted resignations from four top Kennedy administration carryovers and pinned down assignment and salaries for his own team.

At a news conference in his ranchhouse, the President

praised the Kennedy staff he inherited for "qualitfy, dedication, intelligence and loyalty."

"Regretfully and reluctantly," the President said, resignations were accepted from:

P. Kenneth O'Donnell, appointments secretary; Myer Feldman, special counsel; David Powers, special assistant and receptionist, and Dr. Janet Travell, White House physician.

Staying: Lee White, who succeeds Feldman, and Jack Valenti, succeeding O'Donnell. Also: McGeorge Bundy, national security affairs; George E. Reedy, press secretary; Bill D. Moyers, legislative program; Horace Busby, cabinet secretary; Richard Goodwin, urban affairs and conservation, and Douglass Cater, education and international affairs.

Auto-Tariff Agreement Signed

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — On a redwood picnic table, President Johnson and Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson Saturday signed an agreement for the tariff-free flow of automobile trade between the two countries. They said the pact could lead to even greater trade between the two nations.

The trade agreement immediately ended Canadian tariffs of up to 25% on new automobiles and some auto parts which passed between the two countries. The pact must be approved by Congress before it is effective for the United States.

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson shunned a topcoat in near-freezing Texas weather Saturday and took shivering, sniffling reporters on a cross-country hike along the bank of the Pedernales River.

It was a tour over rocks and grassy fields, through strewn hay and cattle droppings and sometimes in mud along the chilly river which winds through Johnson's LBJ Ranch.

The President wore hand-sewn cowboy boots, a Western shirt and striped tie and an open sportcoat, looking very much the country boy and talking like a ranch hand.

Blizzard Pummels Big Area of East

NEW YORK (AP)—A blizzard raked a huge section of the East for nearly 24 hours Saturday, piling up mountainous snowdrifts and disrupting traffic before it showed signs of abating.

Although most sports were hit by a three- to six-inch snowfall, a number of areas reported a foot or more, coupled with winds gusting to 45 miles an hour. Tides were reported up to four feet above normal. Several deaths were blamed on the storm.

The Boston Weather Bureau said late Saturday night that snow is ending in most sections, and predicted no more heavy accumulations. Whole-gale warnings were reduced to gale warnings from Block Island, R.I., to Eastport, Maine.

The blizzard's main fury was unleased in a roughly triangular area from Baltimore to Cape Cod to Albany, N.Y. But many other areas were hit almost equally as hard by high winds and heavy snow.

Police Raiders Nab Bookmaker Suspect

A 37-year-old bartender was arrested by Long Beach police Saturday on suspicion of running a $3-000-a-day bookmaking operation from his apartment.

Officer Dan Dakovich said William J. Cormier was seized about 1:30 p.m. when officers raided his apartment at 517½ Maine Ave.

Dakovich said he and officer John Turley confiscated more than 100 betting slips or "markers" that Cormier had taken Saturday on horse-racing events at major racetracks across the country.

The two vice officers, who spent more than a week checking Cormier's operation, said the single telephone office was able to handle $10,000 to $20,000 in bets during a week.

Cormier, the officers said, admitted his bookmaking activities, but said he'd been working out of the apartment for only a few days because he was unemployed.

Fifth '65 Traffic Death

The death of a young sailor Saturday sent the Long Beach traffic toll to five for the first half of January.

William A. Midell, 19, a seaman from the USS Frontier, died in Veterans Hospital at 4:15 a.m. from head injuries suffered Friday in a car crash at Henry Ford Avenue and Seaside Boulevard.

• • • • •

MIDELL was the second to die from the crash. Dennis Lee Brock, 21, a sailor on the USS Kearsarge, died minutes after the car he was driving hurtled across Seaside and slammed into a parked car. He was pinned in the wreckage.

A third occupant of Brock's 1965 sports sedan, Leon Mendenhal, 21, serving aboard the USS Kearsarge, suffered a broken left arm and other minor injuries. He is reported in good condition aboard the USS Haven, Navy hospital ship.

• • • • •

POLICE said Midell's death pushed the city's traffic death toll ahead of 1964's grisly pace. Three persons died in traffic accidents in the first 15 days of 1964.

The 64 deaths in Long Beach traffic last year broke a 19-year record. There were 62 traffic fatalities in 1945, in the final year of the wartime dimouts.

Sheriff's homicide officers said Richard Vargas, of 6506 San Marcus St., was found unconscious in his car by his wife, Olivia, 27.

When attempts to awaken him failed, Mrs. Vargas drove her husband to Physicians & Surgeons Hospital, Compton, where doctors pronounced him dead at 5:45 a.m. Homicide officers said the victim had three fresh needle marks on his arm. He had been released from Corona Rehabilitation Center a year ago.

Viet Nam Victory Vital, Possible, Lodge Asserts

NEW YORK (AP) — The struggle in Viet Nam can be won, Henry Cabot Lodge said Saturday, and the current military standoff "is building the springboard for victory."

Strongly opposing a negotiated settlement, Lodge said terms laid down by North Viet Nam are "specifications for surrender."

Lodge, the Republican vice-presidential candidate in 1960, was U.S. ambassador to Saigon from August 1963 until last June.

He gave his views in replies to questions submitted by the Associated Press.

• • • •

"IF VIET NAM falls to the Communists," Lodge said, "it would shatter confidence all around the world in America's ability to carry out a vitally important commitment."

But a U.S. victory would be a "power fact" which could start the world on a new and more hopeful course, he held.

He said, however, that "in order to achieve a victory, there must be within Viet Nam the same degree of civil-political success as there is military success."

Following are the questions submitted to Lodge and his answers:

Q. Hanoi (Communist North Viet Nam) has repeatedly laid down terms for ending the Viet Nam conflict. These include departure of all U.S. personnel and letting the people settle Viet Nam's internal affairs. In view of those terms, what would be the prospects for a negotiated settlement? For neutralization? In your opinion, is there a possibility that guarantees of any settlement, including neutralization, could be ironclad? Would you regard any negotiation—say within the 14-nation conference at Geneva—as a form of surrender, or are there circumstances under which the United States would be well advised to negotiate with Peking (Communist China) and Hanoi on ending the conflict?

A. What you refer to as "terms" are not really terms at all; they are specifications for surrender. South Viet Nam is not strong enough to be truly neutral and is not now strong enough to go to a conference at which true terms could be negotiated. As regards what you call "neutralization," both North and South Viet Nam are "neutralized" already insofar as words are concerned. Article 10 of the Geneva Accord of July 21, 1954, in effect, provided for "neutralizing" both countries. Yet the terms of this agreement were violated before the ink was even dry. We do not need new language for "neutralization"; we need the will to carry out the language which already exists.

Q. What prospects do you see for some degree of political stability for South Viet Nam? Are elections possible or feasible?

A. South Viet Nam seems to be in a state of political evolution. I know of occasions when symptoms of political instability threatened but did not take place because of restraint and tolerance on the part of the leaders of the different groups. I do not foresee that elections will be—or should be—used to settle important questions for a long time to come.

Q. What, if any, circumstances do you foresee in which the United States might withdraw from South Viet Nam?

A. The aim of the United States is to help the Republic of Viet Nam to achieve and then to maintain its independence. Once it is clear that the Republic of Viet Nam has achieved its independence and is able to maintain it, there would be no need for U.S. military personnel. But I should think that economic aid would be needed for at least a generation—and that we, in collaboration with other nations, should provide what we can.

Australia Orders Shoe Disinfections

CANBERRA (AP) — Some overseas travelers arriving in Australia will have to have their footwear disinfected as a precaution against introducing hoof and mouth disease among animals down under. Health Minister Reginald Swartz said the order applies to anyone who has been on a farm, in a slaughterhouse or meatpacking establishment, or in contact with farm animals during the previous three months.

Tot-Care Licenses Required

L.P-T Los Angeles Bureau

In the face of a growing demand for homes where children can be placed privately, the Homefinders Division of the county's Child Welfare Services warned parents of the dangers of using unlicensed homes.

"Too often parents are unaware of the hazards of using homes that have not been investigated and are not equipped to give good care," said Mary M. O'Neill, division director.

• • • •

SOME boarding-home operators are not aware that it is illegal to take unrelated children into your home unless you have a license to give foster care, Miss O'Neill explained.

There is no charge for the state license for foster homes, she pointed out.

• • • •

ANY person interested in offering home care to children, where payment is made by the parents, may do so through the Homefinders Division, Miss O'Neill said.

The division has its headquarters at 501 N. Main St., Los Angeles.

WORKS 6-DAY WEEK

Monkey Drives Farm Tractor

BALMORAL, Australia (UPI) — Little Johnnie Schmidt is only 9 years old but he can drive a tractor, open and shut gates and deliver hay to the stock on the ranch where he works six days a week.

Nothing so unusual about that except for the fact that Johnnie is a monkey.

Johnnie works six days a week, 12 hours a day for his owner, farmer Lindsay Schmidt, who reared him from the time he was three weeks old.

Johnnie is right at home on Schmidt's back-country ranch at Engelfield, near Balmoral, and lives like a human, right down to taking baths, wearing cardigans and getting his teeth cleaned daily. And since Schmidt supports him, the taxation department allows his owner an annual 40-pound ($59.60) deduction.

"HE'S ONLY MIXED with people and farm animals," Schmidt says. "A showman gave him to me when he was a baby, for helping to put out a fire in his truck.

"When we've taken him to zoos he has just sat outside the monkey cages and looked very uninterested. I took him to a sideshow where they had monkeys chained in a circle.

"Johnnie sat down, crossed his legs, placed his hands in his lap, and didn't take a scrap of notice of the monkeys. Like the other men there, he concentrated on the dancing girl."

Schmidt keeps Johnnie on a chain most of the time because when he gets loose he tends to forget that he isn't supposed to act like a monkey and does, in fact, sometimes act like one.

Woman Acquires Fireman Status

TOURNAL, Felgium (AP) — Belgium has its first graduate lady firefighter. She's dark-haired Mrs. Renee Moreau, one of eight graduates out of 23 candidates taking the course. She has no intention of joining a fire brigade, she said, but took the course because she felt that as a saleswoman for fire protection equipment the knowledge would be useful.

Easier Russ Divorce Law

MOSCOW (UPI) — Divorce will be easier in Russia under a new law being developed by authorities here.

Soviet newspapers, disclosing that such a law is in the works, hinted divorce may be made simpler by abolishing "reconciliation" procedures and authorizing a registrar to grant one if both parties agree.

Soviet sources said despite the move, there is no intention to return to the early Stalin days when "post card" divorces were possible in this country.

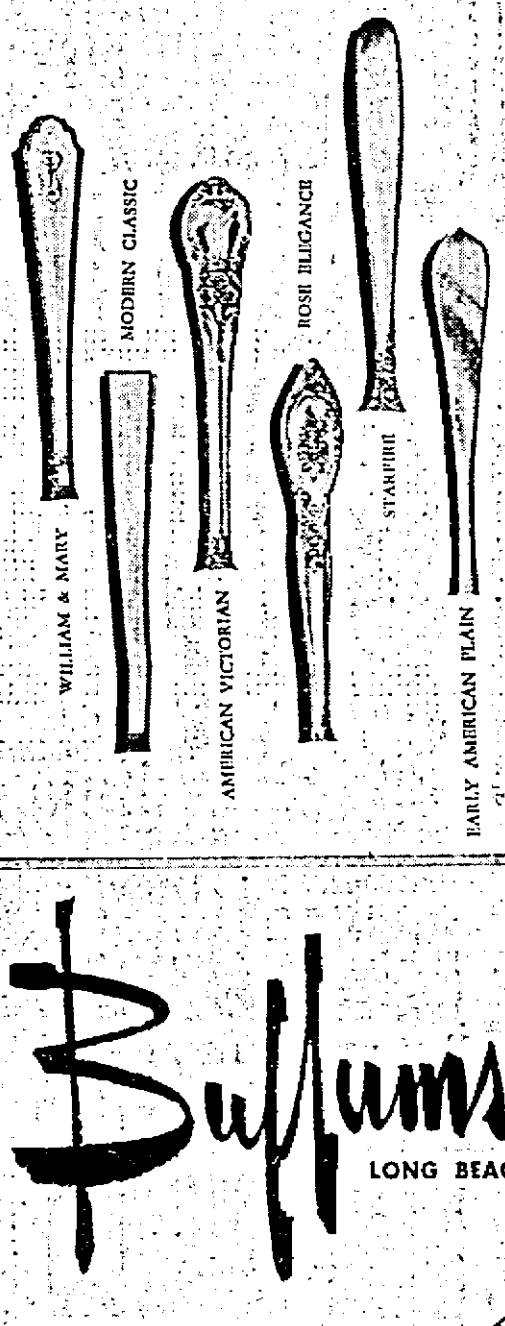

At one time, a Russian could divorce his wife by signing a document and notifying her by post card. But the late dictator changed this procedure in the mid-thirties.

Norway U.N. Force Gets Few Recruits

OSLO (AP)—Norway's Parliament has approved a 900-man battalion for standby United Nations duty but few young Norwegians are siging up. In two months, only 20-to-30 volunteers have come forward, a military source said. One of the obstacles is believed to be the government's refusal to pay the troops except when on actual U.N. duty.

Law Aimed at Narcotic User

Bill Would OK Arrest of Suspects

By DON BRACKENBURY
L. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Under a law proposed by District Attorney Evelle J. Younger, it no longer would be necesary to wait until a narcotics user committed a crime before he can be apprehended for medical treatment.

Younger announced he has prepared a bill, with the aid of Los Angeles City Attorney Roger Arnebergh, and that it will be introduced in the current session of the State Legislature.

State Assemblyman George Willson of Huntington Park has promised to introduce the measure, with Assemblyman Howard J. Thelin of Glendale as co-sponsor.

• • • •

YOUNGER explained that under existing law, it is imposible for a relative, friend or officer to commit a narcotics user for medical care unless the user has been convicted of a crime, or unless he was found to be mentally ill on grounds other than narcotics use.

The proposed law would permit the apprehension, detention and commitment of a drug user in the same manner as now is done with mentally ill persons, Younger said.

Any person having information that someone is a narcotics addict, or is in imminent danger of becoming an addict, would make such a report, under oath, to the district attorney.

• • • •

THE PERSON believed to need treatment for drug use could be detained in a county facility for up to 72 hours for medical examination.

If two doctors report that the person is an addict, or is in danger of becoming one, he is scheduled for a court hearing. He may have a jury trial, if he so wishes.

If at the trial the person is found to be an addict, or likely to become one, the judge may order the drug user committed to the state's narcotic rehabilitation facility.

• • • •

THE PROPOSED law provides that the person may be released if, at any time during the proceedings, it appears that he is not an addict and not in danger of becoming one.

It further provides for the prosecution of any person who "wrongfully or fasely" accuses another of being a narcotic addict.

"Heretofore, there has been no effective procedure for dealing with the addict who has not yet violated the law," Younger said. "It should not be necessary for an addict to commit a crime before we can commit him for needed care."

BEACH Combing

with MALCOLM EPLEY

THERE'S another side to the commie-speaking-on-the campus issue that hasn't been told very well.

It's the students' side.

Not all students, perhaps, but I've talked to some who are solid, alert and sharp—and who feel that it was o.k. to have the Red speaker at L.B. State. I think they generally represent student thinking.

They feel, and they're absolutely right, that the students came through beautifully on that day, and that somehow, in the blast of community criticism of the affair, that fact has not been properly recognized.

They believe that it was clearly demonstrated that students on this campus could listen without being deceived. That, they feel, was actually a victory over the commie cause that could have been achieved only by letting a Red come on the campus and sound off.

And what bothers them is that there seems to be no indication of a recognition of all this in the community. We've all been so busy condemning—and I've been on that side, too—that we haven't given the young people credit.

This seeming community indifference to a good strike for democracy and Americanism was under discussion in one class and brought a suggestion from a male student that there be a panel presentation or something of the kind, to help the people of the community to understand.

All of this should bring some comfort even to those who think the Communist speech should never have been permitted. The effect on students is perhaps not so much a matter of concern as some have thought. There's a tendency on the part of their elders, I think, to underestimate the ability of younger people to take care of themselves.

DO Southern Californians overdo freeway and other road opening ceremonies?

One of my readers thinks so. She points out that there seems to be a ceremony every time they open a mile or two of freeway, carried on to the point where these things become routine, boresome and rather meaningless.

Her idea is that we ought to wait until bigger segments are completed and then throw one big whing-ding.

Perhaps what happened on the Westminster-Second St. opening will help to discourage ceremonies. After they cut the ribbon and made the speeches, that route remained closed for several weeks and left a lot of people rather red-faced.

Even after the Westminster link opened the other day, the public seemed a little wary and traffic did not immediately respond as expected.

THIS writer is serving as mail solicitation chairman of the March of Dimes campaign, now under way, and I am appreciative of the numerous friendly notes that contributors have included with the contributions in envelopes bearing my name.

This year's campaign is aimed, in the main, at helping the research program on birth defects. It is a great cause.

If you haven't happened to receive one of the envelopes, don't let that keep you from contributing. Send your bit either to me at the newspaper or at the Security First National Bank, in any old envelope.

Nurses Unit Meets at State

"Pyschiatric Aspects of Nursing Care" will be discussed at the meeting of the California League for Nursing at 7:30 p.m. Wedneday in Soroptomist House, California State College, Long Beach.

Speaker will be Mrs. Elizabeth Kaufman, assistant professor of nursing at Cal-State.

EVERYTHING'LL BE PEACHY

College Needs 1,600 Trees

Needed: 1,600 peach trees and $8,000 to purchase them.

"When State College gets that, it will have the most beautiful campus in the nation, surpassing the Universities of Minnesota, Hawaii and Florida," tree chairman Robert L. Irvin said.

The Long Beach college has 800 of the flowering trees ready for bareroot planting. They arrived last week and cost $4,000; $5 each.

The college's push to plant the trees over the campus cannot reach fruition until all the trees are planted.

"This is the dormant season for the trees and it would be wonderful to get all of them in by the middle of February," a college spokesman said.

Ed Lovell, landscaping architect, pointed out that this time of the year the trees are amiable to being shipped and will start growing right away, flowering by late May.

Checks should be sent to "Flowering Trees" care of State College, 6101 E. Seventh St., Long Beach.

FANTASTIC FOSSIL

Strange Animal Has Come Out of Closet

L. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

If Los Angeles County Museum wanted to title its current project in the manner of horror movies, it could call it, "The Monsters from the Storage Cabinet."

Because some strange fossil creatures—the latest, a massive mammal called Brontotherium—are emerging these days from the long rows of storage cabinets in which the museum keeps its bones.

Since the Art Museum began moving its collection from the old Exposition Park site out to Hancock Park, the County Museum is expanding its fossil display.

• • • •

About 35 million years ago, the Brontotherium roamed the great plains east of the Rocky Mountains. The fossil bones of the museum's specimen weighed 297 pounds, but Dr. J. R. Macdonald, curator of vertebrate paleontology, said the live animals may have weighed as much as two tons.

Though big and strong, the Brontotherium was weak of mind, Dr. Macdonald said. Its cranial cavity, which contained the brain, is hardly large enough to accommodate a man's fist.

• • • •

THIS INDICATION of limited brains may be a clue as to why the species lasted only about 10 million years — a relatively short time by scientific standards.

Although the Brontotherium didn't have to fight for food, inasmuch as he was a vegetarian, his formidable horn was a powerful weapon.

Dr. Macdonald said several fossil specimens unearthed in the Great Plains show evidence of fractured ribs, apparently suffered in butting battles.

The skeleton of the Brontotherium is one of several which will occupy the museum's proposed Hall of Fossil Mammals.

Braille Institute services for the blind will be discussed by Jack Whiffen, partially sighted writer, poet and humorist at the dinner meeting of the Lakewood Lions Club at 6:45 p.m. Thursday at Lakewood Country Club.

Whiffen, a graduate of the Illinois School for the Blind, will be introduced by G. S. Sanders, Lions sight conservation chairman. President Bob Bergman will preside.

City Clerk, Avalon Aide Will Wed

A friendship that began at meetings of the League of California Cities has led to wedding plans for Margaret Heartwell, Long Beach city clerk, and Eric J. Moore, Avalon city councilman.

Mrs. Heartwell revealed the engagement last week to friends but said no date has been set. She plans to continue as city clerk, a position she has held since 1951. She is one of the most popular and widely known of city officials.

Councilman Moore will complete three years on the Avalon Council next April. He is manager of the Avalon Airlines division of Catalina Channel Air Lines.

Both he and Mrs. Heartwell have been active in the Los Angeles County Division of the League of California Cities. It will be the second marriage for both.

Up to 1,200 at Saugus Center

By BOB SANDERS

Rehabilitating alcoholics is one thing. Growing vegetables is another. But not for the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department.

They do both at the same time at Saugus Rehabilitation Center.

Nestled high in the foothills of the Tehachapi Mountains, the center houses anywhere from 500 to 1,200 inmates. And some even have asked to go to the institution.

Here they work in the field, hoeing and cultivating, picking and packing garden produce. At the same time they are being rehabilitated. It works.

★ ★ ★ ★

CAPT. GEORGE WALSH, the veteran sheriff's officer in charge of the institution, is justly proud that he not only has the usual alcoholic commitments from the criminal courts but also that he has some who come to him through civil procedure.

"We have quite a number of men who aren't forced to come here but who have requested to be sent here," the captain says. "This shows at least our inmates think we do them some good."

Rehabilitation is, of course, the primary function of the center. Growing vegetables is secondary. Nevertheless, the sheriff's department estimates that the center's 130 acres under cultivation saved the county's taxpayers $80,862.57 during the last fiscal year.

The vegetables, 1,179,367 pounds of carrots, onions, cabbage and greens were packed in crates on the premises and shipped to other detention facilities and hospitals operated by the county.

In addition the center produced 6,743 nursery plants. This is not counting repairing 4,140 pairs of shoes and making 404,587 items in the wood working shops, mainly surveyor's stakes and wood palletes.

"This production, if not done by inmates here," says Capt. Walsh, "would have had to have been purchased by the county somewhere else."

THE CENTER WAS BUILT in 1954 on its 581-acre plot by the City of Los Angeles. In fact the city still has the upper portion which it plans to use for a fire training center later. The sheriff took over the operation in 1962. Since the beginning it has been concerned with the rehabilitation of alcoholics but the sheriffs brought in the vegetable farming.

"This is therapy," says Art Garcia, farm foreman. "That's why we don't use tractors any more than we have to. We want the hand labor.

"There's a scheduling program here that isn't too obvious to the backyard farmer," Garcia says. "You notice how small the fields are? That's because the facilities we serve can't use too large amounts of any particular produce. So, we have to schedule our planting to fit their needs. We have to have a constant supply of fresh produce to the county's institutions."

The therapy is so good, Capt. Walsh says, that they actually have a certain number of men with alcoholic problems who commit themselves voluntarily and pay $150 a month to be there.

"You can't beat that for a testimonial," Capt. Walsh says.

THERE'S another side to the commie-speaking-on-the campus issue that hasn't been told very well.

It's the students' side.

Not all students, perhaps, but I've talked to some who are solid, alert and sharp—and who feel that it was o.k. to have the Red speaker at L.B. State. I think they generally represent student thinking.

They feel, and they're absolutely right, that the students came through beautifully on that day, and that somehow, in the blast of community criticism of the affair, that fact has not been properly recognized.

They believe that it was clearly demonstrated that students on this campus could listen without being deceived. That, they feel, was actually a victory over the commie cause that could have been achieved only by letting a Red come on the campus and sound off.

And what bothers them is that there seems to be no indication of a recognition of all this in the community. We've all been so busy condemning—and I've been on that side, too—that we haven't given the young people credit.

This seeming community indifference to a good strike for democracy and Americanism was under discussion in one class and brought a suggestion from a male student that there be a panel presentation or something of the kind, to help the people of the community to understand.

All of this should bring some comfort even to those who think the Communist speech should never have been permitted. The effect on students is perhaps not so much a matter of concern as some have thought. There's a tendency on the part of their elders, I think, to underestimate the ability of younger people to take care of themselves.

DO Southern Californians overdo freeway and other road opening ceremonies?

One of my readers thinks so. She points out that there seems to be a ceremony every time they open a mile or two of freeway, carried on to the point where these things become routine, boresome and rather meaningless.

Her idea is that we ought to wait until bigger segments are completed and then throw one big whing-ding.

Perhaps what happened on the Westminster-Second St. opening will help to discourage ceremonies. After they cut the ribbon and made the speeches, that route remained closed for several weeks and left a lot of people rather red-faced.

Even after the Westminster link opened the other day, the public seemed a little wary and traffic did not immediately respond as expected.

Law Aimed at Narcotic User

Bill Would OK Arrest of Suspects

By DON BRACKENBURY
I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Under a law proposed by District Attorney Evelle J. Younger, it no longer would be necesary to wait until a narcotics user committed a crime before he can be apprehended for medical treatment.

Younger announced he has prepared a bill, with the aid of Los Angeles City Attorney Roger Arnebergh, and that it will be introduced in the current session of the State Legislature.

State Assemblyman George Willson of Huntington Park has promised to introduce the measure, with Assemblyman Howard J. Thelin of Glendale as co-sponsor.

* * * *

YOUNGER explained that under existing law, it is imposible for a relative, friend or officer to commit a narcotics user for medical care unless the user has been convicted of a crime, or unless he was found to be mentally ill on grounds other than narcotics use.

The proposed law would permit the apprehension, detention and commitment of a drug user in the same manner as now is done with mentally ill persons, Younger said.

Any person having information that someone is a narcotics addict, or is in imminent danger of becoming an addict, would make such a report, under oath, to the district attorney.

* * * *

THE PERSON believed to need treatment for drug use could be detained in a county facility for up to 72 hours for medical examination.

If two doctors report that the person is an addict, or is in danger of becoming one, he is scheduled for a court hearing. He may have a jury trial, if he so wishes.

If at the trial the person is found to be an addict, or likely to become one, the judge may order the drug user committed to the state's narcotic rehabilitation facility.

* * * *

THE PROPOSED law provides that the person may be released if, at any time during the proceedings, it appears that he is not an addict and not in danger of becoming one.

It further provides for the prosecution of any person who "wrongfully or fasely" accuses another of being a narcotic addict.

"Heretofore, there has been no effective procedure for dealing with the addict who has not yet violated the law," Younger said. "It should not be necessary for an addict to commit a crime before we can commit him for needed care."

A TREE GROWS AT STATE COLLEGE

EVERYTHING'LL BE PEACHY

College Needs 1,600 Trees

Needed: 1,600 peach trees and $8,000 to purchase them.

"When State College gets that, it will have the most beautiful campus in the nation, surpassing the Universities of Minnesota, Hawaii and Florida," tree chairman Robert L. Irvin said.

The Long Beach college has 800 of the flowering trees ready for bareroot planting. They arrived last week and cost $4,000; $5 each.

The college's push to plant the trees over the campus cannot reach fruition until all the trees are planted.

"This is the dormant season for the trees and it would be wonderful to get all of them in by the middle of February," a college spokesman said.

Ed Lovell, landscaping architect, pointed out that this time of the year the trees are amiable to being shipped and will start growing right away, flowering by late May.

Checks should be sent to "Flowering Trees" care of State College, 6101 E. Seventh St., Long Beach.

Strange Animal Has Come Out of Closet

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

If Los Angeles County Museum wanted to title its current project in the manner of horror movies, it could call it, "The Monsters from the Storage Cabinet."

Because some strange fossil creatures—the latest, a massive mammal called Brontotherium—are emerging these days from the long rows of storage cabinets in which the museum keeps its bones.

Since the Art Museum began moving its collection from the old Exposition Park site out to Hancock Park, the County Museum is expanding its fossil display.

* * * *

THE NEWEST assembled specimen, the Brontotherium, looks something like a modern-day rhinoceros, with a double-pronged, bony "horn" on its snout.

About 35 million years ago, the Brontotherium roamed the great plains east of the Rocky Mountains. The fossil bones of the museum's specimen weighed 297 pounds, but Dr. J. R. Macdonald, curator of vertebrate paleontology, said the live animals may have weighed as much as two tons.

Though big and strong, the Brontotherium was weak of mind, Dr. Macdonald said. Its cranial cavity, which contained the brain, is hardly large enough to accommodate a man's fist.

* * * *

THIS INDICATION of limited brains may be a clue as to why the species lasted only about 10 million years — a relatively short time by scientific standards.

Although the Brontotherium didn't have to fight for food, inasmuch as he was a vegetarian, his formidable horn was a powerful weapon.

Dr. Macdonald said several fossil specimens unearthed in the Great Plains show evidence of fractured ribs, apparently suffered in butting battles.

City Clerk, Avalon Aide Will Wed

A friendship that began at meetings of the League of California Cities has led to wedding plans for Margaret Heartwell, Long Beach city clerk, and Eric J. Moore, Avalon city councilman.

Mrs. Heartwell revealed the engagement last week to friends but said no date has been set. She plans to continue as city clerk, a position she has held since 1951. She is one of the most popular and widely known of city officials.

Councilman Moore will complete three years on the Avalon Council next April. He is manager of the Avalon Airlines division of Catalina Channel Air Lines.

Both he and Mrs. Heartwell have been active in the Los Angeles County Division of the League of California Cities. It will be the second marriage for both.

Divided State?

WHEN POLITICIANS see their jobs going down the drain, they are liable to take desperate and unrealistic measures to protect themselves.

Thus, a group of northern state senators, many of whom stand to lose their political jobs in the forthcoming reapportionment of the state Senate, propose that California be split into two separate states.

THE ODDS AGAINST such a split are so great that the proposal cannot be taken seriously.

Even if the Senate should approve the measure by the required two-thirds vote, approval by the Assembly, dominated by the populous South, would be unlikely. Since the southern part of the state stands to benefit rather than suffer from reapportionment, Southern California legislators have no incentive for dividing the state.

Assuming, however, that both houses of the state legislature were to approve, the proposal would then have to be submitted to a public vote. Again, the voters of the south would have no incentive for supporting such a plan. But if they should approve, the issue would then have to get the approval of Congress, which does not easily depart from tradition. Clearly, there are not going to be two Californias.

STATE SENATORS HAVE been considering a variety of other actions by which the court's reapportionment order might be erased or circumvented. For example, the State Senate is asking California's congressional delegation to press for constitutional amendments which would let California continue to apportion its Senate on the basis of geography rather than population.

If the people of the United States want such an amendment, they will eventually get it, but the process of amendment probably would not be fast enough to provide a solution before the July 1 deadline established by the court for California Senate reapportionment.

THERE IS, OF COURSE, a reasonable and just—and probably inevitable—alternative to all this pulling, hauling, and groping. It consists of accepting the court's decree and providing the urban areas of this state the adequate representation which they have been denied for so many years.

Misuse of Funds

A CALIFORNIA ASSEMBLY subcommittee conducted a two-year study of school districts in this state and discovered that many schools are overcrowded—not necessarily with students, but with consultants, coordinators, counselors, and administrators.

The subcommittee's mission was to find out how the state's 1,500 school districts spend the $1 billion they get each year from the state. Chairman Charles B. Garrigus states that the committee was "shocked at the misapplication of funds for administrative and nonclassroom functions in many school districts."

An army of non-teachers, according to the subcommittee, turn out mountains of written materials —"teaching guides" and "lesson plans," for example —much of which is "never used by teachers and, indeed, is held in disdain by them."

Turning to the results of statewide pupil achievement tests, the subcommittee discovered that student performance has nothing to do with the number of coordinators and consultants in the district. It found, rather, that students in districts with small classes and more classroom teachers do better than others.

If your child comes home from school well-coordinated and thoroughly administered but still something of a dumbbell, you might check to see whether he spends more time being counseled than being taught.

THE LEGISLATURE LOOKED AT A PLAN TO SPLIT CALIF. INTO TWO STATES..

UNCLE'S WELCOME MAT WAS UNDER PRESIDENTIAL SCRUTINY

THE GOP NATIONAL COMMITTEE DECIDED ON A NEW CHAIRMAN...

State GOP Strong in Money, Hope and Coy '66 Candidates

By BOB HOUSER
I, P-T Political Editor

CALIFORNIA FINANCIAL contributions to the National Republican Party ranked first in the nation in the 1964 presidential year and the GOP State Central Committee received more than triple the amount it had ever received before.

State GOP treasurer and finance chairman Leland M. Kaiser released the news as prelude to his announcement that the party's plans are already made for electing a Republican governor in 1966, "more United States congressmen and many additional members to the State Legislature."

HOUSER

Solvency in finance as well as in success at the polls—three new GOP Assembly seats and a new GOP U.S. senator—in the face of President Johnson's landslide is responsible for the heady confidence of this state's Republicans.

These tokens of Republican success are explained in different ways by different Republicans. In these differences lies the chief deterrent to a consolidation of winning techniques for the 1966 elections.

For example, Kaiser says the success came from attractive candidates, teamwork and harmony. Birch Society founder Robert Welch said Birchers provided the hard core of strength for conservative candidates in the 1964 primaries.

At the same time, new GOP organizations are springing up and recruiting members—the Republican League and the Republican Alliance, for instance. Their charter people include moderates left high and dry by conservative and right wing takeovers of older volunteer groups such as the California Republican Assembly (CRA) and United Republicans of California (UROC).

HOWEVER, the new groups do not limit their membership, but rather contend that they welcome broad-spectrum participation so long as united effort and harmony is the working premise of all.

There is no mistaking the confidence of prospective GOP candidates, although most of them will be sitting in the "coy box" most of this year waiting for mandates to push them onto the '66 ticket.

Well, they're not exactly waiting. Actor Ronald Reagan, who came close to earning an unofficial rank as titular head of the California party last year via his cochairmanship of Citizens for Goldwater, seems to be a definite possibility for the gubernatorial race. Although he has pushed off—with gratitude—the many fans who urge his candidacy, he has at the same time retained a public relations consultant. He's booked solid for speaking engagements through February and is looking for new kinds of audiences so he won't be talking to the same, already convinced conservatives he's been talking to for several years.

LOOKING FAR over his left shoulder he should be able to see soon, if not now, the stirrings of the moderate groups such as the League and the Alliance who will be looking for someone like Sen. Thomas Kuchel or former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher for the gubernatorial contests.

Even if the GOP gets somewhere near the harmony which all hands agree is necessary for victory in 1966, by getting all its volunteer groups moving generally in the same direction, there remains the not inconsiderable fragmenting device of at least a dozen gubernatorial potentials already warming seats in the coy box.

DAVID LAWRENCE

GOP Future Shaped in Congress

WASHINGTON. — Whether Dean Burch voluntarily resigned or there was a forced change in the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee is of little relevance or significance as far as the fortunes of the Republican party in the future are concerned. Nor is it of any real importance just now who is aspiring to be the Republican presidential nominee in 1968.

LAWRENCE

For the plain truth is that, unless the Republican party becomes a party of constructive opposition and effectively turns public opinion toward its side on major issues, Lyndon B. Johnson may be able to achieve nine consecutive years in the presidency.

The Republicans in recent weeks have put so much emphasis on their internal squabbles that they haven't seen the forest for the trees. Actually, the Republican National Chairman doesn't make Republican policy or mobilize public sentiment on the issues of the day. Everett Dirksen, leader of the Republican party in the Senate, made a realistic statement of the whole situation when he said last Monday that the members of the joint Senate and House Republican leadership in their conversations since the November defeat have discussed numerous paths that might be followed by the party, but that "always certain basic facts have emerged," which are:

"First, that the only elected Republican officials of the federal establishment are the 32 Republican members of the United States Senate and the 134 members of the House of Representatives. Obviously and beyond dispute, they will guide Republican party policy at the national level, in the absence of a Republican President and Vice President, by the record they write in the Congress. It is their responsibility.

"Second, that an additional repository of advice and counsel on party policy exists in former presidents and nominees for President, in our present elected governors, in the members of the Republican National Committee and the state chairmen of our several states, and, of course, in active Republican advocates at all other levels of the party structure. Their wisdom must be channeled into party policy formulation."

• • • •

THIS IS BUT another way of saying that, while advice is acceptable and all viewpoints from governors and former presidential nominees should be heard, the responsibility for making party policy rests with the Republican members of Congress who are dealing every day with national issues. It is the way these legislative questions are handled which can mean victory or defeat in elections.

The Republicans in Congress have elected Gerald Ford as their new leader in the House of Representatives, and from his public statements there are indications that he is well aware of the difference between the making of party policy in Congress and the mechanics of party organization throughout the country which is usually left to the chairman of the Republican National Committee.

But even with the selection of new leaders and a renewed enthusiasm on the part of the Republicans in Congress to do an effective job for their party, the fact remains that the making of party policy cannot be left to the individual predilections of would-be candidates or to some of those young Republicans in different parts of the country who do not yet know the facts of national political life.

Thus, for instance, many of the so-called "moderates" are talking about formulating alternative programs, little realizing that this is one way to get lost in a plethora of details and controversial technicalities. The main function of a minority party is to tell the nation what's wrong with the majority party's policies and to explain how they will be detrimental to the public interest.

The Republican party in Congress will have numerous "task forces" to help it analyze current issues and prepare speeches of opposition, but this alone will not build the Republican party's chances for victory. One of the chief weaknesses on the Republican side is in the field of communication. It has been very ineffective in presenting its point of view to the country, though, to be sure, much of the difficulty has been in the fact that the Republican party in Congress has not been articulate or able to concentrate on major points of opposition to the party in power.

• • • •

THE REPUBLICAN party's job, therefore, lies not in worrying about the ideology of a party chairman, but what the Republicans in Congress are going to do to oppose unsound fiscal policies and waste of public funds as well as ill-conceived controls by the federal government of those services which should primarily be taken care of by the states.

Anti-Smog Program Is in Trouble

Independent, Press-Telegram Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO — This will go down as the year that Sacramento opened the vents to make Southern California a little smoggier.

M'CAULEY

The Sacramento lawmaking tracks have been greased to pass a new smog-control measure — one milder than a controversial one now on the books.

The change will set back the smog-control program at least five years, according to an estimate of Donald A. Jensen, executive officer of the Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board.

Target of the change: a present requirement for 1965 installation of crankcase smog-control devices on American-made cars manufactured in the 1950s. This edict applied in 13 urban counties, including Orange and Los Angeles.

Under proposed legislation which now has rallied impressive backing, three million used cars manufactured from 1950 through 1960 are to be temporarily exempt from the requirement. The device would have to be installed only if the vehicle is sold.

This make-more-smog legislation has beeen endorsed by Sen. Thomas Rees, D-Los Angeles County; Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown; Chairman Tom Carrell of the Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee and Chairman Randolph Collier of the Senate Transportation Committee.

These are the Sacramento leaders who determine the fate of legislation in the transportation field. They are the legislative leaders who must show the way if effective air-pollution laws are to be on the books.

• • • •

HOWEVER, the word has gotten around in Sacramento. Autoists are up in arms over the cost of the new device. They protest the average $14 installation fee and question the efficiency of the device.

And it soon became obvious to any public official that the politically-smart thing is to give the California autoist what he wants—ending the smog-control device requirements for used cars.

It may make it harder to breathe in downtown Los Angeles for the next five years. But it could earn a few extra votes next election from thankful auto owners.

And who cares if it is a little smoggy inside the voting booth. In Sacramento, the important thing is how the election tally turns out.

The hand-writing is on the wall so plainly that even Jensen is telling autoists to forget buying the device. Under present laws, autoists with license numbers ending in "1" would be required to install the device in January.

Biggest flip-flop on the smog fight was pulled by Sen. Rees of Los Angeles County, who previously helped the county battle for tight smog-control laws.

This time, Rees tried to ride both horses.

In one breath, he served notice thusly: "I will fight to the death any action to junk the law passed by the 1960 legislature."

In the next breath, Rees personally proposed an amendment exempting used cars from the smog-device requirement—except when they are sold.

• • • •

SO FAR, no responsible legislator has shown the political intestinal fortitude to demand a hold-the-line policy on smog-control legislation.

Maybe some one will step forth to prevent Sen. Rees, Gov. Brown and others from rolling back the clock on smog-control curbs.

But you can't blame elective officials. A professional politician is in business to win votes, not necessarily to halt air pollution in the face of public opposition. This is the sad, eye-choking political reality.

Says Most Priests Opposed Prop. 14

EDITOR:

It is with great interest that I view Vic Agnone's attempted refutation of Charles Boyer's position noting the scarcity of Catholics supporting Proposition 14 and Cardinal McIntyre's Civil Rights views.

Mr. Agnone's suggestion of collecting the views of local parish priests regarding Proposition 14 has been done by this writer during the past year. And, I am pleased to announce majority opposition by the Long Beach priests. It may be of specific interest to Mr. Agone that a number of Catholic Dioceses in California assiduously opposed the CREA-backed proposition. To adjure parishioners to thwart such persuasive provocation deviates from the normal and steady purpose of Diocesan advice. That God willed "property rights" as preeminent is indeed a nuance in Papal Doctrinal interpretation!

That Mr. Agnone can label Father Du Bay's consequent deprivation as just recompense for supporting "his political convictions," is utterly baffling to me. Hushed and obscured in an Anaheim parish, Father Du Bay is deprived of: visits from personal well-wishers, the right of free articulation, and any other "questionable" outside contacts. So, "justice" is done!

Finally, Mr. Agnone's assertion that opposition to Proposition 14 came mainly from the ubiquitous ranks of the Communist press is completely unfounded. One would be hard put to find a single major religious denomination in California, urging its passage.

Can't Use Park, Wants Tax Rebate

EDITOR:

In this day and age, people are still being turned away. Not from an inn but from the state parks.

On Christmas Eve, we arrived at the Salton Sea State Park. There was plenty of room, only two of the many spaces were occupied. However, we were told we could not camp there because we had our family dog with us.

I am taxed along with non-dog owners so why should they be the only ones allowed to use the parks? Why can't a section of the parks be set aside for people with dogs? If this is impossible, then why don't I get a rebate on my taxes and let those who have the use of the parks pay for them?

Amplifies Comment on Schweitzer

EDITOR:

I would like to amplify, if I may, a statement made in Dr. John Nicholls Booth's article in last Sunday's paper.

He stated that Dr. Schweitzer has spent half his time in Europe, not Africa, leaving the erroneous impression that he was not truly dedicated to his African hospital.

In his sermon last Sunday morning, Dr. Booth explained that the time Dr. Schweitzer spends away from his hospital is spent in single-handedly raising funds to care for the nearly one thousand Black Africans who are in residence at his hospital, either as patients or as relatives of patients, daily. So, Dr. Schweitzer is constantly working for his hospital, whether in Europe or in Africa.

Was It Really Act of Courage?

EDITOR:

Recently, in a letter to the Public Forum, a reader claimed that those two southern congressmen who supported Goldwater, should have been honored for their courage, worthy of being placed in President Kennedy's book "Profile in Courage."

I believe this reader is missing the point.

It did not require courage to go along with the majority in these states. They would have shown courage had they opposed this majority.

Divided State?

WHEN POLITICIANS see their jobs going down the drain, they are liable to take desperate and unrealistic measures to protect themselves.

Thus, a group of northern state senators, many of whom stand to lose their political jobs in the forthcoming reapportionment of the state Senate, propose that California be split into two separate states.

THE ODDS AGAINST such a split are so great that the proposal cannot be taken seriously.

Even if the Senate should approve the measure by the required two-thirds vote, approval by the Assembly, dominated by the populous South, would be unlikely. Since the southern part of the state stands to benefit rather than suffer from reapportionment, Southern California legislators have no incentive for dividing the state.

Assuming, however, that both houses of the state legislature were to approve, the proposal would then have to be submitted to a public vote. Again, the voters of the south would have no incentive for supporting such a plan. But if they should approve, the issue would then have to get the approval of Congress, which does not easily depart from tradition. Clearly, there are not going to be two Californias.

STATE SENATORS HAVE been considering a variety of other actions by which the court's reapportionment order might be erased or circumvented. For example, the State Senate is asking California's congressional delegation to press for constitutional amendments which would let California continue to apportion its Senate on the basis of geography rather than population.

If the people of the United States want such an amendment, they will eventually get it, but the process of amendment probably would not be fast enough to provide a solution before the July 1 deadline established by the court for California Senate reapportionment.

THERE IS, OF COURSE, a reasonable and just—and probably inevitable—alternative to all this pulling, hauling, and groping. It consists of accepting the court's decree and providing the urban areas of this state the adequate representation which they have been denied for so many years.

Misuse of Funds

A CALIFORNIA ASSEMBLY subcommittee conducted a two-year study of school districts in this state and discovered that many schools are overcrowded—not necessarily with students, but with consultants, coordinators, counselors, and administrators.

The subcommittee's mission was to find out how the state's 1,500 school districts spend the $1 billion they get each year from the state. Chairman Charles B. Garrigus states that the committee was "shocked at the misapplication of funds for administrative and nonclassroom functions in many school districts."

An army of non-teachers, according to the subcommittee, turn out mountains of written materials —"teaching guides" and "lesson plans," for example —much of which is "never used by teachers and, indeed, is held in disdain by them."

Turning to the results of statewide pupil achievement tests, the subcommittee discovered that student performance has nothing to do with the number of coordinators and consultants in the district. It found, rather, that students in districts with small classes and more classroom teachers do better than others.

If your child comes home from school well-coordinated and thoroughly administered but still something of a dumbbell, you might check to see whether he spends more time being counseled than being taught.

GOP Future Shaped in Congress

WASHINGTON. — Whether Dean Burch voluntarily resigned or there was a forced change in the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee is of little relevance or significance as far as the fortunes of the Republican party in the future are concerned. Nor is it of any real importance just now who is aspiring to be the Republican presidential nominee in 1968.

LAWRENCE

For the plain truth is that, unless the Republican party becomes a party of constructive opposition and effectively turns public opinion toward its side on major issues, Lyndon B. Johnson may be able to achieve nine consecutive years in the presidency.

The Republicans in recent weeks have put so much emphasis on their internal squabbles that they haven't seen the forest for the trees. Actually, the Republican National Chairman doesn't make Republican policy or mobilize public sentiment on the issues of the day. Everett Dirksen, leader of the Republican party in the Senate, made a realistic statement of the whole situation when he said last Monday that the members of the joint Senate and House Republican leadership in their conversations since the November defeat have discussed numerous paths that might be followed by the party, but that "always certain basic facts have emerged," which are:

"First, that the only elected Republican officials of the federal establishment are the 32 Republican members of the United States Senate and the 134 members of the House of Representatives. Obviously and beyond dispute, they will guide Republican party policy at the national level, in the absence of a Republican President and Vice President, by the record they write in the Congress. It is their responsibility.

"Second, that an additional repository of advice and counsel on party policy exists in former presidents and nominees for President, in our present elected governors, in the members of the Republican National Committee and the state chairmen of our several states, and, of course, in active Republican advocates at all other levels of the party structure. Their wisdom must be channeled into party policy formulation."

* * * *

THIS IS BUT another way of saying that, while advice is acceptable and all viewpoints from governors and former presidential nominees should be heard, the responsibility for making party policy rests with the Republican members of Congress who are dealing every day with national issues. It is the way these legislative questions are handled which can mean victory or defeat in elections.

The Republicans in Congress have elected Gerald Ford as their new leader in the House of Representatives, and from his public statements there are indications that he is well aware of the difference between the making of party policy in Congress and the mechanics of party organization throughout the country which is usually left to the chairman of the Republican National Committee.

But even with the selection of new leaders and a renewed enthusiasm on the part of the Republicans in Congress to do an effective job for their party, the fact remains that the making of party policy cannot be left to the individual predilections of would-be candidates or to some of those young Republicans in different parts of the country who do not yet know the facts of national political life.

Thus, for instance, many of the so-called "moderates" are talking about formulating alternative programs, little realizing that this is one way to get lost in a plethora of details and controversial technicalities. The main function of a minority party is to tell the nation what's wrong with the majority party's policies and to explain how they will be detrimental to the public interest.

The Republican party in Congress will have numerous "task forces" to help it analyze current issues and prepare speeches of opposition, but this alone will not build the Republican party's chances for victory. One of the chief weaknesses on the Republican side is in the field of communication. It has been very ineffective in presenting its point of view to the country, though, to be sure, much of the difficulty has been in the fact that the Republican party in Congress has not been articulate or able to concentrate on major points of opposition to the party in power.

* * * *

THE REPUBLICAN party's job, therefore, lies not in worrying about the ideology of a party chairman, but what the Republicans in Congress are going to do to oppose unsound fiscal policies and waste of public funds as well as ill-conceived controls by the federal government of those services which should primarily be taken care of by the states.

Anti-Smog Program Is in Trouble

Independent, Press-Telegram Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO — This will go down as the year that Sacramento opened the vents to make Southern California a little smoggier.

M'CAULEY

The Sacramento lawmaking tracks have been greased to pass a new smog-control measure — one milder than a controversial one now on the books.

The change will set back the smog-control program at least five years, according to an estimate of Donald A. Jensen, executive officer of the Motor Vehicle Poilution Control Board.

Target of the change: a present requirement for 1965 installation of crankcase smog-control devices on American-made cars manufactured in the 1950s. This edict applied in 13 urban counties, including Orange and Los Angeles.

Under proposed legislation which now has rallied impressive backing, three million used cars manufactured from 1950 through 1960 are to be temporarily exempt from the requirement. The device would have to be installed only if the vehicle is sold.

This make-more-smog legislation has beeen endorsed by Sen. Thomas Rees, D-Los Angeles County; Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown; Chairman Tom Carrell of the Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee and Chairman Randolph Collier of the Senate Transportation Committee.

These are the Sacramento leaders who determine the fate of legislation in the transportation field. They are the legislative leaders who must show the way if effective air-pollution laws are to be on the books.

* * * *

HOWEVER, the word has gotten around in Sacramento.

Autoists are up in arms over the cost of the new device. They protest the average $14 installation fee and question the efficiency of the device.

And it soon became obvious to any public official that the politically-smart thing is to give the California autoist what he wants—ending the smog-control device requirements for used cars.

It may make it harder to breathe in downtown Los Angeles for the next five years. But it could earn a few extra votes next election from thankful auto owners.

And who cares if it is a little smoggy inside the voting booth. In Sacramento, the important thing is how the election tally turns out.

The hand-writing is on the wall so plainly that even Jensen is telling autoists to forget buying the device. Under present laws, autoists with license numbers ending in "1" would be required to install the device in January.

Biggest flip-flop on the smog fight was pulled by Sen. Rees of Los Angeles County, who previously helped the county battle for tight smog-control laws.

This time, Rees tried to ride both horses.

In one breath, he served notice thusly: "I will fight to the death any action to junk the law passed by the 1960 legislature."

In the next breath, Rees personally proposed an amendment exempting used cars from the smog-device requirement—except when they are sold.

* * * *

SO FAR, no responsible legislator has shown the political intestinal fortitude to demand a hold-the-line policy on smog-control legislation.

Maybe some one will step forth to prevent Sen. Rees, Gov. Brown and others from rolling back the clock on smog-control curbs.

But you can't blame elective officials. A professional politician is in business to win votes, not necessarily to halt air pollution in the face of public opposition. This is the sad, eye-choking political reality.

State GOP Strong in Money, Hope and Coy '66 Candidates

I, P-T Political Editor

CALIFORNIA FINANCIAL contributions to the National Republican Party ranked first in the nation in the 1964 presidential year and the GOP State Central Committee received more than triple the amount it had ever received before.

State GOP treasurer and finance chairman Leland M. Kaiser released the news as prelude to his announcement that the party's plans are already made for electing a Republican governor in 1966, "more United States congressmen and many additional members to the State Legislature."

HOUSER

Solvency in finance as well as in success at the polls—three new GOP Assembly seats and a new GOP U.S. senator—in the face of President Johnson's landslide is responsible for the heady confidence of this state's Republicans.

These tokens of Republican success are explained in different ways by different Republicans. In these differences lies the chief deterrent to a consolidation of winning techniques for the 1966 elections.

For example, Kaiser says the success came from attractive candidates, teamwork and harmony. Birch Society founder Robert Welch said Birchers provided the hard core of strength for conservative candidates in the 1964 primaries.

At the same time, new GOP organizations are springing up and recruiting members—the Republican League and the Republican Alliance, for instance. Their charter people include moderates left high and dry by conservative and right wing takeovers of older volunteer groups such as the California Republican Assembly (CRA) and United Republicans of California (UROC).

HOWEVER, the new groups do not limit their membership, but rather contend that they welcome broad-spectrum participation so long as united effort and harmony is the working premise of all.

There is no mistaking the confidence of prospective GOP candidates, although most of them will be sitting in the "coy box" most of this year waiting for mandates to push them onto the '66 ticket.

Well, they're not exactly waiting. Actor Ronald Reagan, who came close to earning an unofficial rank as titular head of the California party last year via his cochairmanship of Citizens for Goldwater, seems to be a definite possibility for the gubernatorial race. Although he has pushed off—with gratitude—the many fans who urge his candidacy, he has at the same time retained a public relations consultant. He's booked solid for speaking engagements through February and is looking for new kinds of audiences so he won't be talking to the same, already convinced conservatives he's been talking to for several years.

LOOKING FAR over his left shoulder he should be able to see soon, if not now, the stirrings of the moderate groups such as the League and the Alliance who will be looking for someone like Sen. Thomas Kuchel or former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher for the gubernatorial contests.

Even if the GOP gets somewhere near the harmony which all hands agree is necessary for victory in 1966, by getting all its volunteer groups moving generally in the same direction, there remains the not inconsiderable fragmenting device of at least a dozen gubernatorial potentials already warming seats in the coy box.

Says Most Priests Opposed Prop. 14

EDITOR:

It is with great interest that I view Vic Agnone's attempted refutation of Charles Boyer's position noting the scarcity of Cathulics supporting Proposition 14 and Cardinal McIntyre's Civil Rights views.

Mr. Agnone's suggestion of collecting the views of local parish priests regarding Proposition 14 has been done by this writer during the past year. And, I am pleased to announce majority opposition by the Long Beach priests. It may be of specific interest to Mr. Agone that a number of Catholic Dioceses in California assiduously opposed the CREA-backed proposition. To adjure parishioners to thwart such persuasive provocation deviates from the normal and steady purpose of Diocesan advice. That God willed "property rights" as preeminent is indeed a nuance in Papal Doctrinal interpretation!

That Mr. Agnone can label Father Du Bay's consequent deprivation as just recompense for supporting "his political convictions," is utterly baffling to me. Hushed and obscured in an Anaheim parish, Father Du Bay is deprived of: visits from personal well-wishers, the right of free articulation, and any other "questionable" outside contacts. So, "justice" is done!

Finally, Mr. Agnone's assertion that opposition to Proposition 14 came mainly from the ubiquitous ranks of the Communist press is completely unfounded. One would be hard put to find a single major religious denomination in California, urging its passage.

Can't Use Park, Wants Tax Rebate

EDITOR:

In this day and age, people are still being turned away. Not from an inn but from the state parks.

On Christmas Eve, we arrived at the Salton Sea State Park. There was plenty of room, only two of the many spaces were occupied. However, we were told we could not camp there because we had our family dog with us.

I am taxed along with non-dog owners so why should they be the only ones allowed to use the parks? Why can't a section of the parks be set aside for people with dogs? If this is impossible, then why don't I get a rebate on my taxes and let those who have the use of the parks pay for them?

Amplifies Comment on Schweitzer

EDITOR:

I would like to amplify, if I may, a statement made in Dr. John Nicholls Booth's article in last Sunday's paper.

He stated that Dr. Schweitzer has spent half his time in Europe, not Africa, leaving the erroneous impression that he was not truly dedicated to his African hospital.

In his sermon last Sunday morning, Dr. Booth explained that the time Dr. Schweitzer spends away from his hospital is spent in single-handedly raising funds to care for the nearly one thousand Black Africans who are in residence at his hospital, either as patients or as relatives of patients, daily. So, Dr. Schweitzer is constantly working for his hospital, whether in Europe or in Africa.

Humphrey Had Trouble Getting Office

WASHINGTON — Harassed Hubert Humphrey, no longer a Senator and not yet Vice President, has received a polite pushing around from his former colleagues in the Senate.

They have cheerfully evicted him from his spacious offices and consigned him to a remote corner on the top floor of the new Senate Office Building, thus literally pulling the rug out from under him.

PEARSON

Hubert is good-natured about it, but has clung stubbornly to the cubbyhole in the Capitol Building that he used as Democratic Whip. But Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, the new Whip, has already staked his claim to this space.

In a voice sweet as Louisiana molasses, Long keeps inquiring when Humphrey intends to move out.

The luxurious suite that Lyndon Johnson occupied when he was Vice President long since has been taken over by Arizona's elder statesman, Carl Hayden, who has accumulated so much seniority that he probably could set up office in the Senate Chamber if he wished.

The architects who planned the recent face-lifting of the Capitol Building provided for an elegant vice presidential office suitable for entertaining distinguished guests.

But this was grabbed up by Senators John McClellan of Arkansas, Dick Russell of Georgia, John Pastore of Rhode Island, and Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, who carved it into plush hideaways for themselves.

Some senators, still not satisfied, are also threatening to take away most of Humphrey's staff.

Note—The senators don't know it but Hubert has finally fixed up a new office in the old State, War & Navy Building, just across from the White House, where he can hustle over to LBJ's office within 30 seconds when the President buzzes him.

ATTORNEY General Nicholas Katzenbach is preparing a revolutionary order which would forbid subordinates from giving out more than the barest details about an arrest and would make the attorney general a virtual czar over federal crime news.

A confidential copy of the order already has been drafted but has not been adopted. To promote "the fair administration of justice," the order declares:

"From the time of a defendant's arrest through final verdict, public statements and releases by representatives of the Department of Justice may include only the following information: a copy or summary of the charge, if a public record, such as the complaint, indictment or information; the defendants name, age, residence, employment and martial status; the place and time of arrest; the identity of the agency or agencies which conducted the investigation and made the arrest."

Only the Attorney General could go beyond these terse details in releasing crime news. The proposed order declares:

"If the Attorney General believes that, as to a particular criminal case, facts and comment beyond the guidelines of this memorandum should be made known to the public in the interest of fair administration of justice and the law enforcement process, a statement may be issued in such scope and manner as he shall direct."

• • • •

ONE REASON Katzenbach wants a crackdown on crime news, say insiders, is the fiasco that followed Lee Oswald's arrest for the assassination of President Kennedy. Oswald was put on display for the benefit of reporters and cameramen. In the confusion, Jack Ruby slipped in and shot Oswald under the noses of the police.

The new proposal specifically directs: "Officers holding a defendant in federal custody shall not take any action for the purpose of assisting those who seek to interview, televise or photograph the defendant without his consent; nor shall Department of Justice personnel make available photographs of any defendant."

Pre-War Views Show British Had U.S. Sized Up Correctly

WASHINGTON—It is always interesting—even long after the event—to read what other people think about you. The British foreign office recently released some documents pertaining to the world situation just before World War II. Their diplomats quite obviously didn't think too much of Americans as can be seen from some of the quotes of what British ambassadors had to say about the Americans.

RIDDER

For instance, Sir Ronald Lindsay wrote a letter to the British foreign secretary, Sir John Simon, in March, 1932, in which he said, "I know that the Americans are dreadful people to deal with. They cannot make firm promises, but they jolly you along with fair prospects and when you are committed they let you down."

"Taking the short view," Sir Ronald continued, "it is hard to remember a bargain with them that has been really satisfactory to us in itself. But on the long view there has never been a case when we were not right to have made the bargain. And never since 1912 have we ever come down on the non-American side of any fence. I do not think we shall this time."

These thoughts were expressed in regard to what the United States might do about Japan which was then starting the aggressiveness in the Far East which ultimately led to its participation in World War II. The British were much concerned about Japan's militarism and were likewise concerned about what steps, if any, the United States might take to hold back the Japanese. Sir Robert Vansittart, then permanent under secretary of the foreign office, wrote in February, 1932, that Britain alone was "incapable of checking Japan." He added that Great Britain would be forced out of the Far East unless "the United States are eventually prepared to use force."

"It is universally assumed here (in London) that the United States will never use force," he wrote. "I do not agree that this is necessarily so. The same was said of the United States in the Great War (World War I). Eventually she was kicked in by the Germans. The Japanese may end by kicking in the United States, too, if they go on long enough kicking as they are now."

Sir John Simon, the foreign secretary, added his thoughts to the matter in a memorandum in which he made the doleful forecast, "I'm afraid America is too proud to do anything."

• • • • •

DESPITE THEIR misgivings about the Americans, events showed that on the whole the British diplomats had things pretty well sized up. The "dreadful" people did horse around for a long time but they were eventually kicked into the far eastern fray. The Japanese managed to do the kicking and to end the United States aloofness from the struggle by attacking Pearl Harbor some nine years after the above letters were written.

The Americans have, despite their reputation for shooting quickly, moved very cautiously in foreign fields. Our allies have in the past almost invariably complained that we haven't moved fast enough rather than that we have moved too fast. In both world wars, Britain and France kept wondering when the United States was going to move and were sharp in their criticism of what they considered our dilatoriness.

Yet Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay was right when he predicted that ultimately the U.S. would end up on the side of Great Britain. This was a fact not very well perceived by Adolf Hitler who figured that the United States would never come to the rescue of Britain or France and that she would sit the war out because of America's innate isolationism and cowardice.

Crafty Rules Chief 'Played Possum'—Has Ace Up Sleeve

I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—A chilling thought—which originates from a loophole in rules of the House of Representatives—has just struck congressional liberals who thought they reduced the power of the House Rules Committee to near-zero.

The committee and its crafty, conservative chairman, Rep. Howard Smith, D-Va., had its powers to obstruct legislation trimmed by rules changes passed at the beginning of Congress. These give the majority leadership power to call up for vote any bill which the rules committee fails to send to the House within 21 days.

In their haste to reduce Smith's capacity to block legislation, House liberals overlooked an obscure rule which gives him and the committee creative powers. Their memories were short, indeed. Only last year, Smith used the rule to report out the Tuck Amendment, which in effect took away the federal judiciary's powers to review reapportionment cases. The rule says that a majority on the Rules Committee can send to the floor legislation which a standing committee has failed to act upon.

What this means is that if Smith can round up seven other Rules Committee votes, he can send to the floor such legislation as the Backer Prayer Amendment, the World War I veterans bonus bonanza, another version of the Tuck Amendment, and similar legislation that horrifies many members of Congress.

"I thought Judge Smith gave up rather easily in the rules fight on opening day," said a rueful liberal congressman. "He was just playing possum. I'll bet he's got something up his sleeve to make us pay for what we did to him."

The final irony lies in the following parliamentary situation. Since the House can amend its rules only on the opening day of each session, it will be two years before the eight-man rule can be changed. The only alternative for getting the job done right now, before Smith's booby trap can be sprung, would be a special resolution. But since such a resolution concerns rules, it would be referred to Smith's own Rules Committee for approval or disapproval.

"Judge" Smith is still very much alive.

• • • •

SOME CAPITOL HILL old-timers tsk-tsked last week when California freshman Senator George Murphy announced his committee preferences before the Republican leadership announced its appointments. It was a senatorial faux pas, they said.

But the Murphy camp had no apologies.

"A lot of people wanted to know the Senator's preferences," explained a Murphy aide. "We figured they had a right to know."

Murphy, who asked for the Armed Services, Aeronautical & Space Sciences or Commerce Committees, was assigned to the Labor-Public Welfare and Public Works Committees. He hasn't shown any interest in either.

Humphrey Had Trouble Getting Office

WASHINGTON — Harassed Hubert Humphrey, no longer a Senator and not yet Vice President, has received a polite pushing around from his former colleagues in the Senate.

They have cheerfully evicted him from his spacious offices and consigned him to a remote corner on the top floor of the new Senate Office Building, thus literally pulling the rug out from under him.

PEARSON

Hubert is good-natured about it, but has clung stubbornly to the cubbyhole in the Capitol Building that he used as Democratic Whip. But Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, the new Whip, has already staked his claim to this space.

In a voice sweet as Louisiana molasses, Long keeps inquiring when Humphrey intends to move out.

The luxurious suite that Lyndon Johnson occupied when he was Vice President long since has been taken over by Arizona's elder statesman, Carl Hayden, who has accumulated so much seniority that he probably could set up office in the Senate Chamber if he wished.

The architects who planned the recent face-lifting of the Capitol Building provided for an elegant vice presidential office suitable for entertaining distinguished guests.

But this was grabbed up by Senators John McClellan of Arkansas, Dick Russell of Georgia, John Pastore of Rhode Island, and Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, who carved it into plush hideaways for themselves.

Some senators, still not satisfied, are also threatening to take away most of Humphrey's staff.

Note—The senators don't know it but Hubert has finally fixed up a new office in the old State, War & Navy Building, just across from the White House, where he can hustle over to LBJ's office within 30 seconds when the President buzzes him.

ATTORNEY General Nicholas Katzenbach is preparing a revolutionary order which would forbid subordinates from giving out more than the barest details about an arrest and would make the attorney general a virtual czar over federal crime news.

A confidential copy of the order already has been drafted but has not been adopted. To promote "the fair administration of justice," the order declares:

"From the time of a defendant's arrest through final verdict, public statements and releases by representatives of the Department of Justice may include only the following information: a copy or summary of the charge, if a public record, such as the complaint, indictment or information; the defendants name, age, residence, employment and martial status; the place and time of arrest; the identity of the agency or agencies which conducted the investigation and made the arrest."

Only the Attorney General could go beyond these terse details in releasing crime news. The proposed order declares:

"If the Attorney General believes that, as to a particular criminal case, facts and comment beyond the guidelines of this memorandum should be made known to the public in the interest of fair administration of justice and the law enforcement process, a statement may be issued in such scope and manner as he shall direct."

* * * *

ONE REASON Katzenbach wants a crackdown on crime news, say insiders, is the fiasco that followed Lee Oswald's arrest for the assassination of President Kennedy. Oswald was put on display for the benefit of reporters and cameramen. In the confusion, Jack Ruby slipped in and shot Oswald under the noses of the police.

The new proposal specifically directs: "Officers holding a defendant in federal custody shall not take any action for the purpose of assisting those who seek to interview, televise or photograph the defendant without his consent; nor shall Department of Justice personnel make available photographs of any defendant."

Pre-War Views Show British Had U.S. Sized Up Correctly

WASHINGTON—It is always interesting—even long after the event—to read what other people think about you. The British foreign office recently released some documents pertaining to the world situation just before World War II. Their diplomats quite obviously didn't think too much of Americans as can be seen from some of the quotes of what British ambassadors had to say about the Americans.

RIDDER

For instance, Sir Ronald Lindsay wrote a letter to the British foreign secretary, Sir John Simon, in March, 1932, in which he said, "I know that the Americans are dreadful people to deal with. They cannot make firm promises, but they jolly you along with fair prospects and when you are committed they let you down."

"Taking the short view," Sir Ronald continued, "it is hard to remember a bargain with them that has been really satisfactory to us in itself. But on the long view there has never been a case when we were not right to have made the bargain. And never since 1912 have we ever come down on the non-American side of any fence. I do not think we shall this time."

These thoughts were expressed in regard to what the United States might do about Japan which was then starting the aggressiveness in the Far East which ultimately led to its participation in World War II. The British were much concerned about Japan's militarism and were likewise concerned about what steps, if any, the United States might take to hold back the Japanese. Sir Robert Vansittart, then permanent under secretary of the foreign office, wrote in February, 1932, that Britain alone was "incapable of checking Japan." He added that Great Britain would be forced out of the Far East unless "the United States are eventually prepared to use force."

"It is universally assumed here (in London) that the United States will never use force," he wrote. "I do not agree that this is necessarily so. The same was said of the United States in the Great War (World War I). Eventually she was kicked in by the Germans. The Japanese may end by kicking in the United States, too, if they go on long enough kicking as they are now."

Sir John Simon, the foreign secretary, added his thoughts to the matter in a memorandum in which he made the doleful forecast, "I'm afraid America is too proud to do anything."

* * * *

DESPITE THEIR misgivings about the Americans, events showed that on the whole the British diplomats had things pretty well sized up. The "dreadful" people did horse around for a long time but they were eventually kicked into the far eastern fray. The Japanese managed to do the kicking and to end the United States aloofness from the struggle by attacking Pearl Harbor some nine years after the above letters were written.

The Americans have, despite their reputation for shooting quickly, moved very cautiously in foreign fields. Our allies have in the past almost invariably complained that we haven't moved fast enough rather than that we have moved too fast. In both world wars, Britain and France kept wondering when the United States was going to move and were sharp in their criticism of what they considered our dilatoriness.

Yet Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay was right when he predicted that ultimately the U.S. would end up on the side of Great Britain. This was a fact not very well perceived by Adolf Hitler who figured that the United States would never come to the rescue of Britain or France and that she would sit the war out because of America's innate isolationism and cowardice.

Crafty Rules Chief 'Played Possum'—Has Ace Up Sleeve

I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—A chilling thought—which originates from a loophole in rules of the House of Representatives—has just struck congressional liberals who thought they reduced the power of the House Rules Committee to near-zero.

The committee and its crafty, conservative chairman, Rep. Howard Smith, D-Va., had its powers to obstruct legislation trimmed by rules changes passed at the beginning of Congress. These give the majority leadership power to call up for vote any bill which the rules committee fails to send to the House within 21 days.

In their haste to reduce Smith's capacity to block legislation, House liberals overlooked an obscure rule which gives him and the committee creative powers. Their memories were short, indeed. Only last year, Smith used the rule to report out the Tuck Amendment, which in effect took away the federal judiciary's powers to review reapportionment cases. The rule says that a majority on the Rules Committee can send to the floor legislation which a standing committee has failed to act upon.

What this means is that if Smith can round up seven other Rules Committee votes, he can send to the floor such legislation as the Backer Prayer Amendment, the World War I veterans bonus bonanza, another version of the Tuck Amendment, and similar legislation that horrifies many members of Congress.

"I thought Judge Smith gave up rather easily in the rules fight on opening day," said a rueful liberal congressman. "He was just playing possum. I'll bet he's got something up his sleeve to make us pay for what we did to him."

The final irony lies in the following parliamentary situation. Since the House can amend its rules only on the opening day of each session, it will be two years before the eight-man rule can be changed. The only alternative for getting the job done right now, before Smith's booby trap can be sprung, would be a special resolution. But since such a resolution concerns rules, it would be referred to Smith's own Rules Committee for approval or disapproval.

"Judge" Smith is still very much alive.

* * * *

SOME CAPITOL HILL old-timers tsk-tsked last week when California freshman Senator George Murphy announced his committee preferences before the Republican leadership announced its appointments. It was a senatorial faux pas, they said.

But the Murphy camp had no apologies.

"A lot of people wanted to know the Senator's preferences," explained a Murphy aide. "We figured they had a right to know."

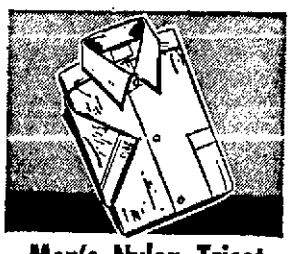

Murphy, who asked for the Armed Services, Aeronautical & Space Sciences or Commerce Committees, was assigned to the Labor-Public Welfare and Public Works Committees. He hasn't shown any interest in either.

FOR WHATEVER it might mean theologically, the U.S. Bureau of Mines reports that stocks of sulphur are being reduced and a price increase is in the offing for brimstone.

AVERAGE NOVEMBER HEATING BILL $1 ABOVE LAST YEAR

If Gas Bill Is Up, Blame Weather

By GEORGE WEEKS

If your home gas bill is up 20% over a year ago, the chances are there is nothing wrong with your meter.

That was the average increase for the 117,500 domestic consumers kept warm by the Municipal Gas Department, according to the latest figures compiled by officials. The main reason was the weather.

The figures represent bills collected in November. They cover a two-month period reaching back into October and, in some cases, September.

• • • •

THE DECEMBER billings are apt to show an even greater increase because of the year-end chill.

In the November figures the average monthly cost of household gas was $6.04, compared with $5.01 a year earlier. Average temperature was 58.3 degrees, against 62.6 degrees in the same month of '63.

Rates for household gas have remained unchanged in that period.

Only once in that last five Novembers have the customers paid more, on the average, for their home fuel. That was in 1961, when the figure was $6.42.

However, November of '63 was the warmest month in the five-year period and collections were the lowest. The average monthly bill for the five years was $5.76.

In the November-to-November comparisons, domestic consumption rose from a total of 438,149,000 cubic feet to 611,960,000 cubic feet. Gross revenue from home consumers gained from $576,273 to $709,771.

• • • •

GAS DEPARTMENT officials pointed out that the correlation between average temperatures and the household's gas bill is not always exact. If the cool snap comes on a weekend when the family is home most of the time, the consumption goes up more than proportionately.

Economic conditions also are a factor. People always tend to turn up the gas and keep warmer when times are good, General Manager L. L. Bendinger of the Gas Department noted.

Total Gas Department revenues from all sources for November, '64, were $1,266,312, against $1,167,212 a year earlier.

Besides the home consumers, the income comes from businesses and industries which get a lower rate but also are subject to interruption of service when demand from domestic users is heavy.

WAY OF SAYING 'THANK YOU'

Paying Taxes a Pleasure for Soon-to-Be Citizen

By BILL DUNCAN

The day after Aryeh Amiga, 55, received his 1040 form from the Internal Revenue Service he completed it and mailed off his tax payment.

It was Amiga's way of saying "thank you" to Uncle Sam.

Amiga, you see, isn't quite yet a citizen. He will be shortly and "I'm counting the hours."

Amiga operates a small jewelry shop at 123 E. Ocean Blvd., a business he opened June 13, 1964—the same day he arrived in Long Beach.

He has been in the United States since 1939 when he immigrated from his native Israel. It was the fulfillment of a dream—a dream Amiga had since he was a schoolboy and read about Abraham Lincoln and the U.S. Constitution.

One thing confuses Amiga about his adopted country.

"Why do citizens complain so much about their country? It is the only place in the world where there is real freedom," he says with arm-waving gestures.

Amiga carries battle scars on his face, body and legs—battle scars in his fight to bring freedom to Israel after the British mandate terminated in 1948.

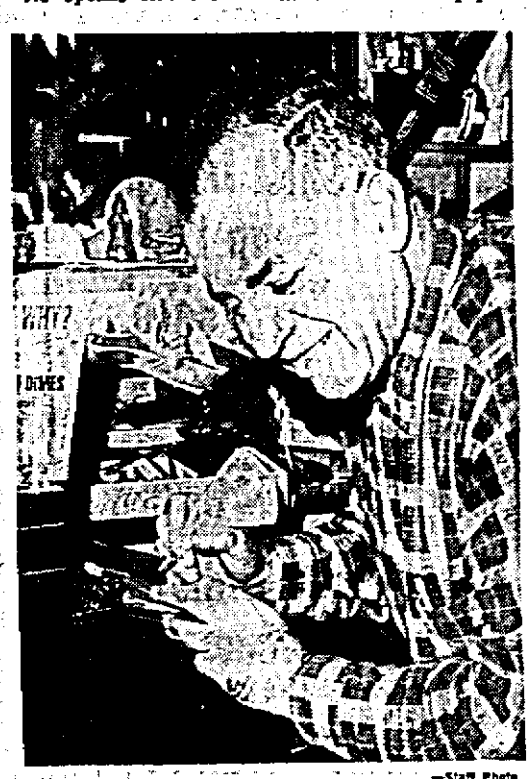

"ISRAEL doesn't have freedom like the United States," he says. "Show me a constitution anywhere in the world that has held true like the United States Constitution. It is as good today as the time it was written. To me it is sacred, like the Ten Commandments."

A journalist in his homeland, Amiga holds degrees from the University of Madrid, University of Paris, and the University of Tel Aviv. He published a news-magazine called Alarm in German, French, Italian and Spanish, as well as Hebrew. The multi-language publications were to aid newly arriving refugees pouring into Israel from all parts of the world.

He speaks fluent Armenian, Turkish, Hebrew, Arabic, French, Spanish, Ashuri (a Hebrew dialect), German, Italian and English. He also has a command of Polish, Czechoslovakian and Lithuanian.

He was elected and served as a deputy in David Ben-Gurion's government.

But all his votes in the emerging Israeli government "won't measure against my first vote as a citizen in the United States," he says, waving his naturalization papers.

Rights Crusader to Tell of Work

A young man who foresook a comfortable teaching job in the North to lead a beleaguered if all too harrowing life as a civil rights leader in the South, will make a public appearance in Long Beach Jan. 23 on behalf of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

Robert Parris Moses, who took a Master's Degree in philosophy at Harvard and later taught mathematics at New York's exclusive Horace Mann School, will speak at the First Congregational Church at Third Street and Cedar Avenue at 8 p.m.

• • • •

THE NEGRO civil rights worker, who is being sponsored by Long Beach Friends of SNCC, headed by social worker Saul Stolzberg, went to Mississippi in 1961 to set up a pilot voter registration project in McComb.

Later, he headed the Summer Project, a drive which recruited 400 college students from all over the United States to help Negroes register in Mississippi.

Hard-core segregationists have marked Moses for extinction, says Stolzberg, but the SNCC official has elected to stay in Mississippi notwithstanding.

• • • •

HE HAS already been arrested, beaten and shot at, adds Stolzberg.

In his Long Beach appearance, the young Negro leader will discuss the Negro registration and education drive in the South. His purpose will be to raise funds for SNCC's badly-depleted treasury.

"They need money desperately to go on with their work," says Stolzberg, at whose invitation Moses has consented to appear.

Pernell Roberts, a star of the TV show "Bonanza," will also speak on the program.

Fair Housing Foundation Opens L.B. Office Monday

The Fair Housing Foundation of Long Beach, a newly incorporated nonprofit organization formed to promote voluntary fair housing practices, will officially open its headquarters Monday at 4108 E. 7th Street. Office hours will be 10-2 p.m. Monday through Friday and by appointment.

According to foundation chairman Myron Blumberg, Long Beach attorney, the new organization is an outgrowth of the Proposition 14 campaign last year.

"There has never been any question about the existence of a serious housing problem for minority groups in California," Blumberg points out. "The Prop. 14 debate was over the best method of solving it—whether by government regulation or voluntary action."

NOW THAT THE decision of the voters has been made, both supporters and opponents of Prop. 14 have joined forces in many California communities to map out a voluntary program.

"We welcome the California Real Estate Association's recent strong stand in favor of voluntary action and the new non-discriminatory code it recommended to local realty groups," Blumberg says. "And we hope that the adoption of this code will soon be publicly announced by the Long Beach Board of Realtors."

Operated by a volunteer staff and supported by tax-deductible contributions from citizens and groups in the community, the Fair Housing Foundation will cooperate closely with local real estate agencies. One of its major functions will be to act as a clearing house for landlords, tenants, buyers, sellers and brokers interested in an "equal opportunity" housing program.

THE FOUNDATION will also publish listings and newsletters, maintain a speakers' bureau and operate fact-finding and counseling services.

Other officers of the Fair Housing Foundation of Long Beach are Mrs. Arthur Zahler, vice chairman; Mrs. Nand Hart-Nibbrig, secretary; and Mrs. Donald Drury, treasurer. The board of directors also includes Mrs. Myron Blumberg, Dr. R. H. Buckland, Rev. William Cole, Rev. Donald Cooke, Donald Drury, Rev. John Gattis, Clive Graham, Horace Rains, M.D., Mrs. C. Waldron Simmons, Mrs. Herbert Sommer and Arthur Zahler.

Prominent citizens throughout the greater Long Beach area—respresenting civic organizations, business and industry, churches, schools, colleges and other agencies—are being asked to serve on the advisory board of the Fair Housing Foundation.

El Dorado Park Clubhouse Soon to Be Reopened

The newly-enlarged clubhouse in El Dorado Park will be opened for the first time Jan. 22 for a dance by the Millikan High School Youth Club, Recreation Department officials have announced.

Completed two weeks ago at a construction cost of $148,384, the addition will be formally dedicated with an evening ceremony Feb. 3.

Although intended mainly as a Millikan youth center, it will be available for other community needs.

AVERAGE NOVEMBER HEATING BILL $1 ABOVE LAST YEAR

If Gas Bill Is Up, Blame Weather

By GEORGE WEEKS

If your home gas bill is up 20% over a year ago, the chances are there is nothing wrong with your meter.

That was the average increase for the 117,500 domestic consumers kept warm by the Municipal Gas Department, according to the latest figures compiled by officials. The main reason was the weather.

The figures represent bills collected in November. They cover a two-month period reaching back into October and, in some cases, September.

* * * *

THE DECEMBER billings are apt to show an even greater increase because of the year-end chill.

In the November figures the average monthly cost of household gas was $6.04, compared with $5.01 a year earlier. Average temperature was 58.3 degrees, against 62.6 degrees in the same month of '63.

Rates for household gas have remained unchanged in that period.

Only once in that last five Novembers have the customers paid more, on the average, for their home fuel. That was in 1961, when the figure was $6.42.

However, November of '63 was the warmest month in the five-year period and collections were the lowest. The average monthly bill for the five years was $5.76.

In the November-to-November comparisons, domestic consumption rose from a total of 438,149,000 cubic feet to 611,960,000 cubic feet. Gross revenue from home consumers gained from $576,273 to $709,771.

* * * *

GAS DEPARTMENT officials pointed out that the correlation between average temperatures and the household's gas bill is not always exact. If the cool snap comes on a weekend when the family is home most of the time, the consumption goes up more than proportionately.

Economic conditions also are a factor. People always tend to turn up the gas and keep warmer when times are good, General Manager L. L. Bendinger of the Gas Department noted.

Total Gas Department revenues from all sources for November, '64, were $1,266,312, against $1,167,212 a year earlier.

Besides the home consumers, the income comes from businesses and industries which get a lower rate but also are subject to interruption of service when demand from domestic users is heavy.

WAY OF SAYING 'THANK YOU'

Paying Taxes a Pleasure for Soon-to-Be Citizen

By BILL DUNCAN

The day after Aryeh Amiga, 55, received his 1040 form from the Internal Revenue Service he completed it and mailed off his tax payment.

It was Amiga's way of saying "thank you" to Uncle Sam.

Amiga, you see, isn't quite yet a citizen. He will be shortly and "I'm counting the hours."

Amiga operates a small jewelry shop at 123 E. Ocean Blvd., a business he opened June 13, 1964—the same day he arrived in Long Beach.

He has been in the United States since 1959 when he immigrated from his native Israel. It was the fulfillment of a dream—a dream Amiga had since he was a schoolboy and read about Abraham Lincoln and the U.S. Constitution.

One thing confuses Amiga about his adopted country.

"Why do citizens complain so much about their country? It is the only place in the world where there is real freedom," he says with arm-waving gestures.

Amiga carries battle scars on his face, body and legs—battle scars in his fight to bring freedom to Israel after the British mandate terminated in 1948.

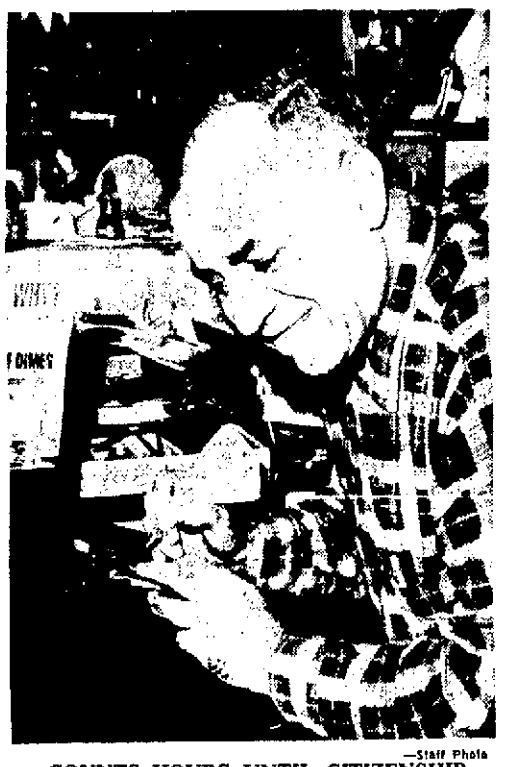

"ISRAEL doesn't have freedom like the United States," he says. "Show me a constitution anywhere in the world that has held true like the United States Constitution. It is as good today as the time it was written. To me it is sacred, like the Ten Commandments."

A journalist in his homeland, Amiga holds degrees from the University of Madrid, University of Paris, and the University of Tel Aviv. He published a news-magazine called Alarm in German, French, Italian and Spanish, as well as Hebrew. The multi-language publications were to aid newly arriving refugees pouring into Israel from all parts of the world.

He speaks fluent Armenian, Turkish, Hebrew, Arabic, French, Spanish, Ashuri (a Hebrew dialect), German, Italian and English. He also has a command of Polish, Czechoslovakian and Lithuanian.

He was elected and served as a deputy in David Ben-Gurion's government.

But all his votes in the emerging Israeli government "won't measure against my first vote as a citizen in the United States," he says, waving his naturalization papers.

Rights Crusader to Tell of Work

A young man who foresook a comfortable teaching job in the North to lead a beleaguered if all too harrowing life as a civil rights leader in the South, will make a public appearance in Long Beach Jan. 23 on behalf of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

Robert Parris Moses, who took a Master's Degree in philosophy at Harvard and later taught mathematics at New York's exclusive Horace Mann School, will speak at the First Congregational Church at Third Street and Cedar Avenue at 8 p.m.

* * * *

THE NEGRO civil rights worker, who is being sponsored by Long Beach Friends of SNCC, headed by social worker Saul Stolzberg, went to Mississippi in 1961 to set up a pilot voter registration project in McComb.

Later, he headed the Summer Project, a drive which recruited 400 college students from all over the United States to help Negroes register in Mississippi.

Hard-core segregationists have marked Moses for extinction, says Stolzberg, but the SNCC official has elected to stay in Mississippi notwithstanding.

* * * *

HE HAS already been arrested, beaten and shot at, adds Stolzberg.

In his Long Beach appearance, the young Negro leader will discuss the Negro registration and education drive in the South. His purpose will be to raise funds for SNCC's badly-depleted treasury.

"They need money desperately to go on with their work," says Stolzberg, at whose invitation Moses has consented to appear.

Pernell Roberts, a star of the TV show "Bonanza," will also speak on the program.

Mrs. Richard Chapman, chairman, and Keith Houdyshell, co-chairman, urged workers to volunteer for the Mothers' March on Birth Defects, Jan. 26, climax to the March of Dimes campaign. Volunteers are asked to call the organization office, 3226 E. Broadway, to take part in drive.

Fair Housing Foundation Opens L.B. Office Monday

The Fair Housing Foundation of Long Beach, a newly incorporated nonprofit organization formed to promote voluntary fair housing practices, will officially open its headquarters Monday at 4108 E. 7th Street. Office hours will be 10-2 p.m. Monday through Friday and by appointment.

According to foundation chairman Myron Blumberg, Long Beach attorney, the new organization is an outgrowth of the Proposition 14 campaign last year.

"There has never been any question about the existence of a serious housing problem for minority groups in California," Blumberg points out. "The Prop. 14 debate was over the best method of solving it—whether by government regulation or voluntary action."

NOW THAT THE decision of the voters has been made, both supporters and opponents of Prop. 14 have joined forces in many California communities to map out a voluntary program.

"We welcome the California Real Estate Association's recent strong stand in favor of voluntary action and the new non-discriminatory code it recommended to local realty groups," Blumberg says. "And we hope that the adoption of this code will soon be publicly announced by the Long Beach Board of Realtors."

Operated by a volunteer staff and supported by tax-deductible contributions from citizens and groups in the community, the Fair Housing Foundation will cooperate closely with local real estate agencies. One of its major functions will be to act as a clearing house for landlords, tenants, buyers, sellers and brokers interested in an "equal opportunity" housing program.

THE FOUNDATION will also publish listings and newsletters, maintain a speakers' bureau and operate fact-finding and counseling services.

Other officers of the Fair Housing Foundation of Long Beach are Mrs. Arthur Zahler, vice chairman; Mrs. Nand Hart-Nibbrig, secretary; and Mrs. Donald Drury, treasurer. The board of directors also includes Mrs. Myron Blumberg, Dr. R. H. Buckland, Rev. William Cole, Rev. Donald Cooke, Donald Drury, Rev. John Gattis, Clive Graham, Horace Rains, M.D., Mrs. C. Waldron Simmons, Mrs. Herbert Sommer and Arthur Zahler.

Prominent citizens throughout the greater Long Beach area—respresenting civic organizations, business and industry, churches, schools, colleges and other agencies—are being asked to serve on the advisory board of the Fair Housing Foundation.

El Dorado Park Clubhouse Soon to Be Reopened

The newly-enlarged clubhouse in El Dorado Park will be opened for the first time Jan. 22 for a dance by the Millikan High School Youth Club, Recreation Department officials have announced.

Completed two weeks ago at a construction cost of $148,384, the addition will be formally dedicated with an evening ceremony Feb. 3.

Although intended mainly as a Millikan youth center, it will be available for other community needs.

Adventure With a '65 XK-E

By BILL EMERY

"Welcome aboard" the sign said, and from every indication, our journey's end with the 1965 Jaguar 4.2 XK-E roadster from out of the future had transported us back in time to the 16th century . . . to the salty charm of a sailing ship moored in Tahiti.

Our motorlog British import still too new to be broken in, was borrowed from Ron Brownell, manager of Boulevard Buick's Jaguar-Opel division at 1881 Long Beach Blvd. Built like a precision watch, ths XK-E roadster listed out at $6060.

The features and appointments on a fine automobile like this would fill a page or more. Basically, the XK-E for '65 makes you breathlessly wonder "what are they gonna do for an encore?"

It has style, power, speed, maneuverability, comfort and every conceivable safety feature built into it that you could desire. And, whether you choose the coupe or the roadster, the XK-E is PRESTIGE!

Probably the greatest improvement offered on the '65 models is the new diaphram clutch and gearbox synchromeshed in all four speeds. Power seems up, but actually, the larger capacity engine delivers considerably extra torque and gear shifting is much smoother as well as clutch engagement. First gear ratio is 45% higher than last year.

With this new gear box, a lady can drive this sports performer as well as a performance-minded racing buff.

Bigger brake booster and disc brakes on all four wheels, an alternator, transistorized regulator and rectifier are but a few of the hidden improvements. The noticeable added comforts include an adjustable steering wheel up and down as well as in and out. You literally fit the car to suit your frame. The bucket seats, upholstered in leather over deep foam rubber cushions, make a long trip short because its so comfortable.

The Ocean House at 1775 East Mission Bay Drive in San Diego can be seen easily driving into town on U.S. Highway 101. The 17-acre resort is a storybook world of sailing ships, pirate captains and sea-going camaraderie.

The decor in the dining rooms, convention and banquet rooms and lounge are authentic nautical trimmings. The Jolly Roger cocktail lounge has an authentic replica of the HMS Bounty wheel and mast. There's dancing nightly in the bow . . . step outside on the "poop deck" and a life-sized wooden carving of a comely lass hangs silently from the bowsprit keeping a steady eye dead ahead.

The Galleon Room for epicurean dining and lunching continues the ship-board theme with mainmast and rigging in the center of the room. Waiters are appropriately attired in fancy gold braid costumes of the period. The food is excellent.

Chef Dan McNeil featured a sea food feast Friday evenings that is without equal. Maine lobster is flown in daily and the feast for two includes lobster, half-dozen oysters on the half shell, a mess of steamed clams, New England clam chowder, 2 ears of corn, 2 breasts of chicken, 2 baked potatoes, watermelon or melon in season and coffee for just $5.50 per person.

Ocean house has its own fully-equipped dock for boat owners and a catering service for those who prefer to eat on board. Rental craft are available including everthing from sailing and motor boats to ocean-going yachts. Swim in the bay in ocean water or the olympic-size pool terraced with flaming torches, native palms and Tiki Gods.

Guest rooms are spacious and decorated with authentic native accessories and seafaring touches to reflect the nautical. With all the luxury, rates are very reasonable and especially now with the winter rates on.

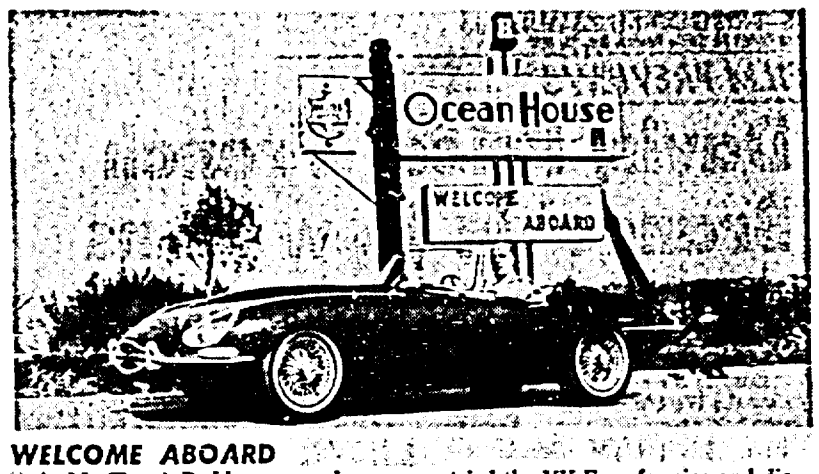

Family entertainment nearby on West Mission Bay drive is the exciting new Sea World sea show. A multi-million-dollar development, Sea World will fascinate all ages for hours with performing dolphins and whales, hydrofoil boat rides, the sea grotto with giant picture windows to view several large tanks of fish, an underwater theatre in the round complete with sea maids in scubba gear performing a musical show with props and plots with highly trained dolphins, and a million dollar Japanese cuture display.

Then there is the San Diego Zoo, world's largest, and some fifty other tourist attractions to see if you plan to stay for any length.

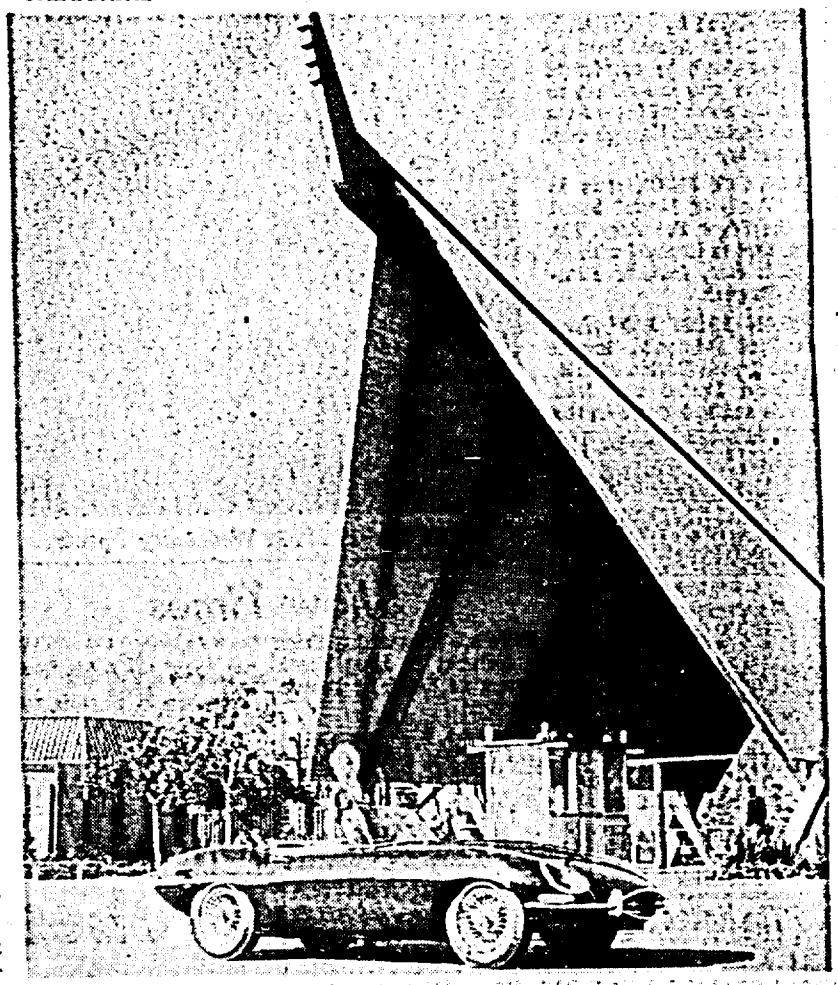

If you prefer a different breed of cat . . . like something manmade and mechanical with moxie . . . you owe it to yourself to put a '65 Jaguar on your leash. It's the g-r-r-reatest!

AS CLOSE AS A WISH
Only minutes from downtown San Diego, Ocean House has South Sea romantic spirit. The motor hotel has fully-equipped dock for boat guest. Motorlog roadster is 1965 Jaguar 4.2 XK-E.

WELCOME ABOARD
A. M. (Tony) Padden, general manager, tried the XK-E on for size and discovered it fit nicely. The body shell is stressed steel of unique monocoque construction.

NEW SEA WORLD
Calling themselves "the world's greatest sea show," Sea World is a fascinating combination of performing animals of the sea and interesting exhibits. XK-E fascinated performers.

DON RICKLES

Probes Limit of Insult

By EARL WILSON

HOLLYWOOD — Don Rickles, "the insultin' Sultan," is going home to Brooklyn to get married March 14—and we thought you might like to know about the courtship of this tarantula-tongued comedian whose usual term of endearment to a friend is "You idiot!"

Barbara Sklar, the bride-to-be, is secretary to young Hollywood agent Jack Gelardi, who has placed Rickles in about a dozen movies.

"Jack asked me to take care of her one night when I was at the Casbah Theater at the Sahara in Las Vegas," Rickles said.

"I put her on the front row and started insulting her. I said 'I never liked your boss, and if you work for him, you ought to be put in an institution.'

"Then I took her to dinner to find out whether her boss was going to get me any jobs. I kept insultin' her but she didn't notice it—she was too busy finding out if I was serious about her.

"Then I asked her to sing for me. She was so off-key it was ridiculous. So I asked her to marry me. She was the first girl I met who wasn't going to ask me to help get her a job singing in night clubs."

• • • •

On the set of "Beach Blanket Bingo," Rickles picked on everybody—starting with Frankie Avalon who was wearing a bolero jacket which was very short, coming just to the waist.

"Hey, Frankie," Rickles said, "you better quit washin' the jacket." Indicating Buster Keaton sitting around quietly, Rickles said, "Buster doesn't believe this is a talkie."

'Babylon by Candlelight' Merits Outweigh Flaws

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

Rebel parents without a cause and their brooding, beer-drinking children playing nocturnal grown-ups get a sparkling going-over in "Babylon by Candlelight," Duke Yelton's sober, Chekovian comedy of love and life in a ghost beach town.

Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave., houses the Esquire prize-winning author's play — Yelton won a short story contest. "Babylon," one of his five stage plays, has flaws, but it also has three wonderful low-keyed acts in search of an audience. Get with it—immediately.

First the flaws.

Touching on the out-of-wedlock pregnancy of a girl (Diane Hilderbrand as Hedy) and her tough-talking, barfly mother (Michelle Richards), the play invites comparison with "A Taste of Honey." Also in moments of lull, playwright Yelton offers the audience a compassionate milkshake or a kiss rather than a Molotov cocktail. The tiny stage is not as well suited to the all-purpose set as Morgan Hall's large stage with an apron would have been.

• • • •

THUS, MANY of Yelton's nice subtleties and actors who can act frequently get lost in the most blackouts seen on any stage since Ken Murray's show of the same name.

However, because Mr. Yelton's play alternates with so much skill between moods of wistful pathos and flashes of ironic humor, the flaws are easily forgotten.

Two good performers help bridge the gaps with remarkable consistency: Michelle Richards as the roistering mother, Kay, who named her child after a movie star, Hedy Lamarr, and young Jay Ellis, hooked in the shotgun marriage with her daughter, Miss Richards, shook up every scene in which she sold sex, sex and more sex. But her final breakdown before a jukebox in which with her back to the audience she poured out her outrage against love, love, love—and then begged for it (love) topped all the tough mother acting seen recently. Jay Ellis, though now only in his second play, rings a welcome change in angry young men. He broods well, with that sensitive face of his mirroring every nuance the portrayal called for. All the teenagers in the play were good.

JAY ELLIS

• • • •

DAVE MIZRAHI (Roger) made his lover-boy dirt farmer too good not to be the real thing. This actor can certainly represent seediness and middle-aged confusion. Diane Hilderbrand made a touching daughter, Hedy, and as the enemy parents, Buzz Hoffman and Eleanor Du Biel had the right antiseptic look. Marvin Kemp's happy drunk and his fellow barflies made colorful figures. Frank Boreffi's bartender Wilson also mixed his emotions well.

Jay Stevens' direction, although uneven, was an asset in helping the play at once imitate reality, then retreat and rise above it.

"Babylon" is human suffering and human absurdity seen by the candlelight of a truly sensitive artist — Duke Yelton.

'Babylon by Candlelight' Merits Outweigh Flaws

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

JAY ELLIS
Good Show

Rebel parents without a cause and their brooding, beer-drinking children playing nocturnal grown-ups get a sparkling going-over in "Babylon by Candlelight," Duke Yelton's sober, Chekovian comedy of love and life in a ghost beach town.

Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave., houses the Esquire prize-winning author's play — Yelton won a short story contest. "Babylon," one of his five stage plays, has flaws, but it also has three wonderful low-keyed acts in search of an audience. Get with it—immediately.

First the flaws.

Touching on the out-of-wedlock pregnancy of a girl (Diane Hilderbrand as Hedy) and her tough-talking, barfly mother (Michelle Richards), the play invites comparison with "A Taste of Honey." Also in moments of lull, playwright Yelton offers the audience a compassionate milkshake or a kiss rather than a Molotov cocktail. The tiny stage is not as well suited to the all-purpose set as Morgan Hall's large stage with an apron would have been.

* * * *

THUS, MANY of Yelton's nice subtleties and actors who can act frequently get lost in the most blackouts seen on any stage since Ken Murray's show of the same name.

However, because Mr. Yelton's play alternates with so much skill between moods of wistful pathos and flashes of ironic humor, the flaws are easily forgotten.

* * * *

DAVE MIZRAHI (Roger) made his lover-boy dirt farmer too good not to be the real thing. This actor can certainly represent seediness and middle-aged confusion. Diane Hilderbrand made a touching daughter, Hedy, and as the enemy parents, Buzz Hoffman and Eleanor Du Biel had the right antiseptic look. Marvin Kemp's happy drunk and his fellow barflies made colorful figures. Frank Boreffi's bartender Wilson also mixed his emotions well.

Jay Stevens' direction, although uneven, was an asset in helping the play at once imitate reality, then retreat and rise above it.

"Babylon" is human suffering and human absurdity seen by the candlelight of a truly sensitive artist — Duke Yelton.

DON RICKLES

Probes Limit of Insult

By EARL WILSON

HOLLYWOOD — Don Rickles, "the insultin' Sultan," is going home to Brooklyn to get married March 14—and we thought you might like to know about the courtship of this tarantula-tongued comedian whose usual term of endearment to a friend is "You idiot!"

Barbara Sklar, the bride-to-be, is secretary to young Hollywood agent Jack Gelardi, who has placed Rickles in about a dozen movies.

"Jack asked me to take care of her one night when I was at the Casbah Theater at the Sahara in Las Vegas," Rickles said.

"I put her on the front row and started insulting her. I said 'I never liked your boss, and if you work for him, you ought to be put in an institution.'

"Then I took her to dinner to find out whether her boss was going to get me any jobs. I kept insultin' her but she didn't notice it—she was too busy finding out if I was serious about her.

"Then I asked her to sing for me. She was so off-key it was ridiculous. So I asked her to marry me. She was the first girl I met who wasn't going to ask me to help get her a job singing in night clubs."

* * * *

On the set of "Beach Blanket Bingo," Rickles picked on everybody—starting with Frankie Avalon who was wearing a bolero jacket which was very short, coming just to the waist.

"Hey, Frankie," Rickles said, "you better quit washin' the jacket." Indicating Buster Keaton sitting around quietly, Rickles said, "Buster doesn't believe this is a talkie."

* * * *

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: The owner of a non-scheduled airline says he can't afford to show movies in flight: "But we do show slides."

* * * *

WISH I'D SAID THAT: With Russia owing the UN all that money, Stan Z. Burns figures that what they need as much as peace-makers is co-makers.

* * * *

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The extent of some people's religion is that they know the name of the church they stay away from."—Anon.

Oil Problems Tackled in Spate of Bills

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Several bills involving oil problems already are before the 89th Congress.

There is no indication, however, that any of them will receive immediate attention.

Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., and Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Miss., have introduced bills that would clarify the Federal Power Commission's authority to regulate wellhead prices of natural gas.

Rep. Omar Burleson, D-Tex., introduced a bill with import curbs designed to boost domestic crude oil production nearly 500,000 barrels a day.

Practically all oil industry producer trade groups have called for remedial legislation on gas price controls but, as yet, there has been no indication of an all-out effort in behalf of any specific bill.

• • • •

INDEPENDENT producers want tighter restrictions on oil imports but have indicated they will give Interior Secretary Stewart Udall another chance before turning to Congress for relief.

Udall has scheduled a March hearing on oil imports and has said the proceedings could lead to a major overhaul of his department's mandatory program to control such imports.

Officials of the 7,000-member Independent Petroleum Association of America thought they had sold Udall last fall on a need for a 275,000-barrels per day cutback in oil imports but quotas for the first half of 1965 called for a small increase.

This prompted the independents to start developing plans to take their fight to Congress unless the March hearing produces the desired relief.

• • • •

A NUMBER OF STATE and regional trade groups have pledged to support the association at the March hearing and with any legislative action that might develop later.

Burleson's bill basically is in line with the tighter imports restrictions the association asked Udall to adopt in setting quotas for the first six months of 1965.

The present ratio of imports east of the Rocky Mountains would be lowered from 12.2 to 10% of domestic crude production. Burleson's bill also would establish a congressional policy that West Coast states, with a shortage of domestic production, curtail imports by encouraging increased production and by increasing shipments of petroleum produced in surplus areas east of the Rockies.

Huntington Man Dies in Crash, 2 Are Injured

The dead man was tentatively identified as John Nielson, of Noble Circle, Huntington Beach. Two others were in critical condition at Westminster Hospital following the 10 p.m. crash. They are Roel Maldonado Hinojosa, 29, of 18609 Towne Ave., Gardena. His passenger was unidentified.

Police said the Hinojosa car apparently crossed over the grass center divider, hitting the Nielson car.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Big Gains, Volume Hike Send Averages Soaring

By C. J. PARNOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wall Street's apprehensions eased last week and the stock market scored an impressive gain which carried the popular averages to the threshold of a new all-time high. Volume picked up sharply.

However, caution was not thrown completely to the winds and progress was slow, at times even tedious.

Prices opened on the down tick Monday, but managed to recover a bit before the close.

• • • •

A MODEST gain was scored in Tuesday's session, but traders again turned cautious Wednesday and again Thursday. By Friday, most brokers expected a reaction to set in view of Friday's normal pattern of profit-taking and preweekend "evening up," particularly in view of the market's eight consecutive advances. However, prices turned up modestly and late profit-taking was more than offset by buying interests.

Dow-Jones Industrial averages advanced 8.55 on the week to 891.15, just a hair's breadth below the all-time high of 891.71 set Nov. 18. Rails picked up 1.72 at 212.93 and utilities gained 1.03 at a new all-time high of 158.05.

Trading swelled to 28,154,665 shares from 23,297,712 shares in the previous week and compared with 30,491,467 shares in the same week last year. Of the 1,540 issues traded, 978 advanced, 233 to new 1964-65 highs while only 398 declined, 18 to new lows.

• • • •

RCA was the most actively traded stock of the week. It dipped ⅛ to 32⅞ on 489,200 shares. The stock traded 346,600 shares Monday, of which 270,000 shares represented a distribution by a leading brokerage house.

Texas Gulf Sulphur took second place with a gain of 1¼ at 57½ on 376,500 shares. Pan American World Airways was third with a gain of 1⅝ at 29¾ on 294,600 shares.

Airlines were generally strong, buoyed by a number of optimistic earnings forecasts. Western Airlines, which traded a block of 80,000 shares during the week, rose 2. National advanced 3¾, Northwest 3⅛, United 2⅞, American 5¼ and Delta 3⅝.

Chrysler picked up 1⅜ in an active motors section. However, General Motors dropped ½ and Ford shed ⅛. DuPont ran into profit-taking and dropped 1½, but Eastman Kodak picked up 2½.

• • • •

BUYING interest continued to trickle back into the electronics section. IBM advanced 9¾ and Honeywell picked up 6⅞. Motorola jumped 5¼, but Control Data and Litton lost around 1 point each.

Drug stocks were in demand on speculation over the possible benefits to be derived by the companies from the likely passage of a medicare plan in this session of Congress. Birth control pill producing companies were particularly attractive in view of the administration's plans to finance a study of means of controlling the "population explosion."

G. D. Searle advanced 2, Smith, Kline & French 2¼, Schering 3⅜, and American Home Products 3⅛.

An advisory service forecast for a gloomy future for the aerospace industry touched off a string of falls. Among the losers were Boeing off 2, United Aircraft 1¼, McDonnell 1¾, North American 2⅛ and Grumman 1¾.

• • • •

CIGARETTE stocks were not particularly affected by the surgeon general's call for a new national effort to convince people of the health hazards of cigarette smoking. Liggett & Myers rose 1½, Lorillard 1¼, Philip Morris 2 and American Tobacco 1¼.

Hudson Bay Mining soared 9¾ in fairly active dealings. Canada Lt. said Hudson Bay had purchased all of its outstanding shares.

Comsat pulled out of its recent lethargy and jumped 4¾. Polaroid moved up 5¼. Wheeling Steel gained 2 after a company official predicted a profit for 1964 despite contrary statements from others in the company.

Golds continued to back off under the weight of the Treasury's warning that the price of gold would remain at $35 an ounce. Dome Mines slipped 1⅛, Homestake 1¼, Campbell Red Lake 1¾ and American South African 1⅛.

Bugler Replaced by Honor System

BONN, Germany (AP)—The 10th Armored Grenadier Division has done away with the bugler. They didn't murder him. The unit's commander, Maj. Gen. Josef Moll, decided to put his men on their honor and have them make reveille on their own.

Final Exam Jitters Can Cause Mouth Ills

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Tension and worry over exams can give students a case of necrotizing ulcerative gingivitis, warns the University of California's school of dentistry. The disease is also known — unpopularly as trenchmouth. Or Vincent's Disease, which sounds prettier.

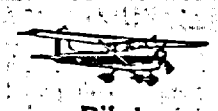

USC dental scientists said a recent study of university students during final exams showed an incidence of trenchmouth as high as 1%. The disease is chiefly caused, they said, by poor oral hygiene, but can also be triggered by tension, which lowers one's resistance and favors the growth of certain bacteria.

Symptoms of the disease are red, swollen gums, a sore mouth, bad breath and eventual destruction of gum tissue.

Fastest ASTHMA Relief Known to Doctors

brings relief in less than a minute!

- New! Available without prescription.
- Mist medication goes to work 50-100 times faster than tablets...faster than any oral medication you can buy.
- Brings relief from attacks night or day, whenever they occur.

The fastest asthma relief known to doctors is "inhalation therapy"—the breathing in of a specially medicated mist through the mouth, directly to the lungs, where it brings relief split-seconds fast. The terror of the choking attack is stopped almost before it gets started. Relief comes in less than a minute. Prompt use often prevents a more severe attack from developing. Nothing compares with the speed of this method in reaching passages narrowed by mucous plugs, releasing trapped air, letting you breathe again—in and out—easily and effectively.

Now, this direct-to-the-lungs relief is available in its most convenient, easy-to-use form... AsthmaNefrin Automatic Aerosol Mist. Compact, leakproof, this patented aerosol unit is scarcely bigger than a pack of mints and can be carried in your pocket or purse, ready for use any time, anywhere—day or night... quickly bringing the medicated mist directly to the lungs.

No More Slow Pills—Painful Shots—Clumsy Bulb Atomizers

No more waiting for relief. No more suffering up to 30 minutes and more before slow-acting pills even begin to take effect through the bloodstream. No more bulb atomizers which need slow, careful measuring, valve adjustment, then pumping, pumping, pumping. Now, the AsthmaNefrin Automatic Mist brings an amazing, simple solution to this problem of relief.

Clinically Proven—Split-Second Fast! Relief Anywhere, Any Time—Day Or Night

AsthmaNefrin Mist works 50-100 times faster than tablets. No agonized gasping, choking for a seeming eternity while you wait for tablets to travel to your stomach, dissolve, then enter your bloodstream before starting to take effect. No squeezing of atomizer bulbs. Just flip open the AsthmaNefrin Aerosol, press—and breathe in. AsthmaNefrin's correct, medically approved amount of medication is inhaled directly into the lungs where it works in seconds on contact. Labored wheezing eases. Blocked passages open. Trapped air is released. You breathe freely, in and out. The once-dreaded paroxysm (attack) is relieved before a minute has passed.

Flip-Open Relief COSTS LESS THAN 1¢ a DOSE

- Always Ready Day Or Night—Travels with you everywhere, in pocket or purse.
- 50-100 Times Faster Than Tablets—Just flip open, press, inhale—and breathe freely in less than a minute.
- Delivers Accurate Dosage Automatically—exact measured dose of needed medication.
- Instant Nebulization—gentle spray mist at the touch of a finger.
- Economical—holds 300 inhalations...less than 1¢ a dose.

50-100 TIMES FASTER THAN TABLETS

Tablets must first travel to the stomach and dissolve before they can release their medication into the bloodstream. Relief may take up to 30 minutes. AsthmaNefrin's medicated mist goes directly to lungs—for relief in less than a minute.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

AsthmaNefrin, for over 29 years a leader in asthma research, unconditionally guarantees that you must get faster relief... relief any time, anywhere—day or night... at less cost per dose than you ever paid before—or your money will be refunded by us without question. Further, your own doctor must instantly and wholeheartedly endorse AsthmaNefrin Automatic Mist from a medical point of view—or return it to Thayer Laboratories for money back.

Oil Problems Tackled in Spate of Bills

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Several bills involving oil problems already are before the 89th Congress.

There is no indication, however, that any of them will receive immediate attention.

Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., and Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Miss., have introduced bills that would clarify the Federal Power Commission's authority to regulate wellhead prices of natural gas.

Rep. Omar Burleson, D-Tex., introduced a bill with import curbs designed to boost domestic crude oil production nearly 500,000 barrels a day.

Practically all oil industry producer trade groups have called for remedial legislation on gas price controls but, as yet, there has been no indication of an all-out effort in behalf of any specific bill.

* * * *

INDEPENDENT producers want tighter restrictions on oil imports but have indicated they will give Interior Secretary Stewart Udall another chance before turning to Congress for relief.

Udall has scheduled a March hearing on oil imports and has said the proceedings could lead to a major overhaul of his department's mandatory program to control such imports.

Officials of the 7,000-member Independent Petroleum Association of America thought they had sold Udall last fall on a need for a 275,000-barrels per day cutback in oil imports but quotas for the first half of 1965 called for a small increase.

This prompted the independents to start developing plans to take their fight to Congress unless the March hearing produces the desired relief.

* * * *

A NUMBER OF STATE and regional trade groups have pledged to support the association at the March hearing and with any legislative action that might develop later.

Burleson's bill basically is in line with the tighter imports restrictions the association asked Udall to adopt in setting quotas for the first six months of 1965.

The present ratio of imports east of the Rocky Mountains would be lowered from 12.2 to 10% of domestic crude production. Burleson's bill also would establish a congressional policy that West Coast states, with a shortage of domestic production, curtail imports by encouraging increased production and by increasing shipments of petroleum produced in surplus areas east of the Rockies.

Huntington Man Dies in Crash, 2 Are Injured

The dead man was tentatively identified as John Nielson, of Noble Circle, Huntington Beach. Two others were in critical condition at Westminster Hospital following the 10 p.m. crash. They are Roel Maldonado Hinojosa, 29, of 18609 Towne Ave., Gardena. His passenger was unidentified.

Police said the Hinojosa car apparently crossed over the grass center divider, hitting the Nielson car.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Big Gains, Volume Hike Send Averages Soaring

By C. J. PARNOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wall Street's apprehensions eased last week and the stock market scored an impressive gain which carried the popular averages to the threshold of a new all-time high. Volume picked up sharply.

However, caution was not thrown completely to the winds and progress was slow, at times even tedious.

Prices opened on the down tick Monday, but managed to recover a bit before the close.

* * * *

A MODEST gain was scored in Tuesday's session, but traders again turned cautious Wednesday and again Thursday. By Friday, most brokers expected a reaction to set in view of Friday's normal pattern of profit-taking and pre-weekend "evening up," particularly in view of the market's eight consecutive advances. However, prices turned up modestly and late profit-taking was more than offset by buying interests.

Dow-Jones Industrial averages advanced 8.55 on the week to 891.15, just a hair's breadth below the all-time high of 891.71 set Nov. 18. Rails picked up 1.72 at 212.93 and utilities gained 1.03 at a new all-time high of 158.05.

Trading swelled to 28,154,665 shares from 23,297,712 shares in the previous week and compared with 30,491,467 shares in the same week last year. Of the 1,540 issues traded, 978 advanced, 233 to new 1964-65 highs while only 398 declined, 18 to new lows.

* * * *

RCA was the most actively traded stock of the week. It dipped 1/8 to 32 7/8 on 489,200 shares. The stock traded 346,600 shares Monday, of which 270,000 shares represented a distribution by a leading brokerage house.

Texas Gulf Sulphur took second place with a gain of 1 1/4 at 57 1/2 on 376,500 shares. Pan American World Airways was third with a gain of 1 1/8 at 29 3/4 on 294,600 shares.

Airlines were generally strong, buoyed by a number of optimistic earnings forecasts. Western Airlines, which traded a block of 80,000 shares during the week, rose 2. National advanced 3 3/4, Northwest 3 1/8, United 2 7/8, American 5 1/4 and Delta 3 3/8.

Chrysler picked up 1 3/8 in an active motors section. However, General Motors dropped 1/2 and Ford shed 1/8. DuPont ran into profit-taking and dropped 1 1/2, but Eastman Kodak picked up 2 1/2.

* * * *

BUYING interest continued to trickle back into the electronics section. IBM advanced 9 3/4 and Honeywell picked up 6 7/8. Motorola jumped 5 1/4, but Control Data and Litton lost around 1 point each.

Drug stocks were in demand on speculation over the possible benefits to be derived by the companies from the likely passage of a medicare plan in this session of Congress. Birth control pill producing companies were particularly attractive in view of the administration's plans to finance a study of means of controlling the "population explosion."

G. D. Searle advanced 2, Smith, Kline & French 2 1/4, Schering 3 3/8, and American Home Products 3 1/8.

An advisory service forecast for a gloomy future for the aerospace industry touched off a string of falls. Among the losers were Boeing off 2, United Aircraft 1 1/4, McDonnell 1 3/8, North American 2 1/8 and Grumman 1 3/4.

* * * *

CIGARETTE stocks were not particularly affected by the surgeon general's call for a new national effort to convince people of the health hazards of cigarette smoking. Liggett & Myers rose 1 1/2, Lorillard 1 1/4, Philip Morris 2 and American Tobacco 1 1/4.

Hudson Bay Mining soared 9 5/8 in fairly active dealings. Canada Lt. said Hudson Bay had purchased all of its outstanding shares.

Comsat pulled out of its recent lethargy and jumped 4 7/8. Polaroid moved up 5 1/4. Wheeling Steel gained 2 after a company official predicted a profit for 1964 despite contrary statements from others in the company.

Golds continued to back off under the weight of the Treasury's warning that the price of gold would remain at $35 an ounce. Dome Mines slipped 1 1/8, Homestake 1 1/4, Campbell Red Lake 1 3/4 and American South African 1 1/8.

Bugler Replaced by Honor System

BONN, Germany (AP)—The 10th Armored Grenadier Division has done away with the bugler. They didn't murder him. The unit's commander, Maj. Gen. Josef Moll, decided to put his men on their honor and have them make reveille on their own.

New from AsthmaNefrin!

Fastest ASTHMA Relief Known to Doctors

brings relief in less than a minute!

- New! Available without prescription.
- Mist medication goes to work 50-100 times faster than tablets...faster than any oral medication you can buy.
- Brings relief from attacks night or day, whenever they occur.

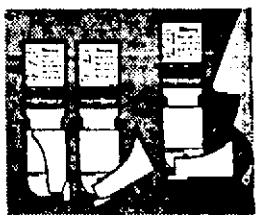

The fastest asthma relief known to doctors is "inhalation therapy"—the breathing in of a specially medicated mist through the mouth, directly to the lungs, where it brings relief split-seconds fast. The terror of the choking attack is stopped almost before it gets started. Relief comes in less than a minute. Prompt use often prevents a more severe attack from developing. Nothing compares with the speed of this method in reaching passages narrowed by mucous plugs, releasing trapped air, letting you breathe again—in and out—easily and effectively. Now, this direct-to-the-lungs relief is available in its most convenient, easy-to-use form... AsthmaNefrin Automatic Aerosol Mist. Compact, leakproof, this patented aerosol unit is scarcely bigger than a pack of mints and can be carried in your pocket or purse, ready for use any time, anywhere—day or night... quickly bringing the medicated mist directly to the lungs.

No more waiting for relief. No more suffering up to 30 minutes and more before slow-acting pills even begin to take effect through the bloodstream. No more bulb atomizers which need slow, careful measuring, valve adjustment, then pumping, pumping, pumping. Now, the AsthmaNefrin Automatic Mist brings an amazing, simple solution to this problem of relief.

Clinically Proven—Split-Second Fast! Relief Anywhere, Any Time—Day Or Night

AsthmaNefrin Mist works 50-100 times faster than tablets. No agonized gasping, choking for a seeming eternity while you wait for tablets to travel to your stomach, dissolve, then enter your bloodstream before starting to take effect. No squeezing of atomizer bulbs. Just flip open the AsthmaNefrin Aerosol, press—and breathe in. AsthmaNefrin's correct, medically approved amount of medication is inhaled directly into the lungs where it works in seconds on contact. Labored wheezing eases. Blocked passages open. Trapped air is released. You breathe freely, in and out. The once-dreaded paroxysm (attack) is relieved before a minute has passed.

Flip-Open Relief COSTS LESS THAN 1¢ a DOSE

- Always Ready Day Or Night—Travels with you everywhere, in pocket or purse.
- 50-100 Times Faster Than Tablets—Just flip open, press, inhale—and breathe freely in less than a minute.
- Delivers Accurate Dosage Automatically—exact measured dose of needed medication.
- Instant Nebulization—gentle spray mist at the touch of a finger.
- Economical—holds 300 inhalations...less than 1¢ a dose.

50-100 TIMES FASTER THAN TABLETS

Tablets must first travel to the stomach and dissolve before they can release their medication into the bloodstream. Relief may take up to 30 minutes. AsthmaNefrin's medicated mist goes directly to lungs—for relief in less than a minute.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

AsthmaNefrin, for over 29 years a leader in asthma research, unconditionally guarantees that you must get faster relief... relief any time, anywhere—day or night... at less cost per dose than you ever paid before—or your money will be refunded by us without question. Further, your own doctor must instantly and wholeheartedly endorse AsthmaNefrin Automatic Mist from a medical point of view—or return it to Thayer Laboratories for money back.

A SUGGESTION

When making a turn, always signal or use turn indicators. Signal well in advance so that drivers behind you are not forced to brake or swerve suddenly. Make sure your turn signals are off at all other times.

A SUGGESTION

When making a turn, always signal or use turn indicators. Signal well in advance so that drivers behind you are not forced to brake or swerve suddenly. Make sure your turn signals are off at all other times.

LOCKHEED'S FIRST PRESIDENT IN SECOND CAREER

He Prefers Drawing Boards to Being Top Brass

By RALPH DIGHTON

BURBANK (AP)—A quiet, graying man walked into the employment office of the huge Lockheed Aircraft Corp. plant and asked for a job.

He filled out a routine form, turned it in and went home to wait for an answer.

Inside the plant, the form caused a furor.

An employment executive glanced through it and grabbed for a phone.

"Hey, we got some kind of a nut here who says he knows you," the man told Hall L. Hibbard, senior vice president. "He says he also knows just about everybody on the board of directors.

"And get this, where the application asks about previous employment at Lockheed, the guy writes down: 'president'."

Hibbard gasped. "That's no nut," he said. "That can't be anyone but Lloyd Stearman."

Hibbard was right.

* * * *

CHARACTERISTICALLY, Lloyd Stearman, one of the greats of aviation and first president of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. when it was formed from a bankrupt firm in 1932, sought no help from any of his old friends when he decided he wanted to design airplanes again.

That was nine years ago. Today, Stearman, 66, is designing not only airplanes but spacecraft and, in his own words, "Happier than I ever was as president."

Stearman left Lockheed in 1935 "because I didn't want to be an executive—I wanted to get back into designing."

His name became familiar to thousands of World War II airmen who were trained in the Navy's "Yellow Perils" and the Army's Stearman Cadets. Many of these rugged biplanes are still in use as crop dusters.

Although he designed the prototype and they bore his name, Stearman realized nothing from the famous trainers. They were built by the Stearman Aircraft Division of United Aircraft Corp., with which Stearman merged after the 1929 stock market crash almost wiped out his private-plane building company in Wichita, Kan.

* * * *

STEARMAN started that firm in 1927 and, riding on the enthusiasm for flying spurred by Charles Lindbergh's transatlantic flight, made a fortune designing sport planes for movie stars and business executives.

After the stock market crash his reputation enabled him to obtain backing from Walter Varney, an early-day airline operator; Boston financier Robert Gross, and others. The group bought the then bankrupt Lockheed Aircraft Co. of Burbank at auction for $40,000. Gross later became board chairman and the tiny firm grew into a giant employing 80,000 people.

It was Stearman's destiny, however, to prefer drawing boards and cockpits over desks and private offices.

"You can't put wings on a conference table," he said in a recent interview.

* * * *

THROUGH the depression years Stearman tried his hand at many kinds of engineering and in World War II returned to aviation, making warplane cowlings for Harvey Machine Corp. of Long Beach. In 1946 he formed Stearman Engineering Co. to convert surplus trainers into crop dusters and became so interested in the field of agricultural aviation that he designed a new type of duster using turbo-prop engines. Not yet in production, this plane is under consideration as a possible future Lockheed project.

Two years ago Stearman, at an age when most men are getting ready to retire, tackled a brand new area: designing winged space planes to ferry astronauts back from Manned Orbiting Laboratories (MOL).

He thus found himself working with problems he foresaw more than 30 years ago. In an interview in 1930 Stearman predicted that by 1960 Americans "will have rocket-shaped aircraft that will travel at such speed they will be able to circle the earth in an hour."

He also forecast that heat from air friction would melt conventional aircraft metals. Today, at Lockheed's nearby Rye Canyon research laboratory, Stearman is running tests on columbium and other rare metals designed to resist nose temperatures up to 3,500 degrees Fahrenheit.

* * * *

MEN WHO fly in the manned laboratories and space ferries will have to repair and maintain them, so Stearman recently became involved in designing a weird device to simulate conditions under which they will have to work outside their ships.

The simulator is a huge horseshoe in which a man is suspended in such a way that he can move in any direction by releasing spurts of air from tanks on his back. Housed in a light-proof hangar, the device so closely duplicates the frictionless environment of space that strong young men usually suffer violent nausea on their first few wildly spinning rides.

When he learned that the simulator was to be demonstrated publicly for the first time recently, Stearman promptly volunteered to be the the "pilot."

* * * *

REJECTED by physiologist Dr. William R. Pierson because of his age, Stearman was more than a little miffed. "I've got a lot of good years yet," he insisted.

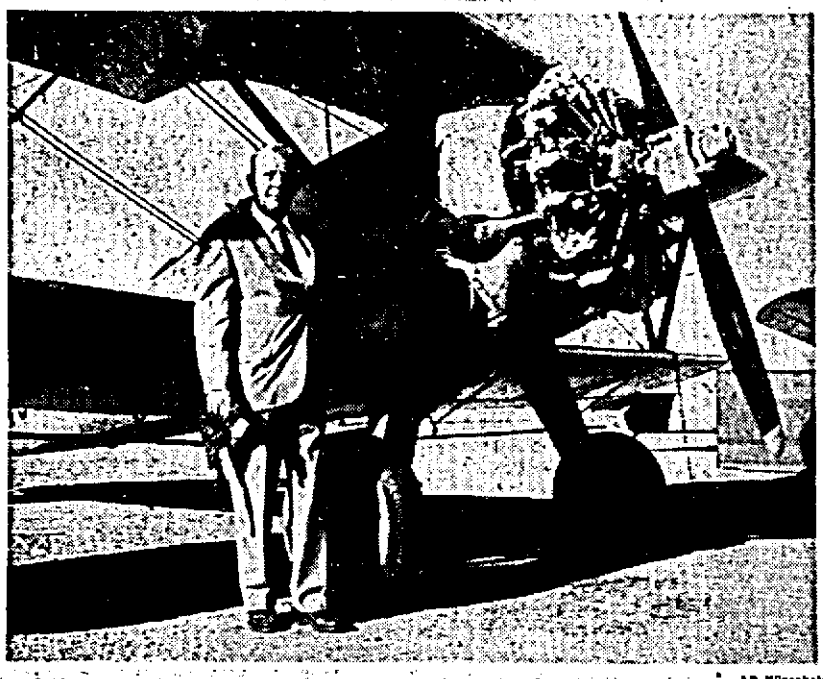

Nontheless, he remained on the ground while a younger man, Robert Bell, made the "flight."

About the only thing Stearman dislikes about his present work is that he doesn't get to handle enough "hardware" — what he calls the finished product.

"It will be years—too many for me, I'm afraid — before all this advanced research is translated into hardware," he says. And hardware, flyable hardware, has always been Stearman's first love.

Born Oct. 26, 1898, in Wellsford, Kan., Stearman made his first flight in an N9 seaplane after winning his wings as a Navy pilot in World War I at North Island, San Diego. His most recent flight was at the controls of a four-engine Lockheed P3A submarine - hunting bomber two years ago.

That flight, he swears, was not his last. "I've been a little busy lately, "he says, "but as soon as I find some free time . . ."

EASING THE COIN SHORTAGE

Mary, 3, and John, 3, Oster do their bit to help ease the coin shortage by emptying their coin banks at Farmers & Merchants Bank, switching from change to paper money.

Sometimes the guys who started the piggy-bank idea to activate the thrift syndrome wish they hadn't done it.

The over-active coin collection gland is now something of a menace. Folding money is around aplenty—but merchants are hurting for small change.

It wasn't too bad when a penny saved was a penny in the Mason jar. But now, apparently, people have a thing about collecting nickels, dimes, quarters, half-dollars and silver dollars.

* * * *

STORES, business and even banks don't have as much change as they'd like to lay their hands on.

(All except one bank. This particular bank is the place where the cafeteria funds from the Long Beach School system are deposited. They're loaded with nickels and dimes.)

The coin situation has been bad for some time now and is still on the "critical" list, banks say. But the U.S. minting machines have been working 'round the clock, and there is a slight easing of the situation though it is still tight.

Bankers point out that one of the largest single contributors to the coin shortage is the family piggy bank.

General business growth, increase in vending machine and meters have affected the overall requirements for more change. The rise in the number of coin collectors also contributes to the problem.

But one way of helping out considerably would be for all the piggy banks in the area to be opened and the contents traded for folding money, bankers suggest.

Four-Year-Old Whittier Girl Shot by Sniper

WHITTIER (CNS) — A 4-year-old Whittier girl was wounded by a sniper late Saturday afternoon as she and five other children were walking toward her home in Whittier.

Sheriff's deputies said Darlene A. Veloz, daughter of Mrs. Blanche Veloz, was walking in a residential area with her three sisters and two friends when she was shot in the left arm.

Her parents took her to Pico Rivera Hospital where she underwent surgery. She was reported in good condition.

Nazi Rockwell in Dixie City Bracing for Racial Protests

SELMA, Ala. (UPI) — George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi Party, showed up in racially tense Selma Saturday night and said he was there to "cause agitation."

The little town is bracing for demonstrations planned for Monday by both Negro integrationists and white segregationists. Negroes led by Dr. Martin Luther King plan a voter-registration drive and massive tests of the civil-rights law.

Segregationists led by J. B. Stoner of Atlanta announced they will counter this with a white voter-registration drive.

Thus Rockwell's unexpected appearance compounded a situation remarkably similar to that of last summer in St. Augustin, Fla., when violence broke out repeatedly in demonstrations and counter-demonstrations led by King and Stoner.

Rockwell's position in the coming demonstrations was not clear. He said he came from his headquarters in Arlington, Va., to Selma at the request of the American States Rights Party.

He said he was here to "cause agitation and run Mr. Coon out of town." Rockwell referred to King, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize.

"I ran him out of Danville, Va.," Rockwell said, "and I believe I can run him out of Selma." He said he intended to "do my very best to stand up for the white people of Selma."

(All except one bank. This particular bank is the place where the cafeteria funds from the Long Beach School system are deposited. They're loaded with nickels and dimes.)

The coin situation has been bad for some time now and is still on the "critical" list, banks say. But the U. S. minting machines have been working 'round the clock, and there is a slight easing of the situation though it is still tight.

Bankers point out that one of the largest single contributors to the coin shortage is the family piggy bank.

General business growth, increase in vending machine and meters have affected the overall requirements for more change. The rise in the number of coin collectors also contributes to the problem.

But one way of helping out considerably would be for all the piggy banks in the area to be opened and the contents traded for folding money, bankers suggest.

Four-Year-Old Whittier Girl Shot by Sniper

WHITTIER (CNS) — A 4-year-old Whittier girl was wounded by a sniper late Saturday afternoon as she and five other children were walking toward her home in Whittier.

Sheriff's deputies said Darlene A. Veloz, daughter of Mrs. Blanche Veloz, was walking in a residential area with her three sisters and two friends when she was shot in the left arm.

Her parents took her to Pico Rivera Hospital where she underwent surgery. She was reported in good condition.

Nazi Rockwell in Dixie City Bracing for Racial Protests

SELMA, Ala. (UPI) — George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi Party, showed up in racially tense Selma Saturday night and said he was there to "cause agitation."

The little town is bracing for demonstrations planned for Monday by both Negro integrationists and white segregationists. Negroes led by Dr. Martin Luther King plan a voter-registration drive and massive tests of the civil-rights law.

Segregationists led by J. B. Stoner of Atlanta announced they will counter this with a white voter-registration drive.

Thus Rockwell's unexpected appearance compounded a situation remarkably similar to that of last summer in St. Augustin, Fla., when violence broke out repeatedly in demonstrations and counter-demonstrations led by King and Stoner.

Rockwell's position in the coming demonstrations was not clear. He said he came from his headquarters in Arlington, Va., to Selma at the request of the American States Rights Party.

He said he was here to "cause agitation and run Mr. Coon out of town." Rockwell referred to King, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize.

"I ran him out of Danville, Va.," Rockwell said, "and I believe I can run him out of Selma." He said he intended to "do my very best to stand up for the white people of Selma."

'Long Johns' Propel L.B. Win, 112-85!

By AL LARSON

Long Beach State kept its firepower under lock and key for exactly 24 hours too long.

With the 'Long Johns' — Johnson, Rambo and Barnicoat — combining for 55 points, the 49ers exploded with vengeance to beat Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo, 112-85, Saturday night before 900 fans in the LBSC gym.

In a complete reversal from Friday night's game against Fresno when the 49ers couldn't find the basket, everything they threw up dropped in Saturday.

• • • • •

"THERE WON'T be any more long faces for two weeks now," said a relieved Dick Perry. "We really needed this one bad. We got our running game back in motion and turned in another strong defensive job."

"I thought Johnson did an outstanding job on the offensive boards, he must have had a million tip-ins. And Barnicoat went after the ball, too, like he was serious," Perry said.

The San Luis Obispo boys jumped off to a 6-1 lead, but once the 49ers got their running shoes on it was never a contest. Johnson's free throw with 15:05 to go broke a 9-9 deadlock and four minutes later the Brown and Gold quint was ahead by 13 points.

• • • • •

THE 49ERS boomed to a 54-37 halftime lead, buoyed by hot foul shooting. L.B. converted 16 of 18 free throw attempts while Cal Poly could muster only three foul shots out of four attempts.

With two minutes to go, Al Ryan's basket enabled Long Beach to hit the century mark for the fourth time this season. The 112 points fell only two shy of LBSC's record spree set against Orange State two weeks ago.

Johnson and Rambo tied for high scoring honors with 19 each while Barnicoat and Carl Washington flipped in 17 each. Johnson pulled down 19 rebounds to lead in this department while Barnicoat followed with 10.

• • • • •

AFTER frustrating losses to San Diego State and Fresno, Long Beach now takes a break from league play for two weeks. With the start of finals the 49ers are idle until Jan. 29 when they travel to Los Angeles State.

In recording their first conference victory, Perry's sprinters made 42 of 95 shots from the field (43%). The Mustangs had a hotter shooting percentage but they got off 19 fewer shots. For the night, Long Beach connected on 28 of 33 foul shots; Cal Poly made 13 of 19.

Cameron Pedego led Cal Poly with 13 points.

In the prelim, USC's Freshmen upended LBSC's Frosh for the second time this season, 108-70.

Fresno Stopped

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — San Diego State ended seventh-ranked Fresno State's two-season conference win streak at 13 games Saturday night with a 69-67 victory to take undisputed possession of first place in the CCAA standings.

FRIENDS OF 3 FEATHERS FLOCK, ETC.

HOUSTON — One problem overlooked by engineers in building Houston's domed stadium was bird life.

Some daring feathered friends managed to sneak in before they put the roof on. And they're still there.

Among the suggestions from well-wishers was that the management scatter popcorn soaked with bourbon and then gather the stoned birds in a basket.

Trojans and Bruins Roll to Loop Wins

USC Again Steals Show

By JEROME HALL

UCLA played one "artocious" game and one "disjointed" game over the weekend but came out with two one-sided triumphs and its No. 1 national ranking still intact.

By a score of 80-66 the Bruins disposed of their main challengers for the AAWU championship Saturday night at the L. A. Sports Arena, the Stanford Indians.

In the first half of the conference twin bill the USC Trojans took a long stride toward becoming a good basketball team by trampling the California Golden Bears, 75-55.

• • • • •

UCLA COACH John Wooden called his team's play atrocious when it defeated Cal by 22 points on Friday night. After the Bruins applied the second loss in two nights to the Stanford record before a crowd of 12,469 Wooden said, "We'll have to play a lot better than that," to maintain the lofty position in the polls.

It was the 13th consecutive triumph for UCLA after its season-opening loss to Illinois. The Bruins are idle next weekend during final classroom exams and play next at Chicago Jan. 29-30 against Iowa and Loyola of Chicago.

It may be that too much is expected of the national champions, but they looked weary and disorganized Saturday night, badly in need of a few days off. They missed easy shots, committed numerous ball control errors and were badly bothered by their own favorite trick, the backcourt press. Still, they won by 14 points over the team that was supposed to be their main competition for the conference championship.

• • • • •

THE STORY with the USC team was just the opposite. The Trojans gave two sterling performances in the weekend series and moved into a three-way tie with Stanford and Washington for the runnerup spot in the conference standings, all with 2-2 records behind UCLA's 4-0 mark.

Friday night the Trojans trounced Stanford by 16 points.

Hero both nights was Bill Westphal who has moved from USC's bench-sitting corps to become a superb defensive player. He held Stanford's best scorer to six points Friday night and handcuffed Cal's best scorer Saturday night, allowing Dan Wolthers a mere three points.

"We are coming along real good," commented Twogood. "Our defense is so much better, so much. The kids played a real intelligent ball game."

The Trojans hit the Bears from both ends of the offensive zone. In the first half it was the Troy guards, hitting long shots, that did the damage. That loosened Cal's defense so that 6-7 center John Block could polish off the Berkeley boys in the second half with his short-range shooting.

• • • • •

BLOCK, a skinny lad who is gaining stamina and is developing into the kind of solid player that could make the Trojans a threat to UCLA when they close the schedule in a pair of games early in March, wound up with 21 points for game honors.

Teammate Doug Bolcom got 19, mostly on long ones in the first half.

The Bears, the best defensive team in the league according to AAWU statistics, could not stop Bolcom.

Cal's shooting average was 27 percent, which will lose for you every time.

It was the outside shooting of Bolcom that kept the Trojans perking a point or two ahead through the first half as Cal's defense effectively blocked off Block and forward Allen Young, the team's leading scorer.

Young, who tallied 26 the night before, had only one point through the first 20 minutes of Saturday night's game and wound up with six points. He scored only one field goal, but his all-'round play was praised by Twogood.

• • • • •

"SOMETIMES when your big scorers aren't scoring a lot, it doesn't mean they are not playing a good game," said Twogood. "Sometimes it means they're making it possible for others to play a good game." That was the story with Young.

Hill Rise Sharp in Comeback Win

By ERNIE MASON

Hill Rise was right at home Saturday.

Back on his favorite racing strip at Santa Anita, the popular stakes runner made a brilliant comeback as he raced to victory by two lengths in the $61,550 San Fernando Stakes for four-year-olds.

Held off the pace until the final turn of the 1¼ mile race, Hill Rise closed in the middle of the track to run down the leaders in the final eighth and pulled away.

And for the second time in his western invasion, Roman Brother failed to uncork a real drive and finished in the middle of the field of 12 starters.

The lightly-regarded Pelegrin was second with Canadian B. third and Duel fourth. Also out of the money was Power of Desiny who beat virtually the same field two weeks ago in the Malibu Stakes.

Hill Rise was installed the 2-1 favorite off his strong third in the Malibu and good workouts and did not disappoint the crowd of more than 50,000. He raced the distance in the good time of 1:48-2/5 and returned $6.40, $4.00 and $3.00. Pelegrin returned $6.60 and $5.00 and Canadian B. paid $13.00 to show.

• • • • •

JOCKEY Don Pierce, who rode Hill Rise so well last winter only to be replaced by Willie Shoemaker for the Kentucky Derby, again demonstrated how well he fit the colt. He played a waiting game as Maker's Mark and Pelegrin staged a head and head duel during the early stages.

It was not until the field started into the second turn that Hill Rise got his first call and then he was sixth. But the son of Hilary closed with determination and by the time the field hit the stretch he was among the first four and well in the middle of the track.

But by then Pelegrin was tiring somewhat from his speed duel and Hill Rise overhauled him in long strides as Pierce flashed his whip calling for more speed.

At the finish, Hill Rise had a two-length margin with Pelegrin a half-length in front of Canadian B. who had a nose edge over Duel. Power of Destiny was sixth and the official camera disclosed Roman Brother was ninth, beaten by 11 lengths.

The victory earned $39,050 for the El Peco Ranch interests of George Pope. More importantly, it stamped Hill Rise as the leading contender for the $100,000 Charles H. Strub Stakes for 4-year-olds Jan. 30. The San Fernando is the final major stepping stone.

Surgery Is Possible for Browns' QB

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Cleveland quarterback Frank Ryan will arrive here today from his home in Houston for a checkup by the team physician and a verdict on whether he must undergo surgery.

Ryan suffered a shoulder separation during Sunday's Pro Bowl game at Los Angeles and telephoned Browns' headquarters Friday with the disquieting news that the team physician at Rice University had advised further treatment.

Initially, the injury was not believed serious, but Ryan said second x-rays showed "a marked displacement of the bone in the shoulder." He will be examined by Browns' physician Dr. Vic Ippolito, who was optimistic an operation would not be necessary.

"In all of our experience, we've never had a shoulder separation on the Browns which required surgery," the doctor said. But he added cautiously, "I'm speaking of a simple separation, of course. I'm glad Frank is coming up here. We'll take a good look at him and see what is needed."

MAYS STILL HIGHEST PAID--GETS $105,000!

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays signed Saturday for another $105,000 season with the San Francisco Giants—remaining the highest paid player in baseball.

Mays is one of only five major league stars to receive $100,000 a season. The others were Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, Joe DiMaggio and Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, and Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals.

All except Mantle have retired. Mickey—not yet signed—might equal Mays' pay next season.

Now 33, the all-star centerfielder goes into his 14th season with the Giants and is the only player remaining on the club among those who made the switch from New York in 1958.

He led major league home run sluggers with 47 last season, finishing the year with a .296 batting average after hitting above .400 early in the campaign. Willie is seventh on baseball's home run list with 453, one less than Mantle.

Hunt Texan Over Border Incident

By JERRY WYNN
L-P-T Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO — Bill Casper and Gene Littler, a couple of hometown heroes, are hot on the trail of Texan Wes Ellis today.

Ellis maintained his one-stroke lead in the $39,500 San Diego Open Saturday by shooting an even-par 71 for a 54-hole total of 202. But he had better not look over his shoulder today.

Situated only one shot away from wiry Wes heading into today's payoff round is a formidable fivesome of Casper, Littler, Bruce Devlin, Johnny Pott and Charlie Sifford.

Casper vaulted into contention Saturday with a six-under par 65 to tie for low round honors with Ray Botts, a young Negro pro who is being sponsored on the tour by Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns.

• • • • •

LITTLER shot 71, Devlin 67, Potts 68 and Sifford 69 on a beautiful day at Stardust Country Club.

But the competition for Ellis goes far deeper than second place. Longshots Bud Holscher and Jay Dolan are two strokes back at 204 and there are four players at 205 including dangerous Doug Ford.

Tony Lema, hitting "silly shots," fell back with a 73 for 206. Botts and defending champion Art Wall are at 207.

In all, 17 players are within five strokes of the lead.

"It should be quite a dogfight," said Casper, who will be gunning for his first San Diego victory.

"I'll probably need another 62 to win this thing," said Littler, who shot 62 in the first round.

Ellis, a soft-spoken, 32-year-old club pro in West Caldwell, N. J., who hasn't won a PGA tournament in his eight-year-old son, Billy, five years, needs to shoot a had six birdies without a 67 to tie the San Diego Open bogey.

record score of 269 held by Mike Souchak.

Going out in 32, he hit a 2-iron six feet from the

"I won't be embarrassed at rugged 472-yard third. all to beat those San Diego players," he said. "They'll pin on the par-five sixth and probably have the gallery with them, but I've got one fan."

sank a 35-foot putt on the seventh.

Coming home in 33, he two-putted the par-five 10th, arrowed a 7-iron shot two feet from the hole on the 11th and canned a 14-footer on the 16th.

Ellis then showed a telegram from pro Davis Love, which read, "Take dead aim."

"I'm hitting my irons right at the flag," he admitted. "It's just a matter of dropping the putts."

A fight in the gallery grandstand at the ninth green may have cost Ellis a stroke.

Devlin, the handsome Australian, birdied the 18th on a 10-foot putt for his 67. Long-hitting Pott, who has been runnerup here twice, had four birdie putts under 10 feet for his 68. Sifford took 34 putts for his 69 and went from the 18th green to the practice putting green. Littler made only one birdie for his 71.

Interrupted by the ruckus, which resulted from a man blowing cigar smoke in a boy's face and the boy's father slugging him in return, Ellis missed a three-foot putt. It was his first bogey and first score of 5 in three days.

The former zoology major at the University of Texas had one other bogey when he hit a trap on the 16th, and two birdies on putts of 15 and 3 feet on the 10th and 15th.

"I was lucky to shoot 71," he remarked candidly.

• • • • •

When informed that his house guest, Holscher, had beaten him by a stroke, Littler quipped, "his food bill has just gone up."

'Long Johns' Propel L.B. Win, 112-85!

By AL LARSON

Long Beach State kept its firepower under lock and key for exactly 24 hours too long.

With the 'Long Johns' — Johnson, Rambo and Barnicoat — combining for 55 points, the 49ers exploded with vengeance to beat Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo, 112-85, Saturday night before 900 fans in the LBSC gym.

In a complete reversal from Friday night's game against Fresno when the 49ers couldn't find the basket, everything they threw up dropped in Saturday.

* * * *

"THERE WON'T be any more long faces for two weeks now," said a relieved Dick Perry, "We really needed this one bad. We got our running game back in motion and turned in another strong defensive job."

"I thought Johnson did an outstanding job on the offensive boards, he must have had a million tip-ins. And Barnicoat went after the ball, too, like he was serious," Perry said.

The San Luis Obispo boys jumped off to a 6-1 lead, but once the 49ers got their running shoes on it was never a contest. Johnson's free throw with 15:05 to go broke a 9-9 deadlock and four minutes later the Brown and Gold quint was ahead by 13 points.

* * * *

THE 49ERS boomed to a 54-37 halftime lead, buoyed by hot foul shooting. L.B. converted 16 of 18 free throw attempts while Cal Poly could muster only three foul shots out of four attempts.

With two minutes to go, Al Ryan's basket enabled Long Beach to hit the century mark for the fourth time this season. The 112 points fell only two shy of LBSC's record spree set against Orange State two weeks ago.

Johnson and Rambo tied for high scoring honors with 19 each while Barnicoat and Carl Washington flipped in 17 each. Johnson pulled down 19 rebounds to lead in this department while Barnicoat followed with 10.

AFTER frustrating losses to San Diego State and Fresno, Long Beach now takes a break from league play for two weeks. With the start of finals the 49ers are idle until Jan. 29 when they travel to Los Angeles State.

In recording their first conference victory, Perry's sprinters made 42 of 95 shots from the field (43%). The Mustangs had a hotter shooting percentage but they got off 19 fewer shots. For the night, Long Beach connected on 28 of 33 foul shots; Cal Poly made 13 of 19.

Cameron Pedego led Cal Poly with 13 points.

In the prelim, USC's Freshmen upended LBSC's Frosh for the second time this season, 108-70.

Fresno Stopped

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — San Diego State ended seventh-ranked Fresno State's two-season conference win streak at 13 games Saturday night with a 69-67 victory to take undisputed possession of first place in the CCAA standings.

Hill Rise Sharp in Comeback Win

By ERNIE MASON

Hill Rise was right at home Saturday.

Back on his favorite racing strip at Santa Anita, the popular stakes runner made a brilliant comeback as he raced to victory by two lengths in the $61,550 San Fernando Stakes for four-year-olds.

Held off the pace until the final turn of the 1⅛ mile race, Hill Rise closed in the middle of the track to run down the leaders in the final eighth and pulled away.

And for the second time in his western invasion, Roman Brother failed to uncork a real drive and finished in the middle of the field of 12 starters.

The lightly-regarded Pelegrin was second with Canadian B. third and Duel fourth. Also out of the money was Power of Desiny who beat virtually the same field two weeks ago in the Malibu Stakes.

Hill Rise was installed the 2-1 favorite off his strong third in the Malibu and good workouts and did not disappoint the crowd of more than 50,000. He raced the distance in the good time of 1:48-2/5 and returned $6.40, $4.00 and $3.00. Pelegrin returned $6.60 and $5.00 and Canadian B. paid $13.00 to show.

* * * *

JOCKEY Don Pierce, who rode Hill Rise so well last winter only to be replaced by Willie Shoemaker for the Kentucky Derby, again demonstrated how well he fit the colt. He played a waiting game as Maker's Mark and Pelegrin staged a head and head duel during the early stages.

It was not until the field started into the second turn that Hill Rise got his first call and then he was sixth. But the son of Hilary closed with determination and by the time the field hit the stretch he was among the first four and well in the middle of the track.

But by then Pelegrin was tiring somewhat from his speed duel and Hill Rise overhauled him in long strides as Pierce flashed his whip calling for more speed.

At the finish, Hill Rise had a two-length margin with Pelegrin a half-length in front of Canadian B. who had a nose edge over Duel. Power of Destiny was sixth and the official camera disclosed Roman Brother was ninth, beaten by 11 lengths.

The victory earned $39,050 for the El Peco Ranch interests of George Pope. More importantly, it stamped Hill Rise as the leading contender for the $100,000 Charles H. Strub Stakes for 4-year-olds Jan. 30. The San Fernando is the final major stepping stone

Surgery Is Possible for Browns' QB

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Cleveland quarterback Frank Ryan will arrive here today from his home in Houston for a checkup by the team physician and a verdict on whether he must undergo surgery.

Ryan suffered a shoulder separation during Sunday's Pro Bowl game at Los Angeles and telephoned Browns' headquarters Friday with the disquieting news that the team physician at Rice University had advised further treatment.

Initially, the injury was not believed serious, but Ryan said second x-rays showed "a marked displacement of the bone in the shoulder." He will be examined by Browns' physician Dr. Vic Ippolito, who was optimistic an operation would not be necessary.

"In all of our experience, we've never had a shoulder separation on the Browns which required surgery," the doctor said. But he added cautiously, "I'm speaking of a simple separation, of course. I'm glad Frank is coming up here. We'll take a good look at him and see what is needed."

MAYS STILL HIGHEST PAID--GETS $105,000!

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays signed Saturday for another $105,000 season with the San Francisco Giants —remaining the highest paid player in baseball.

Mays is one of only five major league stars to receive $100,000 a season. The others were Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, Joe DiMaggio and Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, and Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals.

All except Mantle have retired. Mickey—not yet signed—might equal Mays' pay next season.

Now 33, the all-star centerfielder goes into his 14th season with the Giants and is the only player remaining on the club among those who made the switch from New York in 1958.

He led major league home run sluggers with 47 last season, finishing the year with a .296 batting average after hitting above .400 early in the campaign. Willie is seventh on baseball's home run list with 453, one less than Mantle.

Trojans and Bruins Roll to Loop Wins

USC Again Steals Show

By JEROME HALL

UCLA played one "artocious" game and one "disjointed" game over the weekend but came out with two one-sided triumphs and its No. 1 national ranking still intact.

By a score of 80-66 the Bruins disposed of their main challengers for the AAWU championship Saturday night at the L. A. Sports Arena, the Stanford Indians.

In the first half of the conference twin bill the USC Trojans took a long stride toward becoming a good basketball team by trampling the California Golden Bears, 75-55.

* * * *

UCLA COACH John Wooden called his team's play atrocious when it defeated Cal by 22 points on Friday night. After the Bruins applied the second loss in two nights to the Stanford record before a crowd of 12,469 Wooden said, "We'll have to play a lot better than that," to maintain the lofty position in the polls.

It was the 13th consecutive triumph for UCLA after its season-opening loss to Illinois. The Bruins are idle next weekend during final classroom exams and play next at Chicago Jan. 29-30 against Iowa and Loyola of Chicago.

It may be that too much is expected of the national champions, but they looked weary and disorganized Saturday night, badly in need of a few days off. They missed easy shots, committed numerous ball control errors and were badly bothered by their own favorite trick, the backcourt press. Still, they won by 14 points over the team that was supposed to be their main competition for the conference championship.

* * * *

THE STORY with the USC team was just the opposite. The Trojans gave two sterling performances in the weekend series and moved into a three-way tie with Stanford and Washington for the runnerup spot in the conference standings, all with 2-2 records behind UCLA's 4-0 mark.

Friday night the Trojans trounced Stanford by 16 points.

Hero both nights was Bill Westphal who has moved from USC's bench-sitting corps to become a superb defensive player. He held Stanford's best scorer to six points Friday night and handcuffed Cal's best scorer Saturday night, allowing Dan Wolthers a mere three points.

"We are coming along real good," commented Twogood. "Our defense is so much better, so much. The kids played a real intelligent ball game."

The Trojans hit the Bears from both ends of the offensive zone. In the first half it was the Troy guards, hitting long shots, that did the damage. That loosened Cal's defense so that 6-7 center John Block could polish off the Berkeley boys in the second half with his short-range shooting.

* * * *

BLOCK, a skinny lad who is gaining stamina and is developing into the kind of solid player that could make the Trojans a threat to UCLA when they close the schedule, in a pair of games early in March, wound up with 21 points for game honors.

Teammate Doug Bolcom got 19, mostly on long ones in the first half.

The Bears, the best defensive team in the league according to AAWU statistics, could not stop Bolcom.

Cal's shooting average was 27 percent, which will lose for you every time.

It was the outside shooting of Bolcom that kept the Trojans perking a point or two ahead through the first half as Cal's defense effectively blocked off Block and forward Allen Young, the team's leading scorer.

Young, who tallied 26 the night before, had only one point through the first 20 minutes of Saturday night's game and wound up with six points. He scored only one field goal, but his all-round play was praised by Twogood.

* * * *

"SOMETIMES when your big scorers aren't scoring a lot, it doesn't mean they are not playing a good game," said Twogood. "Sometimes it means they're making it possible for others to play a good game." That was the story with Young.

ELLIS IS CHIPPER

Wes Ellis, chipping to green, also had reason to be chipper after retaining San Diego Open lead. He shot 71, leads by one going into today's final round.

Hunt Texan Over Border Incident

By JERRY WYNN
I.-P-T Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO — Bill Casper and Gene Littler, a couple of hometown heroes, are hot on the trail of Texan Wes Ellis, today.

Ellis maintained his one-stroke lead in the $39,500 San Diego Open Saturday by shooting an even-par 71 for a 54-hole total of 202. But he had better not look over his shoulder today.

Situated only one shot away from wiry Wes heading into today's payoff round is a formidable fivesome of Casper, Littler, Bruce Devlin, Johnny Pott and Charlie Sifford.

Casper vaulted into contention Saturday with a six-under par 65 to tie for low round honors with Ray Botts, a young Negro pro who is being sponsored on the tour by Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns.

* * * *

LITTLER shot 71, Devlin 67, Potts 68 and Sifford 69 on a beautiful day at Stardust Country Club.

But the competition for Ellis goes far deeper than second place. Longshots Bud Holscher and Jay Dolan are two strokes back at 204 and there are four players at 205 including dangerous Doug Ford.

Tony Lema, hitting "silly shots," fell back with a 73 for 206. Botts and defending champion Art Wall are at 207.

In all, 17 players are within five strokes of the lead.

"It should be quite a dogfight," said Casper, who will be gunning for his first San Diego victory.

"I'll probably need another 62 to win this thing," said Littler, who shot 62 in the first round.

Ellis, a soft-spoken, 32-year-old club pro in West Caldwell, N. J., who hasn't won a PGA tournament in five years, needs to shoot a 67 to tie the San Diego Open record score of 269 held by Mike Souchak.

"I won't be embarrassed at all to beat those San Diego players," he said. "They'll probably have the gallery with them, but I've got one fan."

Ellis then showed a telegram from pro Davis Love, which read, "Take dead aim."

A fight in the gallery grandstand at the ninth green may have cost Ellis a stroke.

Interrupted by the ruckus, which resulted from a man blowing cigar smoke in a boy's face and the boy's father slugging him in return, Ellis missed a three-foot putt. It was his first bogey and first score of 5 in three days.

The former zoology major at the University of Texas had one other bogey when he hit a trap on the 16th, and two birdies on putts of 15 and 3 feet on the 10th and 15th.

"I was lucky to shoot 71," he remarked candidly.

* * * *

CASPER, accompanied by his eight-year-old son, Billy, had six birdies without a bogey.

Going out in 32, he hit a 2-iron six feet from the rugged 472-yard third, chipped to two feet of the par-five sixth and sank a 35-foot putt on the seventh.

Coming home in 33, he two-putted the par-five 10th, arrowed a 7-iron shot two feet from the hole on the 11th and canned a 14-footer on the 16th.

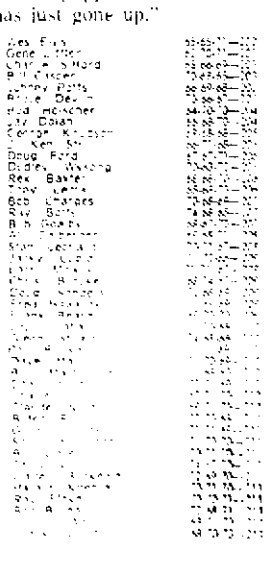

"I'm hitting my irons right at the flag," he admitted. "It's just a matter of dropping the putts."

Devlin, the handsome Australian, birdied the 18th on a 10-foot putt for his 67. Long-hitting Pott, who has been runnerup here twice, had four birdie putts under 10 feet for his 68. Sifford took 34 putts for his 69 and went from the 18th green to the practice putting green. Littler made only one birdie for his 71.

When informed that his house guest, Holscher, had beaten him by a stroke, Littler quipped, "his food bill has just gone up."

"I'm inclined to think little Peter Boy Rozelle and the NFL owners have gotten to the point where they put the dollar above honor. The reason I have come to this conclusion is the weekend the nation was in mourning for President Kennedy, they made the players play ball. Their latest little stunt helped ruin Oklahoma in the Gator Bowl. Not only have they stole from Oklahoma, but they signed a guard from L.A. State and somebody from Washington State. The NFL is destroying one of the best farm systems in the world. This situation boils me because the NFL owners have the idea they're so high and mighty and won't make an agreement with the AFL on a common draft to ease this mess. # As College Coach, Prothro a 'Pro'

By JEROME HALL

His close friends call Tommy Prothro "Pro" for short and he's as close to being a pro in his profession as a college football coach can be.

The new coach at UCLA is a deep thinker and interrogaters can ask him the simplest of questions and get the most complex of answers.

Such as: "What about recruiting?"

Prothro's answer: "Contrary to public opinion, I don't think the most important thing a coach can do is recruit players. If that is true, then all a university has to do is hire a good public relations firm."

Some of the oldtime reporters who turned out for Prothro's first press conference since getting the UCLA head coaching post last week were remembering the last time the Westwood school reached outside its own ranks for a coach.

It was 1949 and the UCLA team had just finished last in the conference when a fellow named Henry Sanders, known to his friends as Red, was hired out of Vanderbilt. UCLA went from last to second in one year.

The oldtimers in the crowd at Pro's coming out party the other day could close their eyes and hear Red Sanders all over again. Prothro has the same Southern drawl, the same wry humor, the same kind of deep answers to simple questions.

This is the man who has been hired to counter the McKay image, for the USC coach has forged a dominant role in college football in Southern California.

Prothro's first task in his new job is not to recruit players, but to win over the press, the sportswriters and broadcasters who, to the last man, were friends of Bill Barnes, the deposed Bruin coach.

"Do you think your new team will be able to beat a team of sportswriters," Prothro was asked in a tone of unguarded sarcasm. The new Bruin coach paused before he answered. He gave the subject some reflection, which he had not done when he said immediately after the Rose Bowl loss to Michigan that he felt his team could, at least, beat the sportswriters who were knocking the Oregon State players.

So Prothro gave his opinion of sportswriters to sportswriters. "They're different down here," he said. "It's much different working with the sportswriters in Southern California. I don't know but what I like it, though.

"The sportswriters in Southern California hit you harder when you lose and they pat you harder on the back when you win even if you are the coach of the out-of-town team.

"Up in the (San Francisco) Bay Area it's just the opposite. Up there if the visiting coach wins he's a dirty dog for beating their nice hometown kids. But in Southern California he's a genius of strategy.

"It's a wonder I have any friends in the sportswriting business because for years I never won in Los Angeles and never lost in the Bay Area."

There was hardly a Southern California sportswriter in the crowd who wasn't convinced Prothro was talking about him.

Tom Prothro hasn't cleared out his desk at Corvallis yet but already he's scored one big victory in his new job at UCLA.

Dons, UOP Still Tied in WCAC

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The ninth-ranked San Francisco Dons, behind the 18 points and 14 rebounds of 6-foot-9 Erwin Mueller, avenged their only defeat of the season by easily beating Santa Clara 89-77 Saturday night in a West Coast Athletic Conference basketball game.

Helping the Dons to a 3-0 WCAC record and a 12-1 overall mark were Joe Ellis with 17 points, Ollie Johnson with 16 and reserve Charlie James with 13.

University of the Pacific jumped to an early 16-0 lead and held on for a 61-52 victory over St. Mary's to stay in a tie with USF for the WCAC lead.

Joe Kelley of UOP was the game's high scorer with 17 points, followed by teammate Bob Krulish's 16.

Skillful ball-handling during the first half failed to pay off for the University of California at Santa Barbara Saturday as San Jose State College bounced back to take a West Coast Athletic Conference game 72-65.

TO COACHES' DELIGHT
Free Substitution Rule Broadened

FORT LAUDERDALE (AP)—Most of the college football coaches who want to lower all the bars against free substitution will be satisfied with a new rule to be adopted today.

After another five-hours of debate Saturday, the football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association still was torn between the only two proposals left before it.

Rule I would yield to the demands of the coaches for the unrestricted platooning allowed before 1953. No. 2 would permit platoon substitution between quarters, after a score and whenever the ball changes hands, and the replacement of two men on any play.

* * * *

THE COMMITTEE almost never gives the coaches exactly what they want, and it appeared that the latter rule would be the one passed.

But either one, said Coach Jack Curtice of Santa Barbara, Calif., "will please the great majority of the coaches."

"We have made some gains in the committee every year," Curtice said, "and with the adoption of either one of these rules we will be happier than ever before.

"The rule was all right last season, except that in a punting situation we had to pay the price of a penalty to get in the defensive unit.

"The offensive team will still have to do the punting, but the change of units on first down should be satisfactory."

The committee also voted to allow colleges to use two-inch kicking tees if they want. College kickers had been restricted to one-inch tees.

The only other action was the change in the so-called "brutality" rule, which prohibits players from "intentionally butting or ramming another player with the helmet about the head, neck or face." The committee took out "head, neck or face," in effect making it a personal foul for a player to intentionally butt another player anywhere.

Cougars Win 1st vs. Beavers in 4 Years

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI)—The Washington State University Cougars scored their first basketball victory over Oregon State in four years Saturday by downing the Beavers 64-53.

It was the second upset victory in two nights for coach Marv Harshman's revitalized Cougars. They downed the Oregon Ducks here Friday night.

Dennis Kloke led WSU with 16 points, while Tom Tomervik had 14 and the Beavers' scoring ace, Jim Jarvis, tallied 23 points to lead all scorers.

The Cougars battled their way to a 25-21 halftime lead, and never let Oregon State get closer than a four-point margin in the second half.

Oregon State arrived just an hour before the 3 p.m. start of the game after fog had cancelled the Beavers' flight from Seattle. They had to drive to Ellensburg and Yakima where chartered aircraft brought them the rest of the way.

The Clients Compose

The readers write, mainly on pro football:

"I'm inclined to think little Peter Boy Rozelle and the NFL owners have gotten to the point where they put the dollar above honor. The reason I have come to this conclusion is the weekend the nation was in mourning for President Kennedy, they made the players play ball. Their latest little stunt helped ruin Oklahoma in the Gator Bowl. Not only have they stole from Oklahoma, but they signed a guard from L.A. State and somebody from Washington State. The NFL is destroying one of the best farm systems in the world. This situation boils me because the NFL owners have the idea they're so high and mighty and won't make an agreement with the AFL on a common draft to ease this mess. The AFL has signed a few players out of line, but not like the NFL." (signed) Robert A. Carlson, 9049 Priscilla St., Downey.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

(I certainly am against the pros signing an athlete before his college eligibility has been completed. On the other hand, I don't admire the current hypocritical, wailing attitude of the NCAA, which certainly must be aware of the procedures used by its college coaches to lure kids in HIGH SCHOOL!)

"Couldn't the champion of the AFL do as well as the Baltimore Colts did against the Cleveland Browns?" (signed) W. Buckley, 905 A. G. S. H., Long Beach.

(I doubt it.)

"You negative scribes better plug up the hole, you're losing your marbles. I say if the NFL champs have enough talent to play the College All-Stars they should be talented enough to play the AFL champs." (signed) Ed Tobler, 4123 Fairman, Lakewood.

(You have a point . . . but let's not schedule the game for New Orleans.)

"AFTER READING your column for the past five years (and disagreeing with your comments and predictions 90% of the time) I must agree with you that the NFL does not have an obligation to the public to accept the AFL's invitation for an all-pro championship game. It can all be summed up in one word: Class. The AFL simple does not have it." (signed) Stan Debevec, 102 Orange Ave.

(That's strong language and perhaps (both of us) should study Tobler's comment: If the NFL champs play the College All-Stars, why not the AFL champs?)

"You and I know you are a Class A incompetent boob but in your column (on the superiority of Metro Conference j.c. teams) you showed more ignorance and prejudice than previously, which is quite a feat. But, stout heart, you're not entirely alone. I'm sure the 'Eastern' teams would also like to see the Metro champion annual in the Jr. Rose Bowl. After Eastern Conference teams (Santa Ana and Orange Coast) scored consecutive shutouts, the JRB people looked to the Metro for help and sure enough, Long Beach saved the day. They allowed Cameron to outgain them and above all, catch this sports fans, they let them score! Gad, aren't you ashamed?" (signed) The Marble Bunny, Seal Beach.

(Bunny, you've lost your marbles!)

"The Junior Rose Bowl is a mismatch. I'd still rather see a state j.c. championship game. Harbor and Long Beach would have been more interesting regardless of how bad Harbor would have lost. And more people would have bought tickets." (signed) Paul Roggia, 11876 E. Rosecrans, Norwalk.

(What about the Marble Bunny's teams?)

"DID YOU look over the Rose Bowl program? On page 29, George Pasero of the Oregon Journal wrote: 'The last time Tommy Prothro brought his Beavers to Los Angeles—in 1960—his then single-wingers smashed USC and its McKeever twins, 14-0.' Pasero has a convenient memory. He has forgotten Nov. 15, 1963, in the Coliseum when USC defeated Oregon State, 28-22. I can only assume that the game has been stricken from the record books up in Portland. Of course, they will count their victories over Idaho, even ones by a score of 10-7." (signed) Erwin M. Hausladen, 3808 Agnes Ave., Apt. 2, Lynwood.

(Gads, sir, don't get me involved in this again.)

"I would certainly appreciate it if you would write a column before every major horse race at Santa Anita. In that way, I could bet against the pig you write about and, eventually, pay off the mortgage on my house." (signed) Raymond L. MacCauley, Garden Grove.

(Your message indeed is cheering, sir. I knew I had some purpose in life.)

"You column is most refreshing, especially when you write about horses. Tell me, are there any more Candy Spots before you eyes, you fool." (signed) Billie J. Jason, Torrance.

As College Coach, Prothro a 'Pro'

By JEROME HALL

His close friends call Tommy Prothro "Pro" for short and he's as close to being a pro in his profession as a college football coach can be.

The new coach at UCLA is a deep thinker and interrogators can ask him the simplest of questions and get the most complex of answers.

Such as: "What about recruiting?"

Prothro's answer: "Contrary to public opinion, I don't think the most important thing a coach can do is recruit players. If that is true, then all a university has to do is hire a good public relations firm."

Some of the oldtime reporters who turned out for Prothro's first press conference since getting the UCLA head coaching post last week were remembering the last time the Westwood school reached outside its own ranks for a coach.

It was 1949 and the UCLA team had just finished last in the conference when a fellow named Henry Sanders, known to his friends as Red, was hired out of Vanderbilt. UCLA went from last to second in one year.

The oldtimers in the crowd at Pro's coming out party the other day could close their eyes and hear Red Sanders all over again. Prothro has the same Southern drawl, the same wry humor, the same kind of deep answers to simple questions.

This is the man who has been hired to counter the McKay image, for the USC coach has forged a dominant role in college football in Southern California.

Prothro's first task in his new job is not to recruit players, but to win over the press, the sportswriters and broadcasters who, to the last man, were friends of Bill Barnes, the deposed Bruin coach.

"Do you think your new team will be able to beat a team of sportswriters," Prothro was asked in a tone of unguarded sarcasm. The new Bruin coach paused before he answered. He gave the subject some reflection, which he had not done when he said immediately after the Rose Bowl loss to Michigan that he felt his team could, at least, beat the sportswriters who were knocking the Oregon State players.

So Prothro gave his opinion of sportswriters to sportswriters. "They're different down here," he said. "It's much different working with the sportswriters in Southern California. I don't know but what I like it, though.

"The sportswriters in Southern California hit you harder when you lose and they pat you harder on the back when you win even if you are the coach of the out-of-town team.

"Up in the (San Francisco) Bay Area it's just the opposite. Up there if the visiting coach wins he's a dirty dog for beating their nice hometown kids. But in Southern California he's a genius of strategy.

"It's a wonder I have any friends in the sportswriting business because for years I never won in Los Angeles and never lost in the Bay Area."

There was hardly a Southern California sportswriter in the crowd who wasn't convinced Prothro was talking about him.

Tom Prothro hasn't cleared out his desk at Corvallis yet but already he's scored one big victory in his new job at UCLA.

Faust Sets Two World Records at Lions' Drag

Larry Faust of Long Beach powered his super-charged Chrysler to a world elapsed time and top speed record for fuel dragsters Saturday night at Lions Drag Strip.

Faust went through the chutes on the quarter-mile strip in 7.58 seconds, backing up a 7.53 clocking turned at Fontana Drag Strip last Sunday. His 203.16 miles per hour was the terminal speed good also for a record after clocking 201.66 at Fontana.

Top fuel eliminator honors went to Faust, also, for his world record performance. In the match race Rick Stewart of Costa Mesa defeated Long Beach's Tom McEwen in successive heats.

TO COACHES' DELIGHT
Free Substitution Rule Broadened

FORT LAUDERDALE (AP)—Most of the college football coaches who want to lower all the bars against free substitution will be satisfied with a new rule to be adopted today.

After another five-hours of debate Saturday, the football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association still was torn between the only two proposals left before it.

Rule 1 would yield to the demands of the coaches for the unrestricted platooning allowed before 1953. No. 2 would permit platoon substitution between quarters, after a score and whenever the ball changes hands, and the replacement of two men on any play.

★ ★ ★ ★

THE COMMITTEE almost never gives the coaches exactly what they want, and it appeared that the latter rule would be the one passed.

But either one, said Coach Jack Curtice of Santa Barbara, Calif., "will please the great majority of the coaches."

"We have made some gains in the committee every year," Curtice said, "and with the adoption of either one of these rules we will be happier than ever before.

"The rule was all right last season, except that in a punting situation we had to pay the price of a penalty to get in the defensive unit.

"The offensive team will still have to do the punting, but the change of units on first down should be satisfactory."

The committee also voted to allow colleges to use two-inch kicking tees if they want. College kickers had been restricted to one-inch tees.

The only other action was the change in the so-called "brutality" rule, which prohibits players from "intentionally butting or ramming another player with the helmet about the head, neck or face." The committee took out "head, neck or face," in effect making it a personal foul for a player to intentionally butt another player anywhere.

Wilt Sees Ex-Mates Lose 13th in Row

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—With Wilt Chamberlain watching from a balcony seat, the San Francisco Warriors dropped their 13th game in a row Saturday night, losing to New York, 102-89.

Art Heyman's 20 second-half points led the Knicks, who trailed the Warriors 55-39 at intermission. Chamberlain, traded to Philadelphia earlier this week, is on a one-week leave of absence from his new club.

Cougars Win 1st vs. Beavers in 4 Years

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI)—The Washington State University Cougars scored their first basketball victory over Oregon State in four years Saturday by downing the Beavers 64-53.

It was the second upset victory in two nights for coach Marv Harshman's revitalized Cougars. They downed the Oregon Ducks here Friday night.

Dennis Kloke led WSU with 16 points, while Tom Tommervik had 14 and the Beavers' scoring ace, Jim Jarvis, tallied 23 points to lead all scorers.

The Cougars battled their way to a 25-21 halftime lead and never let Oregon State get closer than a four-point margin in the second half.

Oregon State arrived just an hour before the 3 p.m. start of the game after fog had cancelled the Beavers' flight from Seattle. They had to drive to Ellensburg and Yakima where chartered aircraft brought them the rest of the way.

Man to Man

MARR

By JERRY WYNN

SAN DIEGO—Dave Marr today exemplifies the nomad life of a touring golf pro.

A Texan who registers from a New York club, the handsome, little cousin of Jackie Burke is playing in the San Diego Open as well as appearing on national television from England in Shell's Wonderful World of Golf. Marr faces Bernard Hunt of England.

The 5-9, 158-pound 32-year-old had his best year in 1964 by winning $42,820 and finishing second to Arnold Palmer in the prestige-laden Masters. He is the current chairman of the PGA tournament committee.

On whom should I bet in the television match, Dave?

"All I'll tell you is not to give any shots either way. It's that close."

How do the galleries in England compare to the U.S.?

"They are much quieter and know golf better. Golf is a holy tradition to them and they only applaud the really good shots. Here the only thing the fans care about is how close you get the ball to the hole no matter if you roll it there."

Is television responsible for creating a new type of golf fan in the U.S.?

"Yes. I think it is one of four things responsible for the great surge of interest in golf among average Gus Fan. The others are Ben Hogan's comeback, Dwight Eisenhower and Arnold Palmer. All of a sudden, people have learned that golf can be exciting. It's been great for all of us."

Has the conflict between the PGA and the tournament sponsors over television royalties been settled?

"Yes. Everything worked out perfectly. We have a 13-tournament package deal for a special national network. The players get 75% of the money to add to the purses and the sponsors keep 25%."

As chairman of the tournament committee, what is your biggest problem?

"It's to strengthen the fields. All the sponsors want all the top players for their tournaments while fellows like Palmer and Nicklaus are going to be playing in fewer and fewer tournaments. It's a tough problem to guarantee a top field."

Palmer and others have suggested that golf have a major and minor league tour setup. Are you in favor of this?

"No. It can't be done. The expenses are the same for all the players while the purses would be less for the so-called minor league. Then you couldn't expect to develop new players unless they have the best competition."

Does the press put too much emphasis on Palmer and Nicklaus and not enough on the other pros?

"Yes, although Palmer and Nicklaus deserve the publicity they get. There are an awful lot of good players who don't get enough writeups. Personality is the big thing. Palmer is the boy next door with his shirttails hanging out and the fans love him. But other personalities can be brought out. The press hung Champagne on Tony and look what happened."

Mickey Wright was quoted as saying there is something wrong with our values when a golf pro can earn more in four days than a college professor can in a year. Do you agree?

"Absolutely not. This is our American way of life. Who says Elizabeth Taylor should get a million dollars for Cleopatra? Everyone should have the opportunity to make as big success as possible. I'm in favor of paying more money to teachers and more money to golf pros."

What was the greatest thrill of your career?

"Finishing second in the Masters. I was shaking like a leaf when I had that 25-foot putt on the 18th to tie Nicklaus for second. It turned out to be my 72nd one-putt in a row."

Harrison Captains Trotter Fun

Charles (Tex) Harrison not only is in his 12th season with the Harlem Globetrotters but now also serves as captain of the world-renowned magicians, who will make their annual one-night stop at the Long Beach Arena Saturday, Jan. 30.

The 6-4 leader first came to the Globetrotters' attention while starring at Wheatley High School in his native Houston, Tex., and later at North Carolina College.

Is there a problem going through a long season without a championship at stake?

"There are other things to consider," says Harrison. "Even if there isn't a pennant to be decided, I feel we still have a job to do. That means not only to provide a good brand of basketball each night but also to entertain the fans.

"Playing for the Globetrotters is as much a part of me as brushing my teeth. It never gets dull, either. We're always thinking up new gimmicks and trying them out."

Tickets for the game are now on sale at the Arena box office, all Wallichs Music City Stores, Humphreys Music Co. and Kenny's Sporting Goods in Long Beach and Judkins Music Co. in Garden Grove. Phone reservations can be made at either HE 7-2771 or HE 7-2255, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

RADIO TRIBUTE SET FOR I, P-T's MEDICK

A special salute to Independent, Press-Telegram sports writer Chuck Medick will be offered by sportcaster Allin Slate on his 7:45 a.m. broadcast Monday on radio station KABC.

Pointing out that Medick, blind virtually all his life, travels with softball teams and other sports events, and holds records for the number of table tennis matches he has refereed, Slate introduces Medick, about whom he heard following a meeting of the Braille Institute's Quarterback Club.

"I don't think of myself as being blind," Medick explains, "but as being on assignment."

He also reveals on the broadcast how, by just the sound of the ball, he is able accurately to referee table tennis.

Medick now has his own radio sports show, twice daily, Monday through Friday, on KLFM.

Gurney Choice at Riverside

By JIM McCORMACK
L. P-T Staff Writer

RIVERSIDE—Dan Gurney is favored today to continue his reign as the only man ever to win the Riverside '500' for stock cars at International Speedway.

Qualifying concluded Saturday with speedway general manager Les Richter turning in the best performance of the day.

It was his prompt action, in the face of a dilemma that could have mushroomed into major proportions, that kept the field intact for today's 11 a.m. blastoff.

The race had already lost NASCAR driving champion Richard Petty through a squabble with NASCAR officials, and for awhile Saturday it looked like U.S. Auto Club king Parnelli Jones would also miss the race.

• • • •

A WEEK-LONG misunderstanding with a technical inspector came to heated debate Saturday afternoon. And Jones, of Torrance, announced that he was withdrawing from the race. A rapidly organized peace parley, which included NASCAR president Bill France, J. C. Agajanian, Jones and Richter, managed to patch up the differences.

The manner in which the ex-Ram dealt with the conflict was so quick that few people at the track were aware of the situation.

Oil slicks and minor difficulties cut deeply into the qualifying times Saturday and only 12 vehicles were able to secure positions. Adding 15 cars from the first two days still left the field 17 short.

• • • •

THE PACK will be completed by adding cars in position, related to their registration for the race.

Anaheim's Billy Cantrell created most of the spectator excitement when he went through turn No. 1 sideways. He lost his rear bumper during the slide at speeds above 80 miles per hour, but managed to control his car, keep it on the track, and go on to qualify.

Darel Dieringer of Charlotte, N. Carolina, logged the day's top speed, 99.03 mph, well back of the 103.957 mph track record Gurney recorded Friday and the 102.84 Junior Johnson ran Thursday to win the pole position.

Fords are expected to dominate the race as 16 of the first 27 vehicles are of that make. With drivers, like A. J. Foyt, Gurney, Johnson, Fred Lorenzen, Skip Hudson and Ned Jarrett, little opposition is expected from other cars.

In fact, only Jones, who dominated USAC stockers with a 1964 Mercury, can be counted on to provide a solid threat.

200 Shooters Seek Diamond Medal Today

Some 200 shooters compete today for the President's Diamond Medal in a divisional meet at the Long Beach-Dominguez Rod and Gun Club.

Doubles: Class A, Vance Anderson, 95; class B, Rowell, 95; class C, Dempsey, 85.

ALAS! LAST OF '64-65 FOOTBALL

West Scores 38-14 Win Over East AFL All-Stars

HOUSTON (UPI) — The West came from a mere three-point halftime lead to eventually romp to a 38-14 win over the East in the American Football League transplanted All-Star game Saturday before a meager turnout of 15,446.

This was the game that finally ended the lengthy football season — collegiates and pros.

San Diego quarterback John Hadl, a first-quarter substitute for the injured starter, Len Dawson of Kansas City, passed for three scores and collaborated on a pitchout play with fellow Charger Keith Lincoln that covered 80 yards. Lincoln also had a 73-yard pass reception from Dawson for a score and the West added a field goal by Kansas City's Tommy Brooker.

• • • •

THE EAST scored on a five-yard run by Houston's Sid Blanks and a 17-yard run by Boston's Nick Buoniconti with a fumble recovery.

The game was almost an anticlimax to a week of confusion and frustration that started last Sunday when the All-Star game was transferred from its intended site, New Orleans, to Houston.

Negro players had complained of New Orleans segregation and voted to boycott a New Orleans appearance.

For his performance, Lincoln was named the game's outstanding offensive player.

| | West | East |
|---|---|---|
| First downs | 15 | 18 |
| Rushing yardage | 153 | 7 |
| Passing yardage | 209 | 182 |

| Passes intercepted by | 3 | 2 |
| Punts | 6-25 | 6-31 |
| Fumbles lost | 1 | 1 |
| Yards penalized | 42 | 12 |

Sports writers picked defensive back Willie Brown of Denver for outstanding defense star.

Dawson got a bloody nose midway in the first quarter and sat out the rest of the game. The game's other casualty was the East's Larry Garron, who suffeed a hip injury in the waning moments of the game.

The West has now won all four All-Star games, by margins of 47-27, 21-14, 27-24 and 38-14.

The West rambled to 209 yards passing, and the East had 182. On the ground, the East was held to seven yards net rushing while the West had 153.

• • • •

DAWSON wasted no time getting the scoring started, tossing to Lincoln on the first play from scrimmage, 73 yards for a score. Brooker kicked the first of his five extra points.

Less than a minute deep in the next quarter, Hadl tossed to Oakland's Clemon Daniels alone in the end zone for a West touchdown.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| West | 7 | 10 | 14 | 7—38 |
| East | 0 | 14 | 0 | 0—14 |

West—Lincoln 73 pass from Dawson (Brooker kick).
West—Daniels 5 pass from Hadl (Brooker kick).

Blades Attempt to Shake the Monkey

By AL LARSON

The Blades, and Howie Young in particular, will try to shake the monkey on their backs tonight when they oppose Portland's surging Buckaroos at the L. A. Sports Arena. Faceoff is at 7 o'clock.

The sagging Blades have lost six of their last seven matches and will be hard-pressed to gain a playoff spot.

• • • •

MEANWHILE, Portland, which has beaten L. A. in six of nine meetings, could take over the Western Hockey League lead if Seattle bows to Victoria. The Totems lead Portland by only one point after squandering a 10-point buldge over the runnerup Bucks in less than a month.

Young, who has dished out approximately $375 for four fines this season, is expected back in the lineup tonight. Coach Alf Pike benched the errant defenseman after the Jan. 6 game against Seattle and Young has seen action in only one of the last four matches.

L. A.'s puckchasers have hosted the Buckaroos four times and of the two-game sets the Blades won the first one then dropped the second. L. A. owns but one win in five meetings at Portland.

Bill Leiser Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Bill Leiser, nationally recognized football expert and sports editor of the San Francisco Chronicle since 1934, died at Presbyterian Hospital Saturday. He was 66.

PUTTING ALONG

Steak Is High for Besselink

By JERRY WYNN
L. P-T Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO—Putting one little word after another:

When Al Besselink was placed on one year's probation by the PGA for alleged gambling on himself in the first round of the San Diego Open, he explained the incident by saying he had "bet a friend a dinner against 10 dinners." To which another pro commented, "He still owes me four dinners."

. . . Besselink's dinners reportedly are priced at $100.

. . . It was not the first time Besselink had been involved in the dinner business. In the 1953 tournament of champions at Las Vegas, he collected a 25-1 bet on himself worth $7,500 in addition to the $100,000 first prize.

. . . Dinners also were at stake on the putting green at the Stardust where the action between a pro and a caddy was going at $50 a hole.

. . . Big Mike Souchak had nothing but trouble in shooting 78 Saturday. He knocked a ball out of bounds on the sixth hole when a fan snapped a camera during his backswing, an incident similar to the one which cost him the lead in the 1961 U.S. Open. And he lost his only birdie of the round when he signed his scorecard for a 4 instead of a 3 on the hole.

• • • •

. . . HOW FAST can a pro swing a golf club? Pro Al Johnston was tested here by a new swing-timer and his D-4 driver went 112 mph. His ball started off traveling approximately at 148 mph.

. . . But Tony Lema claimed he beat that figure Friday with a drive from the 9th tee. "There was a sonic boom just after I finished my backswing and that ball took off like a rocket."

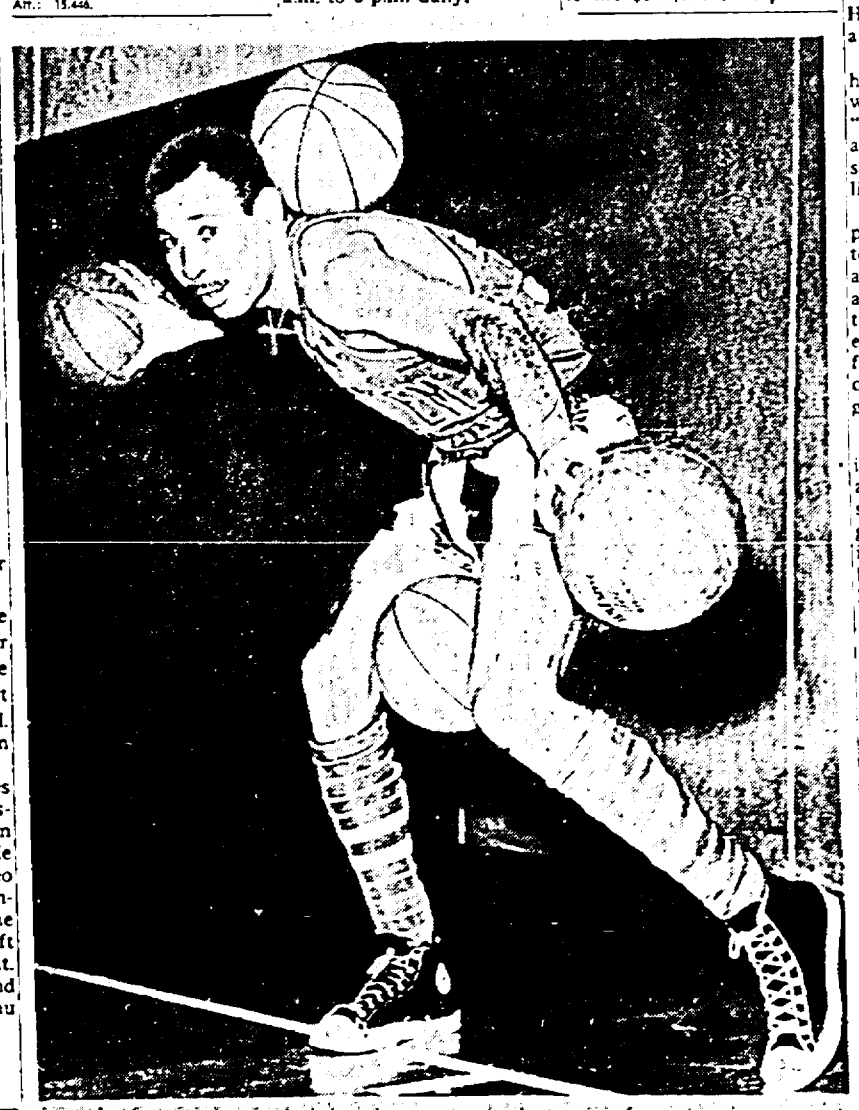

. . . Gene Littler, Bill Casper and Phil Rodgers are tournament sponsors as well as participants. They were among 345 persons who contributed $100 to the San Diego Century Cub to help finance the tournament. Proceeds go to promote junior golf.

• • • •

. . . THE PUTTING green is in back of the clubhouse, and the players practice their strokes to the music of a group of violinists playing inside. To which Miller Barber commented, "I'm putting like Stradavarsky."

. . . A neighboring hotel, which houses many of the players, is offering free room and board for the week to the pro who shoots the low final round today.

. . . Pebble Beach is the next stop on the tour with the $100,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur starting Thursday. Jack Nicklaus will play and Ben Hogan will attend as a spectator. He is Crosby's house guest.

Harrison Captains Trotter Fun

Charles (Tex) Harrison not only is in his 12th season with the Harlem Globetrotters but now also serves as captain of the world-renowned magicians, who will make their annual one-night stop at the Long Beach Arena Saturday, Jan. 30.

The 6-4 leader first came to the Globetrotters' attention while starring at Wheatley High School in his native Houston, Tex., and later at North Carolina College.

Is there a problem going through a long season without a championship at stake?

"There are other things to consider," says Harrison. "Even if there isn't a pennant to be decided, I feel we still have a job to do. That means not only to provide a good brand of basketball each night but also to entertain the fans.

"Playing for the Globetrotters is as much a part of me as brushing my teeth. It never gets dull, either. We're always thinking up new gimmicks and trying them out."

Tickets for the game are now on sale at the Arena box office, all Wallichs Music City Stores, Humphreys Music Co. and Kenny's Sporting Goods in Long Beach and Judkins Music Co. in Garden Grove. Phone reservations can be made at either HE 7-2771 or HE 7-2255, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

RADIO TRIBUTE SET FOR I, P-T's MEDICK

A special salute to Independent, Press-Telegram sports writer Chuck Medick will be offered by sportcaster Allin Slate on his 7:45 a.m. broadcast Monday on radio station KABC.

Pointing out that Medick, blind virtually all his life, travels with softball teams and other sports events, and holds records for the number of table tennis matches he has refereed, Slate introduces Medick, about whom he heard following a meeting of the Braille Institute's Quarterback Club.

"I don't think of myself as being blind," Medick explains, "but as being on assignment."

He also reveals on the broadcast how, by just the sound of the ball, he is able accurately to referee table tennis.

Medick now has his own radio sports show, twice daily, Monday through Friday, on KLFM.

Gurney Choice at Riverside

By JIM McCORMACK
I. P-T Staff Writer

RIVERSIDE — Dan Gurney is favored today to continue his reign as the only man ever to win the Riverside '500' for stock cars at International Speedway.

Qualifying concluded Saturday with speedway general manager Les Richter turning in the best performance of the day.

It was his prompt action, in the face of a dilemma that could have mushroomed into major proportions, that kept the field intact for today's 11 a.m. blastoff.

The race had already lost NASCAR driving champion Richard Petty through a squabble with NASCAR officials, and for awhile Saturday it looked like U.S. Auto Club king Parnelli Jones would also miss the race.

* * * *

A WEEK-LONG misunderstanding with a technical inspector came to heated debate Saturday afternoon. And Jones, of Torrance, announced that he was withdrawing from the race. A rapidly organized peace parley, which included NASCAR president Bill France, J. C. Agajanian, Jones and Richter, managed to patch up the differences.

The manner in which the ex-Ram dealt with the conflict was so quick that few people at the track were aware of the situation.

Oil slicks and minor difficulties cut deeply into the qualifying times Saturday and only 12 vehicles were able to secure positions. Adding 15 cars from the first two days still left the field 17 short.

* * * *

THE PACK will be completed by adding cars in position, related to their registration for the race.

Anaheim's Billy Cantrell created most of the spectator excitement when he went through turn No. 1 sideways. He lost his rear bumper during the slide at speeds above 80 miles per hour, but managed to control his car, keep it on the track, and go on to qualify.

Darel Dieringer of Charlotte, N. Carolina, logged the day's top speed, 99.03 mph, well back of the 103.957 mph track record Gurney recorded Friday and the 102.84 Junior Johnson ran Thursday to win the pole position.

Fords are expected to dominate the race as 16 of the first 27 vehicles are of that make. With drivers, like A. J. Foyt, Gurney, Johnson, Fred Lorenzen, Skip Hudson and Ned Jarrett, little opposition is expected from other cars.

In fact, only Jones, who dominated USAC stockers with a 1964 Mercury, can be counted on to provide a solid threat.

200 Shooters Seek Diamond Medal Today

Some 200 shooters compete today for the President's Diamond Medal in a divisional meet at the Long Beach-Dominguez Rod and Gun Club.

Dick Lane of Riverside was the combination score winner in Saturday's competition.

Preliminary handicap: Tie between Jimy Dempsey and Louis Brandt, 95 (Dempsey won shootoff); yardbird winners, Brandt, 95; Ken Whitley, 94; Couch, 93; Lane, 93; high lady, Hilton, 94; high junior, Don Carlson, 89.

Doubles: Class A, Vance Anderson, 95; class B, Rowell, 95; class C, Dempsey, 85.

ALAS! LAST OF '64-65 FOOTBALL

West Scores 38-14 Win Over East AFL All-Stars

HOUSTON (UPI) — The West came from a mere three-point halftime lead to eventually romp to a 38-14 win over the East in the American Football League transplanted All-Star game Saturday before a meager turnout of 15,446.

This was the game that finally ended the lengthy football season — collegiates and pros.

San Diego quarterback John Hadl, a first-quarter substitute for the injured starter, Len Dawson of Kansas City, passed for three scores and collaborated on a pitchout play with fellow Charger Keith Lincoln that covered 80 yards. Lincoln also had a 73-yard pass reception from Dawson for a score and the West added a field goal by Kansas City's Tommy Brooker.

* * * *

THE EAST scored on a five-yard run by Houston's Sid Blanks and a 17-yard run by Boston's Nick Buoniconti with a fumble recovery.

The game was almost an anticlimax to a week of confusion and frustration that started last Sunday when the All-Star game was transferred from its intended site, New Orleans, to Houston.

Negro players had complained of New Orleans segregation and voted to boycott a New Orleans appearance.

For his performance, Lincoln was named the game's outstanding offensive player.

| | West | East |
|---|---|---|
| First downs | 15 | 16 |
| Rushing yardage | 153 | 7 |
| Passing yardage | 209 | 162 |

| Passes intercepted by | 2 | 2 |
| Punts | 6-23 | 6-51 |
| Fumbles lost | 1 | 1 |
| Yards penalized | 47 | 12 |

Sports writers picked defensive back Willie Brown of Denver for outstanding defense star.

Dawson got a bloody nose midway in the first quarter and sat out the rest of the game. The game's other casualty was the East's Larry Garron, who suffered a hip injury in the waning moments of the game.

The West has now won all four All-Star games, by margins of 47-27, 21-14, 27-24 and 38-14.

The West rambled to 209 yards passing, and the East had 182. On the ground, the East was held to seven yards net rushing while the West had 153.

* * * *

DAWSON wasted no time getting the scoring started, tossing to Lincoln on the first play from scrimmage, 73 yards for a score. Brooker kicked the first of his five extra points.

Less than a minute deep in the next quarter, Hadl tossed to Oakland's Clemon Daniels alone in the end zone for a West touchdown.

Blades Attempt to Shake the Monkey

By AL LARSON

The Blades, and Howie Young in particular, will try to shake the monkey on their backs tonight when they oppose Portland's surging Buckaroos at the L. A. Sports Arena. Facenff is at 7 o'clock.

The sagging Blades have lost six of their last seven matches and will be hard-pressed to gain a playoff spot.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, Portland, which has beaten L. A. in six of nine meetings, could take over the Western Hockey League lead if Seattle bows to Victoria. The Totems lead Portland by only one point after squandering a 10-point buildge over the runnerup Bucks in less than a month.

Young, who has dished out approximately $375 for four fines this season, is expected back in the lineup tonight. Coach Alf Pike benched the errant defenseman after the Jan. 6 game against Seattle and Young has seen action in only one of the last four matches.

L. A.'s puckchasers have hosted the Buckaroos four times and of the two-game sets the Blades won the first one then dropped the second. L. A. owns but one win in five meetings at Portland.

Steak Is High for Besselink

By JERRY WYNN
I. P-T Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO—Putting one little word after another:

When Al Besselink was placed on one year's probation by the PGA for alleged gambling on himself in the first round of the San Diego Open, he explained the incident by saying he had "bet a friend a dinner against 10 dinners." To which another pro commented, "he still owes me four dinners."

. . . Besselink's dinners reportedly are priced at $100.

. . . It was not the first time Besselink had been involved in the dinner business. In the 1953 tournament of champions at Las Vegas, he collected a 25-1 bet on himself worth $7,500 in addition to the $100,000 first prize.

. . . Dinners also were at stake on the putting green at the Stardust where the action between a pro and a caddy was going at $50 a hole.

. . . Big Mike Souchak had nothing but trouble in shooting 78 Saturday. He knocked a ball out of bounds on the sixth hole when a fan snapped a camera during his backswing, an incident similar to the one which cost him the lead in the 1961 U. S. Open. And he lost his only birdie of the round when he signed his scorecard for a 4 instead of a 3 on the hole.

* * * *

. . . HOW FAST can a pro swing a golf club? Pro Al Johnston was tested here by a new swing-timer and his D-4 driver went 112 mph. His ball started off traveling approximately at 148 mph.

. . . But Tony Lema claimed he beat that figure Friday with a drive from the 9th tee. "There was a sonic boom just after I finished my backswing and that ball took off like a rocket."

. . . Gene Littler, Bill Casper and Phil Rodgers are tournament sponsors as well as participants. They were among 345 persons who contributed $100 to the San Diego Century Club to help finance the tournament. Proceeds go to promote junior golf.

* * * *

. . . THE PUTTING green is in back of the clubhouse, and the players practice their strokes to the music of a group of violinists playing inside. To which Miller Barber commented, "I'm putting like Stradavarsky."

. . . A neighboring hotel, which houses many of the players, is offering free room and board for the week to the pro who shoots the low final round today.

. . . Pebble Beach is the next stop on the tour with the $100,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur starting Thursday. Jack Nicklaus will play and Ben Hogan will attend as a spectator. He is Crosby's house guest.

Gilmer Continues Defense Trend

Two quarterbacks from the University of Alabama have been in the headlines the past few days . . . Joe Namath, who signed a $400,000 contract to play pro football with the New York Jets of the AFL, and Harry Gilmer, who was signed as the new head coach of the NFL's Detroit Lions.

Ironically, Gilmer left Alabama 17 years ago as much in demand by the pros of that day as was Namath the past season.

Gilmer, now 38, was the most prized college passing prospect in the 1947 crop of college seniors.

HARRY GILMER
Schooled by Parker

He reportedly asked $50,000 to sign with the Washington Redskins, but he was not as fortunate as his modern-day counterpart because he signed for much less than his asking price.

Gilmer set Alabama career passing and total offense records that even Namath couldn't break. However, Harry played four years and Namath only three because freshmen were permitted to play varsity ball during the war years.

From 1944 through '47, Gilmer completed 219 of 412 passes for 2,894 yards and 23 touchdowns. He also played in three bowl games and had the distinction of being named as the most valuable player in two—including the 1946 Rose Bowl game when he led the Crimson Tide to a 34-14 victory over USC.

That was the last Rose Bowl game before the Pacific Coast schools entered into the contract with the Big Ten to provide their opponents on New Year's Day.

USC that year prepared to stop Gilmer's passing, but he crossed the Trojans by running for 116 yards.

• • • •

ACTUALLY, IT WAS JUST AS WELL GILMER lowered his financial sights when he became a pro for he turned out to be considerably less than an $80,000 quarterback in the days when that sum was almost comparable to Namath's $400,000.

Gilmer spent seven unspectacular seasons with the Redskins before being traded to Detroit in 1955. Washington used him mostly as a defensive back in his final years with them, but the Lions deployed him as the backup man for Bobby Layne.

He was the No. 2 quarterback with the Lions for two seasons before coach Buddy Parker suggested and then convinced him that he had a bright future as a coach and, in fact, lined up an assistant coaching job for Harry at Pittsburgh in '57.

Strangely enough, Parker followed him to Pittsburgh two months later as head coach. Gilmer remained with Buddy through 1960.

When the Minnesota Vikings were formed in 1961, head coach Norm Van Brocklin picked Gilmer as his No. 1 defensive assistant and credits him with making the Vikes a respectable team, defensively.

• • • •

GILMER'S WORK WAS HAILED THROUGHOUT THE LEAGUE the past season when he had to rebuild the Viking secondary after three regulars were lost—one through accidental death and two by injuries.

In naming Gilmer, the Lions underscored the recent trend in the NFL of picking defensive specialists as head coaches. Eight of the last 11 head coaching job vacancies during the past five years have been filled by men with defensive coaching credentials.

In addition to Gilmer, they are Don Shula, Blanton Collier, Jack Christiansen, Harland Svare, Wally Lemm, Bill McPeak and Tom Landry.

George Wilson, who resigned three weeks ago when Lion owner William Clay Ford fired his assistants, has declared he was quite surprised at Gilmer's selection. It is known, though, that Gilmer's name was at the top of a list of 16 candidates submitted to Wilson from which he was to choose a new staff.

Wilson, who is expected to accept an AFL coaching post within the next few days, quit the next day.

• • • •

MEANWHILE, THE SUDDEN RESIGNATION OF BILL AUSTIN, Vince Lombardi's chief aide at Green Bay, touched off speculation that he quit because the latter may have blocked his chances at getting the Detroit job.

After Wilson resigned, Austin's name was the most prominently mentioned as his successor. It was noted then that two clubs were interested in hiring him as a head coach a year ago, but that Lombardi reportedly refused to allow them to talk with him.

After Austin apparently was "eliminated," Sonny Grandelius, last of Wilson's assistants to be released, but who was retained by the club to handle player-signing assignments, reportedly told several people in Detroit that he had the job locked up.

However, a premature newspaper story, reporting that he would be signed, is being blamed as one of the primary reasons he was "torpedoed."

Buck Retread Doesn't Show Mileage on Ice

By RICH ROBERTS

If Andy Hebenton were a used car, his Blue Book value wouldn't be worth the hubcaps.

But take a closer look.

HEBENTON

Kick the tires . . . still plenty of tread left.

Listen to the engine . . . hmnn, sounds pretty smooth.

Check the body . . . well, outside of a few nicks, it's in pretty good shape.

Mileage doesn't tell the whole story, with used cars or hockey players, and Hebenton is a strong case in point.

He'll be with the Portland Buckaroos against the Blades for tonight's game at the L.A. Sports Arena. You can be certain of that.

At least, he hasn't missed the last 925.

While Howie Young pauses to consider that statistic, it should be pointed out that no other hockey player can touch Hebenton's record for durability.

• • • •

HE HOLDS the National Hockey League record of 649 consecutive games, including eight full seasons with the New York Rangers and last season with the Boston Bruins.

Before that he had 236 with Victoria in the Western Hockey League and enters tonight's activity working on an extended string of 40 this season.

At 5-9 and 185 pounds, the left winger isn't the biggest man around, but he has been fortunate with injuries.

• • • •

"I'VE BEEN hurt a few times," Hebenton admits, "but never too seriously, and I've always had a few days between games to recover, the way the schedule worked out."

Hebenton played under Blade coach Alf Pike with the Rangers in 1959-60 and '60-61.

Pike says, "He doesn't get hurt much because he doesn't do too much checking, but he's a good steady, honest hockey player."

Blade fans can testify to that. The last time the Buckaroos hit town Hebenton scored two goals in a 5-1 rout.

• • • •

HEBENTON, 35, doesn't admit he may be nearing the end of his 15-year pro career with the 1,000 mark within reach next season.

"I didn't play too much at Boston last year," he says. "I don't know why."

However, by his own evaluation his prospects for an indefinite lease on life are good in the WHL.

"From what I've seen, it's more of a wide-open game out here, without so much checking. I could go on forever."

Unprecedented 23 Records by Lakewood Aquas

The Lakewood Aquatic Club set an unprecedented 23 meet records Saturday in the Los Angeles-Orange County swim relays at Cerritos College. Lakewood totaled 803 points.

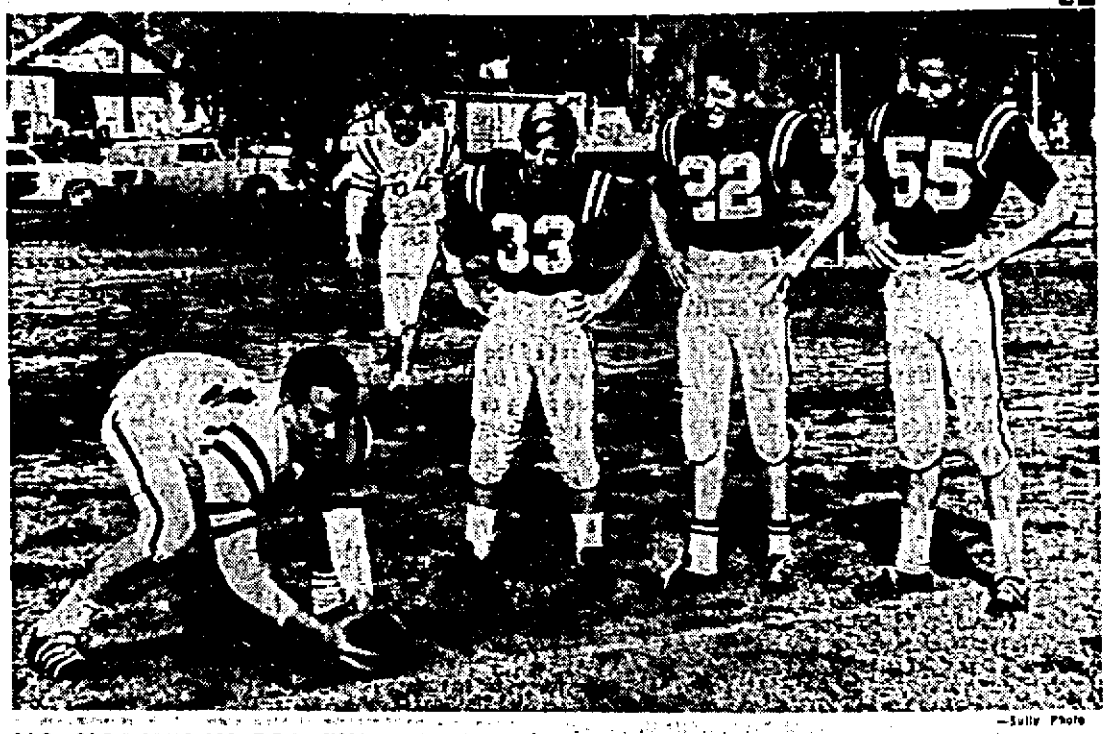

The girls 9-10 teams of Pam Lines, Katy Woods, Susie Bestudik and Ann Hoffman swam in six events and set records in each.

In boys 9-10, Peter Dunworth, Steve Henley, Rick Flippen, Dave Fryefield, Mike Chamis, Robert and Alan Boyle were involved in records. In 11-12, Larry Bush, Doug and Dan Green, Steve Guerin, Robert Neumann, Bruce Bauder, Jim Hoffman and Steve Shaw helped set four records.

Angel Treasury Sound; Season Sales Exceed '64

By ROSS NEWHAN

With Angel salaries inflating faster than the national debt, it is a source of comfort to Gene Autry that the Angel treasury also will reach an all-time high in 1965.

Two pieces of information bring the I, P-T to this conclusion.

1. The Angels will receive $300,000 from the network television package baseball recently negotiated with ABC.

2. The sale of season tickets will eclipse last year's 2,000 despite the freeway exodus to Anaheim in 1966.

The latter revelation comes from the Angels' director of ticket sales, Harold Parrott.

"With the announcement of our move to Anaheim I was very apprehensive as to our chances for selling many season tickets," said Parrott, "but it's now my guess that we'll do better than the 2,000 of last year.

"The move to Anaheim has caused no resistance among our old season ticket holders and it has, of course, created a tremendous response from Orange County.

• • • •

"IT IS THE feeling there that if they buy season tickets this year they will be in on the ground floor next season. We are however not offering anything for 1966 that can't also be delivered in 1965. That would be a sure way to antagonize our old fans and we believe thousands of them will follow us to Anaheim.

"It is as if there is a fine old restaurant two blocks up the street and then a new restaurant opens next door to your home. You are still going to the old restaurant because you know you'll be satisfied.

"After all, driving to Anaheim is not like crossing the Andes despite what has been written by some of the metropolitan sports scribes."

• • • •

THE "TREMENDOUS response" engendered in suburban areas by the Angels' move to Anaheim has affected Long Beach. "For example," said Parrott, "the Long Beach Hospital has purchased eight box seats this year, that's a first.

"I think there is more, however, than just a desire to be on the ground floor in Anaheim. There is now a great deal of on-the-field attractiveness about the Angels and of course a lot of talk about Dean Chance."

There is a belief that the young, strong righthander is the only high-salaried Angel, but that is no longer the case and thus the sudden and surprising ticket-sale success has eased the bite on Autry's money bags.

• • • •

WHILE Chance has agreed to a $41,000 contract (he is still negotiating for $3,000 tax free during spring training), general manager Fred Haney has already promised Albie Pearson $31,000, Jimmy Piersall $30,000 and will shortly announce the signing of Joe Adcock for $38,000 and Jim Fregosi for $32,000.

Haney revealed Saturday that veteran southpaw Don Mossi, 35, has accepted an invitation to join the Angels in spring training. After spending five years with Cleveland and a similar number with Detroit, Mossi compiled a 3-1 record in 34 relief appearances with Chicago last season.

Mossi can take solace in the fact that if struck by any of the infirmities of old age while pitching at Dodger Stadium, Long Beach Hospital officials will now be close enough to render aid.

CONIGLIARO TRIES FOR HIT RECORD

BOSTON (UPI)—"As a father, I know I'd rather see Tony Conigliaro coming in the door than any of the Beatles or the Animals. Besides, he sings better than any of them."

Ed Penney, the promoter behind Boston Red Sox outfielder Tony Conigliaro's entry into the pop music field, insists that his youthful partner could "make it on his own even if he wasn't a baseball player."

Penney and Conigliaro have formed a corporation and will play publicly for the first time Tuesday night the 20-year-old ballplayer's first two recordings.

Winters Is Baseball Dinner MC

Jonathan Winters, top-ranked screen and television comedian and impressionist, will serve as master of ceremonies for the eighth annual Baseball Writers' Association awards dinner to be staged at the Hollywood Palladium, Friday, Feb. 12.

WINTERS

Winters' selection to emcee the star-studded program, featuring the presentation of awards to Dodger and Angel players, was announced Saturday by Bud Furillo, chairman of the L.A. chapter.

Tickets, at $20 per plate, may be reserved at association headquarters, 1352 Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles, phone MA 6-7678.

Billie Jean in Semifinals of Aussie Cup Play

MELBOURNE, Australia (Sunday) (UPI)—The United States team of Billie Jean Moffitt and Carole Caldwell Graebner squared off against Great Britain in a semifinal pairing of the Federation Cup Lawn Tennis Championships today while defending champion Australia faced a surprising French team.

The Americans received little resistance from the Italians in Saturday's quarterfinal series, dropping only seven games and no sets en route to a 3-0 sweep.

Britain earned the right to face the U.S. with a narrow 2-1 victory over South Africa. Australia crushed New Zealand and France upset the Brazilian team, which included Wimbledon and American titlist Maria Bueno.

Miss Moffitt, of Long Beach, Calif., smashed her way to a 6-3, 6-1, victory over Lea Pericola.

Jockeys in Grid Charity

By JOHN CASH

There is sure to be some horseplay today when the on-again off-again football game between the Santa Anita jockeys and a graduate team of Pop Warner Orange County all-stars is staged at Bolsa Grande High Stadium. Kickoff is at 2.

Under the expert tutelage of former San Francisco 49er end Paul Salata as head coach, along with assistants Jon (Little Bear) Arnett, the McKeever twins — Marlin and Mike, and kicking artists Ben Agajanian and Sam (The Toe) Tsagalakis, the jockeys will be favored.

Favored to be there, that is. But they won't have the horses this time.

• • • •

PROCEEDS will be donated to the Orange County Pop Warner football program for next season.

The game was cancelled for 24 hours by national Pop Warner headquarters, then received sanction because the boys competing (7th and 8th graders) are no longer eligible for Pop Warner action and the jockeys will receive nothing (but trouble) for their services.

With a forward wall totaling 409 pounds on defense, spearheaded by Bill Hartack, and a backfield directed by tailback Alex Maese, the jockeys will sport a small, but mighty aggregation.

SHOOTING STATS PROVE IT

No Comparison! NBA Pros Far More Skillful Today

By DOUG IVES

Even the staunchest critic must admit that basketball, in general, and pro basketball in particular, is played with far greater skill than at any time since Dr. James Naismith first used a peach basket and soccer ball to found the game.

The truth of the matter is that today's pros are far better than those that played, say, 19 years ago, when the NBA came into existence as the Basketball Assn. of America. Not only that, but the pros are getting better every year.

Right now NBA players hit the target at a .433 average. This is 55% higher than the first BAA season in 1946-47, when the pros hit a .279 clip.

When the NBA began, teams averaged 67 points per game. Last year, the nine NBA teams came in at at 111 points per contest. Obviously, the big reason for the jump is the 24-second rule, which went into effect at the start of the 1954-55 season.

Since the 1957-58 season, the first one in which all eight teams averaged 100 points, scores have gone up steadily with the exception of last year. Shooting percentages in the same span have been boosted 13%; the pros obviously are getting better.

Back in the mid-forties, one of the BAA's sharpest shooters was Max Zaslofsky of the Chicago Stags. His percentages for four seasons were .329, .350 and .351.

Look now to Oscar Robertson. The first four years he shot .472, .478, .518 and .483.

• • • •

THE OVERALL comparison shows that Oscar, at .488, rates some 45% sharper from the field than Max, who averaged .338 for his best four years.

More recent comparisons—Zaslofsky, after all, is ancient history so far as high-scoring pro basketball is concerned—are not quite as dramatic but still reflect the increased accuracy of today's pros.

Bill Sharman, considered an outstanding shooter, hit clips of .438, .416, .424 and .408 in the years 1955-59. That's an average of .422.

Contrastingly, Jerry West's average since 1960 has been .451. It should be remembered that Sharman's best years are listed, while West may still be short of his peak (West's present average is .502).

• • • •

A MORE striking example can be drawn by comparing George Mikan with Wilt Chamberlain. It's no contest. In Mikan's top five seasons he shot at a .399 pace, while Chamberlain has averaged .505 in his five years in the NBA.

What accounts for this increased shooting skill on the part of the pros?

A large part is the natural result of increased emphasis on shooting. The development and refinement of both the one-hander and jumpshot also have been factors.

And, in recent years, a revived emphasis on defense—due to the Russell-led Celtics — has forced stern shooting discipline. The result is better basketball and, for club owners, climbing attendance.

Eye-dealistic Ref Won't See Dr.—Suspended

BEECHVILLE, Ont. (UPI)—National Hockey League lineman George Hayes stuck to his guns Saturday—he won't take an eye test, as ordered by NHL president Clarence Campbell — even though it may cost him his job.

Hayes, who has officiated in 1,513 games, was suspended by Campbell after he refused to undergo the test.

The 44-year-old Hayes, who has been with the league for 19 years, said even if he faced being fired, he would not submit to the test.

"One of my principles is staying away from doctors," he said. "Besides, I know my eyes are good. In my opinion, I prove it often enough on the ice and that's what counts. Not some chart in a doctor's office."

He said Bill Chadwick, now in the Hall of Fame, was "one of the best referees they ever had in the NHL and he had only 15% vision in one eye."

PRICE IS 'RELATIVE,' MOM MAY BUY SON

LONDON (UPI) — The Charlton Soccer Club will make a decision soon on a request by Mrs. Letty Durandt to buy her son Cliff's contract so he can return to South Africa and take over the family business.

Mrs. Durandt flew in to ask Charlton if she can pay a fee for her son so that he can take over the typewriter firm from which his father, Nick, wants to retire. Cliff also wants to play part-time soccer, so the break from Charlton must be official.

"I don't know exactly how much we can afford," she said, "up to several thousands of pounds with my husband's approval I know."

Charlton valued Durandt at 9,000 pounds ($25,200) a few months back when Durban City and Durban United wanted to sign him. Those deals fell through. But he has been injured, or in the reserves, recently and there has been a drop in his market price.

Charlton paid the Wolves 15,000 pounds ($842,000) for the 24-year-old inside forward 18 months ago.

Charlton manager Frank Hill said, "it is entirely up to Mrs. Durandt. I hope to settle the matter by Monday. I'm sure our fee will be very reasonable."

Durandt's wife, Wendy, said "he is sick and tired of Charlton and he wants to go home whatever happens."

If the deal goes through it will be the first ever recorded of a mother buying her son from a football club.

Once Over Lightly

Gilmer Continues Defense Trend

Two quarterbacks from the University of Alabama have been in the headlines the past few days . . . Joe Namath, who signed a $400,000 contract to play pro football with the New York Jets of the AFL, and Harry Gilmer, who was signed as the new head coach of the NFL's Detroit Lions.

Ironically, Gilmer left Alabama 17 years ago as much in demand by the pros of that day as was Namath the past season.

Gilmer, now 38, was the most prized college passing prospect in the 1947 crop of college seniors.

HARRY GILMER
Schooled by Parker

He reportedly asked $80,000 to sign with the Washington Redskins, but he was not as fortunate as his modern-day counterpart because he signed for much less than his asking price.

Gilmer set Alabama career passing and total offense records that even Namath couldn't break. However, Harry played four years and Namath only three because freshmen were permitted to play varsity ball during the war years.

From 1944 through '47, Gilmer completed 219 of 412 passes for 2,894 yards and 23 touchdowns. He also played in three bowl games and had the distinction of being named as the most valuable player in two—including the 1946 Rose Bowl game when he led the Crimson Tide to a 34-14 victory over USC.

That was the last Rose Bowl game before the Pacific Coast schools entered into the contract with the Big Ten to provide their opponents on New Year's Day.

USC that year prepared to stop Gilmer's passing, but he crossed the Trojans by running for 116 yards.

* * * *

ACTUALLY, IT WAS JUST AS WELL GILMER lowered his financial sights when he became a pro for he turned out to be considerably less than an $80,000 quarterback in the days when that sum was almost comparable to Namath's $400,000.

Gilmer spent seven unspectacular seasons with the Redskins before being traded to Detroit in 1955. Washington used him mostly as a defensive back in his final years with them, but the Lions deployed him as the backup man for Bobby Layne.

He was the No. 2 quarterback with the Lions for two seasons before coach Buddy Parker suggested and then convinced him that he had a bright future as a coach and, in fact, lined up an assistant coaching job for Harry at Pittsburgh in '57.

Strangely enough, Parker followed him to Pittsburgh two months later as head coach. Gilmer remained with Buddy through 1960.

When the Minnesota Vikings were formed in 1961, head coach Norm Van Brocklin picked Gilmer as his No. 1 defensive assistant and credits him with making the Vikes a respectable team, defensively.

* * * *

GILMER'S WORK WAS HAILED THROUGHOUT THE LEAGUE the past season when he had to rebuild the Viking secondary after three regulars were lost — one through accidental death and two by injuries.

In naming Gilmer, the Lions underscored the recent trend in the NFL of picking defensive specialists as head coaches. Eight of the last 11 head coaching job vacancies during the past five years have been filled by men with defensive coaching credentials.

In addition to Gilmer, they are Don Shula, Blanton Collier, Jack Christiansen, Harland Svare, Wally Lemm, Bill McPeak and Tom Landry.

George Wilson, who resigned three weeks ago when Lion owner William Clay Ford fired his assistants, has declared he was quite surprised at Gilmer's selection. It is known, though, that Gilmer's name was at the top of a list of 16 candidates submitted to Wilson from which he was to choose a new staff.

Wilson, who is expected to accept an AFL coaching post within the next few days, quit the next day.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, THE SUDDEN RESIGNATION OF BILL AUSTIN, Vince Lombardi's chief aide at Green Bay, touched off speculation that he quit because the latter may have blocked his chances at getting the Detroit job.

After Wilson resigned, Austin's name was the most prominently mentioned as his successor. It was noted then that two clubs were interested in hiring him as a head coach a year ago, but that Lombardi reportedly refused to allow them to talk with him.

After Austin apparently was "eliminated," Sonny Grandelius, last of Wilson's assistants to be released, but who was retained by the club to handle player-signing assignments, reportedly told several people in Detroit that he had the job locked up.

However, a premature newspaper story, reporting that he would be signed, is being blamed as one of the primary reasons he was "torpedoed."

Buck Retread Doesn't Show Mileage on Ice

By RICH ROBERTS

If Andy Hebenton were a used car, his Blue Book value wouldn't be worth the hubcaps.

But take a closer look.

Kick the tires . . . still plenty of tread left.

Listen to the engine . . . hmnn, sounds pretty smooth.

Check the body . . . well, outside of a few nicks, it's in pretty good shape.

Mileage doesn't tell the whole story, with used cars or hockey players, and Hebenton is a strong case in point.

He'll be with the Portland Buckaroos against the Blades for tonight's game at the L.A. Sports Arena. You can be certain of that.

At least, he hasn't missed the last 925.

While Howie Young pauses to consider that statistic, it should be pointed out that no other hockey player can touch Hebenton's record for durability.

* * * *

HE HOLDS the National Hockey League record of 649 consecutive games, including eight full seasons with the New York Rangers and last season with the Boston Bruins.

Before that he had 236 with Victoria in the Western Hockey League and enters tonight's activity working on an extended string of 40 this season.

At 5-9 and 185 pounds, the left winger isn't the biggest man around, but he has been fortunate with injuries.

* * * *

"I'VE BEEN hurt a few times," Hebenton admits, "but never too seriously, and I've always had a few days between games to recover, the way the schedule worked out."

Hebenton played under Blade coach Alf Pike with the Rangers in 1959-60 and '60-61.

Pike says, "He doesn't get hurt much because he doesn't do too much checking, but he's a good steady, honest hockey player."

Blade fans can testify to that. The last time the Buckaroos hit town Hebenton scored two goals in a 5-1 rout.

* * * *

HEBENTON, 35, doesn't admit he may be nearing the end of his 15-year pro career with the 1,000 mark within reach next season.

"I didn't play too much at Boston last year," he says. "I don't know why."

However, by his own evaluation his prospects for an indefinite lease on life are good in the WHL.

"From what I've seen, it's more of a wide-open game out here, without so much checking, I could go on forever."

Unprecedented 23 Records by Lakewood Aquas

The Lakewood Aquatic Club set an unprecedented 23 meet records Saturday in the Los Angeles-Orange County swim relays at Cerritos College. Lakewood totaled 803 points.

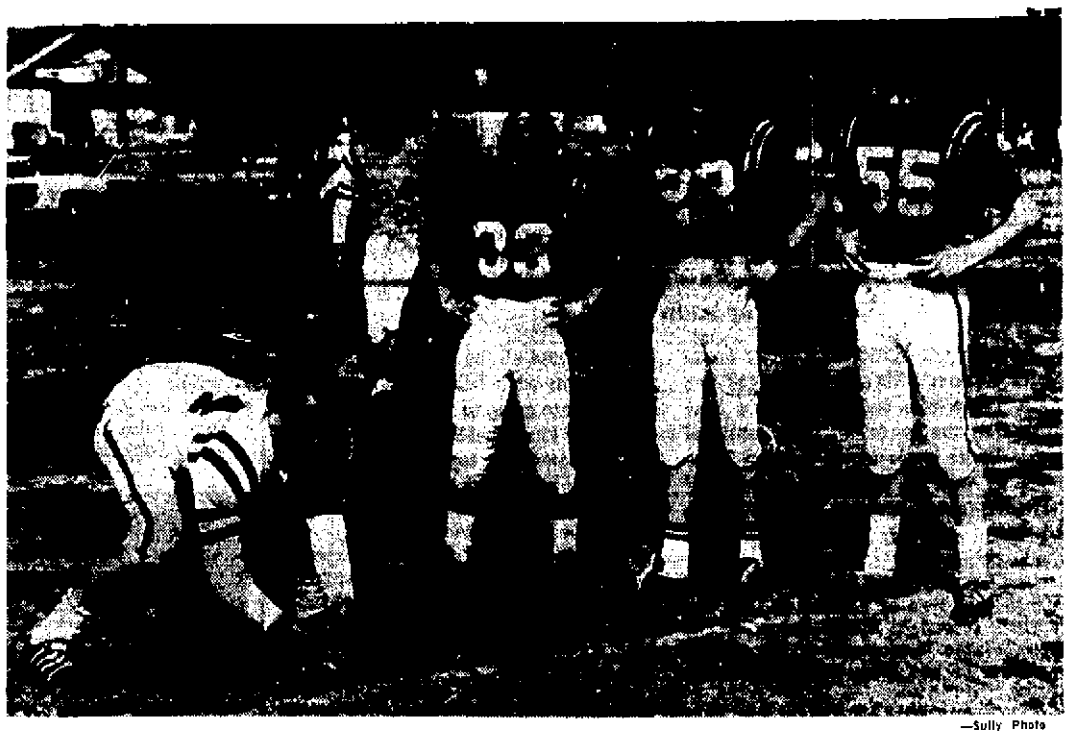

The girls 9-10 teams of Pam Lines, Katy Woods, Susie Bestudik and Ann Hoffman swam in six events and set records in each.

In boys 9-10, Peter Dunworth, Steve Henley, Rick Flippen, Dave Fryefield, Mike Chamis, Robert and Alan Boyle were involved in records. In 11-12, Larry Bush, Doug and Dan Green, Steve Guerin, Robert Neumann, Bruce Bauder, Jim Hoffman and Steve Shaw helped set four records.

Angel Treasury Sound; Season Sales Exceed '64

By ROSS NEWHAN

With Angel salaries inflating faster than the national debt, it is a source of comfort to Gene Autry that the Angel treasury also will reach an all-time high in 1965.

Two pieces of information bring the I, P-T to this conclusion.

1. The Angels will receive $300,000 from the network television package baseball recently negotiated with ABC.

2. The sale of season tickets will eclipse last year's 2,000 despite the freeway exodus to Anaheim in 1966.

The latter revelation comes from the Angels' director of ticket sales, Harold Parrott.

"With the announcement of our move to Anaheim I was very apprehensive as to our chances for selling many season tickets," said Parrott, "but it's now my guess that we'll do better than the 2,000 of last year.

"The move to Anaheim has caused no resistance among our old season ticket holders and it has, of course, created a tremendous response from Orange County.

* * * *

"IT IS THE feeling there that if they buy season tickets this year they will be in on the ground floor next season. We are however not offering anything for 1966 that can't also be delivered in 1965. That would be a sure way to antagonize our old fans and we believe thousands of them will follow us to Anaheim.

"It is as if there is a fine old restaurant two blocks up the street and then a new restaurant opens next door to your home. You are still going to the old restaurant because you know you'll be satisfied.

"After all, driving to Anaheim is not like crossing the Andes despite what has been written by some of the metropolitan sports scribes."

* * * *

THE "TREMENDOUS response" engendered in suburban areas by the Angels' move to Anaheim has affected Long Beach. "For example," said Parrott, "the Long Beach Hospital has purchased eight box seats this year, that's a first.

"I think there is more, however, than just a desire to be on the ground floor in Anaheim. There is now a great deal of on-the-field attractiveness about the Angels and of course a lot of talk about Dean Chance."

There is a belief that the young, strong righthander is the only high-salaried Angel, but that is no longer the case and thus the sudden and surprising ticket-sale success has eased the bite on Autry's money bags.

* * * *

WHILE Chance has agreed, to a $41,000 contract (he is still negotiating for $3,000 tax free during spring training), general manager Fred Haney has already promised Albie Pearson $31,000, Jimmy Piersall $30,000 and will shortly announce the signing of Joe Adcock for $38,000 and Jim Fregosi for $32,000.

Haney revealed Saturday that veteran southpaw Don Mossi, 35, has accepted an invitation to join the Angels in spring training. After spending five years with Cleveland and a similar number with Detroit, Mossi compiled a 3-1 record in 34 relief appearances with Chicago last season.

Mossi can take solace in the fact that if struck by any of the infirmities of old age while pitching at Dodger Stadium, Long Beach Hospital officials will now be close enough to render aid.

CONIGLIARO TRIES FOR HIT RECORD

BOSTON (UPI) — "As a father, I know I'd rather see Tony Conigliaro coming in the door than any of the Beatles or the Animals. Besides, he sings better than any of them."

Ed Penney, the promoter behind Boston Red Sox outfielder Tony Conigliaro's entry into the pop music field, insists that his youthful partner could "make it on his own even if he wasn't a baseball player."

Penney and Conigliaro have formed a corporation and will play publicly for the first time Tuesday night the 20-year-old ballplayer's first two recordings.

Winters Is Baseball Dinner MC

Jonathan Winters, top-ranked screen and television comedian and impressionist, will serve as master of ceremonies for the eighth annual Baseball Writers' Association awards dinner to be staged at the Hollywood Palladium, Friday, Feb. 12.

WINTERS

Winters' selection to emcee the star-studded program, featuring the presentation of awards to Dodger and Angel players, was announced Saturday by Bud Furillo, chairman of the L.A. chapter.

Tickets, at $20 per plate, may be reserved at association headquarters, 1352 Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles, phone MA 6-7678.

Billie Jean in Semifinals of Aussie Cup Play

MELBOURNE, Australia (Sunday) (UPI) — The United States team of Billie Jean Moffitt and Carole Caldwell Graebner squared off against Great Britain in a semifinal pairing of the Federation Cup Lawn Tennis Championships today while defending champion Australia faced a surprising French team.

The Americans received little resistance from the Italians in Saturday's quarterfinal series, dropping only seven games and no sets en route to a 3-0 sweep.

Britain earned the right to face the U.S. with a narrow 2-1 victory over South Africa. Australia crushed New Zealand and France upset the Brazilian team, which included Wimbledon and American titlist Maria Bueno.

Miss Moffitt, of Long Beach, Calif., smashed her way to a 6-3, 6-1, victory over Lea Pericola.

Jockeys in Grid Charity

By JOHN CASH

There is sure to be some horseplay today when the on-again off-again football game between the Santa Anita jockeys and a graduate team of Pop Warner Orange County all-stars is staged at Bolsa Grande High Stadium. Kickoff is at 2.

Under the expert tutelage of former San Francisco 49er end Paul Salata as head coach, along with assistants Jon (Little Bear) Arnett, the McKeever twins — Marlin and Mike, and kicking artists Ben Agajanian and Sam (The Toe) Tsagalakis, the jockeys will be favored.

Favored to be there, that is. But they won't have the horses this time.

* * * *

PROCEEDS will be donated to the Orange County Pop Warner football program for next season.

The game was cancelled for 24 hours by national Pop Warner headquarters, then received sanction because the boys competing (7th and 8th graders) are no longer eligible for Pop Warner action and the jockeys will receive nothing (but trouble) for their services.

With a forward wall totaling 409 pounds on defense, spearheaded by Bill Hartack, and a backfield directed by tailhack Alex Maese, the jockeys will sport a small, but mighty aggregation.

SHOOTING STATS PROVE IT

No Comparison! NBA Pros Far More Skillful Today

By DOUG IVES

Even the staunchest critic must admit that basketball, in general, and pro basketball in particular, is played with far greater skill than at any time since Dr. James Naismith first used a peach basket and soccer ball to found the game.

The truth of the matter is that today's pros are far better than those that played, say, 19 years ago, when the NBA came into existence as the Basketball Assn. of America. Not only that, but the pros are getting better every year.

Right now NBA players hit the target at a .433 average. This is 55% higher than the first BAA season in 1946-47, when the pros hit a .279 clip.

When the NBA began, teams averaged 67 points per game. Last year, the nine NBA teams came in at at 111 points per contest. Obviously, the big reason for the jump is the 24-second rule, which went into effect at the start of the 1954-55 season.

Since the 1957-58 season, the first one in which all eight teams averaged 100 points, scores have gone up steadily with the exception of last year. Shooting percentages in the same span have been boosted 13%; the pros obviously are getting better.

Back in the mid-forties, one of the BAA's sharpest shooters was Max Zaslofsky of the Chicago Stags. His percentages for four seasons were .329, .350 and .351.

Look now to Oscar Robertson. The first four years he shot .472, .478, .518 and .483.

* * * *

THE OVERALL comparison shows that Oscar, at .488, rates some 45% sharper from the field than Max, who averaged .338 for his best four years.

More recent comparisons—Zaslofsky, after all, is ancient history so far as high-scoring pro basketball is concerned—are not quite as dramatic but still reflect the increased accuracy of today's pros.

Bill Sharman, considered an outstanding shooter, hit clips of .438, .416, .424 and .408 in the years 1955-59. That's an average of .422.

South African Open Taken by Player

CAPETOWN, South Africa (AP)—Gary Player, won the South African Open golf tournament Saturday with a 273 for four rounds over the par 71 Royal Cape Course.

Player finished three strokes ahead of John Hayes, also of South Africa. Bobby Locke, a South African veteran, with 290 and Ireland's Christy O'Connor with 294 finished far down.

PERRANOSKI CUT; MILLER GETS RAISE

Relief pitchers Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller headed a list of five more Dodgers who have signed their 1965 contracts, general manager Buzzie Bavasi announced Saturday.

Perranoski took a slight cut and Miller won a sizeable raise.

Others who reached terms were pitcher Dick Calmus, rookie catcher Greg Goossen and outfielder Dave McCammon, drafted from the Houston farm system.

Miller last season tied a National League record by appearing in 74 games. He compiled a 7-7 relief mark had a 2.61 ERA.

It's Mauch vs. Dodgers for Charity

The man who had one hand on the National League jackpot until the 'Cards' fell against him, Gene Mauch, has agreed to manage the Major League All-Stars in the Southern California Baseball Assn.'s annual medical benefit game.

MAUCH

The 14th renewal of the charity exhibition pits Mauch's All-Stars against the Dodger All-Stars at La Palma Park in Anaheim on Sunday, Feb. 7.

Harold (Lefty) Phillips, newest addition to manager Walt Alston's coaching staff, will pilot the Dodger contingent.

This will be Mauch's fifth appearance in the benefit game and he is yet to lose. Mauch took charge of the All-Stars in 1960 and has whipped the Dodgers every year except 1962 when an illness forced him to turn over the reins to coaches Jack Paepke and Irv Noren. The Dodgers won, 9-6.

Both managers indicated they would announce the first of their players later this week.

Rockets Host Pasadena Yanks

The Pasadena Yankees will provide the opposition for the Long Beach Rockets in a Winter League semi-pro baseball game today 1:15 at Blair Field.

This will be the final game in the second round. The Rockets are tied for second place with the Valley Dodgers, one game behind the Montebello Red Sox.

Casey Cox probably will get the starting pitching assignment for the Rockets.

Rodeo Set at Rose Bowl Next Sunday

By BUCK LANIER

Pasadena's famous Rose Bowl becomes a real wild west showplace next Sunday at 2 p.m. when Casey Tibbs presents his first Rose Bowl Rodeo.

Co-sponsored by the Arcadia Mounted Police. It is expected to draw 50,000 fans.

It is the first time in modern history that a major league, Rodeo Cowboy Association-approved rodeo has been staged in the Rose Bowl.

Tibbs, six-time world champion saddle bronc riding champion, said the purse is $15,000 and "that will draw the top RCA boys, many of whom competed in the National Finals last month."

Tickets are available at all Mutual Agencies in Long Beach and the area.

• • • • •

JOCKEY Johnny Longden is an honorary member of the Arcadia mounties, and such renowned riders as himself, Willie Shoemaker, Ray York, Dean Hall, Don Ross and Milo Valenzuela will hold a special "Burro Race" between events.

Competition will be staged in the six standard RCA events: Brahma bull riding, steer wrestling, calf roping, team roping, bareback and saddle bronc riding.

Film star Glenn Ford will be on hand as grand marshal.

JOHNNY LONGDEN, 57-year-old all-time riding champion, became ill during the program and was forced to give up his mounts in the final three races.

Longden was reported suffering from heat exhaustion. The temperature at the track was 77 degrees and was estimated some 10 degrees hotter on the racing strip.

The veteran rider had accepted eight mounts for the day but became ill after riding his fifth horse. Among the three mounts he was forced to give up was Maker's Mark in the San Fernando.

Jockey Manuel Ycaza took a spill at the start of the first race when the horse, Rampage, unseated him, but he was unhurt and was permitted to ride his other mounts, including Roman Brother, in the feature.

Dark King Holds On to Win Hialeah Opening Feature

Combined Wire Reports

Dark King fought off challenges by Big End and Lord Birchfield in winning the $31,650 Royal Poinciana Handicap before an opening day crowd of 23,145 at Hialeah Park Saturday.

Rainy Lake came on fast in the stretch to take second and Big End was third in the eight finish.

Dark King, carrying 119 pounds with Braulio Baeza aboard, ran the six furlongs in 1:10 3/5 on a fast track with fractions of 22 1/5 and 45 2/5.

Jockey John L. Rotz, on Rainy Lake, claimed interference by Dark King in the stretch drive but it was not allowed.

Dark King won by 1 1/4 lengths. Lord Birchfield was fourth, followed by Sunstruck, Riot Squad, Glass House, Ocean Motion, Trader and Black Mountain.

Dark King was first out of the gate but Lord Birchfield, lightweight in the race at 110 pounds with Jimmy Combest riding, moved into the lead down the backstretch with Big End in close pursuit.

Dark King was third after one-half mile and took over the lead turning for home as Big End continued to challenge. Rainy Lake came up from fourth in the stretch drive but could not overtake the winner.

Dark King, second choice at 2-1, paid $6.40, $3.40, and $2.80. Rainy Lake, an entry with Black Mountain and the choice at 9-5, returned $3.20 and $2.60. Big End was $3 to show.

IN THE NINTH race, 1963 Kentucky Derby and Belmont winner Chateaugay, also with Baeza aboard, made his first start since last August and won by a neck over Knightly Manner. Stewards rejected another interference claim against Baeza, whose horse was the even-odds favorite.

HEAVY SNOW and hazardous conditions forced the cancellation of racing at Bowie and Waterford Park, but Charles Town weathered the storm to bring its most successful meeting to a close on schedule.

The final day of the Charles Town meeting was fan appreciation day, and 3,731 hearty fans entered free. They bet $305,818 on the 10-race program to make this the best meeting in 32 years of racing at Charles Town.

It's Mauch vs. Dodgers for Charity

The man who had one hand on the National League jackpot until the 'Cards' fell against him, Gene Mauch, has agreed to manage the Major League All-Stars in the Southern California Baseball Assn.'s annual medical benefit game.

MAUCH

The 14th renewal of the charity exhibition pits Mauch's All-Stars against the Dodger All-Stars at La Palma Park in Anaheim on Sunday, Feb. 7.

Harold (Lefty) Phillips, newest addition to manager Walt Alston's coaching staff, will pilot the Dodger contingent.

This will be Mauch's fifth appearance in the benefit game and he is yet to lose. Mauch took charge of the All-Stars in 1960 and has whipped the Dodgers every year except 1962 when an illness forced him to turn over the reins to coaches Jack Paepke and Irv Noren. The Dodgers won, 9-6.

Both managers indicated they would announce the first of their players later this week.

Clearing Up Boat Show Confusion

Most of the overlapping dates for boat and sports shows have been cleared with a settlement between H. Werner Buck and the Southern California Marine Association. SCMA had threatened a suit to stop Buck from producing the Southern California Boat Show Jan. 22-31, which coincidentally were the same dates as those for the sixth annual Sports, Vacation and Travel Show.

Buck agreed to cancel the Jan. 22-31 show which was scheduled for the Great Western Exhibit Center. No details of the agreement have been made public. Now SCMA is free to go ahead with its Feb. 19-28 show at Pan Pacific in Los Angeles. It will be known as the Southern California Boat Show, the same name as Buck was planning to use.

Just how the dealers of Southern California feel about the settlement and how they will be treated is a good question. The fracas resulted when SCMA split with Buck after the 1964 show, then kicked out the dealers, saying that the association wanted strictly a manufacturers' show and didn't want to downgrade the show with actual sales. SCMA is composed mostly of manufacturers.

It's a rather silly situation. The average person doesn't spend $1.75 to see a show and then not be able to sign a contract if he happens to want a certain boat. The dealer likewise is there to make a deal on paper for delivery after the show is over. And SCMA depends on dealers to live.

SKIP CREGER IS WINDING UP his third annual International Sailboat and Yacht Show at the Long Beach Arena at 8 o'clock tonight and certainly nobody can say that that highly successful show was downgraded by sales.

People who were interested in sailing only went there to look at all types of sailboats and those who wanted boats signed contracts. The total was well over $2 million Wednesday and could go another million by tonight.

Anyhow, the next show on tap is the sixth International Sports, Vacation and Travel Show starting next Friday at Shrine Exposition Hall, Los Angeles. Fred J. Hall, long associated with H. Werner Buck in production of Buck's annual Sportsmen's Vacation, Boat and Camper Show but who has recently been producing shows in Chicago, has joined Fred J. Tabery for the Shrine Show.

That's quite a deal for Tabery inasmuch as Hall is one of the brilliant showmen who has the ability to nail down company contracts far in advance. After this year's show, Tabery and Hall plan to move the seventh annual production (1966) to the Great Western Exhibit Center.

Hall has been a familiar figure at sporting events for more than 20 years. He started with the late Mel Morrison when that man owned Mel Morrison Crowd Management, a firm which supplied ushers and gate personnel for all major sporting events. Out of that grew the Morrison-Buck-Hall combination which produced the Sportsmen's Show (April 1-11 this year), grandpappy of all the shows.

THE OUTBOARD BOATING CLUB of Long Beach installed its 1965 officers at a dinner meeting last night at the Long Beach Yacht Club. Bob Cox became commodore with these others to help him: Jack Peterson, vice commodore; George Tawes, rear commodore; Jo Skinner, treasurer, and Frances Shliff, secretary.

Directors are Mike Auria, Ken Champagne, Jim Holland, Al Smith and Harold Staggs.

The Ralph Johnson family won the coveted trophy for the most valuable members, and the Jack Peterson family took the all-points award trophy. Fishing trophies were awarded to Dee Guttry, first, women's division; Darlene Hargus, second, women; Jim Guttry, first, men, and Harold Staggs, second, men.

Bob Cox and his wife, Evelyn, live in South Gate, and they have two teen-age sons. They have been very active in the OBCLB for a long period of time. In fact, Bob was a commodore several years ago, and has worked with several boards of directors.

The OBCLB is not exactly just a Long Beach group; it recruits its members from various surrounding cities. It is open to anybody using an outboard and who wishes to join the group. The club sponsored the annual race from Avalon to Long Beach, but dropped it last year because it was becoming too much of an expense to the club and especially to the racers.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—Wilda Bennett, who operates Salton Bay Marina at Salton City on the Salton Sea, telephones to say that corvina are biting like crazy and running from three to seven pounds. Also, she says, birds are working the bait schools and it's no trouble to locate the fish once you are in a boat. It's rather strange for such big catches at the Sea in January but that body of water can produce plenty of oddities.

The Los Angeles Chapter of the Sierra Club will sponsor a basic mountaineering course beginning the first week in February and lasting through March 23. It's free and open to the public. There will be eight lectures, one each Tuesday night, dealing with clothing and equipment, map reading, alpine camping, first aid, rock climbing and snow and ice techniques.

The classes are open to anybody 16 years of age and older at the Normandy Playground Clubhouse, Normandy and Venice Boulevard, Los Angeles. Pre-registration may be made by sending a letter to Sierra Club, Los Angeles Chapter, 427 W. 5th St., Los Angeles.

SOCCER CLUB HOSTS PICO

The Long Beach Soccer Club, attempting to rebound from three successive defeats, hosts Pico-Rivera United today at Pan American Park in the second game of a Pacific Soccer League doubleheader.

LBSC, now 2-5-2 in league play, begins action at 2:30 p.m. Thor II and the Valletta Falcons open the twin bill at 12:45.

Morales to Return for Victory Bow

Pedro Morales, the newest wrestling sensation who scored a major triumph in the Long Beach ring last week by de-masking the Masked Executioner, returns for a bow Tuesday night.

ILMAN TO ENROLL

L.B. State Lands Olympic Swimmer

By AL LARSON

The most sought after junior college swimmer in the country is ticketed for Long Beach State.

Gary Ilman, who collected two gold medals in the Olympics, will enroll here next month.

The 21-year-old swimmer from San Jose holds almost every record at Foothill JC. A 6-2, 195-pound Industrial Arts major, Ilman has received bids from more than 30 colleges and universities.

Gary has represented the United States twice in international competition. In 1963 he was a standout in the Pan-American Games.

Then at Tokyo last October Ilman won coveted medals when America's premier sprint stars set world records in both the 400- and 800-meter freestyle relays. He swam the third leg while Don Schollander was anchorman.

Ilman missed a bronze medal by 1/1000th of a second when Germany's Hans Klein was awarded third place in the 100 freestyle.

Schollander, who was named the nation's "athlete of the year" this week, met his match in the Olympic Trials at New York when Ilman handed him his first loss of the year. Schollander holds two decisions over Ilman.

While at Foothill, Gary set four national JC records.

Why did Ilman pick Long Beach State?

"Long Beach has one of the finest Industrial Arts departments in the nation and at the same time I can also continue my career in water polo and swimming. I have known coach Schultz (Jim) for three years now and have great respect for him. I think he is one of the best coaches in the country."

Schultz can't say enough about LBSC's greatest catch. "It will be a great pleasure to work with a young man of his integrity and superior aquatics ability. He has as much potential as any swimmer in the U.S. and will remain a standout performer in time to come."

It will be old home week for Ilman as he is the latest of Schultz's recruits to come from Foothill JC. Other outstanding transfers have included Bill Birch, Dave Snyder, Steve Barnett, Bob Boadway and Bob Benson.

With Ilman in camp, Long Beach will challenge for the NCAA title this spring.

Tom Roby Story Ends; Race Is Memorial Now

Tom Roby was a lean, raw-boned young man, touch and fit and alert, who laid his life on the line every time he went to business. In a sense we all do that every time we get up in the morning, but most of us hack along at a less hazardous occupation than Tom. He was a steeplechase jockey.

June 1, 1942, was his 32nd birthday. He lived with his wife and small daughter in a trailer in Queens Village near Belmont Park and there was going to be a party when he got home that evening. He wasn't thinking of that, however, when Willie Passmore, who trained for Bayard Sharp, hoisted him aboard a jumper named Knight's Quest in a $1,500 allowance race at Belmont. He was sorting out facts in his mind, what he knew about Knight's Quest and about the other horses in the field, what advice Passmore had been able to offer.

In the running, Knight's Quest was bumped by a horse named Sir Bluesteel. Tom hit the ground and didn't get up. It didn't look like a bad spill, but in Mary Immaculate Hospital in Jamaica they found massive brain damage. Tom had been kicked in the head as he went down, whether by his own mount or another nobody knew, and Tom couldn't tell them.

When he was brought down from surgery, they placed him in an oxygen tent and waited. It couldn't be long.

• • • •

THE WAR WAS on and Sharp was away, a lieutenant in the Navy. Passmore notified him of the accident, and he wired back, "Go the limit." Owner, trainer, and jockey were close together in and closer in friendship than a lot of race track teams.

There was insurance for basic care, but not for extras like three nurses around the clock, specialists, and so on. Sharp took care of that, voluntarily.

First it was a matter of hours, then days, then weeks. Six months after the spill, Tom Roby opened his eyes. He was totally paralyzed, unable to speak, unable at first to recognize even his wife Phyllis or Phyllis Anne, then three and a half, or Ellen, who had been born after the accident.

About a year after the accident, Tom's nurse, Mabel Mooney, became aware of a new light in her patient's eyes. Suspecting that he was trying to communicate, she tried questions. Slowly he learned to answer by blinking for "yes," shifting his eyes sidewise for "no."

• • • •

FIVE YEARS after the fall, Sharp proposed to his fellow directors at Delaware Park a steeplechase to be called the Tom Roby Stakes. Because rules don't permit the jockey to receive the purse, Sharp put up a cup which the winning rider would keep for a year, along with a replica for permanent possession. Sharp felt it might help dramatize the jockey's part in a steeplechase.

By that time, Tom was living a kind of life, if you could call it that. Each day Miss Mooney held a scratch sheet for him so he could study the entries and handicap the races, blinking when her moving finger found the horse of his choice. In the afternoon, a radio at bedside would bring in the results.

Starting the Tom Roby Stakes in 1947, Delaware Park arranged to have the race filmed and a man named Lester Bernd devised a projector to show the movies on the ceiling above Tom's bed. So each year Tom would see the race and then watch as Phyllis or one of his two brothers presented the trophy.

The girls were growing up. Bayard Sharp, still feeling a responsibility that nobody else thought he owed, helped with their education. Race trackers are not more callous or more sentimental than most people. It is hardly surprising that, as the years passed, Tom Roby's name seldom came up except on the first day of steeplechasing at Delaware when the Tom Roby Stakes ran as the feature. Then somebody might say incredulously, "You mean he's still alive? And still in bed?"

• • • •

A BROTHER died, and then the other. Tom outlived them. At least one of the girls was married and had a son, making Tom a grandfather. For some years the family had lived in Richmond Hills, Long Island, but when her daughters were grown, Tom's wife moved back to her parents' home in Carthage, N.Y., up near Watertown close to the Canadian border, where she continued her work as a registered nurse.

A week ago Saturday the story ended. Tom was 54 when he died, more than 22 years after he went off Knight's Quest. The race will go on at Delaware, as the Tom Roby Memorial from now on.

ILMAN TO ENROLL

L.B. State Lands Olympic Swimmer

By AL LARSON

The most sought after junior college swimmer in the country is ticketed for Long Beach State.

Gary Ilman, who collected two gold medals in the Olympics, will enroll here next month.

The 21-year-old swimmer from San Jose holds almost every record at Foothill JC. A 6-2, 195-pound Industrial Arts major, Ilman has received bids from more than 30 colleges and universities.

Gary has represented the United States twice in international competition. In 1963 he was a standout in the Pan-American Games.

Then at Tokyo last October, Ilman won coveted medals when America's premier sprint stars set world records in both the 400- and 800-meter freestyle relays. He swam the third leg while Don Schollander was anchorman.

Ilman missed a bronze medal by 1/1000th of a second when Germany's Hans Klein was awarded third place in the 100 freestyle.

Schollander, who was named the nation's "athlete of the year" this week, met his match in the Olympic Trials at New York when Ilman handed him his first loss of the year. Schollander holds two decisions over Ilman.

While at Foothill, Gary set four national JC records.

Why did Ilman pick Long Beach State?

"Long Beach has one of the finest Industrial Arts departments in the nation and at the same time I can also continue my career in water polo and swimming. I have known coach Schultz (Jim) for three years now and have great respect for him. I think he is one of the best coaches in the country."

Schultz can't say enough about LBSC's greatest catch. "It will be a great pleasure to work with a young man of his integrity and superior aquatics ability. He has as much potential as any swimmer in the U.S. and will remain a standout performer in time to come."

It will be old home week for Ilman as he is the latest of Schultz's recruits to come from Foothill JC. Other outstanding transfers have included Bill Birch, Dave Snyder, Steve Barnett, Bob Boadway and Bob Benson.

With Ilman in camp, Long Beach will challenge for the NCAA title this spring.

Tom Roby Story Ends; Race Is Memorial Now

Tom Roby was a lean, raw-boned young man, touch and fit and alert, who laid his life on the line every time he went to business. In a sense we all do that every time we get up in the morning, but most of us back along at a less hazardous occupation than Tom. He was a steeplechase jockey.

June 1, 1942, was his 32nd birthday. He lived with his wife and small daughter in a trailer in Queens Village near Belmont Park and there was going to be a party when he got home that evening. He wasn't thinking of that, however, when Willie Passmore, who trained for Bayard Sharp, hoisted him aboard a jumper named Knight's Quest in a $1,500 allowance race at Belmont. He was sorting out facts in his mind, what he knew about Knight's Quest and about the other horses in the field, what advice Passmore had been able to offer.

In the running, Knight's Quest was bumped by a horse named Sir Bluesteel. Tom hit the ground and didn't get up. It didn't look like a bad spill, but in Mary Immaculate Hospital in Jamaica they found massive brain damage. Tom had been kicked in the head as he went down, whether by his own mount or another nobody knew, and Tom couldn't tell them.

When he was brought down from surgery, they placed him in an oxygen tent and waited. It couldn't be long.

* * * *

THE WAR WAS on and Sharp was away, a lieutenant in the Navy. Passmore notified him of the accident, and he wired back, "Go the limit." Owner, trainer, and jockey were close together in and and closer in friendship than a lot of race track teams.

There was insurance for basic care, but not for extras like three nurses around the clock, specialists, and so on. Sharp took care of that, voluntarily.

First it was a matter of hours, then days, then weeks. Six months after the spill, Tom Roby opened his eyes. He was totally paralyzed, unable to speak, unable at first to recognize even his wife Phyllis or Phyllis Anne, then three and a half, or Ellen, who had been born after the accident.

About a year after the accident, Tom's nurse, Mabel Mooney, became aware of a new light in her patient's eyes. Suspecting that he was trying to communicate, she tried questions. Slowly he learned to answer by blinking for "yes," shifting his eyes sidewise for "no."

* * * *

FIVE YEARS after the fall, Sharp proposed to his fellow directors at Delaware Park a steeplechase to be called the Tom Roby Stakes. Because rules don't permit the jockey to receive the purse, Sharp put up a cup which the winning rider would keep for a year, along with a replica for permanent possession. Sharp felt it might help dramatize the jockey's part in a steeplechase.

By that time, Tom was living a kind of life, if you could call it that. Each day Miss Mooney held a scratch sheet for him so he could study the entries and handicap the races, blinking when her moving finger found the horse of his choice. In the afternoon, a radio at bedside would bring in the results.

Starting the Tom Roby Stakes in 1947, Delaware Park arranged to have the race filmed and a man named Lester Bernd devised a projector to show the movies on the ceiling above Tom's bed. So each year Tom would see the race and then watch as Phyllis or one of his two brothers presented the trophy.

The girls were growing up. Bayard Sharp, still feeling a responsibility that nobody else thought he owed, helped with their education. Race trackers are not more callous or more sentimental than most people. It is hardly surprising that, as the years passed, Tom Roby's name seldom came up except on the first day of steeplechasing at Delaware when the Tom Roby Stakes ran as the feature. Then somebody might say incredulously, "You mean he's still alive? And still in bed?"

* * * *

A BROTHER died, and then the other. Tom outlived them. At least one of the girls was married and had a son, making Tom a grandfather. For some years the family had lived in Richmond Hills, Long Island, but when her daughters were grown, Tom's wife moved back to her parents' home in Carthage, N.Y., up near Watertown close to the Canadian border, where she continued her work as a registered nurse.

A week ago Saturday the story ended. Tom was 54 when he died, more than 22 years after he went off Knight's Quest. The race will go on at Delaware, as the Tom Roby Memorial from now on.

"It's so quiet!" said the young man to his mother.

"That's the way it's supposed to be in a library," she replied.

And four-year-old Dwayne, wide-eyed and handsome in his green striped T-shirt and neat jeans, stepped into the wonderful world of books.

Dwayne and 12 other boys and girls attended the first five of a series of story hours for pre-schoolers Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. at Brewitt Branch Library.

They loved it.

Sitting on green mats in a corner of the library, they were immediately enthralled with the story of "The Baby Beebee Bird" delivered with enthusiasm by Mrs. Kenneth Murray, children's librarian, a pretty brownette with hazel eyes.

So enthralled that just one little boy noticed the mothers quietly slip away to the auditorium where they were greeted by Mrs. Peter Reidy, children's librarian of Los Altos Branch Library and a display of gay, colorful children's books.

Mrs. Reidy distributed book lists, gave synopses of old and new favorites and spoke glowingly of the "new techniques—new patterns in children's books."

CIVILIZATIONS IN TRANSITION

Art Reflects Changes in Occident, Orient

MARY HOLMES found cast on her wrist no handicap when she showed slides to illustrate talk on "The Occident and the Orient" at Long Beach Museum of Art. Cast went on when she broke a small bone in her wrist. The art work was added by one of her students at the University of California, L. A.

By ELISE EMERY

"We stand at the end of our two great civilizations, the Occidental and the Oriental. The deepest patterns of our lives, the deepest aspects of our relations to the world are changing. The change is fatal, final, exhilarating and painful."

Mary Holmes, who teaches art history at the University of California, Los Angeles, lectured Tuesday at Long Beach Museum of Art on "The Occident and the Orient," a comparative approach to art. Her talk was one of eight in a series sponsored by the Long Beach Branch of The American Association of University Women and the museum. Open to the public without charge, the lectures are scheduled on second Tuesday mornings of each month.

Men and women, ranging from very young to elderly, packed the large upstairs gallery of the museum Tuesday to hear blonde, blue-eyed Miss Holmes analyze, in forceful, ringing speech, the differences in Eastern and Western civilizations.

• • • • •

"BECAUSE WE can look back over a longer time in history than any other people who have lived, because we are at the end of both civilizations, we can stand a little above, see a little differently from the people who have been a part of the cultures. It is a fortunate time for insight and understanding."

Miss Holmes attributes the ending civilizations to the ending of the agricultural revolution.

"It took great daring for those first nomads to decide to stay in one spot instead of following the crops and seasons. So began the agricultural revolution — and who could tell at its start where it would lead and what would be its end?

• • • • •

"NOW WE are entering the industrial-scientific revolution.

"In 1900, 80% of our population was rural, living on farms. Now, the population is 80% urban. Our entire way of life is changing.

"Farmers are perpetually dissatisfied with the weather—it's either too dry, too wet, too hot or too cold. They live at the whim of nature and they resent it.

"In the industrial-scientific age we may live in domed cities where weather is always controlled. If control becomes a way of life it will be a pity—control always obviates any excellence, it always leads to absolute mediocrity."

• • • • •

TRACING civilizations from the Minoan in approximately 2,000 B.C. to the present, Miss Holmes contrasted the cultures of the West and East.

"All religions and philosophies must answer the traditional questions of man. Who am I? Why am I here? Where am I going? What is my destiny?

"In Western civilization, man is at the apex of a triangle, above nature, just below God. He stands between the animals and the angels and in his art he pictures God in the image of man. One of the artist's problems is to depict the great power of God in the small body of man. The artist uses the figure of man to express joy, grief, good, evil, hate, love.

"The Western concept of space is based on geometry —the triangle, square, circle. Actually, the absolute, ruthless, cruel geometric forms never exist in nature. The Parthenon, set atop a hill, rising on steps, affirms man's will to dominate nature. The Pyramids are the perfect triangle unknown in nature. Geometry says 'This is the clarity and reason of man in contrast to the natural world.'

"Even the landscapes the Western artist paints reveal his dominance of nature—they are scenes you can enter, walk in.

• • • • •

"TO THE Oriental mind, this concept of man controlling nature, standing at the apex of the triangle, is almost incomprehensible in its arrogance.

"In the Orient, man has no right to force, to bend nature. He fits into, is a part of the natural world, of the continuum of life. Embedded in the natural world, progressing through the stream of being in spiral form, he has an intuitive, emotional comprehension of nature.

"Oriental architecture is not designed on a rational,

'For Purpose of English Conversations'

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Women's Editor

IT SEEMS that this newspaper's name and address, among others, as well as my name, also among others, is listed at the American Cultural Center in Tokyo, Japan.

As a result I received a charming letter from which I will quote, in part:

"We, two Japanese ladies of 20 years old, have been planing to go to America for purpose of English conversation's study and to experience American life from high school days. And we are looking for a family who offer us home and jobs. This summer we hope to leave . . . to stay there one year.

"Would you mind printing this letter to your newspaper? We are waitting for your lucky news. These are our curriculum vitae:

And the girls continue to say that one is Yoshiko Tezuka, . . . "Family Relation: The first daughter of Hiromichi Tezuka, Head. Permanent domicile: 52 Hanazono-cho Chiba-shi Chiba-ken." A high school graduate, Yoshiko is a clerk for a Fuji Electric Co.

The other young would-be traveler to our shores is Naoko Wada, and she is a "first daughter of Yoshikiko Wada, head, permanent domicile, 90 Yokoya, Uazaki-cho Hegashikada-ku, Kobe City," but currently living at 24 Eifuku-cho Suginami-ku, Tokyo. Naoko has a most interesting job with Fuji Electric. She writes that she is in company's service "as English type writter."

Their letter was neatly written but, encountering those complicated Japanese names in precise, but strange penmanship, wish Naoko had been an English type writter as the two wrote their note.

Want to be a pen pal? They'd like your "lucky news."

Sneaky but Wonderful

HAPPY SHOCKEROO awaited returnees from honeymoon travels, Bill and Frances (nee Perry) Gillis when they arrived last Sunday night at their home on The Colonnade.

Not only had their manse been newly carpeted, draped, painted and given generous amount of new furniture, but it had been pre-housewarmed as well. All by their respective parents, Shirley and Bill Gillis and Frances and Bill Perry. Added attraction—refrigerator was totally stocked with best of viands ready for the bride to try out her cooking know how.

The pre-housewarming? While parents were working frantically to finish the job earlier on Sunday, next door neighbors, Dorothy and Bill Ellery, brought over cocktail fixings. Happening to drop by at right time to warm the house properly were Audrey and Arnold Romeyn and Louella and Glenn Copeland.

Bill and Frances, incidentally, went on a romantic, extensive flying honeymoon to South America, Puerto Rico, San Martin Island and Florida.

IN THE SPIRIT of the old west, Mara and Doug Graham will entertain at a true barbecue today at their ranch, Chinthe, near Mecca close by the Salton Sea. Guests will be Per Noerbjerg and wife, Ria, from Copenhagen, Denmark, plus many others.

Now, are you wondering just what's going on—ready to jump on the rumor bandwagon? Well, don't. Marilyn Graham has decided to take back her real, Yugoslavian name which is Mara. Betcha old friends will still be calling her Marilyn Wednesday when she returns to town to entertain bridge clubbers.

FIGURING IT was a capital idea to be transferred to the capitol, Juanita and Dr. Pedro Acha accepted his new post in Washington, D.C. Pedro left a couple of weeks ago for his United Nations job in the public health program of UN. Juanita and their four daughters left Saturday to join him, take up residence in new home purchased in Arlington, Va. This particular tour of duty is for at least 10 years during which time Pedro will travel all over world.

With Juanita's departure, another move is imminent. The Achas have been living in Edith and Howard Bakken's home in Alamitos Heights while the Bakkens tried on Leisure World "for size." But the pull of the old neighborhood is too much and Edith and Howard will now return to 506 Orlena Ave.

GAL ON the move is, and has been, Ann (Mrs. John) Bowler, national GOP committeewoman from California. Since the election she has put 17,000 miles on her car, driving all over the state on the political trail. How many miles she put on the speedometer BEFORE election, only Ann and her mechanic know.

Now she's ready to go again, flying to Chicago Tuesday for the Republican National Committee meeting to return Jan. 25. In the meantime, John continues to be a grass roots GOP volunteer widower.

BACK TO winter, Southern California style, came Pearl and Casey Jones after 42 sun and fun filled days aboard the Mariposa on the South Seas circuit.

A SOUND engineer would have lost his marbles trying to monitor the conversation of Lillian Crawford's 75 feminine guests at Petroleum Club Wednesday. But the women weren't fazed at all; kept up with what everyone within earshot had to say, added their own comments (let's face it, girls, you know how we yak at such affairs) with latest on anything, everything.

It was a luncheon, card party and assisting were Mareta (Mrs. Vic) Hart, Claire (Mrs. Louise) Dingler, Ranella (Mrs. Leslie) Murphy and Alta (Mrs. Virgil) Ridgeway.

Case of the Big Hum

HUMMING (to keep from cussing) as they search for things they have inadvertently hidden from themselves are "Deenie" and Chris Conway, in the way of all people who have just moved. The Conways moved into a temporary home in Huntington Harbour last Wednesday—will have the whole search and hum process to go through in July when their permanent, larger home in HH is ready.

ACADEMICALLY, IT was a very rewarding day for Faculty Wives of Cal State, LB, when they met for luncheon and study session at Pacific Coast Club. Their assignment that day was to learn about wines aaannnd there isn't too much anyone can really learn on the subject of wines without tasting, is there?

Among the many enthusiastic students (there was a roomful—maybe 200 in attendance) to name a very few—Catherine (Mrs. Harold) Miller, president of wives, Mildred (Mrs. George) Cerveny, Ruth (Mrs. Charles) Boorkman, Martha (Mrs. Robert) Kennelly and Charlotte (Mrs. Bob) Smith.

'For Purpose of English Conversations'

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Women's Editor

IT SEEMS that this newspaper's name and address, among others, as well as my name, also among others, is listed at the American Cultural Center in Tokyo, Japan.

As a result I received a charming letter from which I will quote, in part:

"We, two Japanese ladies of 20 years old, have been planing to go to America for purpose of English conversation's study and to experience American life from high school days. And we are looking for a family who offer us home and jobs. This summer we hope to leave . . . to stay there one year.

"Would you mind printing this letter to your newspaper? We are waitting for your lucky news. These are our curriculum vitae:

And the girls continue to say that one is Yoshiko Tezuka, . . . "Family Relation: The first daughter of Hiromichi Tezuka, Head. Permanent domicile: 52 Hanazono-cho Chiba-shi Chiba-ken." A high school graduate, Yoshiko is a clerk for a Fuji Electric Co.

The other young would-be traveler to our shores is Naoko Wada, and she is a "first daughter of Yoshikiko Wada, head, permanent domicile, 90 Yokoya, Uazaki-cho Hegashikada-ku, Kobe City," but currently living at 24 Eifuku-cho Suginami-ku, Tokyo. Naoko has a most interesting job with Fuji Electric. She writes that she is in company's service "as English type writter."

Their letter was neatly written but, encountering those complicated Japanese names in precise, but strange penmanship, wish Naoko had been an English type writter as the two wrote their note.

Want to be a pen pal? They'd like your "lucky news."

Sneaky but Wonderful

HAPPY SHOCKEROO awaited returnees from honeymoon travels, Bill and Frances (nee Perry) Gillis when they arrived last Sunday night at their home on The Colonnade.

Not only had their manse been newly carpeted, draped, painted and given generous amount of new furniture, but it had been pre-housewarmed as well. All by their respective parents, Shirley and Bill Gillis and Frances and Bill Perry. Added attraction—refrigerator was totally stocked with best of viands ready for the bride to try out her cooking know how.

The pre-housewarming? While parents were working frantically to finish the job earlier on Sunday, next door neighbors, Dorothy and Bill Ellery, brought over cocktail fixings. Happening to drop by at right time to warm the house properly were Audrey and Arnold Romeyn and Louella and Glenn Copeland.

Bill and Frances, incidentally, went on a romantic, extensive flying honeymoon to South America, Puerto Rico, San Martin Island and Florida.

Wild Waves Say...

SPORTING THE most gorgeous imported wardrobe is Ann Blanchard. Her husband, Dick, and her dad, Joe Bishop, both travel a lot; always bring her home smart apparel from far places. Latest additions are ensembles Dick brought her from Hong Kong, Joe from a trip to Athens.

Learn to Say Mara

IN THE SPIRIT of the old west, Mara and Doug Graham will entertain at a true barbecue today at their ranch, Chinthe, near Mecca close by the Salton Sea. Guests will be Per Noerbjerg and wife, Ria, from Copenhagen, Denmark, plus many others.

Now, are you wondering just what's going on—ready to jump on the rumor bandwagon? Well, don't. Marilyn Graham has decided to take back her real, Yugoslavian name which is Mara. Betcha old friends will still be calling her Marilyn Wednesday when she returns to town to entertain bridge clubbers.

ANOTHER CHANGE of place and pace for versatile Vicki Tuten (Marty and Tut's daughter). An avid surfer, she deserted this for a full month's worth of skiing on the high slopes of both Utah and California. Now she has new altitudes to conquer. She left for Fort Worth, Tex., last Sunday to train to become a stewardess for American Air Lines.

ONE PART in which she'd rather not be cast is her foot but Patty McCreary's foot is, nonetheless, cast and she's playing the role of hobbler. All because she broke one little bone in the simplest of turn-the-ankle, trip-on-a-throw-rug, acts.

FIGURING IT was a capital idea to be transferred to the capitol, Juanita and Dr. Pedro Acha accepted his new post in Washington, D.C. Pedro left a couple of weeks ago for his United Nations job in the public health program of UN. Juanita and their four daughters left Saturday to join him, take up residence in new home purchased in Arlington, Va. This particular tour of duty is for at least 10 years during which time Pedro will travel all over world.

With Juanita's departure, another move is imminent. The Achas have been living in Edith and Howard Bakken's home in Alamitos Heights while the Bakkens tried on Leisure World "for size." But the pull of the old neighborhood is too much and Edith and Howard will now return to 506 Orlena Ave.

GAL ON the move is, and has been, Ann (Mrs. John) Bowler, national GOP committeewoman from California. Since the election she has put 17,000 miles on her car, driving all over the state on the political trail. How many miles she put on the speedometer BEFORE election, only Ann and her mechanic know.

Now she's ready to go again, flying to Chicago Tuesday for the Republican National Committee meeting to return Jan. 25. In the meantime, John continues to be a grass roots GOP volunteer widower.

HE CIRCLES the globe so often, here's a suggestion Art Huey be named as an honorary astronaut. Art leaves (again) today, this time for Europe and La Verne will say "so long" as casually as most wives bid goodbye to husbands on daily take-offs for their offices. Art's world-wide travels are in line with his job as chief foreign geologist for Signal Oil Co.

Pre-School Story Hour Fun for All

squeals and strange noises. Records are a popular part of story time, but given a choice, the children are unanimous in asking for "another story please."

• • • •

THE PRE-SCHOOL story hour and discussion group for mothers was originated in Long Beach in 1931 by Violet Sell, branch librarian, and Mrs. Ardis O'Hoyt, children's librarian at North Branch Library.

"To be confronted with 51 children, mothers and babies in-arms when you had planned on 15 was a bit disconcerting," said Miss Sell about the first session.

"At the end of the eight-week period it was hard to tell who most enjoyed the program: the children, their mothers or the two librarians," she continued.

"We do much more in Long Beach in the children's work than many larger communities, including Los Angeles," said Mrs. Lee Silver, Brewitt branch librarian.

"The pre-school story hour is so popular that we have many second timers."

• • • •

STARTING schedule for the current five week series is: Bach Branch, Jan. 26; Bay Shore Branch, Feb. 4; Burnett Branch, Feb. 18; Dana Branch, Jan. 21; Bret Hart Branch, Jan. 21; Los Altos Branch, Feb. 4.

Pre-registration is necessary as story hour groups for young children must necessarily be smaller in number than those for older children.

And do Long Beach children enjoy books? Do they thrive on a library program planned for their enrichment?

At Los Altos Branch Library 203,663 children's books were circulated last year.

More than the grown-ups.

Oswald Jacoby
Psychic Bid Unpopular

Thirty years ago, the psychic bid and the name Jacoby were almost synonymous. I didn't invent the bid, but I sure used it.

Then I gave it up. There were several reasons for this step, such as the fact that I was getting older, but the one main and important reason was that it cost me points more often than it helped me.

Here is a conspicuous example. West's no-trump overcall had all the elements of a psychic. He did not have no-trump distribution. He didn't have anything in South's suit and he didn't have any ace, king or queen.

He also didn't have any real intestinal fortitude because if he had stood by his guns and fought it out at one no-trump, he would have only been down six for a mere 1,100 point loss.

Instead, he started to escape with his redouble, whereupon North and South proceeded happily to six no-trump.

• • • •

THIS WAS too much for East. He did hold an ace and queen and he felt that his partner probably had some sort of a trick somewhere among his bunch of nothing. After all, his partner had gone into action when no one was holding a gun to his head to make him bid.

East doubled. No one redoubled which was just as well because the slam was a lay down. North and South scored 1,680 instead of the 1,440 for an undoubled slam.

IN DIRECTOR'S SHOW

Long Beach Painters in La Cienega Shows

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

One-man shows by two local artists on world-famous La Cienega Boulevard may prompt many to visit this concentration of 25 galleries within the next weeks. Frederick Black's 18 oils are on exhibit at the Paul Rivas Gallery, 725 N. La Cienega, until Feb. 5. John Lincoln's 19 drawings are across the street at the Rex Evans Gallery, 748½ N. La Cienega through Saturday. Both galleries are open Monday evenings from 8 until 10; Rivas' daytime hours Monday through Saturday are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. while Evans' are 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Here, any similarity or coincidence ends. Black, director of Long Beach Museum of Art, paints settings which invite the emotional participation of the viewer for their contemplation. Lincoln, who teaches drawing at California State College, Long Beach, offers fully - realized drawings. These are not qualitative differences, they are opposite views.

• • • •

• • • •

LINCOLN brings a gimlet eye to his works . . . a few weed forms, two wicked portraits, but mostly renderings of seashells in a metal (lettuce washer) basket. This leads to all kinds of intricate challenge, of space, volume, texture, and atmosphere. The works are precise, but subtle rather than explicit. The most remarkable quality here is the artist's seeing as he focuses our attention on the inexpressible beauty of a seemingly random group of objects.

Contrast East, West

mathematical relationship—it flows in and out of nature, embracing it.

• • • •

"THE ARTIST undergoes a stern discipline, but when the technique is mastered he paints with great rapidity—speed is an important part of the aesthetic idea. He prepares himself for the time when he will be an instrument for the divine impulse, when the channels will open for a short time and the true nature of the world will flow through him as though he were a brush. He IS the landscape he paints — the rock, the tree, the mist."

This attitude, misunderstood by Western artists, has had a sinister influence on contemporary art, Miss Holmes believes.

It has led to the attitude of "I felt that way so I just put it down."

• • • •

"AS A RESULT, the pictures are of interest only to the artist's mother—or maybe to his analyst," she said.

Where will the industrial-scientific revolution lead us?

"Its end is entirely unpredictable," answered Miss Holmes, "but we do know our lives will be different. Perhaps, eventually, there may even be a merging of ideas, an understanding between the East and the West."

Jr. Band to Appear Monday

He came to Long Beach in 1924 after playing with Sousa's renowned band.

Mormon Choir in L.B. Concert

One of the most exciting "firsts" to be offered in Long Beach will be presented next Sunday, Jan. 24 when the Southern California Mormon Choir and Long Beach Symphony Orchestra perform "Carmina Burana" (Songs of Beuren) by Carl Orff.

The work, which has not been performed here before, will begin at 8 p.m. in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium. The songs were written in a mixture of medieval Latin, low German and French by wandering students, minstrels, dreamers and vagabonds. Their poems of nature, love, the joys of the tavern and the free life are divided into three sections, "In the Spring," "In the Tavern" and "The Court of Love." Orff uses 24 lyrics in which earthy humor and mockery mingle with rebellion, bittersweet joy, longing and sorrow.

• • • •

THE SOUTHERN California Mormon Choir is recognized as one of the great choirs of America. Frederick Davis, director, has led the 150-voice group in more than 100 national broadcasts, and in performances in Hollywood Bowl, Redlands Bowl, San Diego Fiesta del Pacifico, San Francisco Opera House, Las Vegas Civic Auditorium and Shrine Auditorium.

Frederick Davis

Other works on the program will include the Overture to the "Fireworks Music" by Handel and the choir's performance of the Sanctus from the "B Minor Mass" by Bach. Lauris Jones conductor of the Long Beach Symphony, and Davis will direct.

• • • •

CONCERT tickets may be reserved by calling the Long Beach Symphony Association, 1935 E. Seventh St., or at Humphreys Music Company, 135 E. Third St.

The public is invited to hear a preview of the concert Tuesday at 10 a.m. in Lafayette Hotel. There is no admission charge. Speaker will be Dr. Russell N. Squire, professor of music at California State College, Long Beach. He will discuss the entire concert program.

IN DIRECTOR'S SHOW

Long Beach Painters in La Cienega Shows

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

One-man shows by two local artists on world-famous La Cienega Boulevard may prompt many to visit this concentration of 25 galleries within the next weeks. Frederick Black's 18 oils are on exhibit at the Paul Rivas Gallery, 725 N. La Cienega, until Feb. 5. John Lincoln's 19 drawings are across the street at the Rex Evans Gallery, 748½ N. La Cienega through Saturday. Both galleries are open Monday evenings from 8 until 10; Rivas' daytime hours Monday through Saturday are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. while Evans' are 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Here, any similarity or coincidence ends. Black, director of Long Beach Museum of Art, paints settings which invite the emotional participation of the viewer for their contemplation. Lincoln, who teaches drawing at California State College, Long Beach, offers fully - realized drawings. These are not qualitative differences, they are opposite views.

* * * *

* * * *

LINCOLN brings a gimlet eye to his works . . . a few weed forms, two wicked portraits, but mostly renderings of seashells in a metal (lettuce washer) basket. This leads to all kinds of intricate challenge, of space, volume, texture, and atmosphere. The works are precise, but subtle rather than explicit. The most remarkable quality here is the artist's seeing as he focuses our attention on the inexpressible beauty of a seemingly random group of objects.

Jr. Band to Appear Monday

Son's Long Beach Junior Concert Band will be featured attraction of the community show to be presented at 8 p.m. Monday in Municipal Auditorium under sponsorship of the Long Beach Recreation Commission.

The band, considered one of the outstanding junior musical organizations in California, is made up of teen-age boys and girls ranging from 14 to 19 from the Long Beach area. James E. Son, founder-conductor of the group, is assisted by Marshall B. Craig. Son, now 81 years old, is a retired conductor of Long Beach Municipal Band. He came to Long Beach in 1924 after playing with Sousa's renowned band.

* * * *

SON'S Junior Band has made more than 50 public appearances per year since 1959, including out-of-state performances, and is always in great demand.

Carl Robertson will conduct community singing to open the program at 7:30 p.m. with Regenia Beam as accompanist. The Tyo Orchestra will play for old time and square dancing following the hour long appearance of the band. Joe Marshall will be caller for dancing.

Contrast East, West

mathematical relationship—it flows in and out of nature, embracing it.

"THE ARTIST undergoes a stern discipline, but when the technique is mastered he paints with great rapidity—speed is an important part of the aesthetic idea. He prepares himself for the time when he will be an instrument for the divine impulse, when the channels will open for a short time and the true nature of the world will flow through him as though he were a brush. He IS the landscape he paints — the rock, the tree, the mist."

This attitude, misunderstood by Western artists, has had a sinister influence on contemporary art, Miss Holmes believes.

It has led to the attitude of "I felt that way so I just put it down."

* * * *

"AS A RESULT, the pictures are of interest only to the artist's mother—or maybe to his analyst," she said.

Where will the industrial-scientific revolution lead us?

"Its end is entirely unpredictable," answered Miss Holmes, "but we do know our lives will be different. Perhaps, eventually, there may even be a merging of ideas, an understanding between the East and the West."

Brass, Clarinet Groups to Play

The Clarinet Choir and Brass Ensemble of California State College, Long Beach, will perform Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Little Theater on campus. The public is invited.

Charles D. Yates will conduct the choir and H. Robert Reynolds will direct the ensemble. Edward Allen will play a horn solo.

Mormon Choir in L.B. Concert

One of the most exciting "firsts" to be offered in Long Beach will be presented next Sunday, Jan. 24 when the Southern California Mormon Choir and Long Beach Symphony Orchestra perform "Carmina Burana" (Songs of Beuren) by Carl Orff.

The work, which has not been performed here before, will begin at 8 p.m. in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium. The songs were written in a mixture of medieval Latin, low German and French by wandering students, minstrels, dreamers and vagabonds. Their poems of nature, love, the joys of the tavern and the free life are divided into three sections, "In the Spring," "In the Tavern" and "The Court of Love." Orff uses 24 lyrics in which earthy humor and mockery mingle with rebellion, bittersweet joy, longing and sorrow.

* * * *

THE SOUTHERN California Mormon Choir is recognized as one of the great choirs of America. Frederick Davis, director, has led the 150-voice group in more than 100 national broadcasts, and in performances in Hollywood Bowl, Redlands Bowl, San Diego Fiesta del Pacifico, San Francisco Opera House, Las Vegas Civic Auditorium and Shrine Auditorium.

Frederick Davis

Other works on the program will include the Overture to the "Fireworks Music" by Handel and the choir's performance of the Sanctus from the "B Minor Mass" by Bach. Lauris Jones conductor of the Long Beach Symphony, and Davis will direct.

* * * *

CONCERT tickets may be reserved by calling the Long Beach Symphony Association, 1935 E. Seventh St., or at Humphreys Music Company, 135 E. Third St.

The public is invited to hear a preview of the concert Tuesday at 10 a.m. in Lafayette Hotel. There is no admission charge. Speaker will be Dr. Russell N. Squire, professor of music at California State College, Long Beach. He will discuss the entire concert program.

Luncheon, for which there is a charge, will be served after the preview. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Richard Westervelt, 3550 Claremore.

FIRST LADY'S INAUGURAL GOWN—Mrs. Lady Bird Johnson will wear this jonquil yellow double-woven satin classic style gown to the Inaugural Ball this week. It has a matching full-length coat and was designed by John Moore of New York.

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson will wear a classic jonquil yellow heavy satin gown with a matching floor length evening coat cuffed in sable to the inaugural balls, the White House announced Saturday night.

The first lady's ensemble was created by New York designer, John Moore, a native of Oklahoma who grew up in Texas. He now is one of the leaders in America's fashion industry.

The President's daughters also will be on parade that night. Lynda Bird, 20, will wear a white silk gown and a double-breasted, white ottoman silk coat with rhinestone buttons and white accessories.

Black haired Luci, 17, picked a rose peal pink satin dress with beaded bodice, a scoop neckline and a gently full skirt. She will wear matching pink shoes, long white gloves and the new pearl earrings her mother gave her for Christmas.

THE SECOND LADY of the country, Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey, wife of the vice-president-elect, selected a gown of sheer ribbon lace in varied blue and lavender "wisteria" tones with a matching full length collarless coat by Count Sarmi, a New York designer, formerly of Italian royalty.

"Mrs. Johnson was looking for a gown that had timelessness and understated elegance," said her press secretary, Elizabeth Carpenter, "because the ballgown eventually will wind up in the First Lady collection at the Smithsonian Institute, replacing the long dress she has temporarily on display."

The President "hasn't seen the inaugural ballgown yet but Mrs. Johnson has described it to him," Mrs. Carpenter said. She noted that yellow is the president's "favorite color" for his wife.

IN NAMING the designer, the White House broke its own policy of anonymity for makers of the first family's clothes. It did so because of the "special occasion and the intense interest" in the First Lady's new wardrobe, Mrs. Carpenter said.

She said Moore was picked because Mrs. Johnson heard about him and asked him to submit sketches, which she approved. The First Lady's gown has a bateau neckline and small wing-capped sleeves. The dress has a raised waistline and a slight fullness flowing to the back.

Her coat falls from narrow shoulders to a wider hem and features a queenly stand-up collar with elbow length sleeves circled in natural sables.

Mrs. Johnson plans to wear a single strand of pearls and the diamond and gold earrings given to her by her husband on their thirtieth wedding anniversary last Nov. 17.

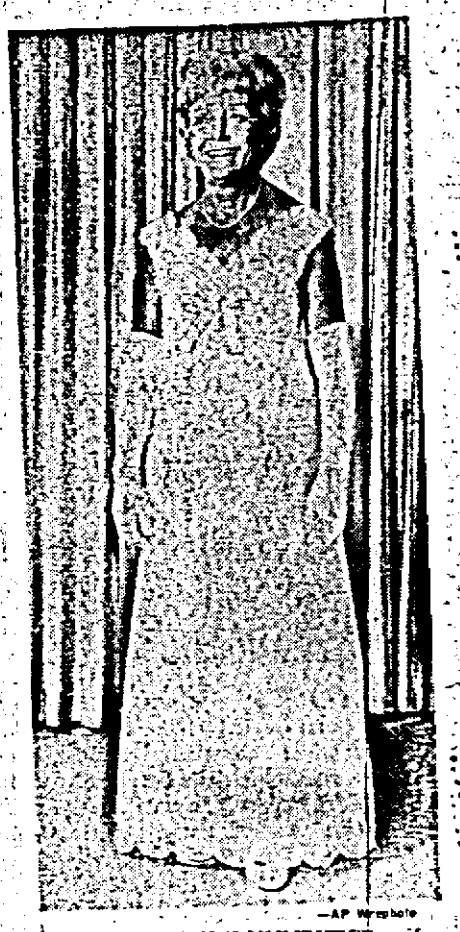

THE FIRST LADY and Lynda got dolled up in their gowns last Saturday to pose for pictures. Luci passed up the picture taking to cram for final exams which were pushed a week ahead so she could take in the inaugural festivities.

"They can see me at the ball," Luci explained when asked why she had not had an official photograph taken in her gown. The Johnson girls did their shopping in Washington, Texas and New York. They made their own selections. Their designers' names are being kept secret. Mrs. Johnson purchased her gown through Neiman Marcus, the Dallas store where she has shopped since she was a young girl.

MURIEL HUMPHREY, a whiz with the needle herself, made some of her inaugural clothes. But not the gown she will wear inauguration evening. The gown has a V neck bodice with a bow accentuating the empire waistline. The skirt is gently shaped with a scalloped hemline and the blue and lavender shades give a flowing water color effect. She will carry an evening bag of the same fabric. Like Mrs. Johnson, she will wear long above-the-elbow white kid gloves.

The Humphreys' daughter, Nancy Solomonson of Minneapolis, Minn., who is expecting her third child in March, will wear an A-line maternity gown of queen blue peau d'ange (silk) for the ball. The gown has a beaded bodice and a deep pleat down the front. Over it she will wear a velvet coat lined in taffeta.

Their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey III, will wear an embossed white brocade gown with a rounded neckline and front panel on the skirt. The ensemble includes a princess-line, evening coat of the same fabric.

MRS. HUBERT HUMPHREY, wife of vice president-elect, will wear this gown of frail sheer ribbon lace in wisteria tones with matching full-length coat to Inaugural Ball Wednesday night in Washington. Designed by Count Sarmi of New York, dress has V-neck bodice with bow accentuating the empire waistline. Skirt is gently shaped with scalloped hemline. It has varied blue and lavender tones.

He's Tripped Up In His Trip Plans

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have four children, two from a former marriage.

My present husband is planning a trip next summer and says he will not take his two stepchildren. I told him that if all of us didn't go, I wouldn't.

Am I wrong in taking this attitude?—HURT.

DEAR HURT:

How can your husband be so heartless as to be so obvious in his bias toward the children? I just don't understand it. There are so many people in the world trying to help and make life happier for youngsters and then we find people like your husband doing just the opposite!

No, if all the children can't go on the trip, I'd refuse to go, too. But I doubt if your husband would really care. He's not the type.—M. M.

• • • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My girl friend is getting married and has asked me to be one of the bridesmaids. It will be a big wedding which her father can well afford. We were told our dresses would cost between $50 and $60 which is a lot of money to us. We will be graduating two weeks before the wedding which makes our expenses at that time quite high. Our question is: Who pays for our dresses?

Also, are gifts presented to the couple to be married at an engagement party?

—WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING:

It is a rule—bridesmaids' dresses are picked out by the bride and paid for by the bridesmaid. It very often, as in your case, works a hardship on the bridesmaids and the bride should take that into consideration when planning her wedding.

Gifts are given a bride-to-be at a shower but any general fashion that necessitates giving engagement as well as wedding presents is taboo.—M. M.

DEAR READERS:

I've had lots and lots of replies to a letter sent in by J. B.—a teen-age mother who didn't know what to do with her time. Of them all, here is one from another teen-age wife (and mother-to-be) that I think is very good.—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have just turned 16, am married and our baby is due in April. I would like J. B. to know how I fill my spare time.

I clean my house, mop floors, windows, walls and woodwork. I plan meals, new and different for each day. I also take great care of my appearance so I look nice when my husband comes home.

I take long walks when I can and visit friends. And reading can take up a lot of time. I write letters to friends and relatives; some girls like pen pals. There are puzzles to work, card games to play by yourself.

If you do all these things, your so-called problem will vanish, and I know I haven't named all the things you could find to do. — ANOTHER TEEN-AGE WIFE.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a problem that I bet some other students have and maybe your advice will help a lot of us.

My boy friend and I go to different high schools. He belongs to the wrestling team at his school. In one of the meets, my boy friend is going to wrestle with one of my best friends. But here's the payoff! I'm head cheerleader at my school!

I'm in a spot — whom should I yell for? — RAH, RAH, RAH.

DEAR RAH, RAH, RAH:

You are in the middle! But you do have a choice—give up your boy friend or resign as cheerleader. If you aren't willing to do either, I just hope you have a very broad-minded boy friend.

If you yell for the opposition, please don't yell very loud — someone might hear you. If you yell for your own school, just keep your fingers crossed!—M. M.

WHY GROW OLD?

Beware of Sunday Hazard!

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Sunday is as great a hazard for a woman who is reducing as a sand trap is for a man who is playing goff. The man may have a splendid score and then one try may ruin it.

A woman may have counted her calories faithfully all week, and then comes Sunday! The family is at home loafing all day and nibbling on delightful items while visiting and looking at television. Friends may drop in. That one day may cancel out the progress she has made during the rest of the week.

Today those of you who are following my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan will meet your first "diet trap." Today I bring you menus which will please your family and indicate what you may have without going over your allowable 1200 calories.

Breakfast—for you.

½ grapefruit with ½ teaspoon sugar, one piece toast, lightly buttered, two strips of crisp bacokn, coffee with one teaspoon sugar.

Breakfast—for your family.

To the above add — eggs fixed anyway — more toast — with jelly if desired — more bacon or sausage — if preferred — more sugar.

Dinner—for you.

One cup of hot consomme with parsley. Two small crackers, one serving of baked or broiled chicken. (one-half of medium broiler or one good helping of roasted chicken). ½ cup cole slaw, ½ cup green lima beans, fruit cup, sweetened with artificial sweetener.

Dinner—for family.

The same except larger helpings and seconds if desired. Add hot rolls. The family can also have dressing and gravy and jelly which you must skip. Substitute one of their favorite desserts for your fruit.

Supper—for you.

Scrambled eggs (two) cooked in top of double boiler, season with celery or onion salt or very small amount of butter, cucumber and lettuce salad, with low calorie salad dressing, eight ounces of skim or powdered fat free milk.

Supper—for family.

Same salad — any kind of sandwiches — hot chocolate.

YOU CAN use this more as a guide for future Sundays. Think over the items you are not allowed and those which you are. For variety you can substitute meat, fish or seafood for the chicken, a baked potato for the limas, carrot and celery tsicks for the cole slaw, add a green or yellow vegetable and have a moderate helping of gelatin instead of the fruit cup.

I will be back Monday with more exercises and especially some for hard-to-reduce spots, and more information and directions for you.

If you have missed any of this series or would like to have by Bip Kit which gives you all the information you need and also a chart on which you can plot your weight loss send 25 cents, plus 15 cents for postage and handling, and your printed name and address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Recognize Your Own Potential

Creativity—in art, in the home, in relations with other people—is the theme of Dorothy Goldberg's new book, "The Creative Woman" which can now be obtained from the Long Beach Public Library. By using her creative instincts and by developing her inner "self," says the author, a woman may find both her own unique potential and a clearer understanding of her own needs.

CDA to Have Open House

Court St. Ann, Catholic Daughters of America, extends an invitation to an openhouse to all women interested in finding out more about the organization. The open house will take place Tuesday at Ebell Clubhouse, Third St. and Cerritos Ave. from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Guest speakers will explain CDA's purposes after which refreshments will be served. # Beware of Sunday Hazard!

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Sunday is as great a hazard for a woman who is reducing as a sand trap is for a man who is playing golf. The man may have a splendid score and then one try may ruin it.

A woman may have counted her calories faithfully all week, and then comes Sunday! The family is at home loafing all day and nibbling on delightful items while visiting and looking at television. Friends may drop in. That one day may cancel out the progress she has made during the rest of the week.

Today those of you who are following my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan will meet your first "diet trap." Today I bring you menus which will please your family and indicate what you may have without going over your allowable 1200 calories.

Breakfast—for you.

½ grapefruit with ½ teaspoon sugar, one piece toast, lightly buttered, two strips of crisp bacokn, coffee with one teaspoon sugar.

Breakfast—for your family.

To the above add — eggs fixed anyway — more toast — with jelly if desired — more bacon or sausage — if preferred — more sugar.

Dinner—for you.

One cup of hot consomme with parsley. Two small crackers, one serving of baked or broiled chicken. (one-half of medium broiler or one good helping of roasted chicken), ½ cup cole slaw, ½ cup green lima beans, fruit cup, sweetened with artificial sweetener.

Dinner—for family.

The same except larger helpings and seconds if desired. Add hot rolls. The family can also have dressing and gravy and jelly which you must skip. Substitute one of their favorite desserts for your fruit.

Supper—for you.

Scrambled eggs (two) cooked in top of double boiler, season with celery or onion salt or very small amount of butter, cucumber and lettuce salad, with low calorie salad dressing, eight ounces of skim or powdered fat free milk.

Supper—for family.

Same salad — any kind of sandwiches — hot chocolate.

YOU CAN use this more as a guide for future Sundays. Think over the items you are not allowed and those which you are. For variety you can substitute meat, fish or seafood for the chicken, a baked potato for the limas, carrot and celery tsicks for the cole slaw, add a green or yellow vegetable and have a moderate helping of gelatin instead of the fruit cup.

I will be back Monday with more exercises and especially some for hard-to-reduce spots, and more information and directions for you.

If you have missed any of this series or would like to have by Bip Kit which gives you all the information you need and also a chart on which you can plot your weight loss send 25 cents, plus 15 cents for postage and handling, and your printed name and address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Recognize Your Own Potential

Creativity—in art, in the home, in relations with other people—is the theme of Dorothy Goldberg's new book, "The Creative Woman" which can now be obtained from the Long Beach Public Library. By using her creative instincts and by developing her inner "self," says the author, a woman may find both her own unique potential and a clearer understanding of her own needs.

Brigadier Arthur L. Carl

CHEF OF THE WEEK

His Stake as Cook Is Roquefort Steak

By MILDRED F. FLANARY
L. P-T Food Editor

He is known in Salvation Army terminology, as "son of the regiment."

Today's chef of the week, Brig. Arthur L. Carl, is manager of Long Beach Salvation Army's social service department. His father, prior to his death, held the highest rank in the Salvation Army—that of "commandant"—since discontinued.

Carl was born in St. Louis, Mo. When he was 14 months old, his dad was assigned as commanding officer at Raton, N.M. The peripatetic family next moved to Colorado Springs, Colo., then to El Paso, Tex., where our "chef" graduated from junior high. While there, his dad launched that city's first Community Chest Drive.

A bit further west, Phoenix, was next destination, and Carl remained to graduate from high school.

By 1932, the Salvation Army had become very important to him, and, having completed a course in Army Training College, San Francisco, Carl became an "Army" officer himself. His first assignment was Denver, Colo., where he was welfare director for the City of Denver during the depression. While there, he continued his education, taking specialized courses in sociology at Denver U.

* * * * *

IT WAS in Denver, that he and the former Xelia Linder, were married. A Salvation Army officer in her own right, she had been a member of his graduating class from Army Training College.

They have two sons and a daughter—Arthur, married, and a teacher of Theology in Seeheim, Germany; Richard of Canoga Park; and Jane, who is with IBM in Los Angeles.

Another hitch in Oakland, where he was in charge of both the Northern California and Navada districts, preceded his present field of endeavor, that of a rehabilitation program for men. He came to Long Beach in 1956, and currently is enjoying his longest assignment in any city. At that time, the Long Beach Salvation Army had a limited residency capacity of 55 men; today in can accommodate 85, with a dream of 125, uppermost in Carl's mind.

During the intervening years, Carl completed a course in real estate law at Fresno State, one in directorship and management at Columbia U., New York City; and attended the Yale Clinic for Alcoholism, studying the effect of alcohol on the human system. Of his work he says—"It has many facets—it's interesting, different and satisfying."

* * * * *

A CHARTER member of the National Association of Social Workers, Carl is also a registered social worker. He is a member of the Civil Service Police and Oral Board, and of the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Reserve under the guidance of "Chef" Pete Pitchess. He has been a Kiwanian for 27 years, having first joined in Cheyenne, Wyo.

With a natural aptitude for extending that extra kindness and consideration, Carl has done a bang-up job at house and reception chairman for Kiwanis this year.

As for his at-home idiosyncrasies, instead of gravitating toward the garden or the tool chest, he heads for the kitchen, where he is a natural. We might add . . . it's to the delight of his wife, but to the complete chagrin of their friends' husbands.

He especially likes "doing" salads, yet meat is his favorite fare. Today he has a couple of steaks in tow, steaks, which would be the envy of any "chef."

BEEFSTEAK AU ROQUEFORT

1 tender steak (2 inches thick)
2 tblsp. melted butter
Salt and freshly-ground black pepper
2—1 tblsp. Roquefort cheese
¼ cup butter
Juice of ½ lemon
2—4 tblsp. finely-chopped parsley, chervil or chives

Trim excess fat from steak. Brush with melted butter and place on a very hot grill. Broil until cooked to your liking. Add salt and freshly-ground black pepper, to taste.

While steak is cooking, cream Roquefort and butter with lemon juice, finely-chopped herbs and a little salt and pepper. Serve steak immediately, topped with Roquefort butter. Serves 4 to 6.

Hotels Add Remembrance to Travels

TRAVEL and RESORTS

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

Most Americans, when they plan a visit to a foreign land, ask their travel agent to book them "in good, clean, well-managed hotels."

I'll go along with them—all the way, and a little farther. Among strangers, I enjoy not only a "good" hotel, one that is clean and well-managed, but also one that offers that oftentimes intangible extra. Extra in atmosphere. Extra in service. Extra in appointments. Extra in location.

I like a hostelry that anchors itself in my travel memories. Maybe it has shown me none of the extras I mention, only some little incident that occurred there; something by which I will always remember it.

Here is what I mean:

MANDARIN HOTEL, Hong Kong: Its lavish appointments. The friendly yet mystic giant Indian Sikh doorman—bearded Karam Singh—in his glittering white turban, robe of gorgeous red Thai silk and red leather boots, bowing low to guests. But most of all the breathtaking night view of this fabulous harbor and city from the palatial restaurant-bar some 25 stories above the street.

GRAN HOTEL BOLIVAR, Lima, Peru: Its overwhelming old world atmosphere. Its location in the very heart of the city with its proximity to the finest shops, restaurants, public buildings and nightclubs.

COCO PALMS RESORT HOTEL, Kauai, Hawaii: The grass-thatched Hawaii of my dreams, found nowhere else on the Islands. Hawaiians in authentic dress, enacting authentic ancient rites. An immensity of fragrant flowers and a pellucid lagoon amid giant palms that march right out to the sea.

HOTEL SAVOY, London: Like a proud lady, it faces sophisticated London and melts easily into that sophistication. In the center of where the action is, with the River Thames coursing through its courtyard. Impeccable service.

MARIA ISABEL, Mexico City: The endless yards and yards AND YARDS of thick red carpets enlivening lobbies, restaurants, bars and endless hallways. And the view out on Paseo de la Reforma—in the shadow of Independence Monument—seems more spectacular than anywhere else.

HOTEL OKURA, Tokyo: The ultimate in lodging, bar none. Plus famous Japanese hospitality and desire to please. PLUS the most beautiful girl elevator operators in the world.

EXCELSIOR HOTEL, Rome: The movie crowd from Cinecitta—the Hollywood of Italy—crowding the bar, chattering like magpies. Glass elevators gliding silently from floor to floor. The sidewalk cafes out front.

HOTEL TAMANACO, Caracas: A giant among hotels, named for an Aztec chief, built pyramid-style on a hillside. From its broad verandah sprawls one of the most beautiful cities on that or any continent, right before my eyes.

AHWAHNEE HOTEL, Yosemite National Park: Truly one of the unforgettable hostelries in America. The scent of pine, the distant sound of tremendous waterfalls, the sight of deer grazing contentedly in a meadow before your breakfast window.

There are others: Hotel Tahiti, Tahiti; Dorado Beach Hotel near San Juan, Puerto Rico; Royal Hawaiian, Honolulu; George V, Paris; Oberoi Grand, Calcutta; Bluebeard's Castle, Virgin Islands, to name a few.

Each has given me something to add remembrance to my travels.

Could I ask more?

Around the World With DELAPLANE

"We will be in London and Paris and would like to know if there are any shows we should see. And how do you get tickets?"

LONDON'S the theater town. I don't know what's playing now but look at the theater page in the Daily Mail or Daily Express. Shows start about 6:30 and you have supper after the show—a more pleasant arrangement than ours.

You don't have to tip the girl who seats you. But if she brings tea to your seat at intermission, then tip her a shilling. There's also a bar somewhere in the lobby. For tickets, ask the hall porter in your hotel—the uniformed man who hands you your keys, mail, etc. Theater seats are cheap in London.

All Americans in Paris go to the Folies Bergere. Summer business is 40% American so 40% of the jokes are in English. Or worded so you'll understand them. Tickets through the hotel concierge—which is hall porter in French.

If the Folies is "sold out," the concierge is working for (a) a tip, or (b) a little scalping increase. There are ticket agencies along the boulevards. Or go to the Casino de Paris which is much the same thing: It's sort of grandly staged burlesque. Tip the girl who seats you one franc: 20 cents U.S.

Best show in Paris is the nightclub Lido on the Champs Elysees. You must order one bottle of champagne, about $10 or $15 for two. Skip the dinner. Go somewhere else before the show.

The very bare shows are in Place Pigalle. Chez Eve, Nouvelle Eve and Naturistes are best known. Add the check yourself. The waiter flunked math.

• • • •

"Could you suggest a medium-priced hotel in Madrid?"

THE WELLINGTON or the Velasquez. Should be about $5 to $6. If it's summer, find out what the charge is for air-conditioning—if they have it. Sometimes hotels charge you for this even if it isn't working. Hotel rates are set by the Government and they have to do all sorts of things to get around it. You aren't being taken. They really do have to go around corners just to keep operating.

• • • •

"Would you suggest a hotel in Guatemala City and things to do and shopping."

THE MAYA-EXCELSIOR is a junior Hilton type and central. I stay at the older, more Spanish style Palace which is full of banana intrigue types. Rooms at either one will run about $8. Best restaurant is Hosteria Don Pepe—he makes a great bean dish.

Best shopping is in skirts and blouses in Guatemala designs based on Maya temple carvings. The silver appears to be poor grade. Not as good as Mexico. Don't bother buying those Spanish "pieces-of-eight" from street corner Indians. They're made from molds in a couple of silver shops on Sixth Avenue, the main street. And you can buy them cheaper there anyway.

Weather is pleasanter and the town is more interesting if you go over to Antigua about 45 minutes by car. The original capital was abandoned after several earthquakes and floods. But it has fine colonial buildings and several good hotels.

• • • •

"... a bon voyage present for friends going to Europe. They will be driving."

A GOOD TIRE guage. European gas stations don't check tires and don't wash windshields. Or, a nonbreakable Thermos (or similar type) jug. Good for coffee. Even better to carry bottled water which is usually poorly corked.

• • • •

"Would you recommend foreign language phrase books for a trip to Europe?"

POCKET-SIZE phrase boods are always on sale at the airport where you land and in the big tourist hotels. Run through it first. They might unload a leftover on you. I got one in France once that had phrases like—"Are there any mine fields here? Have you seen any soldiers with strange uniforms?"

• • • •

SWITZERLAND is the no discount country of Europe. However, they do give 10% discounts to airline people, tour guides and travel agents. (But not to travel writers, alas.) If you know anybody in airline business in Switzerland, they can get it for you.

—Phoenix Chamber of Commerce Photo

IT'S GREAT to sunlaze in Phoenix these warm days after a dip in the pool. Marmaid Bobbie Ellis gives you an idea of what it can be like.

Parking 'Silo'

A garage, accommodating 900 cars, has been built into the rock beneath the Grossglockner, the highest Alpine peak in Austria. The garage is designed for motorists traveling over the Grossglockner High Alpine Drive to view the glaciers and white peaks on the roof of Europe. Situated some 8,000 feet above sea level, this "parking silo," as it is called locally, offers a superb view of the landscape around Salzburg, says Pan Am, which serves Austria through Vienna.

Europe Leads

Statistics of U.S. Passport studies show that 75% of Americans traveling overseas visit Europe, according to the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA).

Reservations in Seconds by Computer

Now you can pick up your phone, call Pan Am in Los Angeles, say something like this:

"We're a party of six. We want to fly to Rome on the 18th, Beirut on the 21st, Bangkok on the 24th, then back home to Los Angeles via Tokyo on the 30th — with three double rooms at every stop. And, oh, yes . . . one of us is on a salt-free diet."

And then, faster than you can do a doodle, you get full confirmation of everything . . . including arrangements for the special salt-free diet for one all the way!

PANAMAC is the exciting new computerized communications system developed by Pan Am and IBM. Its great significance is that it helps Pan Am people to save you lots of time and uncertainty whenever and wherever you plan to travel—worldwide! It can process reservations for the most complex trip—including stopovers, connecting flights, special services, ground transportation, and stays in any of the 27 Intercontinental Hotels and other fine hotels around the world—all in seconds. Here's how it works:

While you're talking, your Pan Am reservations agent is instantaneously transmitting your request to PANAMAC's nerve center in New York. Here it is immediately checked against the latest information on seat availabilities, hotel rooms, etc. — all of which PANAMAC "stores" and keeps constantly up-to-date. Then presto! Back come all the answers — in the time it takes you to read this sentence.

Matson Maps Investor Cruise

A "first" in Pacific passenger ship service—"Investors' Seminar Cruise" to Hawaii—will be launched on the Matson liner Lurline on the day of Uncle Sam's income tax return deadline.

The Lurline sails April 15 from San Francisco and April 16 from Los Angeles for Honolulu, Nawiliwili, Lahaina and Hilo.

Matson has teamed up with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., stock brokerage house, to offer the unique investment course at sea.

Alexander Mazour, account executive at Merrill Lynch's San Francisco office, will conduct the course.

'No Vacancy' Ban Is Urged

A ban on "No Vacancy" signs by motels is urged by a leading motel executive.

"Anyone in the lodging business has an obligation to furnish lodging to guests who come to his place of business, even if it's not in his own motel," declares Dan Pavis, general manager of O'Hare Inn, adjacent to Chicago's O'Hare International Airport. "Use of 'No Vacancy' signs should be prohibited in the motel industry."

Pavis says he has never used a "No Vacancy" at his motel. During the four years since O'Hare Inn has opened, the motel has found space for thousands of guests at nearby motels and lodged them there, although the motels are competitive.

"We feel we are responsible to find a lodging for anyone who comes to our door," says Pavis, "even if it means placing them in the room of a competitor.

It's Cold Up There!

Temperatures at 30,000 feet over the North Pole are nearly the same as readings on Scandinavian Airlines System routes over North America and Europe. The lowest temperature ever recorded — 90 degrees below Centigrade (130 degrees below Fahrenheit) was taken at 55,000 feet above Java in the East Indies, near the equator.

Cherry Blossom Sailing

Whether March ends with a roar or a bleat here, two weeks later, the British liner Oronsay will sail into a cherry blossom spring in Japan.

On March 31, the Oronsay leaves San Francisco bound for Los Angeles and Hawaii on her way to Yokohama. She arrives in Japan April 14 at the exact time the cherry trees will be in full bloom.

To experience spring in Japan when pink and white cherry blossoms abound, P&O-Orient Lines suggests a voyage to the Orient and return to the west coast by air.

• • • •

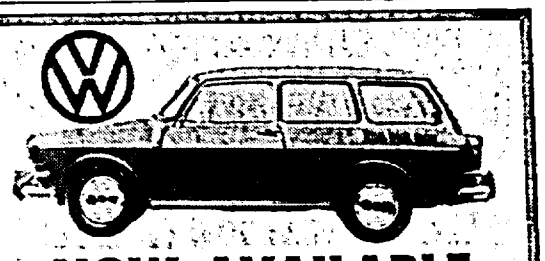

REGULAR AIRLINE service to Yellowstone National Park will be resumed by Western Air Lines on June 12 after a 17-year lapse caused by inadequate airport facilities.

Resumption of the service was made possible through the construction of a $1,318,000 airport at the west entrance to the park. The airport will be dedicated in conjunction with the arrival of the first WAL flight.

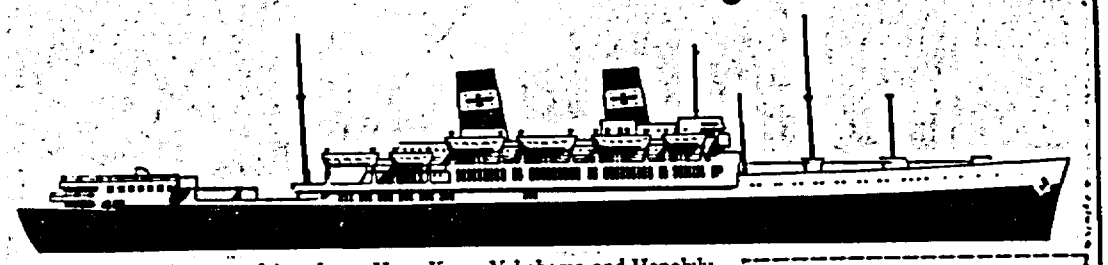

Service to the nation's oldest and largest national park will be on a June-September basis. Western will inaugurate service with two flights a day.

Reservations in Seconds by Computer

Now you can pick up your phone, call Pan Am in Los Angeles, say something like this:

"We're a party of six. We want to fly to Rome on the 18th, Beirut on the 21st, Bangkok on the 24th, then back home to Los Angeles via Tokyo on the 30th — with three double rooms at every stop. And, oh, yes ... one of us is on a salt-free diet."

And then, faster than you can do a doodle, you get full confirmation of everything ... including arrangements for the special salt-free diet for one all the way!

PANAMAC is the exciting new computerized communications system developed by Pan Am and IBM. Its great significance is that it helps Pan Am people to save you lots of time and uncertainty whenever and wherever you plan to travel—worldwide! It can process reservations for the most complex trip—including stopovers, connecting flights, special services, ground transportation, and stays in any of the 27 Intercontinental Hotels and other fine hotels around the world—all in seconds. Here's how it works:

While you're talking, your Pan Am reservations agent is instantaneously transmitting your request to PANAMAC's nerve center in New York. Here it is immediately checked against the latest information on seat availabilities, hotel rooms, etc. — all of which PANAMAC "stores" and keeps constantly up-to-date. Then presto! Back come all the answers — in the time it takes you to read this sentence.

Matson Maps Investor Cruise

A "first" in Pacific passenger ship service—"Investors' Seminar Cruise" to Hawaii—will be launched on the Matson liner Lurline on the day of Uncle Sam's income tax return deadline.

The Lurline sails April 15 from San Francisco and April 16 from Los Angeles for Honolulu, Nawiliwili, Lahaina and Hilo.

Matson has teamed up with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., stock brokerage house, to offer the unique investment course at sea.

Alexander Mazour, account executive at Merrill Lynch's San Francisco office, will conduct the course.

Parking 'Silo'

A garage, accommodating 900 cars, has been built into the rock beneath the Grossglockner, the highest Alpine peak in Austria. The garage is designed for motorists traveling over the Grossglockner High Alpine Drive to view the glaciers and white peaks on the roof of Europe. Situated some 8,000 feet above sea level, this "parking silo," as it is called locally, offers a superb view of the landscape around Salzburg, says Pan Am. which serves Austria through Vienna.

Europe Leads

Statistics of U.S. Passport studies show that 75% of Americans traveling overseas visit Europe, according to the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA).

'No Vacancy' Ban Is Urged

A ban on "No Vacancy" signs by motels is urged by a leading motel executive.

"Anyone in the lodging business has an obligation to furnish lodging to guests who come to his place of business, even if it's not in his own motel," declares Dan Pavis, general manager of O'Hare Inn, adjacent to Chicago's O'Hare International Airport. "Use of 'No Vacancy' signs should be prohibited in the motel industry."

Pavis says he has never used a "No Vacancy" at his motel. During the four years since O'Hare Inn has opened, the motel has found space for thousands of guests at nearby motels and lodged them there, although the motels are competitive.

"We feel we are responsible to find a lodging for anyone who comes to our door," says Pavis, "even if it means placing them in the room of a competitor.

It's Cold Up There!

Temperatures at 30,000 feet over the North Pole are nearly the same as readings on Scandinavian Airlines System routes over North America and Europe. The lowest temperature ever recorded — 90 degrees below Centigrade (130 degrees below Fahrenheit) was taken at 55,000 feet above Java in the East Indies, near the equator.

Cherry Blossom Sailing

Whether March ends with a roar or a bleat here, two weeks later, the British liner Oronsay will sail into a cherry blossom spring in Japan.

On March 31, the Oronsay leaves San Francisco bound for Los Angeles and Hawaii on her way to Yokohama. She arrives in Japan April 14 at the exact time the cherry trees will be in full bloom.

To experience spring in Japan when pink and white cherry blossoms abound, P&O-Orient Lines suggests a voyage to the Orient and return to the west coast by air.

Resumption of the service was made possible through the construction of a $1,318,000 airport at the west entrance to the park. The airport will be dedicated in conjunction with the arrival of the first WAL flight.

Service to the nation's oldest and largest national park will be on a June-September basis. Western will inaugurate service with two flights a day.

Rodeo Slated in Desert

One of January's best attended Southland events is the Palm Springs Rodeo which will be held for the 25th time Jan. 30-31.

People go to the desert not only to see the action but also to glimpse their favorite movie stars. The Palm Springs Mounted Police is staging the show.

Other destinations for gadders this month will include Baldwin Park where Lucky Baldwin Days are scheduled Jan. 23, "The Forward Look" will be the theme of the 10 a.m. parade of riders, bands, drill and marching units, and floats.

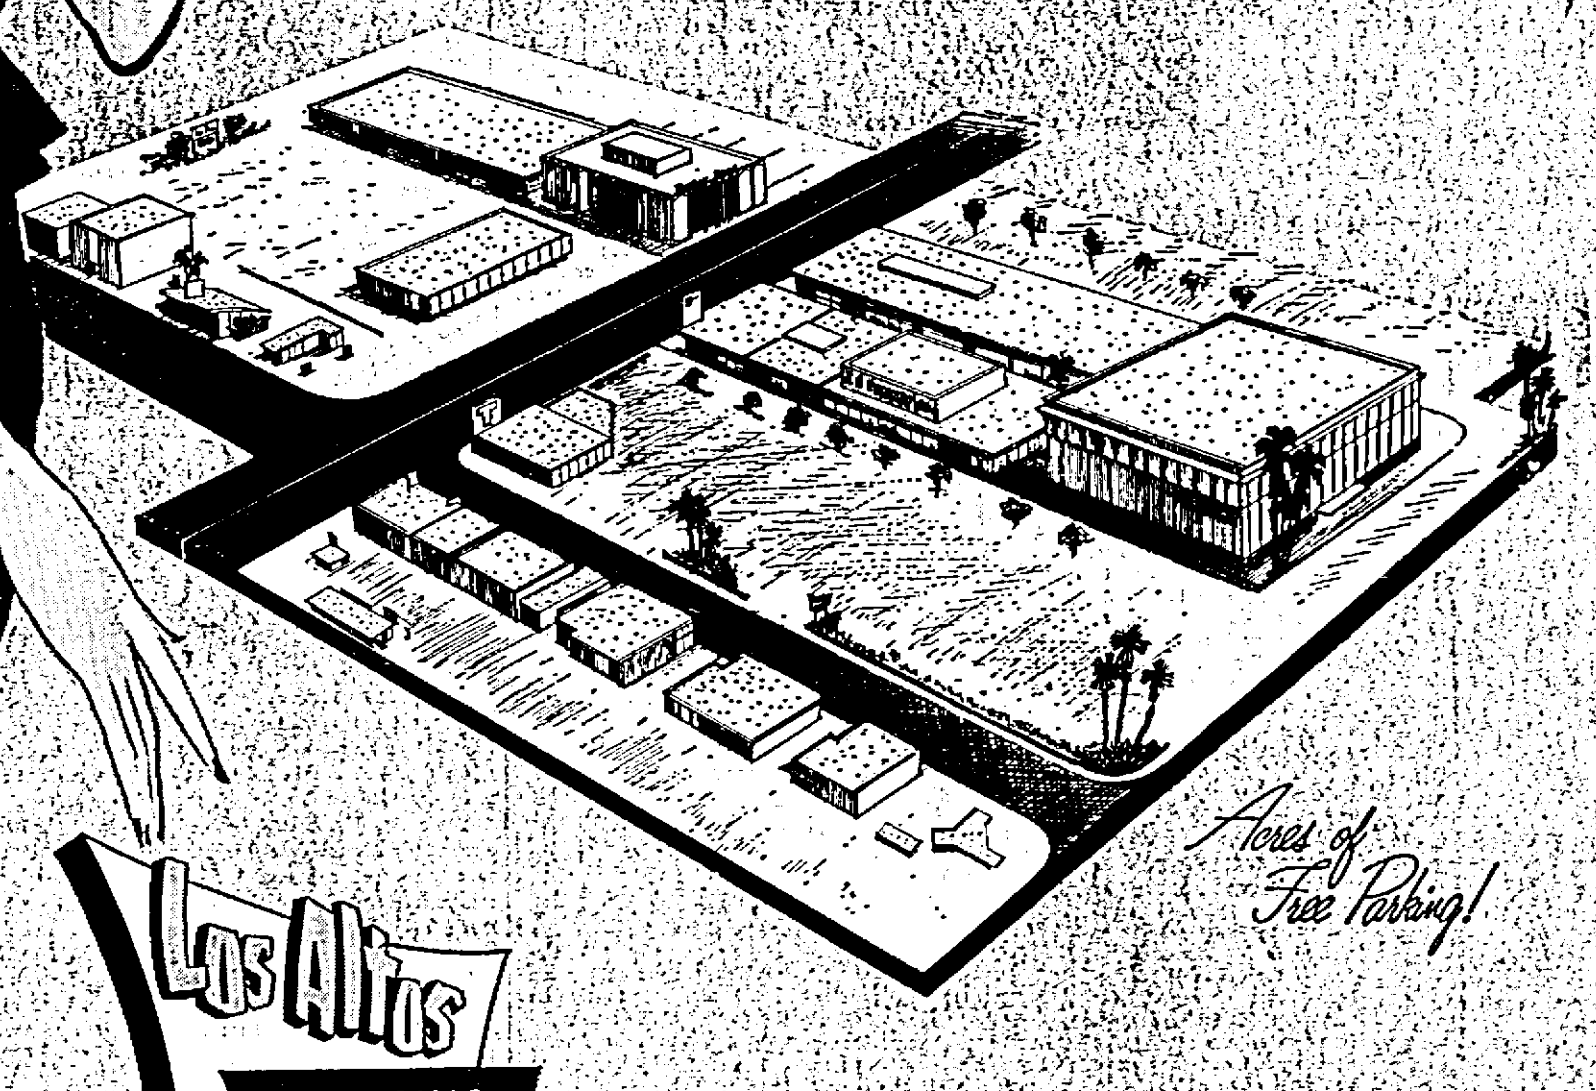

Meanwhile, the "perpetual" Catfish Derby goes on at Blythe in the green Palo Verde Valley beside the Colorado River. Each month the chamber of commerce awards a prize to the resident or visitor catching the biggest catfish or bass from the Colorado or canal or lagoon watered by the river.

METHOD FIRST USED FOR CUSPIDORS

Explosives Used to Shape Saturn Fuel Tanks

By KEN KNIGHT

A technique developed 50 years ago to mold spittoons is now being used to build parts for the United States' rockets and missiles.

Employing a method known as "high energy metal forming," scientists and engineers at the North American Facility located on 80 acres next to the El Toro Marine Base are using explosives to form the parts needed for the space program.

Utilizing plastic explosives, the parts are made by fixing them over a metal die or mold and then lowering them into a tank of water.

• • • •

SUSPENDED over the part are the explosives, which are tied to a nylon fishnet in a pattern designed to produce the necessary shape of the part.

When the explosives are ignited the force of the explosion, dampened on top by the water, forces the metal into the mold to produce the desired shape.

Presently the top priority project at the only plant which is using the high energy forming method is the production of 15-foot-long aluminum sections which will be welded together to make two fuel tanks for the Saturn moon rocket.

• • • •

FORMING the one-half-inch thick aluminum sections which comprise the fuel tanks, which are 33 feet in diameter, requires a great deal of attention to details and the following of a set procedure.

First, the sections are painted to keep them from corroding in the air. Next, they are etched with a pattern that technicians can follow as they fix the explosives to the fishnet.

The aluminum sheet then is clamped to the die and a five-ton weight presses the metal into the die or form, where it is sealed by a rubber sheet to prevent water from getting between the metal and the form.

• • • •

THE FISHNET with the charge attached is then suspended over the fuel tank section and the whole assembly is lowered into the 14-foot-deep water tank, which is about the size of a small swimming pool.

• • • •

THREE separate shots, following the same routine, are needed to completely form the fuel tank sections.

After aluminum sheets are in their final rounded shape they are sent to the Douglas Long Beach plant where they are heat-treated to harden and strengthen the metal.

The welding of the sections is done at the Douglas Space Facility in Huntington Beach.

In addition to making the sections for the Saturn fuel tanks, the North American engineers also form components for F-1 rocket engines, pylon doors for the Hound Dog missiles and housings for turbo pumps.

"This method, developed about six years ago, is cheaper and faster than the conventional way of forming metal into different shapes," explained Joe Cor-

New Factors Seen in Realty Field for 1965

By VERN ANTHONY
Editor of Progress Section

Local real estate markets will feel more and more the impact of national trends and international events in 1965, according to the Department of Research of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

This was reported Saturday through James Hoffman, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors. Hoffman released an analysis by Mrs. Catherine E. Martini, director of the NAREB research division.

In NAREB's annual Market Outlook, Mrs. Martini said levels of construction and sales in turn will influence the general economy and, to an increasing degree, world markets, as investment funds move with relative ease between nations.

• • • •

"THE GROWING interdependence of cities and nations emerges as a major factor in the already complex relationship between real estate markets and the national economy," she added.

Current economic expansion in the United States can be expected to continue through 1965 and to strengthen the demand for real estate, but this demand will be highly selective, Mrs. Martini declared.

Need for professional services in selling properties or in managing them will be greater as competition between existing buildings and new structures sharpens, according to the Outlook.

Upgrading will continue as a major feature of the real estate market, and investment property owners who neglect maintenance will experience rising vacancies, the report advised.

"Single family older homes in well-maintained neighborhoods continue to attract buyers," said Mrs. Martini. "This preference has been evident in stability of value and in market activity. Previously occupied properties, appropriately priced when listed, sell rapidly."

Private nonfarm housing starts in 1964 probably will total about 1,550,000, which is some 30,000 under the revised figure of 1,582,000 for 1963, observed Mrs. Martini.

• • • •

PRICES FOR LAND have continued their upward climb as the demand for sites in and around metropolitan areas has grown, Mrs. Martini said. This demand is for residential development and commercial and industrial needs, she pointed out. As in the residential real estate market, a strong factor in the industrial property demand is the need and desire for modernization and improvement.

L.B. Home Show Space Going Fast

Plans are going forward for the 1965 Long Beach Home-O-Rama to be staged Feb. 24-28 in the Long Beach Arena under the auspices of the Long Beach Builders Exchange.

Louis J. Anfinson, general chairman of this year's home show, said several surprises are in store for visitors.

"An entirely new feature is being arranged," he added, "and we will release details as soon as plans are made final."

• • • •

GEORGE COLOURIS, producer of the Home Show for the past five years, said 69% of exhibit space in the arena has been reserved to date.

"However," he continued, "choice space still is available for exhibitors who desire to participate." He advised those who intend to exhibit to act quickly in order to reserve the best space.

The Home-O-Rama is staged annually by the Builders Exchange to acquaint the public with the latest products available for the home and with the progress being made by the Southland's active construction industry.

Jack Horner, manager of the Builders Exchange, is working closely with Anfinson and Colouris in planning the event.

New Record Set by Savings Banks

Deposit gains in the nation's savings banks set a new record last November, according to the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks.

Gains of $310 millions topped the $239 million increase of the previous November and the old November record of $273 million set in 1962.

$3 Million Hostelry Readied at Redondo Beach

By DON KIRKLAND

REDONDO BEACH — There's a milestone awaitin Mary Davis next weekend, but the end of the rainbow still it a long way off.

The 35-year-old blonde fireball, a soda jerk turned hotel mogul, will see her latest dream come true as amazed well-wishers help dedicate her Portofino Inn — a $3 million project they once thought might never reach reality.

But by weathering labor woes, bankruptcy of a subcontractor, hurricane-force storms and a dozen other calamities, Miss Davis' Portofino Inn finally made it.

• • • •

THE LAVISH, ocean-front hostelry sits perched at the western extremity of Redondo King Harbor, overlooking on one side the Portofino yacht harbor, and on the other the waters of the Pacific. The three-story building complex boasts ocean and harbor views for each of its 150 rooms, plus a gourmet restaurant and cocktail lounge within a minute's access.

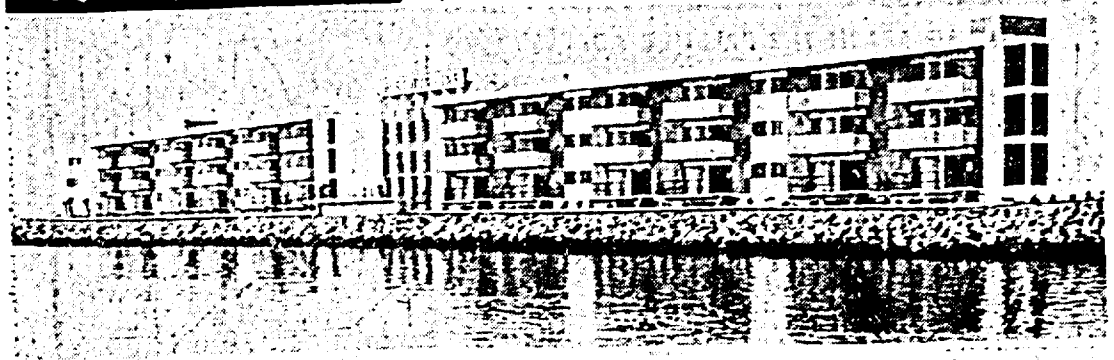

A coffee shop and an upstairs "hideaway" bar round out the facility, built in a year and a half entirely under Miss Davis' supervision.

• • • •

ALTHOUGH she started out to build a gas station for boats and wound up instead with a hotel, Miss Davis insists she's none the worse for wear. What's more, she is considering further exploits in contracting, along with a new "career" in construction of other unusual beach-city resorts.

When she was barely 17, Miss Davis managed a soda fountain and eventually operated two cigar

Mary Davis, former auto racing and economy run driver, has overcome host of problems to see completion of new $3 million Portofino Inn at Redondo Beach. Inn's dedication is slated next weekend. A three-day open house with the public invited starts Friday.

BLONDE'S DREAM COMING TRUE

$3 Million Hostelry Readied at Redondo Beach

By DON KIRKLAND

REDONDO BEACH — There's a milestone awaitin Mary Davis next weekend, but the end of the rainbow still it a long way off.

The 38-year-old blonde fireball, a soda jerk turned hotel mogul, will see her latest dream come true as amazed well-wishers help dedicate her Portofino Inn — a $3 million project they once thought might never reach reality.

But by weathering labor woes, bankruptcy of a subcontractor, hurricane-force storms and a dozen other calamities, Miss Davis' Portofino Inn finally made it.

THE LAVISH, ocean-front hostelry sits perched at the western extremity of Redondo King Harbor, overlooking on one side the Portofino yacht harbor, and on the other the waters of the Pacific. The three-story building complex boasts ocean and harbor views for each of its 150 rooms, plus a gourmet restaurant and cocktail lounge within a minute's access.

A coffee shop and an upstairs "hideaway" bar round out the facility, built in a year and a half entirely under Miss Davis' supervision.

ALTHOUGH she started out to build a gas station for boats and wound up instead with a hotel, Miss Davis insists she's none the worse for wear. What's more, she is considering further exploits in contracting, along with a new "career" in construction of other unusual beach-city resorts.

When she was barely 17, Miss Davis managed a soda fountain and eventually operated two cigar

Action Urged to Ease Property Tax Load

WESTMINSTER—The California Real Estate Association just has approved a four-point program aimed at relieving the tax burden on property owners, it was announced last week by Miles Matthews, president of the Westminster Board of Realtors.

He said that at a three-day meeting in San Francisco more than 1,000 officers and directors of the 173 member real estate boards making up CREA approved these actions:

1. Recommended that the State Legislature broaden the tax base by removing all provisions from the state taxation code which exempt nonprofit or other organizations from paying taxes on residential property.

2. Advocate definite legislation for a ½% increase in sales taxes, which would be distributed to the counties of source, such funds to be used only to reduce real property taxes.

3. Recommend legislative steps to limit the tax on real property.

4. Go on record as completely opposed to any levy by the State of California of ad valorum taxes on real property; that is, a state tax which would be in addition to that already levied by other taxing agencies.

"The property owner in California is being hit hard by rising taxes and is just about at the limit he can endure, in our opinion," Matthews said.

• • • •

"CONTINUED growth in our own community and throughout the state creates the need for additional tax revenues. At the same time, asking the property owner to carry too much of the load could injure that growth.

"We must seek other ways of raising needed funds."

Matthews also reported that more than 2,600 for flood relief in northwestern California was raised when the group passed the hat at the meeting. It was turned over, through the Eureka Board of Realtors, to the Humboldt-Del Norte County Disaster Relief, which has an announced goal of $100,000.

New Home Builders Prexy Cites Challenges of Future

By VERN ANTHONY
Editor of Progress Section

Viewing the future as a challenge to home builders, Larry Armour, of Whittier, accepted the presidency for 1965 of the Home Builders Association of Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura Counties at the group's 24th annual installation banquet, held recently at the Biltmore Bowl in Los Angeles.

"After 20 years of leading the nation in providing homes," Armour said, "it would appear that our local growth rate may now be slowing a bit to a level equal with the rest of the nation. It may be that this year will be one of absorbing some inventory, consolidating and preparing for the growth years which are ahead.

• • • •

THE MAGIC and explosive years of the '60s are still to be realized. They will belong to those who are prepared to share their rewards.

"To that end, those of us who are to build the homes of tomorrow need to study the relationship of design to man's esthetic, physical and sociological environment. I believe we must learn more about man's motivation and aspirations so that we can stimulate and develop his desire for a better place to live."

• • • •

ARMOUR PAID tribute to Robert Olin, retiring president of HBA. Hundreds of area builders and their wives attended the dinner-dance event. Many civic leaders were special guests.

Also seated as 1965 HBA officers were William Lyon, Anaheim, as first vice president; Norman G. Shanahan, Los Angeles, as second vice president; Lawrence J. Weinberg, Beverly Hills, as treasurer; and Hugh A. Temple, Van Nuys, as secretary.

Patrick J. O'Donovan continues as HBA executive vice president.

Thirty-six builder members and 17 associate members also were installed as members of the HBA board of directors for 1965.

Highlight of the ceremonies was presentation of a gavel made up of 10 different Australian woods to Armour as a "token of fellowship of goodwill" from the Master Builders Association of New South Wales, Australia.

• • • •

BURTON W. CHACE, Long Beach, chairman of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, presented a scroll to Olin, commending him and the home builders on their progress in home construction in the county.

Armour is partner and co-owner of Park Village Enterprises, Anaheim and is widely known in the building field.

In his speech, he called for "bold new concepts in home design," with more space and comfort. He continued:

"Self - contained satellite cities as a part of metropolitan area is an emerging pattern we must recognize, develop and produce through the combined efforts of all segments of private industry.

• • • •

LAND USE is the vital part of this program. The home building business in Southern California will be unable to achieve its greatest potential under archaic land planning, expensive and impractical subdivision requirements, zoning laws and arbitrary, capricious decisions affecting land use.

"That partnership of builder-developer with planners and legislators must be fostered, encouraged and developed into one of mutual respect. Too often those who dwell in the ivory halls of government fail to consider the economic consequences of their dreams. Too often matters of policy go far beyond the original intent of the legislation.

"It shall be my purpose to promote better understanding of our problems in this area. Perhaps, a performance code approach to zoning is one answer. We in the home building industry are ready and willing to help find solutions. . . .

• • • •

"IN SUMMARY, our tasks lie in many areas. The ones I have outlined I feel are most important. Briefly they are:

"We must be alert to overbuilding.

"There is the need for better market data, better design and community development.

"Better utilization of land is essential and it must be worked out in harmony with those who plan and zone.

"Legislation is a responsibility of all, and we who develop and build must share in formulating the rules.

"Urban renewal leaves much to be desired.

"A new base must be developed for taxes to operate local governments.

"Builders and labor leaders both must recognize their responsibilities at the bargaining table."

IN A SPARE MOMENT, she and teammate Pierce Venable decided they'd build and operate a gasoline dock at Redondo's growing King Harbor, but learned they would have to bid on an entire parcel to compete for the leases.

And thus was born the plan for the Portofino Inn.

Tragically, Venable died just as the Portofino project was begun, leaving Miss Davis in full charge.

"Actually, I didn't know anything at the start," Miss Davis says, "but I learned everything I could."

And that, she agrees, was plenty.

Aluminum Award at L.B. State

California State College, Long Beach, is among six schools and colleges from around the nation participating in Aluminum Company of America's design education program during the 1964-65 academic years.

One student at Long Beach will be selected by his faculty to receive the annual Alcoa Student Merit Award. The award recognizes the outstanding student project employing aluminum. The school's industrial design department receives an unrestricted $1,000 grant from Alcoa.

The Alcoa design education program, formally in effect since 1958, also includes sponsorship of visiting lecturers, maintenance of a technical library on aluminum and a supply of aluminum for student projects.

This marks the first year the Long Beach school has participated in the program.

HOMEMADE 'URBAN RENEWAL'

L.B. Firm Razes Old Houses and Builds Luxury Quarters

Urban renewal in a private way is indicated in a review of years of work in construction of apartment rental and own-your-own buildings by one of Long Beach's leading builders, Paul F. McKenzie, Jr. who has now incorporated as Paul F. McKenzie, Inc., general building contractor.

Developer of the largest number of own-your-own apartments of any Long Beach contractor, McKenzie is showing his latest completion in the field—a three-story structure, with elevator, at 3101 E. Second St.

Since 1948 McKenzie has been purchasing well-located apartment lots with old residences on them, demolishing and thus providing "urban renewal" in continuing fashion.

• • • •

THE PALOMA IMPERIAL, 26 units of luxury type own-your-owns, occupies a small city block on which formerly stood four old structures over 40 years old. Total investment in land and building exceeds half-a-million dollars.

With completion in late December, more than $350,000 worth of the units had been sold. This is the largest dollar volume in any one year for McKenzie in one building, reports John J. Christopher, in charge of sales for the firm.

"Through the years, dozens of rental and own-your-own buildings have carried the McKenzie label of quality construction," according to Christopher.

• • • •

"ONE OF HIS RECENT rental completions, the Kona Kai Imperial, at 20 Grand Ave. for Mr. and Mrs. Don Slaybaugh has been described by many as one of the most magnificent rentals in Long Beach," Christopher stated.

Other features of the Paloma Imperial include a large central patio, a recreation room, a street level multi-parking garage with electronic door controls, decorator colors and wall coverings throughout, liberal use of tile, Gold Medallion heating and wiring, extensive soundproofing and insulation, hardwood kitchen cabinets with electric built-in cooking equipment and dishwasher, and many other quality items.

$1,353,966 Benefit Sets 119-Year Mark

The New York Life Insurance Co. has paid a death benefit totaling $1,353,966, the largest in its 119-year history.

Orville A. Rundle, general manager in Long Beach, said the payment was made on several policies on the life of a young Midwestern business man. The largest policy amounted to $1,000,000 and was purchased for business insurance purposes. The previous highest death claim the company had paid was for $1,293,800.

Snyder, YHBC president. There will be a social hour at 6 p.m.

MILLION DOLLAR PROJECT

California Federal to Build 3-Story Lakewood Structure

By EARL GRISWOLD

A three-story million-dollar office building will be erected on the northeast corner of Carson Street and Bellflower Boulevard in Lakewood.

Groundbreakng ceremonies will be held Jan. 27, at the site of the California Federal Savings building, according to Howard Edgerton, president.

Edgerton said the first floor will house Cal Fed's savings office and a 20 by 60-foot community room with an after-business-hours entrance on Carson. The firm opened its original Lakewood office at 4248 Woodruff Ave. nine years ago.

• • • • •

"LAKEWOOD is the latest in California Federal's multi-story office building program which since 1959 has featured the planning or completion of 10 office centers in Los Angeles and Orange counties," Edgerton said.

The Lakewood building will be set diagonally on the 317 by 258-foot site, and will have lateral one-story wings with a continuous marble fascia at the first level.

The structure will be of contemporary architectural style, and of modular steel frame and concrete construction.

MILLION DOLLAR PROJECT

California Federal to Build 3-Story Lakewood Structure

By EARL GRISWOLD

A three-story million-dollar office building will be erected on the northeast corner of Carson Street and Bellflower Boulevard in Lakewood.

Groundbreakng ceremonies will be held Jan. 27, at the site of the California Federal Savings building, according to Howard Edgerton, president.

Edgerton said the first floor will house Cal Fed's savings office and a 20 by 60-foot community room with an after-business-hours entrance on Carson. The firm opened its original Lakewood office at 4248 Woodruff Ave. nine years ago.

"LAKEWOOD is the latest in California Federal's multi-story office building program which since 1959 has featured the planning or completion of 10 office centers in Los Angeles and Orange counties," Edgerton said.

The Lakewood building will be set diagonally on the 317 by 258-foot site, and will have lateral one-story wings with a continuous marble fascia at the first level.

The structure will be of contemporary architectural style, and of modular steel frame and concrete construction.

Models in Del Cerro for Sale

Three model homes, the final homes in the big 250-home Del Cerro community, will go on sale today in the "close out" action of the Tustin community on Red Hill avenue at First Street.

The sample homes are completed and ready to occupy with show home landscaping and patios, garden lights, wallpaper, shutters, drapes, carpeting and other extras, the developers, George M. Holstein and Sons and Harvey A. Berger, explained.

Used to show the three basic Del Cerro homes during the past year, the models include a five-bedroom home, a three-bedroom home with upstairs playroom, and a three-bedroom home with unfinished second story room converted to either bedrooms or play area.

• • • • •

ALONG WITH the three model homes, eight homes are also available in the final unit of the popular Tustin development. The final homes may be purchase on a $95 "move in" arrangement, the builders pointed out.

Foothill Village Townhouses Attracting Throng of Viewers

Foothill Village Townhouses in Fullerton experienced its greatest turnout last weekend, according to H. R. Brookman, one of the developers.

Brookman said the traffic of prospective homebuyers was the largest since Foothill Village Townhouses had its grand opening. He felt the buyer today is more discriminating, shops around and knows quality.

• • • • •

ONE OF THE quality features of Foothill Village is the automatic refrigerated air conditioning and forced-air heating. While the long hot summer may be five months away, the buyer today is looking at homes with a year-round point of view. He compares the window installed air conditioning units in some developments — the so-called "window-shakers"—with the completely integrated and ducted air conditioning system built into the homes of Foothill Village Townhouses.

Other quality features include the privacy afforded from soundproofing, abundance of wardrobes, closets and cupboards, the 100% continuous filament nylon wall - to - wall carpeting throughout.

The developers offer variety of nine different floor plans varying from two bedroom, two bath to the four bedroom 3 bath models with a spaciousness of 1776 square feet of quality living.

• • • • •

THE TOWNHOUSES start at $18,900. Financing is available at 6% for 30 years.

For recreational living the village community has putting greens and swimming pools within steps from the door. Also included is a cabana, shuffleboard, and a recreational building. Provided is all upkeep for the landscaped grounds and other recreational facilities.

Furnished models are located on Placentia just north of Chapman in Fullerton.

Preview of New Models Attracting

Builders at El Dorado Park Estates in Long Beach have found the response to their preview to be most gratifying, according to a spokesman for S & S Construction Co.

Public reaction to the 1965 homes on display is proving that the new ideas in gracious living and warmth now being offered in these luxury residences are what the people want, he said.

The homes are offered in five, four and three-bedroom models with three or two baths and family rooms. Medallion kitchens include built-in range, double oven and dishwasher, color-coordinated hood and fan, and genuine tile on the worktops.

• • • • •

THE GREAT vacationland extending from Long Beach to Disneyland and Knott's Berry Farm is all close to this home development, he pointed out. El Dorado Park Estates are priced from $31,450 to $43,450 and conventional financing is available.

Visitors are invited to see the new home preview by driving east on Spring Street to Los Alamitos and north to the models.

Talk on Trust Deeds Slated for Realtors

"Trust Deeds" will be discussed by Frank Brummett, attorney, at the Tuesday breakfast meeting of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors.

Brummett has a degree in engineering as well as in law. He lives in Westminster.

Barbara Moss is January program chairman for the board, which holds its meetings at 7:15 a.m. at the Crown cafeteria.

Palm Desert Property Is Now Selling

El Dorado Palms property, located in Palm Desert's "Gold Coast" is now being offered for sale.

According to a spokesman for the company, El Dorado Palms is in a prime location only 15 minutes from downtown Palm Springs, adjacent to the El Dorado Country Club where General Eisenhower lives, and other famed celebrities visit frequently.

According to a major public utility company, this is the fastest-growing area in the United States, and prices are spiraling with the growth.

• • • • •

EL DORADO PALMS lots are fully improved, with underground utilities out of sight, and streets lined with graceful palm trees.

Asking prices for some lots in this area run as high as $50,000, the spokesman reported, but El Dorado Palms is offering lots from $13,400 with $2,680 down payment, and modest monthly payments.

Golf Club memberships are available, too, the spokesman stated, and beautiful custom model homes are open for inspection.

A colorfully illustrated brochure is available upon request. Further information may be obtained from El Dorado Palms, 3659 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles 90005.

Models in Del Cerro for Sale

Three model homes, the final homes in the big 250-home Del Cerro community, will go on sale today in the "close out" action of the Tustin community on Red Hill avenue at First Street.

The sample homes are completed and ready to occupy with show home landscaping and patios, garden lights, wallpaper, shutters, drapes, carpeting and other extras, the developers, George M. Holstein and Sons and Harvey A. Berger, explained.

Used to show the three basic Del Cerro homes during the past year, the models include a five-bedroom home, a three-bedroom home with upstairs playroom, and a three-bedroom home with unfinished second story room converted to either bedrooms or play area.

* * * *

ALONG WITH the three model homes, eight homes are also available in the final unit of the popular Tustin development. The final homes may be purchase on a $95 "move in" arrangement, the builders pointed out.

From Long Beach, go to Santa Ana and take the Santa Ana Freeway south to Red Hill Avenue.

Foothill Village Townhouses Attracting Throng of Viewers

Foothill Village Townhouses in Fullerton experienced its greatest turnout last weekend, according to H. R. Brookman, one of the developers.

Brookman said the traffic of prospective homebuyers was the largest since Foothill Village Townhouses had its grand opening. He felt the buyer today is more discriminating, shops around and knows quality.

* * * *

ONE OF THE quality features of Foothill Village is the automatic refrigerated air conditioning and forced-air heating. While the long hot summer may be five months away, the buyer today is looking at homes with a year-round point of view. He compares the window installed air conditioning units in some developments — the so-called "window-shakers"—with the completely integrated and ducted air conditioning system built into the homes of Foothill Village Townhouses.

Other quality features include the privacy afforded from soundproofing, abundance of wardrobes, closets and cupboards, the 100% continuous filament nylon wall - to - wall carpeting throughout.

The developers offer variety of nine different floor plans varying from two bedroom, two bath to the four bedroom 3 bath models with a spaciousness of 1776 square feet of quality living.

* * * *

THE TOWNHOUSES start at $18,900. Financing is available at 6% for 30 years.

For recreational living the village community has putting greens and swimming pools within steps from the door. Also included is a cabana, shuffleboard, and a recreational building. Provided is all upkeep for the landscaped grounds and other recreational facilities.

Furnished models are located on Placentia just north of Chapman in Fullerton.

Preview of New Models Attracting

Builders at El Dorado Park Estates in Long Beach have found the response to their preview to be most gratifying, according to a spokesman for S & S Construction Co.

Public reaction to the 1965 homes on display is proving that the new ideas in gracious living and warmth now being offered in these luxury residences are what the people want, he said.

The homes are offered in five, four and three-bedroom models with three or two baths and family rooms. Medallion kitchens include built-in range, double oven and dishwasher, color-coordinated hood and fan, and genuine tile on the worktops.

* * * *

THE GREAT vacationland extending from Long Beach to Disneyland and Knott's Berry Farm is all close to this home development, he pointed out. El Dorado Park Estates are priced from $31,450 to $43,450 and conventional financing is available.

Visitors are invited to see the new home preview by driving east on Spring Street to Los Alamitos and north to the models.

Talk on Trust Deeds Slated for Realtors

"Trust Deeds" will be discussed by Frank Brummett, attorney, at the Tuesday breakfast meeting of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors.

Brummett has a degree in engineering as well as in law. He lives in Westminster.

Barbara Moss is January program chairman for the board, which holds its meetings at 7:15 a.m. at the Crown cafeteria.

Palm Desert Property Is Now Selling

El Dorado Palms property, located in Palm Desert's "Gold Coast" is now being offered for sale.

According to a spokesman for the company, El Dorado Palms is in a prime location only 15 minutes from downtown Palm Springs, adjacent to the El Dorado Country Club where General Eisenhower lives, and other famed celebrities visit frequently.

According to a major public utility company, this is the fastest-growing area in the United States, and prices are spiraling with the growth.

* * * *

EL DORADO PALMS lots are fully improved, with underground utilities out of sight, and streets lined with graceful palm trees.

Asking prices for some lots in this area run as high as $50,000, the spokesman reported, but El Dorado Palms is offering lots from $13,400 with $2,680 down payment, and modest monthly payments.

Golf Club memberships are available, too, the spokesman stated, and beautiful custom model homes are open for inspection.

A colorfully illustrated brochure is available upon request. Further information may be obtained from El Dorado Palms, 3659 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles 90005.

'Total Convenience' Kitchens in Premier Homes Have Appeal

Kitchens at Premier Homes in Huntington Beach have been designed for the "total convenience" of the homemaker, reports sales agent Frank McFarland of McFarland and Mattocks. "Recent surveys shows that today's homebuyers want and expect more in kitchen features, and Premier kitchens are intended to meet this need," he said.

Emphasizing that a standard quality range and oven installation is no longer well-received by the homebuyer, McFarland praised the complete double oven with independent controls for each oven that is featured in Premier kitchens. "The homemaker may bake in one oven while broiling another dish in the second oven, bringing new flexibility and convenience to the kitchen," he said.

• • • •

AN AUTOMATIC dishwasher is standard equipment in all Premier homes. Range, oven, dishwasher and garbage disposal are all from the same national manufacturer.

"Total Convenience" kitchens also include a custom bench-top installation for a blender-mixer-knife sharpener combination. Other accessories can be added and driven by the same flush-mounted bench top unit. McFarland said the "food center" unit has been a hit with buyers.

Ceramic tile counter tops, a custom dispenser for kitchen foils and papers, custom-finished hardwood cabinets and a single-control mixing valve over the sink complete the "Total Convenience" kitchen.

• • • •

PRICED FROM $23,400, Premier homes are offered in three and four-bedroom models, all with two baths. VA no down and FHA minimum down financing is offered. There are no second trust deeds in the financing package.

Visitors take the San Diego Freeway to Bolsa Chica Road and drive south on Bolsa Chica to Warner Avenue. Turn left on Warner to Springdale and Premier's model homes. The development is just a few hundred yards east of Meadowlark Golf and Country Club.

BLENDER-MIXER INCLUDED

Young, Active Folk in Holiday Village

Housing for young, active adults is constantly growing in popularity according to Jack Scougall, sales manager of Kaufman and Broad. To meet this demand the firm has redesigned the last unit of their Holiday Village homes at Brookhurst and Adams in Huntington Beach to provide plans more popular with families without children. Larger master bedrooms, more spacious baths and expanded kitchens are among the changes made to the garden patio homes, Scougall said.

Unlike retirement projects, Holiday Village residents range in age from 35 to 72 with most families in the 45 to 55 age group. Nearly all are active in business or professions.

Typical are Mr. and Mrs. Judd Rowland. Rowland is a supervisor with North American Aviation. Their two children, now grown, are married and have their own homes. With all exterior maintenance and lawn care done for them, the Rowlands are enjoying the added leisure time they find in this new way of living.

• • • •

"THIS IS A UNIQUE market," Scougall said. "The younger adult buyer has different tastes than the family buyer or retiree. In most cases they know exactly what they want and won't settle for less.

Complete recreational facilities and a program of social activities are foremost in their minds."

Kaufman and Broad introduced townhouses to Southern California in 1963. The firm builds in Detroit, Chicago and Phoenix as well as Southern California. It is the second largest publicly owned building company in the country.

Privacy Gets Attention in Park Belaire Units

"Private privacy" is given special emphasis at the new Park Belaire apartments in Long Beach, according to Max Webb, a principal of Shapell & Webb, owners.

The luxurious 89 unit complex provides extra-large patios, enclosed, so they become extensions of the living and entertaining areas. Still other apartments, Webb said, have sundecks enclosed for privacy.

• • • •

ALL ROOMS and floors are sound-proofed. The units have been designed so that each resident has a choice in the amount of privacy he wants. Floor plan selections feature one, two or three bedrooms, two bedrooms and den, or two-bedroom studio, all with unusually plush carpeting and rich drapes.

"We believe in supreme elegance," Webb said, "even to crystal chandeliers, imported drawer and door pulls, impressive hardware, great areas of mirrors, dramatic lighting, rare wood finishes, wall and counter tiles."

• • • •

PARK BELAIRE has all-electric kitchens with double ovens and rotisserie, disposal and automatic dishwasher. Some apartment offer wood-burning fireplaces; all apartments have electric radiant heat ceilings & large walk-in lighted closets, closed garages with private storage cabinets and a heated swimming pool with an adjoining Jacuzzi health pool also are featured.

Hilltop Laguna Beach Luxury Homes Have Low Taxation Rate

LUXURY BUILT INTO EACH HOME
Here is an interior view of one of the large Park Avenue Laguna Homes in Laguna Beach. They are located on a hilltop overlooking the ocean and beaches and feature many added luxury built-ins, salesmen stress.

Salesmen say that residents at Park Avenue Laguna in Laguna Beach are fortunate in that the Community being within the city of Laguna Beach has the lowest tax rate in Orange County.

It was also pointed out that at Park Avenue Leguna, residents actually own the land with their title insured by Orange County Title Co. Underground utilities are featured at the Laguna Beach building site and builder Leslie Miklosy points out that the absence of unsightly utility poles not only enhances property values at the development but preserves a beautiful pancramic view for residents.

Park Avenue Laguna is a planned community of one and two-story homes offering three and four-bedroom homes with two and three baths. Formal dining rooms and separate family rooms are also available. Views overlook the Pacific Ocean and the city of Laguna Beach.

* * * *

THE HOMES also feature separate bonus game rooms, open beam ceiling living rooms with fireplaces, wall-to-wall carpeting throughout the entire house, gas forced-air central heat with thermostats, decorator wallpaper, coordinated interiors, vinyl tile entry halls and full length mirrors.

The homes sell from $25,650 with 30 year loans. You may purchase for as low as 5% down, it was added. To reach them take the Santa Ana Freeway to Laguna Beach Canyon Road. Turn right to the Coast Hwy. (101) in Laguna Beach. Turn left on 101 to Legion St., Park Ave. or Thalia Drive. Then turn left and drive to hilltop luxury and Park Ave. Laguna.

Bathroom Decor

Ray Cunningham, manager of the Long Beach News Bureau, has been elected to the board of directors of the Long Beach Advertising Club.

Cunningham started work at the Press-Telegram in 1947 and moved to the Long Beach News Bureau when it was formed in 1962.

He will serve as a Long Beach Advertising Club senior delegate to the Mid-Winter Conference of the Advertising Association of the West to be held Jan. 28-31 at the Disneyland Hotel.

Plenty of Appeal in Fashion Shores

LOW TERMS ON ATTRACTIVE HOME
The one and two-story Fashion Shores homes, priced from just $23,900, offer housefuls of features available through no down VA terms, low FHA terms, Cal-Vet financing or a variety of excellent conventional plans. The homes, which contain up to 2,157 square feet of family-usable area, are now 90% purchased.

A veritable bonanza of features explains why the Fashion Shores homes in Huntington Beach are now 90% sold out, a spokesman stresses.

Located within walking distance of the beach, Fashion Shores one and two-story, three, four and five bedroom homes contain up to 2,157 sq. ft. of usable area and 3,300 sq. ft. of area under roof.

side and rear yards completely fenced; wood paneling in halls or family rooms; sunken living rooms in the two-story homes; sunken baths in some of the master bedrooms; carpeting in all rooms except utility rooms; large wardrobe or walk-in closets; ample storage space in all the models; and all-electric Hotpoint kitchens.

To Build More Carson Estates

A second unit of Carson Estates homes has been planned with construction to begin soon, according to Sales Director Joe Spinnato.

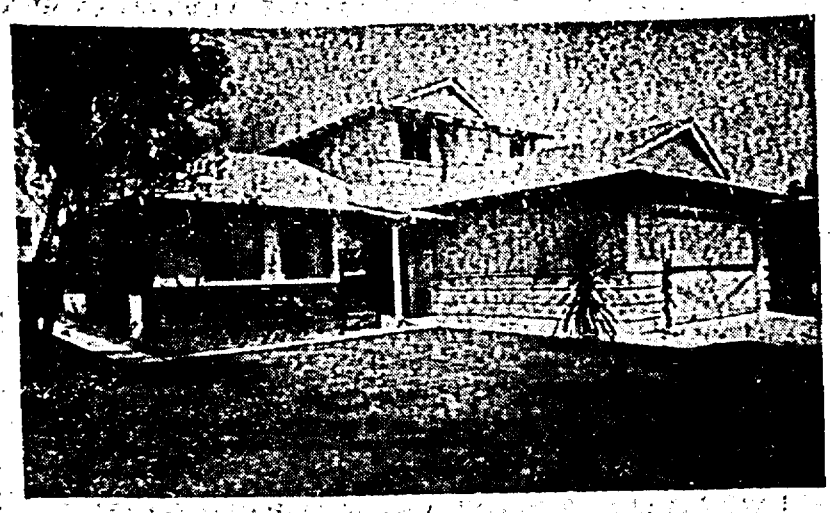

"We are proud that these GI-financed Carson Estates homes have attracted so many buyers," Spinnato said, "and the popularity of the models and terms available have convinced us that additional homes must be built to supply the demand."

• • • •

UNDER GI FINANCING, eligible veterans may purchase a Carson Estates home with no down payment on loans at the low rate of only 5¼% with up to 30 years to pay. Low FHA terms and conventional terms with only $1,000 down also may be arranged.

Carson Estates homes, all with two baths, are available in either one or two-story plans. Wall-to-wall carpeting throughout and attractive balanced power kitchens with built-in Waste King Universal gas range and oven, dishwasher and food waste disposer are included in the purchase price.

Furnished model homes are conveniently located at the hub of three Southern California freeways, the Harbor, Long Beach and San Diego freeways, at the corner of 220th Street and Vera.

CLOSE TO FREEWAYS

Big Living Room Feature of Home

"Livable" living rooms with adjacent patios and aluminum sliding glass doors that bring the outside in are featured at Garden Park Estates in Garden Grove, a spokesman for S & S Construction Co., said.

"Always popular, too, is the fireplace in every living room," the spokesman said, "for those days when fireside living is more comfortable than the patio."

The residential development offers three, four and five-bedroom plans in one and two-story models. More than 15,000 homes have been built in the area by S & S Construction Co., proof of the excellent values and fine workmanship being presented, the spokesman said.

• • • •

THE BALANCED-POWER kitchens provide built-in gas range, oven, exhaust fan and hood in matching colors, dishwasher and garbage disposals.

Another appeal at Garden Park is the access to schools. Eight schools, elementary through high school are in the development itself. Nearby are the Long Beach State College, and the U of C, Irvine (in the process of development).

The homes are priced from $21,200 to $27,900, with low down payment offered and 30 to 35-year financing through FHA. Veterans pay nothing down but costs and impounds.

Visitors are invited to see the furnished models at Garden Grove Freeway and Knott St., in Garden Grove. Drive Seventh St.-Garden Grove Freeway from Long Beach, or Knott St. from Santa Ana Freeway.

Only 18 Hillcrest Homes Left to Sell

OFFERED IN SAN CLEMENTE

This Acapulco styled Pacesetter Hillcrest home features four bedrooms, two baths and family room. Remaining available Pacesetter homes in Hillcrest, San Clemente's terraced seascape view community, are being closed out with substantial savings to purchasers. Eighteen homes in the Hillcrest development overlooking San Clemente are being "closed out" at reduced prices. Already considered an established community, Hillcrest is a completely planned development of individually terraced seascape view homes, high above the San Clemente city hall, commanding a panoramic view of the Pacific.

John Klug, president of Pacesetter Homes, with developments in several Southern California localities, announced that with only 18 homes left, the Hillcrest sales office will be closed and personnel moved to other developments. Savings in maintenance and overhead are being passed on to purchasers of the remaining homes, with substantial reductions in the selling price of each unit.

ARCHITECTURALLY, Hillcrest offers three popular styles, Hawaiian-Oriental, California Rancho and contemporary.

These are all first quality Pacesetter Homes, King said, newly carpeted; some with drapes and special landscaping. Units used as sales models have special installations which will be available to buyers.

The homes are located at the top of Avenida Presidio via the Santa Ana Freeway in San Clemente.

Available Pacesetter Hillcrest homes feature three or four bedrooms; kitchens with built-in oven, range, dishwasher and hardwood cabinets; breakfast bar, fireplace; some have sunken Roman bathtub, or Mr. & Mrs. pullman bath, with oval basins. There are both one and two-story units.

Noted Horseman Among Buyers of New Fountain Valley Homes

FOUNTAIN VALLEY HOME

Well-known quarter horse breeder Calvin Mimms, formerly of Oklahoma, has selected this five-bedroom dwelling at Sunshine Homes-Fountain Valley as his family residence.

One of the West's foremost breeders of quarter-horses and thoroughbreds, Calvin Mimms, has selected a dwelling at Sunshine Homes-Fountain Valley as his family residence, reports Richard Watts, community manager for S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, the builder-developer.

"Mimms selected this new home for three reasons," Watts said. "For himself, his wife and their two children, he needed four bedrooms, plus a den for business. Since he travels a great deal, he needed freeway accessability, and the trade-in program enabled him to make the move quickly, without devoting a great deal of time to the paperwork involved in selling his old home."

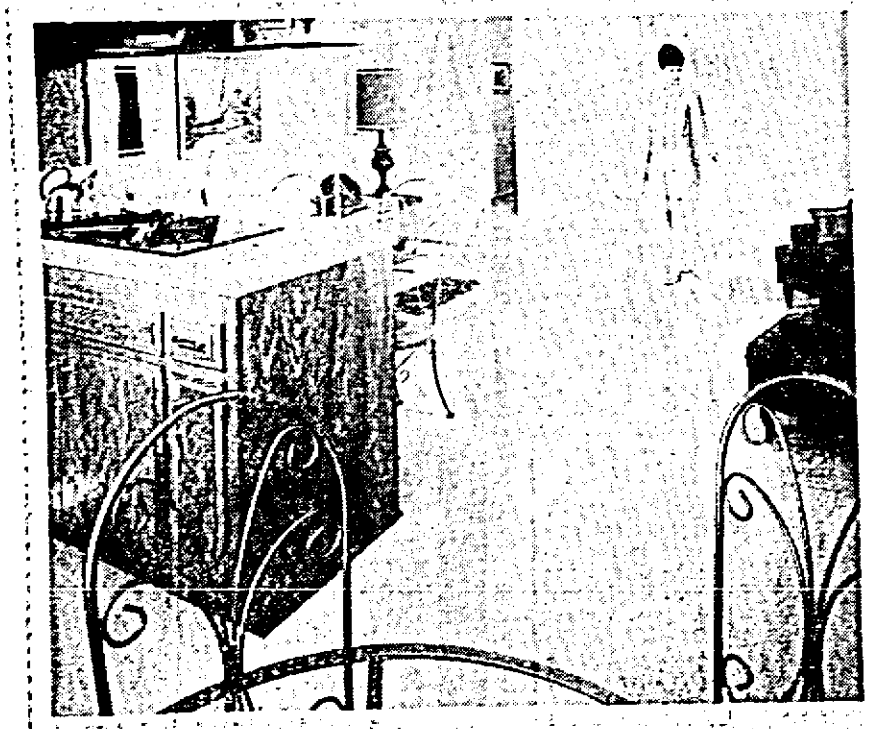

The new Mimms residence is a two-story Foxcroft model Sunshine Home with five bedrooms, two baths, formal dining room and full width second-story sundeck. Three other floor plans in the $3 million community have three and four bedrooms and up to three baths, Watts pointed out.

Refreshments Served Viewers

OPEN HOUSE TODAY

Here is one of the models which will be displayed at Capistrano West today when open house is observed. Refreshments will be served visitors during the afternoon.

The public is invited to attend a refreshment party at Capistrano West in San Juan Capistrano today from noon to 5 p.m. Light refreshments will be served to all in attendance. A spokesman for the builder invited homebuyers to inspect the homes now for a choice selection.

Sales manager, Joe Terry, of the Barmick Corp., said that residents of Capistrano West could look forward to the new Dana Point Small Boat Marina. The new marina will be less than 5 minutes from the hillside view development and will offer year 'round beach facilities. Builder Leslie Miklosy added that this was just another bonus that homebuyers at Capistrano West will realize. According to Miklosy, Capistrano West was built to appeal to the executive minded homebuyer, one who can appreciate outstanding home value in a prestige beach location. He reports very enthusiastic response to the new view home site.

Noted Horseman Among Buyers of New Fountain Valley Homes

FOUNTAIN VALLEY HOME

Well-known quarter horse breeder Calvin Mimms, formerly of Oklahoma, has selected this five-bedroom dwelling at Sunshine Homes-Fountain Valley as his family residence.

One of the West's foremost breeders of quarter-horses and thoroughbreds, Calvin Mimms, has selected a dwelling at Sunshine Homes-Fountain Valley as his family residence, reports Richard Watts, community manager for S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, the builder-developer.

"Mimms selected this new home for three reasons," Watts said. "For himself, his wife and their two children, he needed four bedrooms, plus a den for business. Since he travels a great deal, he needed freeway accesability, and the trade-in program enabled him to make the move quickly, without devoting a great deal of time to the paperwork involved in selling his old home."

The new Mimms residence is a two-story Foxcroft model Sunshine Home with five bedrooms, two baths, formal dining room and full width second-story sundeck. Three other floor plans in the $3 million community have three and four bedrooms and up to three baths, Watts pointed out.

Three man-operated bridges span waters of the Port of Long Beach, providing interest for harbor tourists but exasperation at times for water traffic or land travel, depending upon which is encountering interference at the moment. The bridges have been and are essential to the port, albeit they are antiquated and doomed for retirement. # Attitudes at Inauguration

By HOYT McAFEE

A WARM sun shot up over Washington, D.C., that historic March morning in 1801. Over at Mrs. Conway's modest rooming-house near the Capitol, her "star boarder," a tall, redheaded man named Thomas Jefferson, dressed leisurely, then ate a hearty breakfast. From his casual attire and unhurried movements, no one would ever have surmised that he was President-elect of the United States or that it was his inauguration day.

But for Thomas Jefferson, fiery author of the Declaration of Independence, an opportune moment had arrived. Having fought for a democratic form of government, he was now determined to demonstrate what that term meant to him.

Accordingly, he permitted no pomp or ceremony, no parading or pageantry, to mark his inauguration. After thanking Mrs. Conway for her hospitality, "Long Tom" (his nickname) struck out on foot for the Capitol.

HE STRETCHED his muscles and took his own good time in getting there. His predecessor, John Adams, had already left Washington —convinced that a man as unpretentious and plain-living as Jefferson would quickly turn the government over to "the rabble." Under these circumstances of bedrock simplicity, Thomas Jefferson, the "earthy Democrat," became the first U.S. President to take the oath of office in Washington, D.C.

In 1789, George Washington spent four or five "fretful days" wondering whether he'd be able to attend his own inauguration. His problem boiled down to this: He lacked the cash to pay for a trip to New York City, the inaugural site that year.

FINALLY, a friend came through with a personal loan to relieve Washington's financial embarrassment. Days later, when he arrived in New York for the swearing-in ceremony, tugboats and passenger-laden ships in the harbor gave him a rousing welcome.

Near the end of his first term he received the highest compliment ever paid a U.S. President. So overwhelming was his popularity at that point that no one dared run against him. So it was that Washington won a second four-year term by unanimous election.

As the second inauguration of President James Monroe approached, he enjoyed a popularity comparable to that achieved by Washington. It was an era of bouyant good feeling and on every hand Monroe received this accolade: "Mister Good-Will President."

Months earlier he had come close to scoring a Washington-type triumph. In fact, only one elector, William Plumer ("a sore-head from New Hamphire," as historians described him), cast his tall yagainst Monroe. Thus James Monroe wound up with 231 electoral votes to 1 for John Quincy Adams: a far more sweeping victory than any modern Presidents have chalked up, including FDR in 1936 and LBJ in 1964.

ANDREW JACKSON "that wild man of the frontier," headed for Washington in a stagecoach to prepare for his inauguration. All along the way people welcomed, cheered, and pumped the hand of the man who had defeated British forces in the Battle of New Orleans.

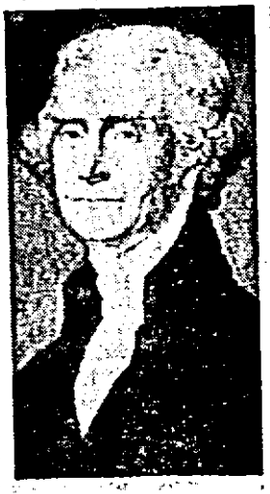

By inauguration day, outgoing President John Quincy Adams (who despised Jackson) had made himself scarce. He would have no part of the inaugural ceremonies in behalf of his successor. No matter, it proved a great day for Jackson.

A champion of down-to-earth government, Andy threw White House doors open to the plain people. In steady droves they poured in off the streets in the most spontaneous, free-for-all celebration in presidential history!

Eight years later, March 4, 1837, something remarkable took place. Outgoing President Jackson had fought the big bankers, the supreme court, and a host of privileged groups so effectively that their stranglehold on the government had been broken. Government for the benefit of all the people was now a vital force, thanks to Jackson.

IN APPRECIATION of that, the crowds gathered in Washington for Martin Van Buren's inauguration turned their attention to their No. 1 hero: "Old Hickory." Historians have recorded that they gave him "the most prolonged and heart-warming ovation ever accorded an out-going U.S. President."

In the November election of 1862, the two "most unusual" candidates in history vied for the Presidential prize: one-time rear-rank buck private Franklin Pierce and full-fledged General Winfield Scott.

THOMAS JEFFERSON Walked to Inaugural

In the slam-bang campaign that year, the ex-private turned out to be a far more effective vote-getter than his former commanding general.

Historians reveal that Franklin Pierce's inauguration as President paved the way for "a humorous possibility — humorous to Pierce but galling to Gen. Scott." It was this: In keeping with military custom, Pierce—the lowly, one-time private—had occasionally saluted Gen. Scott. But now, as President and Commander-In-Chief of the armed services, he could in a military emergency have given orders to Scott! One wit of that era described Pierce's rise in this manner: "All the way from rear-rank Yardbird to Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces!"

IT COST perennial bachelor James Buchanan a mere pittance—$22—to get himself elected president in 1856! On his inauguration day he announced that his pretty niece (Harriet Lane) would serve as his White House hostess. She, unlike her uncle, was the "marrying kind."

After her marriage to Henry Johnson, "Baltimore's most eligible bachelor," she made sure that a steady stream of pretty women attended Buchanan's White House receptions. She sadly confided in a letter to a friend: "None of them succeeded in snaring Uncle Jimmy."

William Henry Harrison, hero of the Battle of Tippecanoe, was the first president to ride a train to Washington, in 1841. But he switched to a prancing white horse for his inaugural parade. Standing hatless and coatless in a driving snowstorm, the tough Indian fighter delivered the longest inaugural address on record —8,445 words!

LATER, at a White House reception for friends and special guests, he served fresh milk. It was, he explained, "the proper drink for rugged men — it gives them nourishment and keeps them clear-headed."

In that connection, remember that cocktail parties are a feature of today's inaugurations. By sharp contrast, President James K. Polk served fruit juices and soft drinks at his inauguration — and throughout his White House term. Presidents Abraham Lincoln and Rutherford B. Hayes served lemonade at White House receptions. And President Woodrow Wilson angrily returned cases of liquor a well-wisher had shipped him for his inauguration.

Wilson thought the White House was "no place for the consumption of liquor—by anyone or on any occasion!"

WHILE STILL a high-school student, this reporter attended President Franklin D. Roosevelt's first inauguration in 1933. Runaway unemployment, hunger and human misery had plunged this country to the brink of despair. FDR's sweeping victory in the preceding November election had given millions of Americans their first ray of hope in a long time.

Historians have since commented that "FDR's voice rang out with a pledge of immediate action to combat the forces of stagnation, fear and despair. His dramatic inaugural speech rallied and galvanized the nation."

As one who listened to it, I know that it gave me — like many around me—this suddenly-inspired feeling: "America has a dynamic leader at the helm now, a man with the most magnetic voice of any modern president."

For chuckles-me entertainment, however, there has never been a presidential inauguration quite like Lincoln's first one (March 4, 1861. Earlier, he had spent less than $2 in his campaign for election; then, while en route to Washington, had narrowly escaped assassination in Baltimore!

SO THE ARRIVAL of the roughly-dressed, gaunt Lin-

Stagecoach Inn

By Earline M. Gladstone

THOSE who grow nostalgic for the good days may find a trip to Mattei's Tavern, former stagecoach inn, a happy experience. Still a popular spot to dine, it has changed little since it was a famous hostelry back in the 1880s. The Inn is located on the San Marcos Highway in Los Olivos, six miles north of Solvang.

Nostalgia of the good old days is conjured by a visit to Mattei's Tavern, Los Olivos.

In the lobby, a journal tinted ivory with age bears the faded signatures of many of the guests who registered there in the late 1800s. American names of distinction are written clearly and legibly, as the Roosevelt party from New York who signed on March 30, 1897. The Cudahys from Chicago were visitors at Mattei's about the same time, as was Frank Miller, founder of Mission Inn at Riverside. In later years Mattei's Tavern was frequently visited by many stars of the silver screen and radio.

TWO HOLDUP men, captured after they had robbed and murdered the local station agent were unregistered guests at Mattei's long ago. They were locked in a room at the hotel in an effort to safeguard them from an overwrought crowd that favored a necktie party. In the night the bad men were escorted by the sheriff out a backdoor. Later, in Santa Barbara, they were given legal trials and were punished.

Felix Mattei was the original owner of the hotel which was built in 1886. As more rooms were added and improvements made. At first called the Central House, it was subsequently known as Hotel Los Olivos, and finally as Mattei's Tavern. In 1888, the classes of a subscription school, the first school in Los Olivos, met in the tavern.

Los Olivos was the southern terminus for the narrow guage railroad that ran to San Luis Obispo. The little trains carried everything from farm produce and stock to human passengers. A stagecoach from Santa Barbara connected with the train in Los Olivos. This was the final segment of that historical stage line that once spanned the miles from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

Cal State of Long Beach Graduates Its First Nursing Class This Year

Glamour in Gold

In Cal-State laboratory, students Helen Duff and Rosina Smith dissect a frog in anatomy study for course in nursing.

By EV HOSKING

DOROTHY WALSH isn't interested in the least in teen-age dropouts. She is interested in teen-age stay-ins.

There's a real good reason for this attitude. Dorothy Walsh is the director of the ever-expanding School of Nursing at California State College of Long Beach.

Dropouts just aren't likely candidates for Registered Nurses. Stay-ins are.

Stay-ins, in Miss Walsh's book, are the dedicated gals who don't mind burning the midnight oil in their pursuit of a professional education. And there just isn't room for any other kind in the field of nursing, she says.

HOWEVER, she hastens to add, being a stay-in doesn't imply a lack of femininity in her student nurses.

Quite the contrary, she says. They're just as glamorous, just as socially minded as any of the other coeds on the campus.

She sums it up:

"Our gals are particularly attractive in their gold uniforms—gold instead of white because of the school colors."

CSCLB'S School of Nursing is comparatively new in this area. As a matter of fact, about 14 of the 28 who entered the first four-year nursing class in the school's history are expected to graduate this year.

Prior to this first four-year class, nursing study at State College was virtually limited to a few Registered Nurses taking graduate work or working for a degree.

COMPLETION of Cal-State's modern four-year course now means a bachelor of science degree in nursing for the student.

Miss Walsh has a staff of 11 instructors now, and the size of the staff is growing, year-by-year. All are firmly convinced that Cal-State offers one of the finest nursing programs in the area.

They are particularly proud of the fact that it is one of only four schools in the Southern California area that include the difficult field of public health nursing in its curriculum.

They are also very proud of the fact that the U. S. Army has seen fit to recognize their school and to subsidize some of their upper-class students who evidence an interest in becoming Army nurses.

IN ADDITION to their classroom work on State's campus, the glamorous gals in gold put in a great deal of time in local hospitals and other agencies as nursing students.

"All local hospitals and agencies have done their utmost to cooperate with us," says Miss Walsh. "They're really wonderful."

Things have grown in a hurry at the Long Beach college since the first full-time nursing class entered four years ago. The nursing school now occupies a full building on the lower campus—science classes are held in the Science Building on the upper campus—and plans are in the mill to expand when money becomes available.

AT THE PRESENT time there are about 95 full-time students in the School of Nursing.

In addition to these, there are about 75 students taking nursing on a part-time basis.

Freshmen are not eligible for the School of Nursing. However, there are about 100 freshman gals taking pre-nursing courses who may eventually wind up in the nursing school.

Taking it from Dorothy Walsh—there's nothing like a career in nursing. To her, her nursing students are a bunch of dolls.

So if you are a teen-age stay-in, a studious doll with a hankering to be a Registered Nurse, go see Dorothy Walsh at Cal-State of Long Beach.

IT'S THE DIVORCE MILL AND THE QUICK 'I DO!'

The Marital Merry-Go-Round

By Blaine Nels Simons

THERE MAY BE scores of couples in Long Beach, thousands in Los Angeles County, and many more thousands throughout the state who are not "legally married." Fortunately for these couples, statistics are not kept on them and bigamy laws are not rigidly enforced. Such persons, however, would be wise to check the legality of their marriages—straightening them out if they be found to be illegal—because of problems that might arise: distribution of an estate on the death of one of them, support and community property situations in event of divorce and, at all times, the bugaboo of perhaps being prosecuted for bigamy.

Whether a couple is really, legally, married must be viewed from several vantage points. The first of these is the "common-law marriage." The thought is still widely persistent among too many Californians that they can live together for "X" number of months or years in California and thus be married. This thought is completely untrue. California does not recognize common-law marriage (very few states do). A couple can live together here all of their lives and never be "married." Their recourse: go to the county clerk's office, take out a license and be married in the way most people do.

SECONDLY, and still a clinging belief in California, is that during the one-year period of the interlocutory decree of divorce, either one of the divorcing spouses can marry someone else so long as they do not do it in California. This is completely erroneous. As the interlocutory judgment does not divorce the couple in any way, their marriage is not dissolved until the final judgment is entered; how and when this occurs will be explained to them by the attorney obtaining the divorce for them. In the meantime, until the final is entered, they cannot be legally married anywhere on earth (including Las Vegas and Tijuana!). Further, when the interlocutory does become final and is entered, their "marriage" during the year does not automatically become good. They must—repeat, must—remarry to make their marriage real, legal, binding.

A third, more serious and more complicated background to the question of legality of marriage lies in the dual question: Was one of the parties to the present marriage previously married and divorced? If so, was his or her divorce legal? Should the prior divorce(s) not be legal then, of course, the present marriage can in no way have any aura of legality.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Author Simons is a Southland attorney, writes for magazines as a hobby.)

PERSONS WHO divorced in California after entry of the final judgment of divorce need not worry. Neither must those persons worry who obtained a legal divorce in their home state prior to coming to California, according to the laws of the home states. Those who should pause to worry are persons, residents of California, who hied off to Tijuana, Las Vegas, Idaho, Reno or any other place to get a divorce and then returned to resume living in California (getting married again, in all probability, since that is the primary reason for wanting the "fast divorce"). These persons should be apprised of the following California laws:

(1) Civil Code, Section 150.1: A divorce obtained in another jurisdiction shall be of no force or effect in this state if both parties to the marriage were domiciled in this state at the time the proceeding for the divorce was commenced.

(2) Civil Code, Section 150.2: Proof that a person hereafter obtaining divorce from the bonds of matrimony in another jurisdiction was (a) domiciled in this state within 12 months prior to the commencement of the proceeding therefor and resumed residence in this state within 18 months after the date of his departure therefrom or (b) at all times after his departure from this state and until his return maintained a place of residence within this state shall be prima facie evidence that the person was domiciled in this state when the divorce proceeding was commenced.

QUERY TO THOSE who obtained Nevada or Mexican divorces prior to a remarriage: did you live there 12 months before and/or 18 months after obtaining same? Did you, in the alternative, maintain a California residence while out of state securing your "divorce"? If you find your divorce did not follow the "rules" above set forth then your subsequent remarriage is quite probably not legal. If your spouse formally, in writing and through the courts of the other jurisdiction (other state or country) consented to the divorce you have no fears of bigamy prosecution in most instances; you can, however, worry about heirs perhaps attacking the validity of the marriage after your death or your present spouse perhaps using the invalidity as a means of securing an annulment of the present marriage. Those "divorced" in Tijuana have more to worry about. While Nevada divorces, as a near-at-hand example, follow the laws of that state and are valid there, at least, local divorce-court judges and Mexican law authorities agree that perhaps 95% of all "divorces" obtained in Tijuana are not even legal in Mexico; therefore, by no stretch of the imagination, could these "Tijuana quickies" ever be legal in California. Such persons, with apparently invalid out-of-state divorces, can square matters away by obtaining a California divorce and remarrying again when the final is entered. Long and somewhat expensive as such a procedure may be, the best theory is still "better safe than sorry."

CALIFORNIANS could well remedy the mixed-up marriage situation that exists by getting married and divorced in California. Those getting married for the first time or after the final completion of a legal divorce will find that within the space of a day they can obtain their blood tests, secure their license from the county clerk's office and be married; there is no three-day "waiting period" any more between issuance of the license and the marriage ceremony. Likewise, blood tests can be run swiftly these days; they are set up not to delay marriage but for protection of the parties; the county clerk's office can direct one to an always nearby center for these tests. On the other hand, persons so anxious to get out of one marriage and into another that they run across the borders to get "divorced" should remember that if they made a mistake once they can do so again. Better they obtain the divorce in California to be sure it is legal and binding. The year's wait until entry of the final may seem like a long time but, if their new love is sound and true, the next intended bride or bridegroom should be able to stand the waiting period. Divorcing and marrying in haste may "save" a year but, as many can testify, it can ruin the many years ahead. Look at your marriage. Is it legal?

IN THIS the era of the button-down mind and decision by deliberation of the board, the ship captain is living proof a boss can be a boss and his own man, too.

Scratch a sailing master and you'll find a rugged individualist nearly every time.

And unlike most modern executives, who sometimes appear to be little more than polished corporate images cast from the same mold, the ship captain comes in endless varieties.

He may be an urbane man-of-the-world, a collector of rare antiques and an expert on tropical birds as is handsome Luigi Astarita, impeccable master of the 12,500-ton Italian cargoliner SS Paola d'Amico, regular visitor to the Port of Long Beach. An acknowledged authority on bird diseases, the pipe-smoking Neopolitan lives in an antique-filled stateroom and keeps a full-blown aviary and bird laboratory aboard.

OR ADVENTUROUS men-of-action such as Robert E. Larsen, rugged-looking captain of the Danish East Asiatic Lines freighter, Samoa, who twice has had ships blown out from under him, and flower-loving Capt. Carl Otto Efferoth, 58-year-old North German Lloyd Lines officer whose wartime exploits as a pilot, submarine skipper and infantry leader earned him the title of "one man blitzkrieg."

Some are retiring men such as Halldor Gaaso, a naturalized U. S. citizen so unassuming he declined to buy a uniform with gold braid even after he was given command of America's biggest merchant ship, the 106,000-ton SS Manhattan.

Others among the men who command the 5,000 to 6,000 ocean-going ships that arrive and depart from Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbors each year include painters, health faddists, writers, eccentrics, intellectuals and misanthropes.

"Some may even seem a little daffy," says one veteran waterfront observer, "but they're all different."

LA DIFERENCE comes from the nature of the work and the breed of man attracted to the sea.

While the fashion in bosses today is to the smooth-talking psychlogist capable of riding herd on talent and expertise at delegating authority and responsibility, the sea captain, as he has for centuries, is master of all he surveys, a figure of absolute authority.

He invariably has risen through the ranks and spent his apprenticeship at the knee of the toughest master of all, experience.

Efferoth, native of the medieval walled town of Soest in West Germany, served as a merchant officer on a German hospital and troop ship, was a Luftwaffe bomber pilot on the Russian front, enlisted in the SS, commanded a suicidal U-boat wolf pack and led an infantry company of retreads in the "last gasp" defense of the fatherland before returning to the merchant marine after the war.

He is widely traveled, conversant with the entire family of man and free of the narrow-mindedness born of an insular life.

BORN ON A farming island off the coast of north central Europe, Capt. Ludolf Petersen, master of the Hamburg-American Line's SS Rheinland, first went to sea as a boy. He abandoned ship in South America, took a berth on a Swedish ship and remained at sea under various flags until being put aboard a German raider ship in WWII. After serving aboard the Lutzow, the Admiral Schoer and a freighter disguised as an Allied ship and credited with sinking 12 vessels, he was captured.

The sea captain is used to "thinking on his feet"—making decisions quickly and under pressure, decisions which, as 45-year-old Capt. Larsen was reminded recently, can mean the difference between life-or-death for his men.

In this instance, the 10,500-ton Samoa was driving up the west coast of South America in a raging storm when Larsen, on the bridge, saw two men, a pumper and the first mate, swept overboard.

He instantly ordered life preservers thrown overboard, and brought the ship about. He spotted the bright-colored preservers, calculated where the seamen ought to be and spotted one, the first mate, in the water.

DESPITE 50-FOOT waves and 65-m.p.h. winds he swung the huge vessel around so the mate was on the leeward side and had six of his crew lashed to the railing.

"I was worried," he recalled. "Two men were already on my conscience and these young seamen were taking quite a beating from the waves as they tried to get a line to the mate."

Several times the waves brought the mate to the fingertips of the rescuers, Capt. Larsen said, only to drop him out of sight again.

After more than an hour the drenched sailors got a line around the mate and hauled him aboard.

The pumper was never found.

Capt. Larsen fully understood the ordeal. Twice he was torpedoed and forced to go into the icy waters of the North Atlantic during World War II.

On another occasion he was aboard one of three ships out of 18 vessels in a convoy from Malta to Egypt that reached Alexandria.

Capt. Ludolf Petersen saw World War II action aboard German raiders.

Italian skipper Luigi Astarita displays a rare blue Venezuelan humming bird. The captain is a bird expert and keeps a full-scale aviary aboard.

Capt. F. A. Leontakianakos, a beaming, good-looking Greek, at 37, has commanded four ships larger than Queen Mary. He's with wife, Elvira.

Capt. Robert E. Larsen: life-or-death decisions.

Rosemary Forsyth wants more than anything to be an actress—and she's well on her way—starting at the very top!

ROSEMARY FORSYTH is a young actress who believes there is nothing like starting at the top.

From a film debut in "Shenandoah" opposite James Stewart, the 21-year-old blonde moves on to the feminine lead with Charlton Heston in "The War Lord."

Not bad for a gal who was kicking around in summer stock last year.

Forsyth, forsooth, with her arresting "north country" look, was a natural choice for "The War Lord," a tale of medieval derring-do. She has a statuesque beauty that has impressed photographers and directors alike. She is 5 feet 9 and weighs 130 pounds.

Her flat cheekbones accentuate rather large, slightly pouting lips. Her cool blue eyes tend to photograph green. She has composure far beyond 21 years.

IN THE HOPEFUL view of Universal City Studios executives, Forsyth has that elusive elixir known as "star quality." Universal is betting an exclusive seven-year contract on it and put Rosemary through a year of intensive drama study in New York prior to introducing her to the screen.

The Montreal-born beauty was discovered when pictures of her as a model appeared in Show Magazine. She has always wanted to act.

"More than being a star or a big personality," Rosemary says, "I would like to develop myself as an actress. I will do any and all parts—from the very sweet virgin to the town prostitute."

In "The War Lord" she portrays an 11th century virgin who is claimed by Heston, a Norman ruler.

all through it. That's what we think a house is for. And strangely, our house fits whoever is here and how many.

"IT IS COMFORTABLE when the two of us are alone. But 100 people can be entertained, without seeming to be crowded."

Brookins, junior staff commander of the Long Beach Yacht Club, designed the house himself to fit the family's indoor-outdoor plan of living. The house has two front entrances, on The Toledo and on Alamitos Bay. On the bay side is moored their boat, the Molowa, which means "ease" in Hawaiian. (The Brookins like warm climates, and last year visited Tahiti.)

Interest never lags in views afforded by glass expanses in this delightful home. Above, Alamitos Bay as seen through the living room window. Water craft pass in review or nod idly at their moorings.

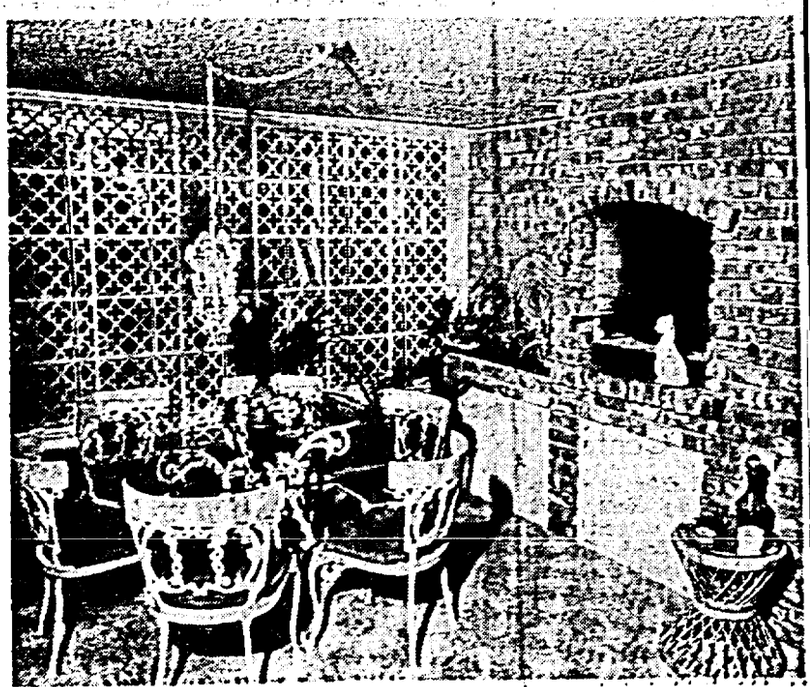

The Toledo entrance to the Brookins home opens into this lanai where a barbecue unit stands ready for party time or for a quiet dinner on occasion at home.

The Toledo entrance opens on the indoor lanai, with barbecue and bar. A favorite method of entertainment is an informal barbecue buffet dinner for 40 or 50 guests.

THE LIVING ROOM has two points of interest: a handsome fireplace, usually with a roaring fire, and a magnificent view of Alamitos Bay.

Dining room, den, kitchen and bath (easily accessible to swimmers and boaters) are downstairs; upstairs are two bedrooms and two baths.

Furniture is contemporary Italian, plus a few treasured antiques.

all through it. That's what we think a house is for. And strangely, our house fits whoever is here and how many.

"IT IS COMFORTABLE when the two of us are alone. But 100 people can be entertained, without seeming to be crowded."

Brookins, junior staff commander of the Long Beach Yacht Club, designed the house himself to fit the family's indoor-outdoor plan of living. The house has two front entrances, on The Toledo and on Alamitos Bay. On the bay side is moored their boat, the Molowa, which means "ease" in Hawaiian. (The Brookins like warm climates, and last year visited Tahiti.)

The Toledo entrance opens on the indoor lanai, with barbecue and bar. A favorite method of entertainment is an informal barbecue buffet dinner for 40 or 50 guests.

THE LIVING ROOM has two points of interest: a handsome fireplace, usually with a roaring fire, and a magnificent view of Alamitos Bay.

Dining room, den, kitchen and bath (easily accessible to swimmers and boaters) are downstairs; upstairs are two bedrooms and two baths.

Furniture is contemporary Italian, plus a few treasured antiques.

The Toledo entrance to the Brookins home opens into this lanai where a barbecue unit stands ready for party time or for a quiet dinner on occasion at home.

Bread With a Flair

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

BEGINNING bakers and experts alike will enjoy preparing this intriguing Potato au Gratin Bread. Packaged au gratin potatoes are the short cut secret. The potato slices are mixed into the dough; cheese sauce is swirled through the loaf.

Potato Au Gratin Bread

1 box (6.2 ounces) au gratin potato mix
4 cups boiling water
2 packages or cakes yeast, active dry or compressed
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
¼ cup peanut oil
6½ cups unsifted flour (about)
¼ cup warm water
Peanut oil

Soak au gratin potato slices in 4 cups boiling water. Cool until warm, 105° to 115° F., about 30 minutes. Drain, reserving 2 cups liquid.

Place the reserved warm potato liquid into a large warm mixing bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt, ¼ cup peanut oil and 3 cups flour. Beat until smooth. Mix in drained potato slices and enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes.

Punch dough down. Turn out onto lightly floured board. Divide in half. Flatten each half to an oblong 15x8 inches. Combine au gratin sauce mix with ¼ cup warm water. Spread each oblong with half this mixture. Roll up from 8-inch sides as for jelly roll's; seal edges. Place loaves in two greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pans. Brush tops of loaves with peanut oil. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 45 minutes, or until done. Makes 2 loaves.

Potato au Gratin Bread is an unusual item to add interest to menus—and it's easy to make.

Slide Contest

Colored slides of Christmas lighting displays will be shown in competition at the Long Beach Camera Guild meeting at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday in Los Altos Library. The slides were made on a pre-Christmas field trip. Members competing may submit four slides each.

Recipe of the Week

OLD FAVORITE, jelly roll, is $5 prize winning recipe this week, rewarding Mrs. Helen M. Douglass, 4123 Obispo Ave., Lakewood 11. The recipe:

Jelly Roll

5 large eggs, separated
4 tblsp. granulated sugar
3 tblsp. sifted all purpose flour
1 tsp. vanilla
4 tblsp. jelly

Grease a large baking sheet 18x12, line with wax paper, and grease again. Add the sugar to the egg yolks and beat until they are thick and lemon colored. Fold in carefully the flour and vanilla and lastly the egg whites, which have been stiffly beaten.

Spread the mixture evenly on top of the baking sheet and bake for 12 minutes at 350 degrees. Loosen the paper from the tin, sprinkle the top with a little granulated sugar and turn out on waxed paper. Carefully remove the paper from the bottom of the cake, sprinkle thoroughly with granulated sugar and spread lightly with a well-flavored jelly. Roll lengthwise for a long, thin roll, or sidewise for a shorter thicker roll.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address, to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform us on HAZELTON, HAZELTINE.—W.H., Torrance; R.H., Downey.

W.H., R.H.: HAZELTON indicated "the hazel-tree farmstead" in 12th century England. The source of HAZELTINE was dual, either the same as Hazelton, or from "Hazel-dine" for "home at the hazel-tree hollow." Ancestors of these lineages include William and Adam de Haseldene of Somerset, England, recorded in 1327. The armorial shield for these families has a black cross on a silver background.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the background on PARKS, PARKES. — E. P., Long Beach; R. P., Garden Grove; A. P., Torrance.

PARKS and PARKES mainly evolved from an ancestral keeper of a royal hunting preserve or "park." In addition, these surnames also signify "Young Peter," derived from Parkins. The Biblical Peter denotes "Rock." The Parks shield is black, decorated with an ermine stripe between three gold goat heads. The Parkes shield has three red buck deer heads on a vertical silver stripe down the center of a red background.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain PACK.—O. P., Lakewood; V. P., Midway City.

O. P., V. P.: PACK began in old England as the Anglo-French given - name Paque meaning "born at Eastertime." The Pack shield is divided into four sections by a cross. Two sections are silver, two ermine. In the upper left silver section is an ermine spot. George Pack was a 17th century settler of New Jersey.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like data on MEREDITH.—E. H., A. C., Long Beach.

E. H., A. C.: MEREDITH ancestors came from Wales in western England. The old Welsh term "Mareduth" was one source, a prehistoric given-name meaning "Mortal Day." The alternate source for Meredith signifies "guardian from over the sea." The remote ancestor was Meredith, Son of Owen a Welsh ruler in A. D. 983. The Meredith shield is blue decorated with a gold ram passant lion.

A Room for Her

Everything about this sewing room is restful—the lush greenery of the plant stand, the afternoon sunlight screened by die-perforated hardboard panels, soft green carpeting, walnut finish hardboard. New Barcalounger recliner-rocker is an attraction, too. High up at left is a corner haven for relaxing.

OUR "CHILD-CENTERED" lives have come in for a good deal of criticism lately. But adults, tired of being martyrs, take heart! A recent development in home planning gives new recognition to the "rights" of grownups. More and more homes now set aside specific areas where adults can relax—away from the children.

Such a haven needn't be large; it might even be a corner of a large recreation or family room, partially set off by a screen or divider. It might be a remodeled dressing room adjoining the master bedroom, or any little-used area the home affords. But an adult hideaway should have decorative flair, as well as privacy, and ease of maintenance as well as comfort.

Here are two examples that rate "A" on all counts. One is a man-sized den where the man of the house may read, listen to music or perhaps plan the family's next trip, surrounded by cherished mementoes of past travels. The second is a corner just for the lady of the house, for sewing or handicrafts or merely daydreaming away that lovely time when the baby is napping and the older children are at school.

What price this leisure-time sanctuary? Basic materials and furnishings in both rooms were held to a strict budget, and accessories already owned by the families give the needed enrichment and individuality.

Walls in both rooms are inexpensive wood-grained finished hardboard paneling, accented in the sewing room with new filigree paneling painted to complement the decor. These practical panels duplicate the warm, luxurious look of wood, yet are more durable and easier to care for—at a fraction of wood's price. Carpeting is a lush-looking synthetic fiber that offers vivid color and comfort at modest cost.

No costly furniture is needed in either room. The major seating piece in each is an updated reclining chair with a price as comfortable as its cushions. These new Barcalounger recliners are rocking chairs as well—but they keep their engineering secrets beneath skirted covers in contemporary or period prints.

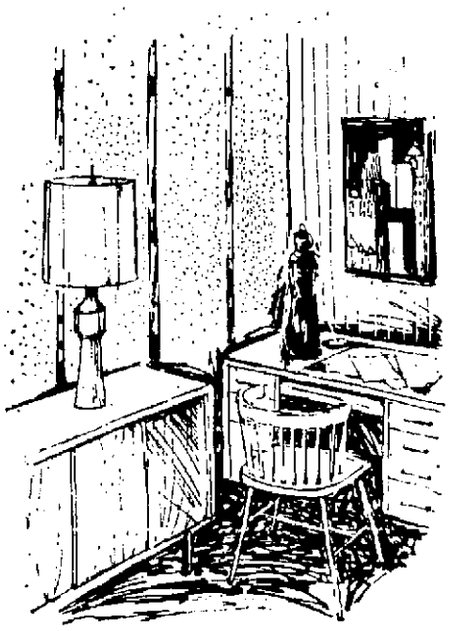

The lure of faraway places pervades the den, with its handsome globe and treasures culled from Europe and the Far East. A seagoing pattern of ships and weathervanes covers the reclining chair. For floor-sprawling, there are vinyl-covered cushions in bright accent colors, and a whimsical rattan back-rest brought back from the Orient. Even the walls suggest the exotic, for they are paneled in rich teak wood-grained finished hardboard.

More than any room in the house, this den with its potpourri of articles old and new, native and foreign, bears the personal stamp of its owner. It is truly a place where the traveler can "get away from it all" and be himself.

In like manner, the lady's sewing room reflects the tastes of its leisure-time occupant. Her green thumb is apparent in the triple-decker plant stand. A glance at the lush foliage of the plants helps to rest her eyes after the close work of sewing or needlepoint.

Since the room's very nature encourages clutter (from projects such as sewing), the simplest of backgrounds was selected: walnut wood-grained finished hardboard for the wall paneling and plain olive green for the carpeting. To screen the glare from the wide expanse of window while still admitting good light, other decorative hardboard panels were used. These are an open filigree design which has the effect of an airy texture rather than pattern. Painted a sunny pineapple yellow, the treatment is far more interesting than conventional glass curtains, yet it is low in cost.

The room's focal point, the ladylike reclining chair, has a stylized floral cover that teams up with the plants to give a fresh, outdoorsy feeling—even in midwinter.

Inaugural

coln in the nation's capital churned up a whiff of excitement. One by one colorful floats rolled past his reviewing stand. Appreciatively, in each instance, Lincoln stepped down and kissed the pretty girl riding on it—till he had bussed a total of 34 beauties!

On later occasions historians were to label Lincoln "the lonely, melancholy, and brooding president." At his first inauguration, however, he emerged—to the delight of thousands of spectators—as the "kissing president."

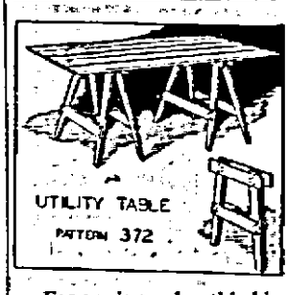

With President Johnson's inauguration coming up Wednesday, many people wonder what he will do. For a certainty he won't walk to the inaugural ceremonies, like the "earthy Democrat" Thomas Jefferson. Nor will he invite thousands of everyday people in off the streets for a festive get-together in the White House, like the wild frontiersman Andy Jackson.

But some observers think he might "pull a Lincoln"—by kissing a flock of pretty girls, especially if some female reporters happen to be within reach!

Coin Club

World Coin Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Sierra Room at Mayfair Park recreation area, South Street and Clark Ave., Lakewood. Talks on coins, a swap session and refreshments are planned. Anyone interested in coin collecting is invited.

You Make It

For work or play this big table is easy to store and may be set up quickly for a banquet or for cutting out dresses. The children will like it for games. Dad will use the folding base sections for saw horses. Pattern 372, which gives dimensions, illustrated steps and material list, costs 35c. It also is in Packet No. 16 with three other full-size patterns—all for $1. Address: Pattern Dept., Southland Magazine, Independent-Press Telegram, Bedford Hills, N.Y.

WORKSHOP

Butler's Tray Table

End and side leaves turned up make this tray table with snacks easy to carry to any spot.

By Bill Meyerriecks

IN THE golden days when butlers were in the pantry, you would have paid scant notice to Sketchbook's offering this week. It would have been something functional placed in front of you for holding the dainty tea and biscuits. In this do-it-yourself era, you pay attention to clever innovations that serve well.

One that does is the Butler's Tray Table, design plan S-196. These days the smart homemaker finds it practical and handy to use for informal serving and as an end table when not helping the hostess.

THE WORKING drawings contain all particulars on the amount of wood necessary to build the tables, sizes of all parts, full size patterns for the four leaves and legs as well as staep-by-step assembling procedures. It is not a difficult project at all. Once wou have determined what wood you prefer, (we recommend a hardwood plywood for the top and matching hardwood for the structure) the project comes together easily as long as you cut your parts carefully and accurately. Our full size patterns make the chores much easier all along.

To order specify Tray Table Design S-196 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

Leaves extended, the table assumes a graceful oval. This is an easy home workshop project.

Step-Saving Stool

LABOR SAVING is one of the fine achievements of the increasing standard of living in the United States, but there will always be certain tasks that can only be eased, not eliminated.

A functional kitchen stool that has compartments of different sizes to hold the many odds and ends necessary to household cleanup is a handy-dandy, step-saving item to have around the home—and one that can be made easily and inexpensively by using full-sized patterns. Like the stool pictured with this article—brushes, waxes, soaps, sprays and what have you. The top opens to reveal storage for shoe shining supplies. The cushion can be removed for knee padding when chores demand. And the stool can be scooted away out of sight when not in use.

Kitchen stool that has many uses lightens household work for NBC star Marianne Gaba.

Make this one with Pattern No. 277, obtained by sending name and address and 50 cents to Steve Ellingson, Building Dept., Southland Magazine, Box 2353, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

The lobby with its dark wall paneling, heavily beamed ceiling and huge rock fireplace bespeak a colorful past. Guests almost forget that the oil lamps on the shelves of the handcraved organ are no longer needed for lighting. The faces of Felix Mattei and his wife Lucy look down with complacency from their old-fashioned frames on the wall. In the red and gold dining room delicious modern meals are served, but in the gleam of crystal and candlelight one seems to glimpse an old-fashioned menu that lists roast venison, quail, dove and trout among the entrees.

Now under the management of Old Danish Food Farm, Inc., Mattei's Inn is still a boon to the weary traveler who yearns momentarily to forget the roar of the freeway, and longs to stand on the "fringe" of yesterday.

Aid to Diagnosis

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

SCIENTISTS have developed a tiny camera which, when attached to a stomach tube, promises to provide a simple screening procedure for the diagnosis of stomach ailments.

The camera is smaller than the little finger and can take 16 color photos in 35 seconds. The procedure can be performed in a doctor's office.

Dr. Jerome Weiss of New York Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital described the camera at a meeting of the American College of Gastroenterology.

IN CERTAIN emergency situations in eye surgery, corneal grafts from dogs or skatefish can be used on human patients, reports Dr. Paul Payrau of Paris.

He and his associates have transplanted 44 corneas since 1958 from dogs, pigs, calves and fishes of a family that includes skatefish, dogfish and sharks.

The fish corneas are unusual, he says, in that they don't swell in water. Trouble is, the transparency of the fish corneas is not as clear as one would like. Dog corneas give the best results, Dr. Payrau claims.

The doctor reported his research to the World Congress on the Cornea in Washington, D. C., according to Modern Medicine.

Under-nutrition during the first year of life may cause permanent retardation of intellectual capacity, two University of Cape Town, South Africa, researchers believe.

The possibility is suggested by a comparison of a group of grossly undernourished children and a group of adequately fed youngsters, they report in Archives of Disease in Childhood.

Brain growth, as reflected by head circumference, and IQ were significantly lower in the undernourished group than in the comparison group. The doctors say there has been no improvement in intellectual capacity in the undernourished during a seven-year period of observation.

A SYNTHETIC diaper fabric helps to prevent diaper rash due to excess moisture.

One face of the diaper—that next to baby's skin—is Celanese Arnel triacetate, which draws moisture away from the skin. The outer layers are cotton gauze, which retain the moisture.

Thus the product, tradenamed Babycare, has a no-return moisture barrier, which keeps urine from seeping back.

YOUNG MALE victims of asthma tend to have improvement in their condition with age, but girl patients do not, Mayo Clinic doctors say.

Drs. Lowell W. Barr and George B. Logan, reporting in Pediatrics, say they can now tell parents that children with asthma have a 40% to 50% chance of outgrowing the condition.

If the youngster has associated hay fever or eczema, his chances of improvement are not so good, the doctors say.

The findings are a result of a follow-up study of young asthmatics who have been seen at the Mayo Clinic.

UNDER DEVELOPMENT at the National Heart Institute: a quart-size heart-lung machine that will be inexpensive and disposable.

Meanwhile, a MIT engineer and a Boston VA Hospital surgeon have designed a heart-lung machine so compact that it can be carried in a car trunk.

The devices pinch-hit for natural heart and lungs during heart surgery, permitting the surgeon to repair a damaged heart after it has been detached temporarily from the body's circulation.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Aid to Diagnosis

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

SCIENTISTS have developed a tiny camera which, when attached to a stomach tube, promises to provide a simple screening procedure for the diagnosis of stomach ailments.

The camera is smaller than the little finger and can take 16 color photos in 35 seconds. The procedure can be performed in a doctor's office.

Dr. Jerome Weiss of New York Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital described the camera at a meeting of the American College of Gastroenterology.

IN CERTAIN emergency situations in eye surgery, corneal grafts from dogs or skatefish can be used on human patients, reports Dr. Paul Payrau of Paris.

He and his associates have transplanted 44 corneas since 1958 from dogs, pigs, calves and fishes of a family that includes skatefish, dogfish and sharks.

The fish corneas are unusual, he says, in that they don't swell in water. Trouble is, the transparency of the fish corneas is not as clear as one would like. Dog corneas give the best results, Dr. Payrau claims.

The doctor reported his research to the World Congress on the Cornea in Washington, D. C., according to Modern Medicine.

Under-nutrition during the first year of life may cause permanent retardation of intellectual capacity, two University of Cape Town, South Africa, researchers believe.

The possibility is suggested by a comparison of a group of grossly undernourished children and a group of adequately fed youngsters, they report in Archives of Disease in Childhood.

Brain growth, as reflected by head circumference, and IQ were significantly lower in the undernourished group than in the comparison group. The doctors say there has been no improvement in intellectual capacity in the undernourished during a seven-year period of observation.

A SYNTHETIC diaper fabric helps to prevent diaper rash due to excess moisture.

One face of the diaper—that next to baby's skin—is Celanese Arnel triacetate, which draws moisture away from the skin. The outer layers are cotton gauze, which retain the moisture.

Thus the product, tradenamed Babycare, has a no-return moisture barrier, which keeps urine from seeping back.

YOUNG MALE victims of asthma tend to have improvement in their condition with age, but girl patients do not, Mayo Clinic doctors say.

Drs. Lowell W. Barr and George B. Logan, reporting in Pediatrics, say they can now tell parents that children with asthma have a 40% to 50% chance of outgrowing the condition.

If the youngster has associated hay fever or eczema, his chances of improvement are not so good, the doctors say.

The findings are a result of a follow-up study of young asthmatics who have been seen at the Mayo Clinic.

'Polar Bear' Puppy

Magda is a rare Kuvasz, a breed from Hungary and bears great resemblance to a polar bear.

By Eleanor Avery Price

IF YOU are ever up Canoga Park way and see a polar bear (but with ears hanging low) lumbering about in the 23300 block of Gilmore St., don't take to the hills. It is only a Hungarian Kuvasz puppy, Tall Grass Princess Magda, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Z. M. Alvi.

Magda, with the help of a tranquilizer in Toronto and a drink of warm milk at her new home, arrived by plane (without mishap and immediately stirred up comment, since the breed is very rare in these parts and difficult to come by after the Nazis destroyed them along with their owners and their homes the brave dogs were trying to protect in their native Hungary. You may think you are seeing Kuvasok at dog shows, but in reality for the most part you are seeing Great Pyrenees, as there is a resemblance, at least in pictures. The Pyreness is usually larger and carries a longer coat.

KUVASZ is Turkish for "guardian of nobles." There are several stories as to the breed's origin. He may have come from Tibet with the Huns, from Europe with the Magyars, from Asia with the Ottoman Turks or from Asia with the Hungarian nobles. In any event, the breed was well known in Hungary at the time of King Matthias I (1458 - 1490). Quite possibly this king owned up to a thousand Kuvasok.

The Kuvasz does not fawn on strangers. He is deeply devoted to his owner and home, and a courageous guard. He is not inclined to roam far, although historians write that on the Hungarian plains the dogs wore iron hoops to help restrict their wanderings.

SATURDAY and Sunday the El Dorado Cat Club has a show at Long Beach Auditorium. Cats are in beautiful coat at this time, and will be out in numbers.

Hardy Shrub

Crataegus, commonly known as the small ornamental tree Hawthorne, is derived from the Greek word Kratos, which denotes the hardiness of the wood, according to the American Association of Nurserymen. About 900 species have been identified in this country. They are known primarily for their showy white flowers and red fruits which are excellent bird food.

THE GOLD MEDALLION HOME AWARD means better living today and lasting value in the all-electric future. Look for it when you buy.

It's the award given only to new homes that meet a long list of specific requirements, such as 1. A flameless electric kitchen. 2. Full "Housepower" wiring with 240-volt service and more than ample circuits for new appliances. 3. Abundant lighting. 4. Flameless electric home and water heating.

Despite the rising cost of other fuels, the average cost of a kilowatt hour of electricity to Edison residential customers is 28% lower today than it was in 1939. (And homes with electric heating earn lower than average rates!)

Assessment of a Playwright

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

IN THE CASE of Tennessee Williams the adage can be paraphrased; the child is father to the play. Francis Donahue's "THE DRAMATIC WORLD OF TENNESSEE WILLIAMS" (Ungar $5.50), in the course of the fullest assessment of the controversial playwright yet to appear, proves it. For Williams buffs the book is a must; for others who may have seen a Williams play on occasion, or even a film based on a Williams play, it is well worth the reading. In its 243 pages it is an Encyclopedia Williamsiana.

The dramatist, we learn, was christened, in Columbus, Miss., as Thomas Lanier Williams — "a nice enough name, perhaps a little too nice," Williams says. "It sounds like it might belong to the sort of writer who turns out sonnet sequences to spring." In point of fact, a woman's club gave Williams his first payment for a literary effort, $25, for some sonnets to spring.

Given a melange of pioneer Tennessee, New England and Quaker ancestry, the sources of "the conflicting impulses I often represent in the people I write about" are readily apparent. We are shown the child Tom Williams, as "frail, sensitive . . . early influenced by his gandfather, his mother, his grandfather, his mother, "a liberal cleric," "represented for the growing Tom a Southern way of life gradually being displaced by a society with different values." His father we see as a "practical, brusque, aggressive" traveling salesman for a shoe company. . . . When, in 1936, Williams, who had already written his first play, told his father he meant to make writing his career, his father disowned him. Williams, we are told, had already, at the University of Missouri (the family had moved to St. Louis) failed at ROTC, angering his father.

Such a detailed picture is given us of all the influences, all the forces that shaped the young Williams that the analyses, the interpretations of all Williams' plays, things which many an academic writer kills with a deadly dullness, in the case of Donahue, assistant professor of foreign languages at California State College at Long Beach, become lively and fascinating. He has proven indeed that the child is father to the play, and to the short story, too.

"The major influences entering into the theater of Tennessee Williams are his unhappy life—he is the classic type of artist in rebellion against his family—and the social milieu in which he grew up . . . Donahue tells us. The poet Hart Crane, D. H. Lawrence, Chekhov (how many dramatists owe incalculable debts to the great Russian) and Strindberg are listed as shapers of Tennessee Williams.

Williams is man who has gone through life with his eyes and ears wide open; "not only has Williams used members of his immediate family . . . and his relatives as prototypes for various characters" (as did O'Neill so often) "but he has also given dramatic life and stature to the misfits, landladies, virile animalistic laborers, fading actresses and idealistic young spinsters he has met in his wanderings from New York to California and from Mexico to the Italian Riviera."

The detailed explorations of the themes of Williams' plays, with passages from the plays themselves, the just and fair assessments (the novel "The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone" is "not wholly successful"; the short stories and one-act plays, by comparison with the major work, the full play, are "in a minor key") and, as has been pointed out, the fascinating story of Williams as boy and adolescent, make this a book well worth reading and rereading.

Famed anthropologist Ashley Montagu is the author of "THE SCIENCE OF MAN, An Illustrated Introduction to Anthropology" (Odyssesy, $1.95) which gives an anthropologist's view of the origins and ancentry of man, evolution of modern man, races, cultural origins, sex, marriage, family, philosophy, myth, religion, science and art. Sixty-four pages of color illustrations by Robert J. Lee are integrated with the text.

SHORT FICTION of 20 contemporary writers and two editors, among them Norman Mailer, Jesse Stuart, Tennessee Williams and Mary O'Hara, is contained in "THE MODERN SHORT STORY IN THE MAKING," edited by Whit and Hallie Burnett (Hawthorn, $6.95). The various types of short stories are categorized with a prologue to each section. The author of each selection evaluates it in retrospect and discusses his views on the creative process.

ONE OF the most significant books of recent years, a photographic essay on the famous encyclical of the late Pope John, "Pacem in Terris" is issued by Odyssey Press as "PEACE ON EARTH" ($5.95. The Golden Press paperbound edition is $1.95).

"Peace on Earth" interprets with superb pictures the major points of Pope John's message, the first papal encyclical ever addressed beyond the limits of the Roman Catholic community to men of goodwill everywhere in the land. Twenty-four photographers, including Henri Cartier-Bresson, Cornell Capa, Wayne Miller and Ernest Haas contributed more than 150 pictures which illustrate the major points of the encyclical.

ORIANA FALLACI, Italy's brilliant young journalist, journeyed around the world to investigate the life and status of women, especially in Pakistan, India, Indonesia, China and Japan, where until recently women were excluded from most, if not all, forms of public life. The result is "THE USELESS SEX" (Horizon, $4.95), a disturbing portrayal that makes it plain that in much of the world women don't count for much.

"The major influences entering into the theater of Tennessee Williams are his unhappy life—he is the classic type of artist in rebellion against his family—and the social milieu in which he grew up . . . Donahue tells us. The poet Hart Crane, D. H. Lawrence, Chekhov (how many dramatists owe incalculable debts to the great Russian) and Strindberg are listed as shapers of Tennessee Williams.

Williams is man who has gone through life with his eyes and ears wide open; "not only has Williams used members of his immediate family . . . and his relatives as prototypes for various characters" (as did O'Neill so often) "but he has also given dramatic life and stature to the misfits, landladies, virile animalistic laborers, fading actresses and idealistic young spinsters he has met in his wanderings from New York to California and from Mexico to the Italian Riviera."

The detailed explorations of the themes of Williams' plays, with passages from the plays themselves, the just and fair assessments (the novel "The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone" is "not wholly successful"; the short stories and one-act plays, by comparison with the major work, the full play, are "in a minor key") and, as has been pointed out, the fascinating story of Williams as boy and adolescent, make this a book well worth reading and rereading.

Famed anthropologist Ashley Montagu is the author of "THE SCIENCE OF MAN, An Illustrated Introduction to Anthropology" (Odyssesy, $1.95) which gives an anthropologist's view of the origins and ancentry of man, evolution of modern man, races, cultural origins, sex, marriage, family, philosophy, myth, religion, science and art. Sixty-four pages of color illustrations by Robert J. Lee are integrated with the text.

SHORT FICTION of 20 contemporary writers and two editors, among them Norman Mailer, Jesse Stuart, Tennessee Williams and Mary O'Hara, is contained in "THE MODERN SHORT STORY IN THE MAKING," edited by Whit and Hallie Burnett (Hawthorn, $6.95). The various types of short stories are categorized with a prologue to each section. The author of each selection evaluates it in retrospect and discusses his views on the creative process.

ONE OF the most significant books of recent years, a photographic essay on the famous encyclical of the late Pope John, "Pacem in Terris" is issued by Odyssey Press as "PEACE ON EARTH" ($5.95. The Golden Press paperbound edition is $1.95).

"Peace on Earth" interprets with superb pictures the major points of Pope John's message, the first papal encyclical ever addressed beyond the limits of the Roman Catholic community to men of goodwill everywhere in the land. Twenty-four photographers, including Henri Cartier-Bresson, Cornell Capa, Wayne Miller and Ernest Haas contributed more than 150 pictures which illustrate the major points of the encyclical.

ORIANA FALLACI, Italy's brilliant young journalist, journeyed around the world to investigate the life and status of women, especially in Pakistan, India, Indonesia, China and Japan, where until recently women were excluded from most, if not all, forms of public life. The result is "THE USELESS SEX" (Horizon, $4.95), a disturbing portrayal that makes it plain that in much of the world women don't count for much.

A Departure in Ceramics

By Helen L. Gillum

DIFFERING in form, style and composition from earlier pieces, a type of ornamental ceramic art was developed at English and Scottish factories in the period of about 1830. Variously called "Victorian cottage pots" or "cottage ornaments," they are still available today, and provide an interesting and not too "dear" a field for the 20th-century collector.

Staffordshire spaniels in "cottage ornament" form illustrate a phase of collecting hobby.

Cottage ornaments were modeled in every kind of figure imagineable, including those representing historical events, great personalities, fictitious characters, miniature churches, castles and cottages, country people and scenes, religious subjects, domestic animals—and even highwaymen and murderers!

Extremely popular now, even as they were long ago, are the cats and dogs, particularly Staffordshire dogs, such as the pair of spaniels pictured with this article and owned by Mrs. Denver Lee of 4444 N. Bellflower Blvd., Lakewood.

COTTAGE FIGURES of the 1800s were made largely by potters who supposedly possessed no special talent. However, while not of the high artistic quality of the Wedgwood - Whieldon - Turner-Wood school, they did have good modeling and a

Free Swimming Pool Planning Kit

If you are planning a pool this year here is your opportunity to get a free kit showing all phases of pool construction. Also included are tips on pool buying plus complete information on special equipment. Kit is packed with facts and ideas you will want to know before you build.

This free kit was put out by Anthony Pools, world's largest pool-builder.

Its authoritative information was developed by Anthony, based on the building of over 24,000 pools.

In the pictures and text it describes the way modern pools are constructed. The growing use of high-speed automatic equipment for excavation and gunite cementing has kept the price of Anthony pools low while prices in general have gone up. A modern pool is just about the biggest bargain you can get these days.

It is important that you choose a builder large enough to offer you modern speed and economy.

During the first four months of this year Anthony has built more pools in the greater Los Angeles area than the next three largest pool builders combined. This is a dramatic endorsement of Anthony's value, service, and reputation.

Kit also describes such Anthony exclusive accessories as Hida-Sweep automatic pool cleaner — it is never removed from the pool — and Antho-Pure, the automatic pool purifier that holds up to six months' supply of Gardex.

Other sub-assemblies and accessories manufactured in Anthony's 15 acre plant and sold direct to the pool buyer help keep Anthony's price low.

Anthony Pools' stock is listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock exchanges.

For your free copy of this valuable kit, drop in or call Anthony Pools South Gate office at 5371 Firestone Blvd., phone SP 3-2216, TO 1-0381, or our Torrance office, 25412 S. Crenshaw Blvd., phone 832-5391 or our Anaheim office at 2050 So. Harbor, phone JE 4-3100.

Val Moore has made a success of a hobby as a profession.

Earning While Yearning

By Muriel Mercer

HOW MANY times have you heard someone say, "If I could afford to quit my job and spend all my time at my hobby, I would be the happiest person alive"?

Maybe you have said the same thing yourself!

If you hesitate to take the plunge, from job to hobby, you may get encouragement from the courageous story of Val Moore, who went from an 18-year office job to give full time to her hobby. She not only was thrilled with the change but has made a success of it financially and is still hands over toes in love with Hawaiian dancing.

For 18 years she had been deputy city clerk in Long Beach. Although her work was interesting, she often found herself day-dreaming of the time she could be utilizing dancing and teaching the South Sea Island folk dances. Suddenly one day she made up her mind.

HER HUSBAND, Charles, startled by the sudden turn of events, chuckled when he thought he saw through her plan. He surmised, wrongly, that she would stay home and rest for at least a year before starting on the new venture. But Val couldn't wait to get started. Charles' life was headed in another direction shortly afterwards, when the United States found itself embroiled in World War II, and he entered the service. He warmly endorsed his wife's project, knowing that she would have her mind occupied and would have less time, as she explained it, to mope.

A few years earlier, Val and Charles had purchased an acre of ground in Stanton. The premises have since grown to 3½ acres, but the ranch style home and two studios—which surround an enclosed patio, with wide expanse of green lawn and a lily pond with goldfish and a fountain—occupy the original acre. The largest studio is said to be the most spacious and probably the most beautiful of any Hawaiian dance studio in California. No professional architect, she nevertheless drew all the plans herself. All pictures, figurines, woven pieces and rugs were picked up on trips to the South Seas by the Moores.

"WHILE TRAVELING 35 times to these areas Val acquired many dance routines, all authentic. She personally learned the native choreographies in Australia, Tahiti and Hawaii. At the same time she purchased the costumes, instruments and additional paraphernalia necessary for correct presentation.

In between lessons and teaching her troupes new routines, Val creates and makes all her own and her dancers' costumes, headdresses and other accessories. She sets up and directs all stage effects.

Val was born in Oklahoma, and has danced all her life. Her father took her to ballroom dances from the time she was 9 years old. She says Hawaiian dancing then was seldom seen, perhaps in a movie or two. Val loved the hula from her first contact. The poignant quality of Hawaiian music made her want to cry. She was inspired to try to interpret the hula in her own way. By the time she was in her teens her own version of what she expected the dance to look like made her a sought-after entertainer. Always careful to emulate the grace and beauty of the dance, she never sacrificed authenticity to popular misconceptions of the charming, interpretive folk numbers.

DURING THE war she danced for the USO and later began teaching mothers' groups, then the younger girls in the families. Now her classes and troupes embrace all ages.

She gives 50 to 60 shows a year, has many commendations and trophies. She is an associate member of the Polynesian Society of Hollywood and a dedicated dancer of all island interpretations.

lifelike appearance that endeared them to the humble country folk, who neither understood nor could afford finer works. Their richly-enameled colors made them further attractive and, listed as "image toys" and "chimney ornaments," they were irresistible when sold at country fairs or by door-to-door itinerant salesmen.

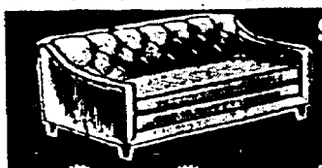

Many cottage figures, particularly animals, were made in pairs. However, because of breakage or misplacement through the years, it is not always easy to find a matched pair. But this situation actually whets the collecting appetite of the fancier, for it presents the challenge of searching for the other member of a pair of horses, sheep, cats or dogs which can be presumed to exist—somewhere. And, as sometimes happens, after diligent search, the mate is found—perhaps many miles from the original, or several years later.

MRS. LEE was fortunate to find her pair of Stafford-shire spaniels together in the same shop. Facing each other in a sitting position, their wide-open eyes and appealing pug noses lend a winsome air. One almost wonders why it was considered necessary to confine such innocent-looking animals with the gold chains and padlocks about their necks!

They date to about 1840, are 12 inches high, and are modeled from a white clay with shiny colorless glaze, the material commonly used for cottage ornaments. They are spotted in red, the most sought-after color.

Inauguration Pics--at Home

By The Shutterbug

HOW would you like to dramatize your photo album with snapshots of President Johnson's inauguration — pictures you made yourself from a ringside seat?

You can do it, on Jan. 20, without leaving your home—by recording on film the images on your television screen. And you can get good pictures because "live" television broadcasts photograph best.

Television images are recorded most easily and most satisfactorily with an adjustable still camera mounted on a tripod—the tripod is a must for good pictures, and it's a good idea to use a shutter release cable.

Place the camera and tripod as close as possible to the television screen, preferably at a distance, where the TV screen just fills the viewfinder. You should use a tape to measure accurately the distance from the front of the TV screen to the film plane of your camera, making sure that the camera's taking lens is lined up with the center of the television screen—both horizontally and vertically. Set the camera's focusing scale for the exact distance you have measured.

YOU MAY FIND the distance is too short for the focusing range of your camera: if it is, you can use a lens attachment like the Kodak Portra Lens to avoid having to move the camera further back, resulting in a smaller image on your film.

Also, in using your viewfinder be careful of parallax. When you are in this close, your viewfinder may not be showing exactly what the film will record, and you will have to correct for this parallax in the mounting of your camera.

The television image will photograph best if it is adjusted so that it has a slightly softer, or lower-than-normal, contrast. Never use flash and turn out all room light—the light from the screen itself will be adequate if you follow these directions:

For recording black-and-white television images, use a medium speed film like Kodak Verichrome Pan or Kodak Plus-X Pan Film with your lens opening set at f/3.5 and a shutter speed of 1/25-or 1/30-second for a camera with between-the-lens shutter. Use a lens opening of f/6.3 and shutter speed of 1/10-second for a camera with a focal plane shutter.

YOU'LL GET best results in black-and-white if the film is given about 50% more development time than normal—either in your own darkroom or by a custom photofinisher.

For recording from color television, you'll need a fast color film like Kodak Improved High Speed Ektachrome Film, Daylight Type, in a camera with between-the-lens shutter and a maximum lens opening of at least f/2.8. With this film you will need a filter to absorb ultraviolet radiation from the color television tube—a Kodak Wratten 2B or Kodak Skylight Filter will work well. Use a shutter speed of 1/30-second.

One more word of advice: Recording images from television can be fascinating, particularly of an historical event like the inauguration. Screen images change often and you'll have the urge to record every one.

If possible, use a camera with a motorized or lever film advance for quick shooting—and have a good supply of film on hand.

Now, a note of caution: If your fascination carries over into photographing regularly scheduled TV programs or commercials, the material you record may be copyrighted and, you may be violating the copyright by making pictures. You have to make that decision. But unless you are certain no copyright is involved, do not—under any circumstances—make any commercial use of pictures you may take from television for your own entertainment.

To shoot photos from the TV, be critical in measuring distance from lens to screen.

Tune In the Wind

By Anna M. Cowles

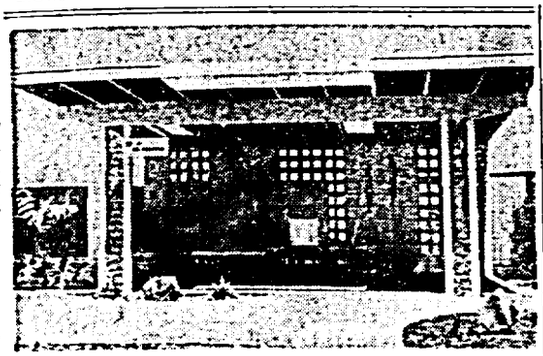

THE TINKLE of wind chimes, hanging from the limb of a tree that shades the patio or near the front entrance of a home is a welcoming and inviting sound.

An original design often draws comment and makes a conversational piece.

The year-round pleasure derived from wind chimes will more than compensate for the time it takes to make a set and the two sets pictured on this page are easy to make.

The top was cut from a one-pound coffee can and used as a base for the round set. An 18-inch length of lightweight metal tubing was used for the spiral. measurements are optional.

Eight small, evenly spaced holes were punched around the rim of the lid and one in the center for the bell. Ten holes were drilled through the tubing: the top hole for the hanger.

Keys from a discarded toy xylophone hang below a coffee can lid in a wind chimes set.

FOR EACH base, nine varying lengths of fine fish line were used. One end of each line was knotted and brightly colored bead threaded on. The free ends were threaded through the holes; the bead resting on the top of the base. The chimes were attached to the free ends.

The keys from a discarded toy xylophone were used for the chimes on the round set and metal scraps of various shapes were used on the spiral set.

The hangers are lengths of knotted line threaded through the holes from the bottom.

Chimes of brass have a musical sound, but glass, tin, or bamboo will tinkle alluringly.

Spiralled tubing and bits of scrap metal are main features of this set of chimes.

Glads: A Lifetime Investment

By Joe Littlefield

As cut flowers, spikes of gladiolus yield a long period of dividends. Cut in early bloom, stalks "travel" flowers upward. (See article.)

GLADIOLUS is named from the Latin word gladius meaning a sword, due to the shape of the plant leaves. Gladiolus aren't the only bulbs that are a lifetime investment in annual bloom, but they are one of the showiest.

One husky spike of blossoms cut just as lowest buds begin to open, will last as long as 14 days indoors, if stalk ends are cut back a little every day or so to help draw water to the flowers, and if the water is changed frequently. As the lowest blossoms fade and are plucked off those above them begin to flower. This "traveling" upward of opening flowers continues for about two weeks.

We are discussing the hortulanus specie gladiolus which is the popular garden variety. They'll start growing when planted now, because the sun slowly travels northward, and there is less likelihood of excess cold weather. It is a matter of opinion as to depth of planting of the bulbs. We've had sturdier growth and better quality of gladiolus flowers by planting the bulbs five inches or so deep in a medium texture soil. We'd plant them three to four inches deep in heavy soil. Bulbs may be planted to six inches deep if the soil is porous. For best protection against possible diseases and pests, treat the bulbs (technically termed "corms") in a liquid disinfectant before you set them out. Mix a spoonful of bone meal in the soil area of each before planting. Be sure to keep the soil moist as soon as growth shows above the soil.

You'll create an attractive planting of gladiolus by setting bulbs in an irregularly shaped group in a sunny area of your flower garden, or in a planting space by themselves. When blooms arrive, cut some of the flower spikes and leave the rest for color in the garden. Plant several other such plantings spaced about three weeks or so apart and you'll have a long season of blossoming.

If you have followed suggestions in last month's garden column on how to dig up your dahlia roots and store them for the winter season, it's time now to prepare the soil so that it mellows and is "right" for dahlia root planting in April. Unless the soil has been thoroughly prepared before, apply four cups of bone meal and a two-inch layer of a humus-fertilizer combination over each 100 square foot area and dig it in to a shovel's depth. Soak down thoroughly, and don't let soil dry out. A couple of weeks from now dig over again and if soil turned up is dry, water down well.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . The new All-America Rose Selections are at your CAN nursery now, freshly dug and ready for planting. Look around your garden and see how many ways you can use roses in your landscape plant, and choose among the sparkling new varieties. Buy your bareroot roses early while the selection is good.

Try to complete dormant pruning and planting this month. A pruning guide, available at all CAN nurseries, will lend a helping hand with this important step to garden beauty. Make sure your pruning shears are sharp before you start. It really pays to get a good pair in the beginning.

Make thorough application of dormant spray to deciduous plants and trees as soon as you finish pruning.

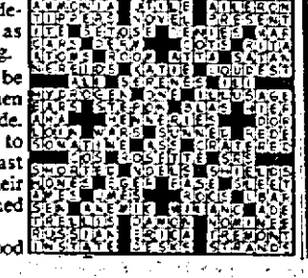

Shade trees should be planted now, not later when you think of their shade. Bareroot stock is easier to handle and will make a fast start in the spring if their roots become established now in the winter rains.

You can get some good buys in spring-blooming bulbs now. Put them in immediately for a good show of bloom this spring. Tulips, hyacinths and daffodils are the big ones.

Garden Clubs

Mulching and pruning of camellias will be the subject of Mary Armstrong, manufacturer's representative, who will address the Dominguez-Lincoln Village Garden Club at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Dominguez Building, 21136 S. Santa Fe Ave. The talk will be illustrated with colored slides.

As cut flowers, spikes of gladiolus yield a long period of dividends. Cut in early bloom, stalks "travel" flowers upward. (See article.)

GLADIOLUS is named from the Latin word gladius meaning a sword, due to the shape of the plant leaves. Gladiolus aren't the only bulbs that are a lifetime investment in annual bloom, but they are one of the showiest.

One husky spike of blossoms cut just as lowest buds begin to open, will last as long as 14 days indoors, if stalk ends are cut back a little every day or so to help draw water to the flowers, and if the water is changed frequently. As the lowest blossoms fade and are plucked off those above them begin to flower. This "traveling" upward of opening flowers continues for about two weeks.

We are discussing the hortulanus specie gladiolus which is the popular garden variety. They'll start growing when planted now, because the sun slowly travels northward, and there is less likelihood of excess cold weather. It is a matter of opinion as to depth of planting of the bulbs. We've had sturdier growth and better quality of gladiolus flowers by planting the bulbs five inches or so deep in a medium texture soil. We'd plant them three to four inches deep in heavy soil. Bulbs may be planted to six inches deep if the soil is porous. For best protection against possible diseases and pests, treat the bulbs (technically termed "corms") in a liquid disinfectant before you set them out. Mix a spoonful of bone meal in the soil area of each before planting. Be sure to keep the soil moist as soon as growth shows above the soil.

You'll create an attractive planting of gladiolus by setting bulbs in an irregularly shaped group in a sunny area of your flower garden, or in a planting space by themselves. When blooms arrive, cut some of the flower spikes and leave the rest for color in the garden. Plant several other such plantings spaced about three weeks or so apart and you'll have a long season of blossoming.

If you have followed suggestions in last month's garden column on how to dig up your dahlia roots and store them for the winter season, it's time now to prepare the soil so that it mellows and is "right" for dahlia root planting in April. Unless the soil has been thoroughly prepared before, apply four cups of bone meal and a two-inch layer of a humus-fertilizer combination over each 100 square foot area and dig it in to a shovel's depth. Soak down thoroughly, and don't let soil dry out. A couple of weeks from now dig over again and if soil turned up is dry, water down well.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . The new All-America Rose Selections are at your CAN nursery now, freshly dug and ready for planting. Look around your garden and see how many ways you can use roses in your landscape plant, and choose among the sparkling new varieties. Buy your bareroot roses early while the selection is good.

Try to complete dormant pruning and planting this month. A pruning guide, available at all CAN nurseries, will lend a helping hand with this important step to garden beauty. Make sure your pruning shears are sharp before you start. It really pays to get a good pair in the beginning.

Make thorough application of dormant spray to deciduous plants and trees as soon as you finish pruning.

Shade trees should be planted now, not later when you think of their shade. Bareroot stock is easier to handle and will make a fast start in the spring if their roots become established now in the winter rains.

You can get some good buys in spring-blooming bulbs now. Put them in immediately for a good show of bloom this spring. Tulips, hyacinths and daffodils are the big ones.

Garden Clubs

Mulching and pruning of camellias will be the subject of Mary Armstrong, manufacturer's representative, who will address the Dominguez-Lincoln Village Garden Club at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Dominguez Building, 21156 S. Santa Fe Ave. The talk will be illustrated with colored slides.

Large rocks, evergreens and gravel form a delightful setting for this small pond. Rocks add interest, must be judged for each situation.

Rocks in Your Garden

By Karen Smith

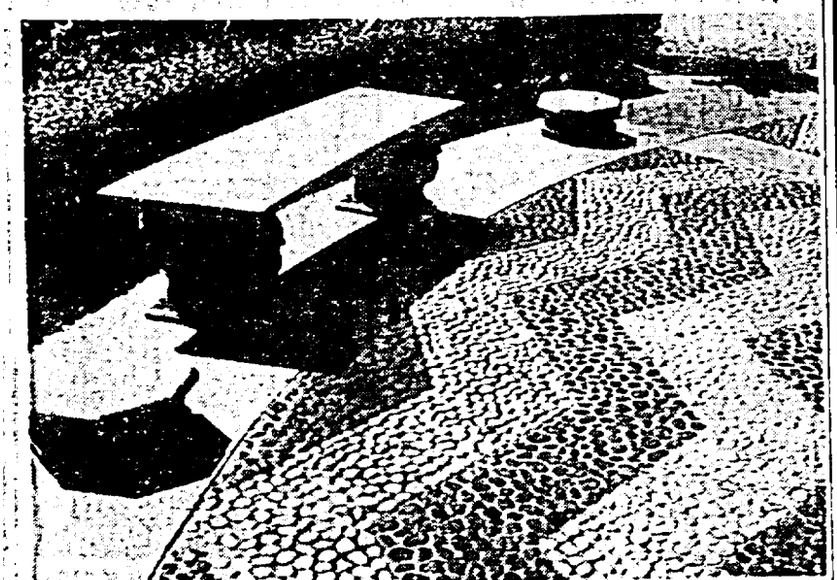

ROCKS ARE among the nice things that can happen to a garden, but they should make sense. For instance, don't dump out a lot of so-called pea gravel that has hunks of ankle-turning size scattered in it—and is tough on Fido's feet—and gets burning hot in the sun-drenched open spaces.

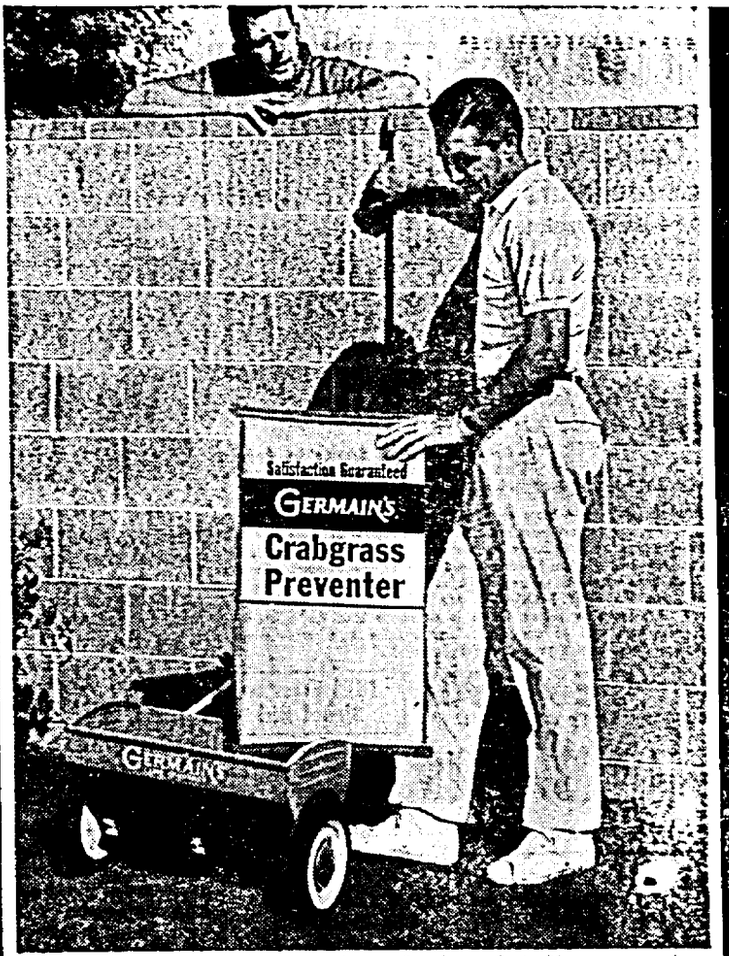

Rock-filled planters have artistic uses.

Rocks should be in the right places—small rocks as fillers for planters and sectioned garden squares; large rocks for borders, corner-fillers, holding slopes, naturalizing garden areas, for accent, and similar uses. Smooth pebbles can be laid in cement for walks, terraces, and edged rocks set by doorways can be shoe scrapers. Rare rocks make collector's items—like one I have that is filled with fossilized clams, or lava chunks from remote places, or rocks glistening with "fool's gold" from abandoned mines—the list is endless.

Rocks should happen to every garden!

Low upkeep terrace—flushing with the hose keeps cemented pebbles clean.

"Who says you won't have crabgrass and spurge next summer?"
(Germain's does!)

Germain's Crabgrass Preventer kills weed seeds as they germinate. Just one application and you can say goodbye to crabgrass, spurge, annual bluegrass, common chickweed and other unsightly weeds and grasses for the entire season. Safe to use, Germain's Crabgrass Preventer won't harm your lawn. Simply apply and water in. Germain's also feeds your lawn just the right amount of 10-3-0 fertilizer, keeps it green, gives it longer life. You can use it safely in and around shrubs, ornamentals, flowerbeds and ground covers for the effective control of 27 of the toughest weeds in your garden. Now is the time to apply Germain's Crabgrass Preventer, and like Germain's says, you won't have crabgrass or spurge next summer.

Troubles We Don't Talk About

What Troubles? Complaints so personal that few people talk about them—burning, irritation and itching in the sensitive perianal (rectal and genital) area.

What Causes Them? Many things, but especially the lack of hygiene. Doctors say that lack of proper cleanliness often prevents the condition from clearing up. This is true because the perianal area is repeatedly contaminated with potentially harmful bacteria and fungi.

What Do Specialists Recommend? Thorough and regular cleansing, particularly after each bowel movement. This halts the vicious "itch-scratch" cycle. In many cases, this alone will solve the problem of burning, itching, and irritation.

Why Not Plain, Ordinary Soap? Because soap washes away natural skin oils. Frequent and repeated use of soap can cause dryness and irritation, resulting in itching.

What Should Be Used? A new, foamy aerosol medication called ANNUL. It is a gentle but thorough cleanser to be used on toilet tissue or cotton. ANNUL is an antibacterial, antifungal cleanser—soothing, emollient and protective. Soothes burning and irritation. Helps to protect against secondary infection of raw, irritated skin.

The Best Way to stop itch-irritation is never let it get started. Begin regular use of ANNUL this week. Or if you suffer now, begin relief in seconds with ANNUL. It relieves itch-irritation without local pain killers that can mask symptoms and postpone sound medical treatment. If your discomfort persists by all means see your doctor. Ask your doctor whether it isn't wise to use ANNUL with other medications.

Effective Deodorant: Women especially, can be troubled with embarrassing odor. ANNUL is an effective deodorant foam because of its superior cleansing and antibacterial actions. Makes you feel fresher. Secure. Completely groomed.

Most people, after they have tried ANNUL, never use toilet tissue without it. And so inexpensive. You'll find ANNUL in your pharmacy.

Living Decor

Many tropical plants are brought north to decorate the indoors with flowers and foliage. Some of these are brought outdoors in summer, but most of them remain indoors all-year. Included are gardenias in the flowering plants, others are purely for foliage.

Foliages range from the large-leaved Ficus, or fig, Philodendrons, variegated Dracenas, small palms, spotted-leaved Godseffiana and hundreds of others. Lemon and orange plants make fine decorations.

NOW we have more proof of why Andy Gassaway is known as the chef with the magic touch.

For many years Andy's Hotcake House, 643½ Pine Ave., has been one of downtown Long Beach's most thriving and well-liked restaurants. Five years ago Andy opened a second Hotcake House on Pacific Avenue at Anaheim Street, but it was dogged by a series of minor problems. Andy, busy enlarging and beautifying his Pine Avenue place, wasn't able to devote enough time to the Pacific Avenue restaurant. And the men he put in as managers there weren't as adept as he hoped they would be.

But recently all that changed. Andy began budgeting his time differently, enabling him to spend three to four hours daily at the Pacific location. In addition, he hired a young manager, Arthur Erhorn, who demonstrated fine ability in the techniques of serving highest quality food at low prices — magical art long practiced by Andy on Pine Avenue.

As a result, Andy's Hotcake House on Pacific has been transformed swiftly into a popular, bustling place where the patrons enjoy food and prices identical to those at the original Andy's. On recent Sundays the Pacific Avenue restaurant has accommodated more than 400 delighted patrons, many of whom have ordered the $1.35 fried chicken dinner, including salad, mashed potatoes with rich country gravy, buttered peas, hot rolls and spiced peaches. (That outstanding special is served Sundays only.) Both restaurants serve splendid hot cakes all day long, plus Andy's famous roast beef dinner, $1.10 and meat loaf, $1.

SUNDAY TREAT—"You can't eat beautiful atmosphere, but it does make the food taste better." Those words sum up the philosophy of the Reef Restaurant, 880 Harbor Scenic Dr., at the water's edge in Long Beach Harbor. The atmosphere at this large establishment includes dramatic Polynesian architecture and tables with views of the sparkling water, effects which combine to make the cuisine seem all the more delightful. The dinners, served Sundays from noon on, include such entrees as dazzling flaming brochette of beef, $4.95; rainbow trout stuffed with crabmeat, $3.75, and teriyaki steak marinated in ginger-soya sauce, $5.25.

King Family Back with Weekly Series

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The biggest television show on television is about to make its debut, a program which features 37 members in the cast.

And they're all related!

ABC-TV introduces its massive "King Family" series Saturday. The 7:30 p.m. series (channel 7) will be aired preceding Lawrence Welk and "The Hollywood Palace." That makes three variety shows in a row for ABC on Saturday night, a fact which should bring joy to unemployed jugglers and sword swallowers.

The King family, the heart of which is the four King sisters who perform in nightclubs, impressed the network with a one-shot special show it did earlier this season. ABC-TV received more than 53,000 letters praising the special.

The family ranges in age from grandfather's 79 years down to a 2-year-old. Then there are husbands, wives, and their children, three generations in all.

YVONNE KING, a pretty blonde and one of the singing quartet is family spokesman.

"We'll do a little bit of everything," Yvonne said. "It's basically a musical show because this is a musical family."

Yvonne suggested that the family do the show everal months ago.

"Some of the family has never been in show business as performers," she said.

It was only natural that some of them considered the idea as unusual, to say the least. After all, how often does a person look at 37 members of his family and say, "Let's get our own television show." Rarely.

"They thought I had holes in my head," said Yvonne.

Miss King said much of the family talent will be as spontaneous as possible.

"We don't want to spoil anything," she said. "We don't even tell our kids to do anything. We teach them the songs but we don't want anything that is too staged."

WHAT THE KING family might lack in talent, they can get from inlaws, talented fellows who married pretty King girls.

One of the girls is married to orchestra leader Alvino Rey. Another is married to band leader Del Courtney.

"There is something for everybody in this family," claimed Yvonne. "You'll excuse me if I sound biased, but we have the most beautiful teenagers you ever saw. We also have babies that are pretty darn cute. There we have our singing group. And there's always somebody who is happy to see Grandpa."

To those who mockingly describe the show as "corny," Yvonne says, "It isn't at all corny.

"This is a big family that has a ball at all times. It has the rare combination of being a little bit sophisticated and still quite homey and simple."

The Kings will have one advantage over other shows. If somebody in the cast gets sick, the rest of the family can carry on without missing a note. After all, who's going to count heads?

THE KING SISTERS, Marilyn (top), Alyce and Yvonne (second row), and Luise, bring 37 members of their family to weekly television in a variety series starting 7:30 p. m. Saturday, channel 7.

Jack Benny Grins and Shares It

MILTON BERLE, JACK BENNY

Channel 4 at 9:30 p. m. Friday

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA)—Jack Benny, busy defending himself against the charge that he is such an easy audience he'll laugh at the answer to the question "Why does the chicken cross the road?", reached for his coffee cup and took a long draught. "As soon as they get those supersonic airplanes that can fly from Los Angeles to New York in one hour, I'm going to start hopping to New York to get a good cup of coffee," said the veteran entertainer.

Benny sighed in joy, and explained that it was a tough rap, being considered a good audience.

"I am a good audience if someone is funny. But if I go to a night club, and someone isn't funny, and I'm sitting at a prominent table, I have to keep a silly grin on my face, because I know everyone is looking at me and saying, 'He's such a good audience.' It's murder."

Jack, whose long-running television show has moved to NBC-TV this season, chuckled as he thought of some of the lines for which he has been a GREAT audience. They came from George Burns, a man who does break up Jack.

"ONE TIME BURNS and I were in a swank Beverly Hills restaurant. Now, George is a man who thinks that anything that is very hot if it is supposed to be hot, is great cooking. He ordered soup and said to the waiter, 'I want the soup so hot that if you can carry it in, I don't want it.'

"Another time we were at a dinner party given by George and Gracie Allen, God love her. Dinah Shore arrived late, upset because her daughter, considered by Dinah to be the best child in the world, had been naughty. She apologized for being late, saying, 'My child was just so bad I had to punish her.'

"George took the cigar out of his mouth, knocked the ashes off the end, and said, 'Dinah's idea of punishing her child is to sing her the chorus of a song not in the Top Ten.'"

CRITIC'S CORNER

Excerpted Reviews on Recent TV Shows

Program: "FDR" on Fridays, channel 7.

The first robin may be a harbinger of spring but as a forerunner of a long series to come this page-opener in the 200 volumes on the life and times of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, researched for this half-hour documentary, will need more than it gave. Smartly or otherwise, ABC slotted it against two raucous comedies, one of them the third highest ranked show ("Gomer Pyle").

The assembly of material and editing dragged more than it sparked. "FDR" may for the first time be missing from the leaders (Nielsen). Historic documents of the past have not fared well at the sets.

Critic Helm of "Variety"

Program: "Moment of Truth" serial on channel 4.

There is nothing like getting education into soap opera, so NBC-TV has given its latest daytime serial, "Moment of Truth," a college setting, tossing in all sorts of innuendoes of sex. The hero of "Moment of Truth" is a psychology professor who also has a private practice. What ho, Virginia Woolf!

Yesterday, the professor was in the midst of being accused of having an affair with a rich trustee's wife. It has been said lately in educational circles that teachers are not spending enough time in the classroom, and are concentrating on outside endeavors — so "Moment of Truth" is nothing if not timely. I hasten to add, however, that the professor is really not having the affair, but a jealous colleague who wants a promotion keeps the rumor going—which is about par for the college course.

Program: "Hullabaloo' on Tuesdays, channel 4.

It was produced by, with and for the young crowd, and there was nothing the matter with the music, the dancing or the singing.

If one must do a little carping, it is to question the judgment of permitting those screaming teen-age girls in the studio audience where they even howled when they saw a tape reproduction of two British singing groups.

Their squealing was annoying and distracting to the living room audience, and obviously disturbed Jack Jones, the show's host.

Excerpted Reviews on Recent TV Shows

Program: "FDR" on Fridays, channel 7.

The first robin may be a harbinger of spring but as a forerunner of a long series to come this page-opener in the 200 volumes on the life and times of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, researched for this half-hour documentary, will need more than it gave. Smartly or otherwise, ABC slotted it against two raucous comedies, one of them the third highest ranked show ("Gomer Pyle").

The assembly of material and editing dragged more than it sparked. "FDR" may for the first time be missing from the leaders (Nielsen). Historic documents of the past have not fared well at the sets.

SPECIAL

WIZARD OF OZ—Danny Kaye returns as host when the 1939 MGM classic returns for its 7th season as a 2-hour special at 7 p.m., ch. 2. Judy Garland stars as Dorothy, with Frank Morgan as the Wizard, Ray Bolger as the Scarecrow, Bert Lahr as Cowardly Lion, Jack Haley as Tin Woodman, Margaret Hamilton as the wicked witch and Billie Burke as the good witch. All but the first 22 minutes are in color, with songs by Harold Arlen and E. Y. (Yip) Harburg, including the Oscar-winning "Over the Rainbow."

CURT MASSEY—7th season premiere. The long-time KNBC series, off the air for a year, returns to a weekly half-hour color slot at 7 p.m., ch. 5. Featured are the returning regulars, singer Martha Tilton and Country Washburne and his musical combo, plus Massey's son Steve.

MAN WHO BOUGHT PARADISE—An original drama by Richard Alan Simmons, produced and directed by Ralph Nelson, fills the temporarily-vacant 9 p.m. hour on channel 2. Robert Horton, Ray Walston, Walter Slezak, Dolores Del Rio, Cyril Ritchard, Paul Lukas, Angie Dickinson, Buster Keaton and Hoagy Carmichael make up the all-star cast in the drama of a group of persons, who for varied reasons have drifted into a broken-down hotel in a country which has no extradition treaties with any major power. The arrival of a young American financial wizard (Horton), wanted for misappropriating company funds, endangers the country's ancient custom of sanctuary with no questions asked and moves the focus to the strange tug-of-war between the American and other hotel residents. (Herbert Brodkins' new "For the People" series has delayed its premiere until Jan. 31, with Menotti's new opera, "Martin's Lie," debuting in this hour next week.)

SPECIAL

WIZARD OF OZ—Danny Kaye returns as host when the 1939 MGM classic returns for its 7th season as a 2-hour special at 7 p.m., ch. 2. Judy Garland stars as Dorothy, with Frank Morgan as the Wizard, Ray Bolger as the Scarecrow, Bert Lahr as Cowardly Lion, Jack Haley as Tin Woodman, Margaret Hamilton as the wicked witch and Billie Burke as the good witch. All but the first 22 minutes are in color, with songs by Harold Arlen and E. Y. (Yip) Harburg, including the Oscar-winning "Over the Rainbow."

CURT MASSEY—7th season premiere. The long-time KNBC series, off the air for a year, returns to a weekly half-hour color slot at 7 p.m., ch. 5. Featured are the returning regulars, singer Martha Tilton and Country Washburne and his musical combo, plus Massey's son Steve.

Outgoing Television Predictions

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—These are times for looking ahead, so we are already prepared to give you television's 1965 year-end wrapup:

Congress will threaten to investigate the ratings system.

Congress will investigate violence on television.

The Federal Communications Commission will threaten to do something about television commercials.

Congress will prevent the Federal Communications Commission from doing anything about television commercials.

The networks will declare their biggest profits ever.

A network will announce plans for a spectacular and meaningful new drama series, which will never be heard of again.

Raymond Burr will say he is finally quitting "Perry Mason" and will get an even better financial deal to stay on.

DONNA REED will say she is finally quitting her weekly series and will get an even better financial deal to stay on.

"Gilligan's Island" will stay on even though everyone says it should quit.

Nothing worse than "Gilligan's Island" will come to television.

A young star of a new series will say he once studied at the Actors Studio with Marlon Brando.

Arthur Miller and Irving Shulman will write a warm-hearted new situation series about an actress.

The Joey Bishop series will get canceled and then immediately get picked up by another network for a better time slot.

SAMMY JACKSON of "No Time for Sergeants" will stop grinning, and no one will recognize him.

Fred Allen's old movies will continue to be the best thing on television.

The Yankees will win the pennant and Whitey Ford will be put in charge of CBS-TV network programming.

The networks will wire the fans at sports events with microphones to get colorful crowd reaction.

ABC-TV will star Fabian and Frankie Avalon in a series aimed at its older viewers.

Judy Garland will make a television appearance and a press agent will describe it as a comeback.

Someone, somewhere, will, because of circumstances, stop watching television for a week or so, and suddenly feel exhilarated and surprisingly less tainted, and no less intelligent, and decide then and there never to watch it again.

Is This Any Way to Run a Railroad?

When a boy reaches the age of 17, he's generally considered too old to play with trains.

So Robert Sturges has his computer do it for him.

Sturges, a New Jersey high school student, appears with his trains and his computer, "Gismo II," during "Science All-Stars" at 5 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 7.

The computer controls a model railroad system and electronically keeps four engines whizzing around a maze of tracks.

The teenager's mother said that his grandmother used to suspect there was something wrong with him.

"He never followed directions with toys—always invented new and different ways to make them work."

SPECIAL

REGIS PHILBIN — Teenagers and early-risers now can watch at least one of the "night owl" variety shows when ch. 5 moves its whimsical host to the nightly 5 p.m. slot, and away from the competition of the higher-rated Mssrs. Carson and Crane. Appearing today with the youthful Philbin are Hal March, Ethel Ennis, June Wilkinson and Chicago Blackhawk star Bob Hull.

TRUTH-SECRET — Panelists on CBS' two back-to-back game shows try the challenge of each other's games tonight. "Secret's" Betsy Palmer, Bess Myerson, Bill Cullen and Henry Morgan take their chairs at 7:30 p.m., ch. 2, to try their hands at Bud Collyer's "To Tell the Truth." Immediately following, at 8 p.m., Steve Allen faces Kitty Carlisle, Tom Poston, Peggy Cass and Orson Bean as quiz contestants who say "I've Got a Secret." Games are the same, only the panels will be different.

ALLAN SHERMAN — It's "My Son, the Flesh Shrinker" out of his vast waistland for NBC's second "Sneak Preview Special," and hopefully the basis for a half-hour weekly series next season. Voluntarily hospitalized on a 500-calories-a-day diet to shed some of the 221 pounds spread over his 67 inches, Sherman plays host at 9 p.m., in color, ch. 4 to Lorne Greene, Angie Dickinson, Jack Gilford and the Ray Charles Singers in tours of far-out lands of alphabets, censorship, choreography, sponsors, westerns, songs, thank yous and words. Greene sings his hit record "Ringo," and the whimsical 0-shaped comic follows with his own parody. All four stars join as a monster quartet in television land for a musical comment on the current TV season.

CBS REPORTS — Attorneys, newsmen, ACLU representatives and Philadelphia officials join reporter Harry Reasoner in exploring "The Press and the Law," and the possible effects of pre-trial publicity on the chances of an accused person getting a fair trial. The 10 p.m., ch. 2 show focuses on the controversial resolution of the Philadelphia Bar Association calling upon police, prosecutors and attorneys to maintain complete silence on criminal cases from time of arrest to time of trial.

SUNDAY'S CHILD — KNXT newsman Joseph Benti reports on the plight of the unwanted child with a multi-racial background, and of the adoption agencies seeking to place them in homes. Agency officials, foster parents and adoptive parents are interviewed during the documentary at 10:30 p.m., ch. 2, with Dale Evans Rogers featured.

SPECIAL

REGIS PHILBIN — Teenagers and early-risers now can watch at least one of the "night owl" variety shows when ch. 5 moves its whimsical host to the nightly 5 p.m. slot, and away from the competition of the higher-rated Mssrs. Carson and Crane. Appearing today with the youthful Philbin are Hal March, Ethel Ennis, June Wilkinson and Chicago Blackhawk star Bob Hull.

TRUTH-SECRET — Panelists on CBS' two back-to-back game shows try the challenge of each other's games tonight. "Secret's" Betsy Palmer, Bess Myerson, Bill Cullen and Henry Morgan take their chairs at 7:30 p.m., ch. 2, to try their hands at Bud Collyer's "To Tell the Truth." Immediately following, at 8 p.m., Steve Allen faces Kitty Carlisle, Tom Poston, Peggy Cass and Orson Bean as quiz contestants who say "I've Got a Secret." Games are the same, only the panels will be different.

ALLAN SHERMAN — It's "My Son, the Flesh Shrinker" out of his vast waistland for NBC's second "Sneak Preview Special," and hopefully the basis for a half-hour weekly series next season. Voluntarily hospitalized on a 500-calories-a-day diet to shed some of the 221 pounds spread over his 67 inches, Sherman plays host at 9 p.m., in color, ch. 4 to Lorne Greene, Angie Dickinson, Jack Gilford and the Ray Charles Singers in tours of far-out lands of alphabets, censorship, choreography, sponsors, westerns, songs, thank yous and words. Greene sings his hit record "Ringo," and the whimsical 0-shaped comic follows with his own parody. All four stars join as a monster quartet in television land for a musical comment on the current TV season.

CBS REPORTS — Attorneys, newsmen, ACLU representatives and Philadelphia officials join reporter Harry Reasoner in exploring "The Press and the Law," and the possible effects of pre-trial publicity on the chances of an accused person getting a fair trial. The 10 p.m., ch. 2 show focuses on the controversial resolution of the Philadelphia Bar Association calling upon police, prosecutors and attorneys to maintain complete silence on criminal cases from time of arrest to time of trial.

SUNDAY'S CHILD — KNXT newsman Joseph Benti reports on the plight of the unwanted child with a multi-racial background, and of the adoption agencies seeking to place them in homes. Agency officials, foster parents and adoptive parents are interviewed during the documentary at 10:30 p.m., ch. 2, with Dale Evans Rogers featured.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

In Sad Physical Shape? Try the Watusi

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

If young America is not in good physical condition, you can't prove it by watching "Hollywood A Go Go."

The disciples of the discotheque are obviously in marvelous shape as is evidenced by the way they meet the muscular demands of today's dances, the Swim, the Frug, the Jerk, the Watusi.

There is no attempt here to be facetious. The muscular needs of these dances are indeed demanding.

Pot-bellied middle-agers, most of whom could not meet these demands, are much better seeking refuge in scorn. It is a scorn that can scathingly be expressed simply by saying:

"What is this younger generation coming to?"

BEFORE delving into that philosophical subject, perhaps I should explain that "Hollywood A Go Go" is an hourly Saturday program on channel 9.

Sam Riddle, its host, states that it is patterned after discotheque.

What is "discotheque?"

As far as I can determine, it's a record hop that has grown up from a 50-cent admission price to about two dollars.

It's the rage on the East Coast where the records are played in small nightclubs. There are also several "A Go Go" discotheque clubs in Hollywood's Sunset Strip.

The television version of discotheque doesn't specifically follow the pattern. There is no admission price. Live entertainment is used. Both are advantages.

AS FOR THE dancing itself, I personally, believe it's great exercise.

It's the type of exercise that could be incorporated in the armed services physical education program with beneficial effect.

Now I know that there are those of my middle-age, pot-bellied generation who believe the physical movements of these dances border on the obscene.

I'm not going to argue the point.

Let each beholder's eye define obscenity for himself.

Personally, I'll go along with Dinah Shore who feels there's a lot less conducive to immorality in today's dancing than there was in our generation's cheek-to-cheeking.

There also is a creative expressiveness in these dances that I believe our teamwork, ballroom patterns lacked.

There is a good, solid beat which, unfortunately, is too often obliterated by the screech boys trying to put what they call music to it.

I think the screech boys will be replaced by authentic singers and the beat, as well as the dances, will remain and grow stronger.

My beholder's eye sees nothing obscene in the dances which, for me, almost contain the grace of the ballet.

I just wish my pot-belly was up to the muscular demands.

Pan and Fan Mail

I don't want to be discourteous to any program on TV, but have this criticism to make regards the Ed Sullivan show last Sunday.

As to the presentation of the Sid Caesar-Betsy Palmer "skit," it was just a third-rate dud.

About eight weeks ago (seems like eight years) the Rolling Stones appeared on the Red Skelton Show.

Ever since, we have eagerly been waiting for them to be on TV again and have written several shows requesting their appearance.

We'd just like to have something to look forward to, rather than this endless waiting.

Anyway, we were wondering if you could possibly tell us if the Rolling Stones will be on some TV shows within the next few months.

Karen Kohner and Linda Marks, Long Beach

The waiting is almost at an end, girls. The Rolling Stones will gather a little greenback moss when they appear 8:30 p.m. Wednesday on channel 7's "Shindig."

Could you please tell me if the singer heard on the Kennel Ration commercial is Randy Boone of the "Virginian?"

Cynthia Rupp, Long Beach

TRUTH

is not a Sometime thing Nor is Honor, Both have been our Policy for 56 Years

GLENN E. THOMAS PRESIDENT

In business, as in life, it is never easy to maintain the policies of truth and honor. But, after more than half of a century, we at Glenn E. Thomas Dodge can say such principles are gratifying. We are the oldest Automotive dealership in Long Beach and one of the oldest in the nation. Truth and honor reflect themselves in success . . . and they will continue to be the guiding principles of this dealership.

TRUTH IN PRODUCT

We feel the line of '65 Dodges are the most "honest" machines on the road. They offer engineering features developed for safety and ease of handling. The wide selection of engines, transmissions, and rear axle ratios makes it possible for you to "build" a car to fit your personal needs. And, every Dodge carries a 5-year or 50,000-mile warranty. (Ask for the details.)

TRUTH IN SERVICE

Good after-sale service is one of the most important aspects of our business. Although we prepare our new Dodges very carefully before they leave the dealership we are anxious to keep every new car buyer completely satisfied. Our service is complete, courteous and as convenient as we can possibly make it. Few dealers place the same importance on the area of Customer satisfaction as Glenn E. Thomas.

TRUTH IN PRICE

There is always confusion in the minds of new car buyers about price. The simple fact is no one can sell you a '65 Dodge for less money than Glenn E. Thomas. No one can arrange lower, more convenient terms and certainly no other dealer can make possible a lower rate of interest. At Glenn E. Thomas 56 years of Dependability . . . Service . . . Integrity and Price are your best assurance of a reputable automotive firm. Did you know that you can buy the

THE DEFENDERS — The intriguing legal concept of "corpus delecti" is raised by the Prestons at 10 p.m., ch. 2, when they insist that circumstantial evidence is insufficient for capital punishment, and there must be direct proof of death. Dane Clark stars as the man accused of murder when an eyewitness (Joey Trent) says he saw her knocked into Long Island Sound during an argument in a rowboat. Diana Van Der Vlis plays the "other woman," with Norma Crane as the very-much-alive wife who vengefully hides out while her husband stands trial for her murder.

VOICE OF CHANGE—First of two "Perspective on Greatness" hour-long documentaries on the life and times of FDR airs at 10 p.m., ch. 9. John Daly is narrator, as initial hour carries viewers through Roosevelt's early years as assistant Secretary of the Navy, his polio attack, his election as Governor in 1928, his election as President in 1932 and his early welfare programs to relieve a stricken nation after the depression.

SHEILA DEHNER appears with her father, John (Commodore) Dehner, during "The Baileys of Balboa" at 9:30 p. m. Thursday, channel 2.

SPECIAL

CHRYSLER THEATRE — Last April Fool's Day Emmy-winning author Rod Serling, a paratrooper in the Pacific during World War II, made his first jump in 20 years to help a recruiting drive gain publicity. Then back at his typewriter he recalled his feelings, that "the mind was ready, but the legs not so eager," added a caustic veteran sergeant for an antagonist and a pretty girl for romance, and the result screens in color at 8:30 p.m., channel 4. Hugh O'Brian stars as a movie idol who returns to the site of his wartime paratroop training to make his first jump in 18 years as a publicity stunt, and rekindles an old romance with a former sweetheart now married to the sergeant who'll provide the jump-training refresher course. Lloyd Bridges, more accustomed to below-water filming, plays the sergeant, Constance Towers the girl, and Sorrell Booke plays the actor's press agent.

JACK BENNY — When Jack decides to adopt a son, Milton Berle—who would inherit Benny's money—turns up as a candidate. Then, at 9:30 p.m., ch. 4, Jack must prove his theory that there's no such thing as a bad boy.

No Ball Raising Teenager

Mothers with teenage daughters and accompanying problems, please move over and make room for Lucille Ball.

"I don't have any pessimistic thoughts, nothing drags me down. I don't have moods of depression and I think everything is possible, but," Lucy said, "I find it a little hard to help a teen-age daughter."

Lucy's daughter, Lucie, is 13. Her son, Desi IV, is 11. As the children of a wealthy and famous mother, there is an added burden on Lucy to keep them normal, something, she says, "the average layman doesn't understand."

Middle class Americans have too much free time, and too easy a life to make disciplining youngsters easy, Lucy believes.

• • • •

"ELECTRIC appliances make everything in the kitchen easier, and the laundry is generally sent out. What is a mother going to do?

"Force her child to iron shirts because that's what her grandmother did when the grandmother was a girl?

"It's harder these days for young people to have a purpose of direction, because families don't demand responsibilities from their children."

Lucy, who feels she has not changed much over the years, is sensitive to the fact that people in small towns act unnaturally with celebrities.

"I went back to a small town where I spent some early years and I found the people, who expected me to be different, had beaten me to it.

"I walked in one room and it was cold as Siberia. The highest compliment these people can give you, eventually, is to say, 'Gee, you're real'."

VAN DYKE BROTHERS

That's Jerry Van Dyke in the center and he's got a headache worrying about the kind of flowers Rose Marie has selected for his girl. Brother Dick Van Dyke doesn't think much of them either. It's all part of a two-segment show starting 9 p. m. Wednesday, channel 2.

Sergeant

Frank Sutton, Sgt. Carter in "Gomer Pyle—USMC" on the CBS Television Network, was a non-thespian U.S. Army sergeant in World War II.

SPECIAL

KING FAMILY — Premiere. The famous King Sisters — Yvonne, Luise, Marilyn, Alyce, Maxine and Donna—plus their father, William King Driggs, and 29 other members of their family, launch a weekly hour of music and humor at 7:30 p.m., ch. 7, with Mitchell Ayres conducting the Alvino Rey orchestra (Rey is Luise's husband). Returning as a regular series after a one-shot special last Aug. 29, opener includes the King Sisters offering "Dear Heart," joined by their daughters in a medley of old favorites, and by the whole clan with "Saturday Night" and a medley from "Mary Poppins." (Hour replaces "Outer Limits.")

LAWRENCE WELK — Launched as a summer replacement show in 1955, after a successful local run on KTLA, Maestro Welk tonight celebrates his 500th ABC network telecast at 8:30 p.m., ch. 7, opening with "Say It with Music," the tune that launched Welk's network career. Filmed highlights of selected shows of the past will be incorporated, as the Lennon Sisters sing "Tumbling Tumble Weed," backed by a film clip of their 1956 rendition, and Bobby and Barbara step out to "Calcutta," the dance that won them their berth with Welk, with viewers treated to pictures of Burgess in his Mouseketeer days. The Lennon Sisters and their whole family are featured in a special number that spotlights younger sister Mimi.

TRIAL AT NUREMBURG — Richard Basehart is narrator for David L. Wolper's hour-long documentary of history's greatest courtroom drama. At 9 p.m., ch. 11, the story is told of how international conscience was turned into international law as 24 Nazi leaders were brought to trial for criminal conspiracy against their fellow Germans and the entire world.

Sports Today

(Bob Hope, whose Desert Golf Classic of a similar format will be telecast in 2 weeks, is one of 174 amateurs to take part, with Bing reciprocating by playing Feb. 6 at the Palm Desert clambake.)

You don't need glasses...

You need a new WINEGARD COLORTRON ANTENNA

You need a more powerful TV antenna to clear up that picture. One that takes more of the signal from the airwaves, and amplifies it before it reaches your set. When your set receives a strong, clean signal from the antenna, your picture becomes sharp, clear, bright... more enjoyable.

Model for model, Winegard's new electronic Colortrons are the world's most powerful antennas. Distant stations come in clearer and sharper. Snow and interference are reduced or eliminated.

For color or black & white, you can't own a finer antenna for best reception. Priced from $44.95. Antenna without electronic amplifier $24.95 up.

The famous King Sisters — Yvonne, Luise, Marilyn, Alyce, Maxine and Donna—plus their father, William King Driggs, and 29 other members of their family, launch a weekly hour of music and humor at 7:30 p.m., ch. 7, with Mitchell Ayres conducting the Alvino Rey orchestra (Rey is Luise's husband). Returning as a regular series after a one-shot special last Aug. 29, opener includes the King Sisters offering "Dear Heart," joined by their daughters in a medley of old favorites, and by the whole clan with "Saturday Night" and a medley from "Mary Poppins." (Hour replaces "Outer Limits.")

Filmed highlights of selected shows of the past will be incorporated, as the Lennon Sisters sing "Tumbling Tumble Weed," backed by a film clip of their 1956 rendition, and Bobby and Barbara step out to "Calcutta," the dance that won them their berth with Welk, with viewers treated to pictures of Burgess in his Mouseketeer days. The Lennon Sisters and their whole family are featured in a special number that spotlights younger sister Mimi.

TRIAL AT NUREMBURG — Richard Basehart is narrator for David L. Wolper's hour-long documentary of history's greatest courtroom drama. At 9 p.m., ch. 11, the story is told of how international conscience was turned into international law as 24 Nazi leaders were brought to trial for criminal conspiracy against their fellow Germans and the entire world.

You don't need glasses...

You need a new WINEGARD COLORTRON ANTENNA

You need a more powerful TV antenna to clear up that picture. One that takes more of the signal from the airwaves, and amplifies it before it reaches your set. When your set receives a strong, clean signal from the antenna, your picture becomes sharp, clear, bright... more enjoyable.

Model for model, Winegard's new electronic Colortrons are the world's most powerful antennas. Distant stations come in clearer and sharper. Snow and interference are reduced or eliminated.

For color or black & white, you can't own a finer antenna for best reception. Priced from $64.90. Antenna without electronic amplifier $21.95 up.

WHO WANTS TO FLY AT 2,000 MPH?

A SUPERSONIC AIRCRAFT WILL COST $600 MILLION AND COULD CAUSE

In Oklahoma City an agitated housewife claimed that every time a supersonic airplane flew over her house, the resulting boom would make her jump and break her brassiere strap.

In Springfield, Ohio, the FBI arrested Gilbert Hagerman, 57, an industrialist-turned-farmer, for firing bullets into a pair of B-52s, the country's largest operational bombers, designed to deliver nuclear weapons anywhere in the world. Hagerman claimed the planes were disturbing his livestock.

At the White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico, Gordon Bain, director of the nation's supersonic transport (SST) program, was telling newsmen that many people who claimed their property had been damaged by sonic booms were only imagining the damage. "I believe there's a great deal of the psychological in this," he explained, when—WHAM! A jet fighter pilot in an F-104 broke through the sound barrier at an altitude of only 500 feet. The booming shock wave which followed blew out two 7x12-foot plate-glass windows from a dummy store front, shattered another 15 panes of glass in a near-by greenhouse.

Said Bain after the stunned reporters had collected themselves: "That's a good illustration of what a heavy boom would do."

The above three occurrences have one factor in common: NOISE. How much noise will the public tolerate in order to fly faster than the speed of sound, roughly 680 mph at sea level?

That's the $600 million question currently facing the nation as a Presidential commission decides on whether to give the red or green light to the construction of a supersonic transport (SST) which will carry from 125 to 160 passengers at a cruising speed of 1,500-2,000 mph for a range of 4,000 statute miles.

When an airplane flies faster than sound, pressure waves build up around the aircraft. These pressure waves spread in all directions, like the ripples which spread when you drop a stone into a placid lake. These pressure waves cause sound when they reach your ear. A sharply cracked whip makes the same sort of sound. Any object exceeding the speed of sound—bullets, missiles, artillery shells—can make sonic booms.

The strength of a sonic boom is expressed in pounds per square foot of overpressure (pressure above the normal weight of air). Many factors determine how loud the sonic boom will be. A few of these are the size, weight, design, speed and altitude of the aircraft—also the wind, terrain, temperature and amount of moisture in the air. The heavier and faster the plane, the lower its altitude, the hotter the day—the louder the sonic boom.

In its list of requirements for an operational SST, the Federal Aviation Agency says any supersonic transport flying in this country should generate a sonic boom overpressure of two pounds or less.

Leading medical authorities have testified that two pounds of such pressure cannot injure the average person. Strong sonic booms, however, of more than two pounds can break glass or aggravate plaster cracks.

To date the Air Force has paid out $813,591 to individuals claiming damage as a result of sonic booms.

The FAA has been testing the boom in two phases designed to answer the two major questions: (1) Can people take it? (2) Can buildings take it?

The study of human tolerance to the boom phenomenon took place last year in Oklahoma City from February 3rd to July 30th. The second phase regarding the effect on buildings started November 18th in New Mexico and will end this February.

Oklahoma City endured 6 months, or 178 days, of boom runs, with 8 scheduled flights per day, from 7 A.M. to 1:20 P.M.

HOW PEOPLE FELT ABOUT IT

How did the people there react to the sonic noise?

Says Kuyk Logan, city editor of the Daily Oklahoman: "I'll tell you what it's like. You know the man who moves into a house on the side of a highway? The first few weeks the traffic noise of the trucks bothers him. After a while he gets used to it.

"The first few weeks in February," continues Logan, "people here talked about the boom all the time. We started to keep a log of complaints. After a while we gave it up. The same people griped all the time.

"For my money the sonic boom is a nuisance at the beginning, but the average community can learn to live with it. It's like living with horn noises from an automobile. Nobody likes to get honked at, but you sure wouldn't give up automobiles because of a little noise. I'm all in favor of an SST. That's progress, man."

A secretary who works in a public relations office told PARADE: "It was irritating to start with, but I got where I didn't notice it. Some people, of course, are more sensitive than others. They kept saying, 'What do we need this for?' "

A housewife's opinion: "Some days the noise sounded like distant thunder. Other days I didn't hear it at all. They sent planes over the city from different directions, and it all depends where you were. A lot of my neighbors felt strongly about the inconvenience, but after a few weeks I took it completely in stride."

Mrs. Jimmie Sorrells, a switchboard operator whose home was in line with the flight path taken by the testing supersonic aircraft: "I'll tell you the truth. My family didn't mind it one bit. In downtown Oklahoma City, in the Skirvin Tower where I work, we could hardly hear or feel the booms. More people in Oklahoma City are for the SST than against the SST. Most of the people who objected to the noise were the old people. Generally they're satisfied with things, and they're against progress. I'm for it."

To determine with some degree of accuracy the public reaction in Oklahoma City, the FAA established a telephone complaint center and had public opinion polls taken by the National Opinion Research Center.

Preliminary data from the Oklahoma City Sonic Boom Study shows that in the test period of 26 weeks in which approximately 600,000 people were subjected to 1,253 booms, the complaint center received 12,588 telephone calls and letters.

The peak time for complaint calls was mid-morning, and the majority of callers were housewives.

The average number of complaint calls per test day was 70.7.

A total of 2,170 formal damage claims were filed and processed as of July 30th, 1964. Approximately 160 of these were approved for a total of $8,608, or an average of $52.81. There was not a single complaint from any hospital, and all the damage claims paid pertained to plaster, glass or miscellaneous bric-à-brac breakage.

A 10 per cent sampling of the first 2 public opinion surveys revealed that of the 10,000 interviews conducted, from 10 per cent to 20 per cent of the Oklahomans questioned "indicated various degrees of negative reaction to the sonic boom."

If it follows that 10 per cent of the nation's resi-

John F. Kennedy chats with Betty Miller, first woman to solo across Pacific, and FAA director Najeeb Halaby. Kennedy was early supporter of supersonic transports.

How did the people there react to the sonic noise?

Says Kuvk Logan, city editor of the Daily Oklahoman: "I'll tell you what it's like. You know the man who moves into a house on the side of a highway? The first few weeks the traffic noise of the trucks bothers him. After a while he gets used to it.

"The first few weeks in February," continues Logan, "people here talked about the boom all the time. We started to keep a log of complaints. After a while we gave it up. The same people griped all the time.

"For my money the sonic boom is a nuisance at the beginning, but the average community can learn to live with it. It's like living with horn noises from an automobile. Nobody likes to get honked at, but you sure wouldn't give up automobiles because of a little noise. I'm all in favor of an SST. That's progress, man."

A secretary who works in a public relations office told PARADE: "It was irritating to start with, but I got where I didn't notice it. Some people, of course, are more sensitive than others. They kept saying, 'What do we need this for?' "

A housewife's opinion: "Some days the noise sounded like distant thunder. Other days I didn't hear it at all. They sent planes over the city from different directions, and it all depends where you were. A lot of my neighbors felt strongly about the inconvenience, but after a few weeks I took it completely in stride."

Mrs. Jimmie Sorrells, a switchboard operator whose home was in line with the flight path taken by the testing supersonic aircraft: "I'll tell you the truth. My family didn't mind it one bit. In downtown Oklahoma City, in the Skirvin Tower where I work, we could hardly hear or feel the booms. More people in Oklahoma City are for the SST than against the SST. Most of the people who objected to the noise were the old people. Generally they're satisfied with things, and they're against progress. I'm for it."

To determine with some degree of accuracy the public reaction in Oklahoma City, the FAA established a telephone complaint center and had public opinion polls taken by the National Opinion Research Center.

Preliminary data from the Oklahoma City Sonic Boom Study shows that in the test period of 26 weeks in which approximately 600,000 people were subjected to 1,253 booms, the complaint center received 12,588 telephone calls and letters.

The peak time for complaint calls was mid-morning, and the majority of callers were housewives.

The average number of complaint calls per test day was 70.7.

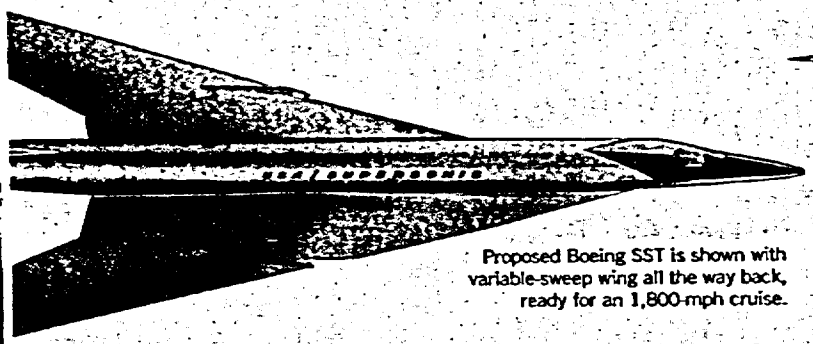

A total of 2,170 formal damage claims were filed and processed as of July 30th, 1964. Approximately 160 of these were approved for a total of $8,608, or an average of $52.81. There was not a single complaint from any hospital, and all the damage claims paid pertained to plaster, glass or miscellaneous bric-à-brac breakage.

A 10 per cent sampling of the first 2 public opinion surveys revealed that of the 10,000 interviews conducted, from 10 per cent to 20 per cent of the Oklahomans questioned "indicated various degrees of negative reaction to the sonic boom."

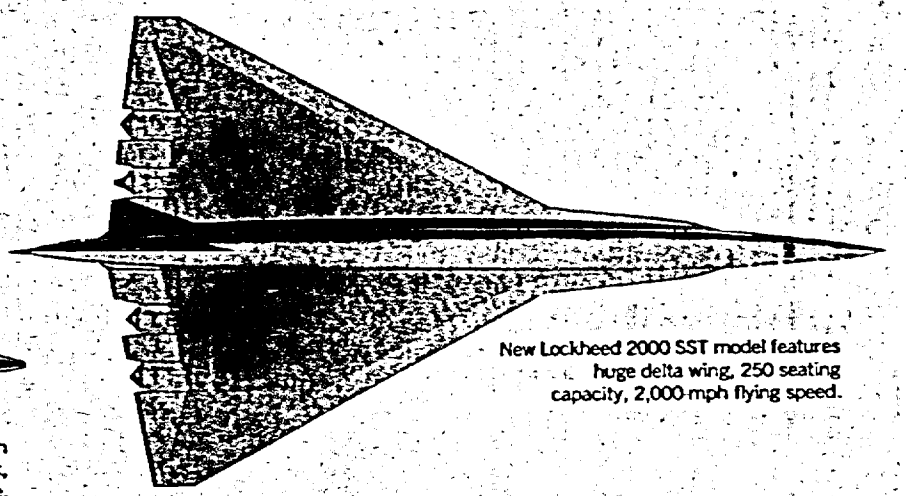

If it follows that 10 per cent of the nation's residents find irritating the noise from supersonic aircraft, does that comprise sufficient grounds for preventing the SST from being built?

Najeeb Halaby, the brilliant flying director of the Federal Aviation Agency, thinks not. "There are three ways," he declares, "in which the problem of the sonic boom can be solved: design, distance and detour. You design a plane in terms of shape so that it produces a minimum pressure signature. You equip it with more powerful engines so that it can fly higher. Then the carpet of booms it lays can hardly be heard. You also plan the route so that you avoid sound sensitive areas."

ENGLAND & FRANCE NOT WORRIED

When I raised the question of the sonic boom in England and France last year—the French and British teamed up until recently to develop their own SST, the Concorde—I was told they weren't really worried about the sonic noise problem.

"Our transsonic flights from London to New York," explains Charles Gardner of the British Aviation Corporation, "will be largely over the ocean. Only the fish will hear them. The major problem facing us is not noise. It's money."

The British and French thought originally that they could develop a 1,400-mph Concorde, building only 2 prototypes for about $300 million. If they go ahead with their project—and the British Labour government has temporarily called a halt to it—a more realistic figure will be $900 million.

American aircraft manufacturers estimate that it will cost somewhere around $1 billion to research, develop and produce an SST capable of flying at 2,000 mph. Halaby thinks it can be done for $600 million.

Beyond the SST, Douglas Aircraft's Project Pegasus envisages flying passengers from Los Angeles to Singapore in as little as 39 minutes via $3 billion rocket ship.

The major question here is, who pays for it? The late President Kennedy felt the federal government might pay 75 per cent of the cost and private industry the remainder. But private industry claims it cannot risk $250 million on research and development plus further tooling costs to meet a production schedule. The aircraft manufacturers point out that since the federal government makes heavy nonrecoverable payments to support highway and maritime programs, it might as well do the same for the SST. They want a free ride, and under those terms Uncle Sam may not be willing to play ball, although those are the ground rules in Great Britain, France and Soviet Russia.

Since the building of an SST engenders problems of noise, economics and financing, several leading personalities in the aviation field believe strongly that it should never be built.

Foremost of the pessimists is Bo Lundberg, chief of Sweden's Aeronautical Research Institute and a military aircraft designer himself. Lundberg flew to Oklahoma City this past summer to witness the FAA sonic tests, then announced that what he had heard was the boom of doom. He predicted that if the various nations of the world persisted in building SSTs, Europe and the U.S. would be crisscrossed by a series of "boom belts" 20 miles wide, that hundreds of thousands of people in flight paths would find life unbearable. U.S. aviation authorities regard this as nonsense.

Even if the sonic booms were eliminated, Lundberg said, there was the safety factor to consider. A pilot flying at 65,000 feet at twice the speed of sound, he pointed out, was practically blind, had no time to take evasive action to avoid danger ahead. He claimed that knowledge of atmospheric conditions at high altitudes was scant, asked what would happen if an SST at 1,200 mph ran into a hailstorm.

The Swede also claimed that the SST would be too expensive, that passengers would find it uncomfortable, that because of its long climb and descent they would have to remain strapped in their seats most of the flight.

Grant McConachie, president of Canadian Pacific Airlines, thinks the development of a supersonic transport is a waste of time and money because such aircraft will be quickly dated in the 1980s by rocket ships capable of whisking 170 passengers and 18 tons of cargo above the atmosphere from continent to continent at 17,000 mph.

McConachie conceded that Canadian Pacific Airlines planned to spend $75 million on 3 American SSTs in 1977, "but these," he maintains, "will be obsolete by 1985."

Phil Bono, in charge of Douglas Aircraft's advance launch vehicles section, believes McConachie may be right. Bono is working on a project called Pegasus, a proposed passenger ballistic transport, a reusable one-stage rocket ship that would whiz passengers from Los Angeles to Honolulu in 18 minutes, to Tokyo in 30, to the most distant point on the globe in 45.

Bono believes that if we can put a man on the moon by 1970, and the moon is 240,000 miles from the earth, then certainly we should be able to rocket a group of passengers 12,400 miles, or halfway around the globe, by using the same or modified techniques developed during the lunar program.

"We cannot afford to dismiss rocket transport," he warns, "as a far-fetched, impractical pipe dream. Pegasus could carry passengers 20 times faster than today's jets and 7 times faster than the forthcoming supersonic transports. We must design today as if the next 10 years had already passed."

INDIVIDUAL COUCHES

Bono envisages his rocket ship as 114 feet high and 49 feet wide. The upper end would contain a 4-deck passenger area, and each level would be fitted with 43 individual couches on which travelers would ride during their brief flight through space. According to him, the rocket would be propelled by liquid oxygen and hydrogen and be controlled by a two-man crew; a ticket would cost little more than a ticket on today's jet, providing the cost of producing liquid hydrogen can be reduced.

Bono estimates that his Pegasus would cost $3 billion to develop, the first production model $63 million, subsequent models about half that amount.

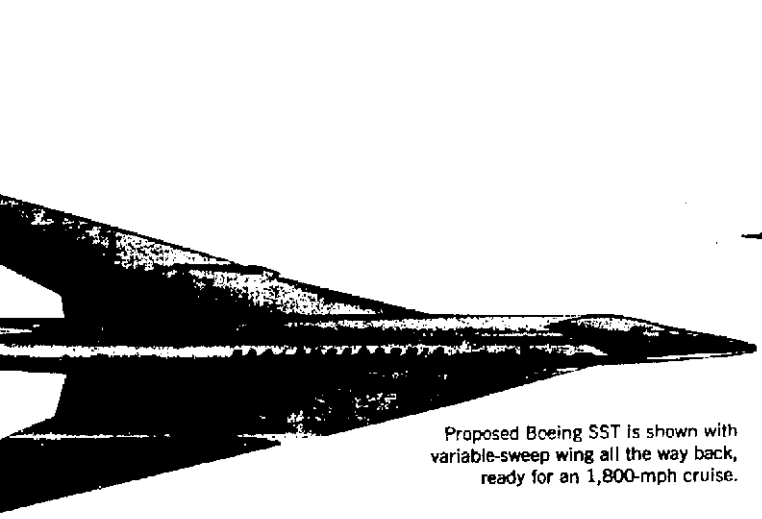

The key figure in deciding whether or not the U.S. will go ahead with the development of a supersonic transport, for which the Federal Aviation Agency has already received 97 commercial orders, is Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara. He was recently named head of a committee to review the feasibility of the entire project.

McNamara has become President Johnson's "hatchet man." Fearless and factual, resolute yet reasonable, it was he who announced the cutback of government shipyards, military posts and the Army Reserve.

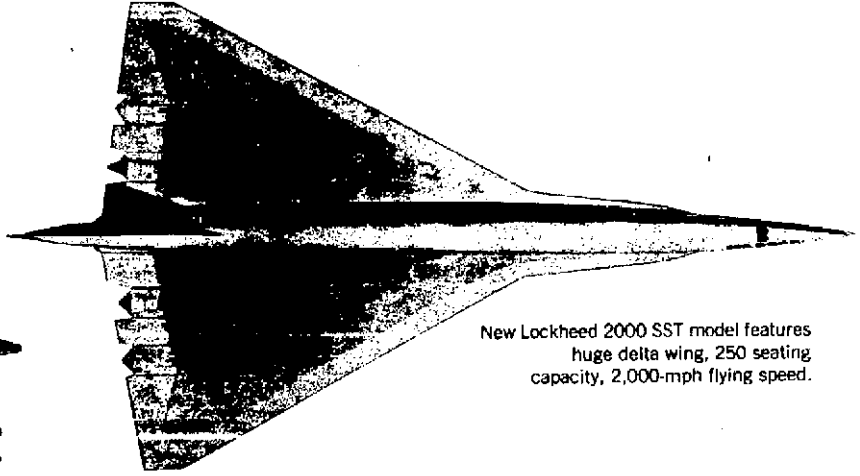

If we are not to fly at 2,000 mph in the 1970s, if the American SST is not to be built, it will be McNamara who will make the announcement.

If, on the other hand, the decision is Full Speed Ahead, the words in all probability will emanate from the White House.

Next month the nation should know.

WINTER VACATION BARGAIN—$1,000 A WEEK

—WHERE THE VERY, VERY RICH, THE VEDDY EXCLUSIVE SPEND THEIR WINTERS

by LLOYD SHEARER

Contented heads resting on coconut shells, sun worshipers enjoy the beach at Frenchman's Cove, Jamaica, where the wealthy play and relax any time from December 15 to April 30.

PORT ANTONIO, JAMAICA.

It sounds ridiculous on the price of it, but one of the best buys of the current winter vacation season costs only $1,000 a week per couple.

Don't laugh! Don't snicker! Don't tune me out until you've learned the details.

The name of this vacation paradise is Frenchman's Cove, Jamaica.

It's located seven miles from Port Antonio, an old banana port on the north shore of Jamaica into which the Astors, Vanderbilts and Morgans used to sail their million-dollar yachts before the advent of airline transportation.

Frenchman's Cove is the most beautiful, picturesque, private holiday spot on this lush, tropical, history-rich Caribbean island, warmed by the sun and cooled by the trade winds.

It is the escape paradise of princes, maharajahs, Swiss bankers, German steel magnates, a few discriminating film stars, American captains of industry and members of the remaining European royal families. Forty per cent of its guests are British, 40 per cent are American; the remaining 20 per cent are moneyed folk from everywhere.

Frenchman's Cove consists of 18 houses built on perfectly oriented sites overlooking a magnificent technicolor cove of white sand, crystal-clear water and protected ocean.

Each of these houses is built of weather-proof Jamaican stone and is superbly landscaped. All of them are fully air-conditioned, boast from one to three bedrooms, are staffed by a maid and butler. An electric golf cart is provided for transportation on the 43-acre property.

For your $1,000 a week—it costs less if you stay a month or longer—here's what you get at Frenchman's: In addition to your own maid and butler, you have available each day at no extra cost the choice of your self-drive hired car or a chauffeur-driven limousine. You are also entitled to the daily services of a barber, hair-dresser and beauty-operator.

Should you turn ill or despondent, feel in need of a doctor or a psychiatrist, these are paid for by the management. All phone calls, local and long distance, are on the house. Same holds true for telegrams and cables.

NO CHARGE FOR NEW GLASSES

Should you lose your glasses, as a member of the British royal family did last year, the local optometrist will take care of you, dispense a new pair of spectacles, no charge.

The food at Frenchman's Cove is the finest money can buy. It is prepared by prize-winning French and Austrian chefs—Hans Brenner, the pastry chef, is supposedly the best in the world—served in the tastefully furnished Great House dining room or in your own house, as you prefer.

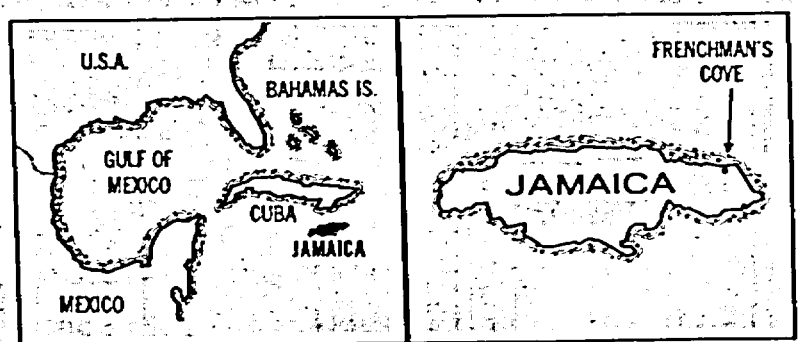

Wine, champagne, of course, liquors of every type and in any reasonable quantity are served at your command.

Picnic lunches on the beach, snacks when you want them, cocktails, food prepared according to the dictates of your own special diet, all this is available. Last year a film star on her honeymoon requested chili and beans from Chasen's restaurant in Hollywood. The management had it flown in, no charge.

The golf course is available daily, no greens fees. The en tout cas tennis courts are yours for the playing. Frenchman's Cove also boasts two yachts for the private use of its guests, crew included. Take one out for a day of deep-sea fishing or just aimless cruising. No charge. Or go water-skiing, horseback riding, snorkeling, river-rafting.

Perhaps you'd like to fly to Kingston for a day's shopping or to Montego Bay for a round of golf on a different course; management will fly you.

"It's hard to believe," declares Jean Pierre Aubrey, who manages Frenchman's Cove, "but you know how much we make on the average each week from a couple?" He waits with a meaningful pause. "Approximately $20, and that must cover the overhead. For 65 guests we employ more than 200 people.

WINTER VACATION continued

"Figure it out yourself," he challenges. "Three meals a day for two, liquor and wine before and with meals. A hairdresser, a car waiting, a deep-sea cruise, a round of golf, a few long-distance calls. All this for $150 a day. Not only that, we also have 10 hotel rooms, and the people who stay in them pay only $90 a day, and they, too, are entitled to all the facilities. I think we lose even more on them.

4 TO 1 RATIO

"When I first came here from Switzerland," continues Aubrey, 32, "I had majored in hotel-keeping. I made a thorough study of this setup—we have almost four in help for every guest—and I said to Mr. Weston—he's the owner—I said to him, 'Mr. Weston, you cannot possibly make any money offering all these services.' He shook his head. 'Yes,' he said. 'I know. I know.' "

The "Mr. Weston" referred to is Granger Weston, 42, of New Braunfels, Tex., one of the nine children of Garfield Weston, reputedly the wealthiest Canadian alive.

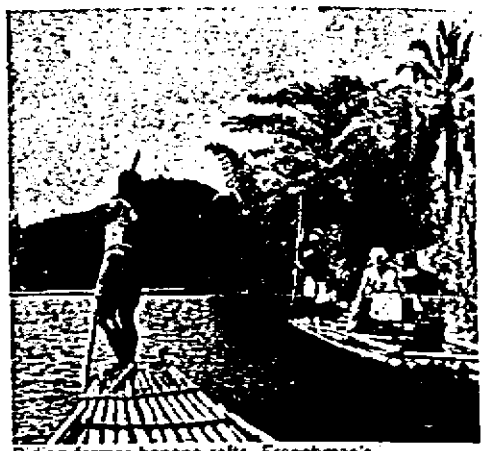

Garfield Weston, "baker to the world," is the owner of thousands of bakeries, supermarkets and grocery stores throughout the world. He owns the National Tea Company in the U.S., the Loblaw Groceterias in Canada, the Tip Top Bakeries in Australia, Fortnum & Mason and Associated British Foods, Ltd., in Great Britain, hundreds of stores in Germany and France. Last year his companies grossed $3.5 billion world-wide. He has a personal fortune estimated at $400 million and two charitable foundations, one for North America, the other for the rest of the world, worth a reported $750 million.

After World War II, so the story goes, Weston was scouting Jamaica, buying up huge sugar allotments for his bakeries, when he came upon the 43 acres which today comprise Frenchman's Cove.

Struck by its beauty the tycoon wanted to buy the land, stake it out for his own private domain. The San San Corporation of Jamaica reportedly insisted that it would not sell the property for a single residence. It wanted a full-fledged resort erected on it so that people from all over might come to enjoy its splendor and seclusion, help boost tourist business.

Weston agreed, purchased the property; then when other business problems loomed, he turned Frenchman's Cove over to his oldest son, Granger, for development.

Granger Weston was not taxing the family fortune too strongly when six years ago he hired architect Bill Tamminga, now of Austin, Tex., and spent $1,500,000 constructing houses and transforming the cove into the peaceful, secluded, perfect vacation heaven it is.

Riding former banana rafts, Frenchman's guests take cool ride through lush rain forests, shoot rapids down to the sea.

This typical one-bedroom house at Frenchman's Cove rises 15 feet above the sea, has been given the name "Montpelier."

Says architect Tamminga: "When I first saw Frenchman's Cove—I think it was in 1958—I thought it was the most beautiful spot on earth. My problem was to put houses on it and still keep it that way. Fortunately, Granger Weston, who's a sensitive, tasteful, artistic young man, agreed with me. We wanted a resort without any of the commercial trappings, a place where a discriminating man and his wife or their family might come to and enjoy in privacy all the quiet pleasures of a bountiful nature. I think in some measure that we've succeeded. Certainly we haven't spoiled anything."

The service motivation at Frenchman's Cove is to banish all worry.

SHED YOUR CARES

"When you come here," says manager Aubrey, "you put all your cares and worries in cold storage. You know what you are going to pay, and that's it. There are no extras. We take care of everything.

"In many resorts a couple pays $50 or $75 a day for a suite. This just entitles them to spend more money on meals, more money at the bar, more money for entertainment, more money for tips, laundry, cleaning. That's not for us.

"I know," Aubrey concedes, "that $1,000 a week is a lot of money for two people, but what we are offering here is something special—peace of mind and paradise on earth."

What a pity so few can afford it.

"Figure it out yourself," he challenges. "Three meals a day for two, liquor and wine before and with meals. A hairdresser, a car waiting, a deep-sea cruise, a round of golf, a few long-distance calls. All this for $150 a day. Not only that, we also have 10 hotel rooms, and the people who stay in them pay only $90 a day, and they, too, are entitled to all the facilities. I think we lose even more on them.

4 TO 1 RATIO

"When I first came here from Switzerland," continues Aubrey, 32, "I had majored in hotel-keeping. I made a thorough study of this setup—we have almost four in help for every guest—and I said to Mr. Weston—he's the owner—I said to him, 'Mr. Weston, you cannot possibly make any money offering all these services.' He shook his head. 'Yes,' he said. 'I know. I know.' "

The "Mr. Weston" referred to is Granger Weston, 42, of New Braunfels, Tex., one of the nine children of Garfield Weston, reputedly the wealthiest Canadian alive.

Garfield Weston, "baker to the world," is the owner of thousands of bakeries, supermarkets and grocery stores throughout the world. He owns the National Tea Company in the U.S., the Loblaw Groceterias in Canada, the Tip Top Bakeries in Australia, Fortnum & Mason and Associated British Foods, Ltd., in Great Britain, hundreds of stores in Germany and France. Last year his companies grossed $3.5 billion world-wide. He has a personal fortune estimated at $400 million and two charitable foundations, one for North America, the other for the rest of the world, worth a reported $750 million.

After World War II, so the story goes, Weston was scouting Jamaica, buying up huge sugar allotments for his bakeries, when he came upon the 43 acres which today comprise Frenchman's Cove.

Struck by its beauty the tycoon wanted to buy the land, stake it out for his own private domain. The San San Corporation of Jamaica reportedly insisted that it would not sell the property for a single residence. It wanted a full-fledged resort erected on it so that people from all over might come to enjoy its splendor and seclusion, help boost tourist business.

Weston agreed, purchased the property; then when other business problems loomed, he turned Frenchman's Cove over to his oldest son, Granger, for development.

Granger Weston was not taxing the family fortune too strongly when six years ago he hired architect Bill Tamminga, now of Austin, Tex., and spent $1,500,000 constructing houses and transforming the cove into the peaceful, secluded, perfect vacation heaven it is.

Says architect Tamminga: "When I first saw Frenchman's Cove—I think it was in 1958—I thought it was the most beautiful spot on earth. My problem was to put houses on it and still keep it that way. Fortunately, Granger Weston, who's a sensitive, tasteful, artistic young man, agreed with me. Cameraman Stoughton had less than a minute to snap Pres. Johnson's swearing in.

THIS WEEK'S INAUGURATION RECALLS

30 SECONDS OF HISTORY

by FRED BLUMENTHAL

At noon next Wednesday, when President Lyndon Baines Johnson places his left hand on the Bible and raises his right hand to repeat the brief, solemn oath of office, the camera eyes of the world will be upon him.

But when President Johnson took his first Presidential oath on that tragic November day in Dallas, Tex., he was in the cramped quarters of Air Force One, the Presidential plane. Only a handful of people were present—and there was only one lens and one microphone to capture one of the most dramatic moments in American history.

That camera was in the steady hands of 44-year-old U. S. Army Signal Corps Captain Cecil Stoughton, official White House photographer since January 1961. It was the biggest test of Stoughton's long career as a photographer.

Like many others in the Presidential motorcade, Stoughton had found himself at Parkland Hospital in Dallas, knowing that something terrible had happened, but not that John F. Kennedy had been murdered.

"I was standing in a corridor when Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, with grave expressions, rushed past me," Stoughton recalls, "I asked a White House colleague, 'Where is the Vice-President going in such a hurry?' He answered, stressing the words heavily, 'The President and Mrs. Johnson are going to Washington on Air Force One.' That was when I first learned that John F. Kennedy was dead.

"Though numb with shock and horror, I knew I now had only one duty—to stay near President Johnson and be available for any assignment. I hitched a ride to Love Field.

"Assistant White House Press Secretary Malcolm Kilduff came up to me and whispered, 'Thank God you're here. Mr. Johnson will be sworn in right here on the plane in a few minutes. You will be the only photographer. Is there a recording technician from the Signal Corps available to record the ceremony?' I replied, 'No, but there is a dictating machine on the President's desk right over there. That's the best we can do.'

"When the ceremony was due to start, I wrestled with a tough decision. Naturally I wanted to use color film, but I knew that the whole world would be waiting for pictures of a swearing in, probably the most unique in American history. I settled for black and white. I felt that color would have taken too long to process.

"In the space of a few seconds, there flashed through my mind everything that can go wrong with a camera, even the best of them. (I was using a Hasselblad-500C, with 50-mm lens, an electronic flash and high-speed film.)

"Half a minute later, at 2:40 P.M., it was all over. I found myself drenched in sweat and trembling with tension.

HOPES FOR THE BEST

"I had been able to make only three shots. Kilduff thrust the tape into my hand and said, 'Cecil, get going. You know what to do.'

"I was the first person off the plane, and the last words I heard from the cabin were those of President Johnson: 'Let's get this plane moving to Washington.'

"As I raced into Dallas, the awesome thought struck me: I was carrying the only permanent records—both audio and visual—of the historic ceremony. And I was the only person in the world, outside of that small cabin, who knew that a new President of the United States had been sworn into office.

"The rest was purely mechanical. Luckily my pictures had come out well, and the tape recorder had been faithful to Mr. Kilduff. Within minutes both were going out over the world's news networks."

A measure of the skill and speed with which Captain Stoughton did his job is that LBJ while still winging his way to Washington had the unique experience of seeing his own swearing in picture on the television set in Air Force One.

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

REMEMBER Angelo Litrico, the Roman tailor who made Nikita Khrushchev clothes-conscious? Litrico became K's tailor in 1957 after using newspaper photographs of Mr. K to determine his measurements. Angelo cut Khrushchev an elegant overcoat, then as a member of the first Italian fashion show to visit Moscow, gave it to the ex-Soviet Premier. Khrushchev was so delighted with the coat he ordered Litrico to make him five suits a year. Litrico did, reducing the width of the trousers, sleeves and lapels so that after a while Khrushchev looked presentable. Poor Angelo! A few weeks ago he finished three new suits for Khrushchev, now has no idea where to send them, is sure of only one thing. "These suits will fit no other man. Unless Signor Khrushchev sends for them, I am out quite a few lira."

SINCE 1958 the Red Chinese have shot down 10 reconnaissance planes belonging to the U.S. or Nationalist China. Last one brought down was a pilotless plane. The U.S. has long-range pilotless planes which have reportedly photographed the Chinese nuclear installation. These planes fly a preset, high-altitude course which can be altered by radio command. They descend at flight's end via parachute and land on rubber cushions. Naturally we disown the observation planes when they land on Chinese soil or are shot down over Red China. But they constitute our most valuable intelligence source in the Far East.

STARTING SOON at London airport, a pilot scheme to X-ray immigrants, especially those suspected of having tuberculosis. In the past few years many Pakistanis have entered England and almost immediately entered TB sanitaria on the public health plan.

NEW REGULATIONS for cab-drivers in Paris make it necessary for them to know how to read, write and add.

IMPRISONMENT is useless. So claims Nathan Leopold, 59, who served almost 34 years in prison for the Loeb-Leopold "thrill murder" of young Bobby Franks in 1924. Leopold, living in San Juan and teaching at the University of Puerto Rico, declares in the San Juan Review, "Imprisonment as a policy is bankrupt." Leopold also maintains that deterrence, retaliation and rehabilitation are not sufficient reasons for imprisonment either. "Retaliation," he maintains, "is not a worthy end for an enlightened society, and imprisonment as practiced is only feeble retaliation. Deterrence is a worthwhile goal, but imprisonment demonstrably does not deter...Rehabilitation of the individual, which ought to be the purpose of societal action, is not accomplished by imprisonment." ## by Don Marlowe

EDITOR'S NOTE: Don Marlowe began his show business career as a child. He was one of the original members of the Our Gang comedies. As a boy he also appeared in a number of Laurel & Hardy comedies. Today Don has become a night club comedian who regularly plays most of the major show business spots throughout the nation. He has not, however, deserted motion pictures and takes film roles when they don't interfere with his road schedule. Don is married to singer Cathy MacKay. They have no children and call Hollywood their home. Here are some of Marlowe's favorite funnies which he uses in his night club act.

At the height of their careers all three of the famous Barrymores lived in the small town of Thousand Oaks, Calif. At that time Thousand Oaks had only one general store, where the local residents charged everything. One day while shopping in the store John Barrymore picked up a shovel and said to the clerk, who had just been hired the day before, "Charge it."

The new clerk, not recognizing the great actor, asked his name.

"Barrymore," the star replied.

"Which one?" the clerk called out as Barrymore was leaving the store.

"Ethel," roared the actor as he stepped out of the door.

---

Two drunks had intentions of seeing a Western film but by error stumbled into the ballet. After watching the ballerinas prance about for five minutes, one drunk turned to the other and said, "If they wanted tall girls, why didn't they hire tall girls?"

---

A panhandler, dirty, shabbily dressed, unshaven, approached a well-dressed gentleman on Park Avenue in New York. "I am," he said, "a totally worthless individual, unmotivated by any desire for self-betterment, devoid of even a vestige of pride or human dignity; I am a millstone around the neck of society, and in summation, a discredit to the American way of life and the human race . . . That will be 10¢, please."

---

An actress and a secretary were lunching together in Hollywood. The actress confided that she really wished she knew how to type and take shorthand as she, too, wished she might become a secretary.

"You mean," asked her friend, "that you'd like to quit show business? That's amazing."

"I'll tell you the truth," said the actress. "I don't really enjoy show business. Besides, I can't act, I can't sing, I can't dance. And I don't understand most of the scripts they give me."

"Then why," inquired her secretary friend, "don't you quit?"

"I can't," the actress answered. "I'm a star."

---

An elderly couple were watching the Perry Mason TV program. When the show ended the old man turned to his wife and said, "You know, dear, I don't understand how a jury of six men and six women can be locked up together all night long and come out the next morning and very calmly say, 'Not guilty.' "

---

I recently worked a club in Ft. Worth, Tex., where the manager, a very friendly chap, kept calling me "partner." Before the first show I asked him if I might have a sandwich. "Sure thing, partner."

Later I explained that I was a little nervous before show-time and asked if I might have a drink. "You sure can, partner."

Then I asked if I might be able to cash a small check. He looked at me quizzically and said, "What's that, stranger?"

---

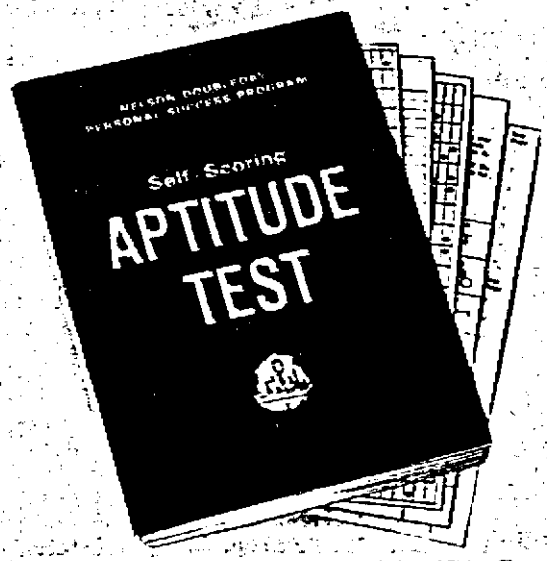

My wife has been on a diet for the past month—nothing but coconuts and bananas. Morning, noon and night, nothing but coconuts and bananas. To tell you the truth she hasn't lost a single ounce. But brother! She can climb a tree faster than anybody on our street.

Anecdote of the Week

Each monthly Success Kit is a short cut to mastery of a different business skill or personal ability. There is nothing like it for completeness, authority and practical value — at anywhere near the low cost of the Personal Success Program.

What are these Success Skills?

Look at some of the highest paid men in business. They have developed the basic abilities that always pay off . . . the ability to handle people . . . to speak and write effectively . . . to create ideas and "sell" them to others . . . to organize their time efficiently and achieve more. They have learned to understand business procedures . . . what to read to keep well informed . . . how to win important new friends wherever they go.

Now, for the first time, the Personal Success Program offers you a tested, rapid, fascinating plan for making these essential skills your own — using only a few minutes of your spare time each day. And the cost is amazingly low — less than most people spend for newspapers each month.

Mail Coin Carrier Coupon with only 10 cents

To acquaint yourself with the advantages offered by the Personal Success Program, accept our unusual "sample" offer. There is no obligation to continue. If you are delighted with your first package and wish to continue with the Program, you will receive a new package each month, for which you will pay, not the many dollars that most courses on these subjects would cost, but only $1 for each monthly kit, plus small shipping cost. THE NEMESIS OF THE NORTHERN SQUIRREL TRIBES IS THE MARTEN

THIS SOFT FURRY TREE DWELLER WITH MISLEADINGLY INNOCENT BIG EYES IS AS VICIOUS AS ANY OTHER WEASEL

LARGER THAN HIS RED-FURRED QUARRY, HE CAN RUN FASTER AND LEAP FARTHER THAN ANY SQUIRREL

IF THE TERRIFIED VICTIM SEEKS SAFETY ON THE SMALLER TREE-TOP BRANCHES...

THE MARTEN WILL RUSH HIM AND SHAKE HIM LOOSE...

AND UNLESS THE SQUIRREL CAN FIND A KNOTHOLE TOO SMALL FOR THE KILLER TO ENTER...

HE ALWAYS LOSES HIS RACE FOR LIFE!

YEP- IT'S MAVIS, AND THE NOTE'S FROM THE SULTAN O' SULTANNI!
